HOME MISSIONS

One Hundred and Fifth Annual Report

The Board of Home Missions herewith presents to the General Assembly its One Hundred and Fifth Annual Report.

At the beginning of the last fiscal year one of the Associate Secretaries, John Willis Baer, LL.D., resigned his office to accept the presidency of Occidental College, California. The resignation was accepted with regret and with hearty appreciation of his enthusiastic and devoted service. On April twenty-sixth the Board elected as his successor Mr. Joseph Ernest McAfee of Park College. Mr. McAfee entered upon his service on the first of August.

The Board has to record the death of one of its active and honored members. The Rev. Thomas A. Nelson, D.D., passed from the earthly to the heavenly life on the sixteenth day of June, 1906. He had been a member of the Board for nearly twenty years. At the time of his death he was chairman of the School Committee. The Board places on record its grateful appreciation of his long and faithful service.

During the year the following missionaries have entered upon the higher life:

|------------------------------------|------------------------------|
| Rev. Lewis G. Battiest..... | Goodwater, Indian Territory. |
| Rev. John I. Hughes | Burton, Kansas. |
| Rev. Hagan Johnson | Talihina, Indian Territory. |
| Rev. Samuel K. Kirkwood, Ph.D..... | Seattle, Washington. |
| Rev. Henry S. Little, D. D..... | Denison, Texas. |
| Rev. John Sharp Phillips | Silver City, New Mexico. |
| Rev. Enoch Pond | North Fork, Idaho. |
| Rev. Edward J. Thompson, D. D..... | Albany, Oregon. |
| Rev. George E. Thompson | Lamar, Colorado. |

The Board desires to express its grateful appreciation of the services of all these honored servants of the Master, and to make special record of its estimate of the life and labors of one who for twenty-seven years served the Board and the cause of Christ as the synodical missionary of Texas—Dr. Little.

Two names stand out conspicuously in the religious history of that great state—Daniel Baker, D.D., and Henry S. Little, D.D. The former as an evangelist and the latter as an administrator have left an impress of their personality and labors that will always be part of the history of Presbyterianism in the Southwest. By his gentleness and force, his enthusiasm and humility, his wisdom and his consecration, Dr. Little endeared himself to all the churches and the people, and his memory will long be treasured not only within the bounds of that state, but wherever devotion to the Kingdom of Christ finds appreciation.

FINANCES.

For the ninth successive year we are permitted to report to the General Assembly that we have closed the last fiscal year with our obligations met. This is the more gratifying when it is remembered that during the year we made appropriations for new work to the sum of $45,160.00. We also gave $10,000 to the Board of Missions of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, to be used in tiding over some of their home mission work which, by reason of the divisions on the Union question, would otherwise have suffered to the point of disaster.

As in several years past we have also been obliged to expend in new churches and school buildings in the islands and the West a considerable sum, amounting this year to $75,560.52.

We report regretfully that there has been no appreciable advance in the gifts from the churches to this Board. In a time of great prosperity this is the more to be regretted. It may be partly explained by the fact that our Church contributed in special offerings about $120,000 to rehabilitate and to aid in the mission work of California on account of what was suffered by the terrible earthquake of April eighteenth of last year. This money passed through the hands of our Treasurer and, while it was no advantage to our budget for the year, and while undoubtedly it reduced the collections for our Board in many of our churches, we may yet rejoice that to so liberal an extent it aided our people on the Pacific Coast who had suffered the destruction of their church buildings and the depletion of their resources.

REORGANIZATION.

The last General Assembly directed that from the beginning of the present fiscal year the Board of Home Missions should take over within its territory all evangelistic work outside of campaigns in larger towns and cities conducted by the Evangelistic Committee, and carry it on to the full measure of its ability; that it should also co-operate with the self-supporting synods in the work of evangelization according to their desire and its ability.

The Assembly also directed that the Board should so reorganize its work that in presbyteries or groups of presbyteries so requesting, pastor-evangelists should be appointed, who should give part of each year to evangelistic services in their presbyteries and under the direction of the home mission committees.

Having carefully considered the work thus laid upon it the Board has agreed upon the following plan for its re-organization upon the field, and herewith submits it to the General Assembly for approval:

First. The missionary field of the Board shall be divided into four districts, with a field secretary for each, as follows:

1. The district of the South and Southwest, with headquarters at St. Louis.
2. The district of the Northwest, with headquarters at Minneapolis.
3. The district of the Mountain States, with headquarters at Denver.
4. The district of the Pacific Coast, with headquarters at San Francisco.

The field secretaries shall be appointed by the Board and shall have general oversight of all the home mission and evangelistic work carried on within their districts under the direction and control of the presbyteries or synods. They shall hold conferences and institutes in their districts for the study of principles and methods of missionary and evangelistic work, to this end utilizing the meetings of presbytery as far as practicable. They shall also be the medium of communication in the matter of securing missionaries and recommending evangelists. Upon them shall rest the responsibility of stimulating all the churches within their districts to a deeper interest in the work of home missions and of securing steadily increasing gifts for its maintenance, both from churches and individuals.

Second. It is recommended that synods consider whether the work of supervision and direction necessary for the extension of the work in the synods may not be performed by synodical and presbyterial home mission committees. Where, however, it is the judgment of the synod that the office of synodical missionary, as well as field secretary, is necessary, the Board—on the recommendation of the synod—will commission such officer as heretofore.

Third. The evangelistic work to be carried on by the Board of Home Missions shall be constructive and permanent, looking toward the strengthening of the pastoral relation, and making the Church an aggressive spiritual agency in the community. To this end its methods shall have reference to the saving of men from sin and its consequences; to the purification of society and the improving of the social order; to the lifting of higher moral standards; as well as to seeking a deeper devotion to the Church's ministry of grace, to personal work for the spiritual quickening of individuals and the community, and growth in the sense of stewardship, as shown in increasing offerings toward church support and the whole work of missions.

Accordingly those sought for the office of evangelist shall be men of broad sympathies, of appreciation of spiritual need, of wide experience in church work; men of spiritual insight who shall develop those principles and methods which will magnify the Church as a constructive spiritual agency in the community, and who will inculcate these principles and methods among the ministry and laity of the Church by all means available.

One synodical evangelist shall be appointed by the Board for each synod so desiring, from among men recommended by the synods, and more as the necessities of the work and the ability of the Board shall warrant. These evangelists shall work through the synodical committees and under the general direction of the field secretary.

In the self-supporting synods evangelistic work shall be undertaken on the request of such synods under the direction of synodical or presbyterial committees, assisted by an evangelist commissioned by the Board.

Fourth. Pastor-evangelists shall be appointed in presbyteries or groups of presbyteries so desiring and making provision for the same in their annual schedule, and all evangelists shall be available for the work of pastor-at-large when requested by presbyteries and commissioned by the Board.

Fifth. All evangelists and pastor-evangelists shall be under the control either of the synod through its appropriate committee, or of the presbytery, and in all cases shall be recommended to their work by either presbytery or synod and commissioned by the Board.

Sixth. The evangelists shall be paid directly by the Board a salary recommended by the synod or presbytery and determined by the Board. It shall be their duty to secure offerings from individuals and churches where they labor, for the evangelistic work of the Board, and they shall send all such offerings promptly to the Treasurer, indicating particularly what churches or individuals have contributed.

Seventh. Reports shall be made by the evangelists to the Board upon blanks prepared and furnished by the Board. A copy of the report shall be sent to the field secretary and also to the presbytery or synod directing the work.

Eighth. The Board of Home Missions shall make an annual appropriation for the evangelistic work and from that fund shall be paid the salaries and necessary expenses of the field secretaries and evangelists.

CUMBERLAND UNION.

Since this Union was formerly completed at the last meeting of the General Assembly, the Board of Home Missions, that it might be in position to take up the new and vast responsibilities imposed upon it by the Union, has been making some plans for the conduct of this part of its work in the future.

It seemed necessary, first of all, that we should have an accurate knowledge of the great home mission field open to us; and that our Cumberland brethren, in order to swift and hearty co-operation, should become acquainted with the work and methods of our Board.

The first step was taken when the Board elected the Rev. B. P. Fullerton, D.D., pastor of the Lucas Avenue Cumberland Presbyterian Church of St. Louis, and President of the Cumberland Board of Missions and Church Erection, to the position of Field Secretary of our Board. Dr. Fullerton was so elected in June, his headquarters to be in St. Louis. While relieved of executive responsibility in the Board of Missions and Church Erection, he has continued during the year to serve them in the field as opportunity has offered. But his particular duty has been, by correspondence and personal visitation, to acquaint the Cumberland Presbyterian churches with the new relation which they were to assume with the Board of Home Missions; and by his counsel to acquaint our Board with the opportunities and obligations for work in the South and Southwest. His exact knowledge of the situation in all the states concerned and his intimate acquaintance with the people have made his services valuable and essential, and have given us a knowledge of the situation which otherwise we could have obtained only after a lapse of years.

That the methods of our united service might be clearly defined, a conference was held in New York on the twelfth of December, between the officers of our Boards of Home Missions, Foreign Missions and Church Erection on the one hand, and the officers of the Cumberland Board of Missions and Church Erection on the other. This conference agreed upon the following resolutions which were subsequently adopted by the Board of Home Missions:

First: That, after the meeting of the General Assembly in May, 1907, the Cumberland Presbyterian Board of Missions and Church Erection should continue and maintain its legal corporate existence, for the pur pose of serving the best interests of all concerned and performing such functions as may be deemed necessary; but that, as soon as agreements between the respective Boards of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. and the Cumberland Presbyterian Board have been reached, it should turn over its home mission stations and home mission work to the Board of Home Missions, its foreign mission stations and foreign mission work to the Board of Foreign Missions, and its church erection funds and church erection work to the Trustees of the Church Erection Fund of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

Second: That the corporate members of the Cumberland Presbyterian Board of Missions and Church Erection should become and be made members of the above named Boards of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., as follows: Home Missions, three; Foreign Missions, two; Church Erection, two.

Third: That, a Joint Office for the South and Southwest should be maintained in St. Louis, by these three Boards, which office should also be the General Office of the Cumberland Presbyterian Board of Missions and Church Erection.

Fourth: That the work to be done through this Joint Office by any particular Board shall be under the general supervision of a Committee composed of the members of that Board who are also corporate members of the Cumberland Presbyterian Board, and that the appointment of agents, the granting of appropriations and loans, and the adoption of plans and policies for the South and Southwest by any particular Board shall be only after all such matters have been submitted to such Committee of said Board.

Fifth: That this conference is unable to make a united recommendation as to the final disposition of the Missionary Record, but that, inasmuch as this publication has been a great power in building up the work of this Board, and is well-known among our people, we strongly recommend that it be preserved for the present, either as a separate publication or in combination with some other similar publication, and that to insure that its influence shall not be lost, the Joint Office above mentioned should have ample representation in it.

As a practical measure for hastening our fellowship with our Cumberland brethren, a series of conferences was held during the latter part of January and the early part of February in the cities of Nashville and Memphis, Tennessee, and Paris and Waco, Texas. The representatives of our Home Board and Woman's Board were Secretaries Thompson and Dixon, and Mrs. Boole; and of the Cumberland Church, Dr. Fullerton and Mrs. Clarke, Secretary of their Woman's Board.

The conferences were largely attended by Cumberland ministers and members, were full of interest, and mutually helpful in the highest degree. To the visiting Secretaries they disclosed home mission fields whose urgency and possibilities we had not been able to measure.

The demands of the work in the South and Southwest will necessitate a large addition to our budget. We depend upon the missionary spirit of our Church to see and seize the opportunity, and to give the funds necessary to enter one of the widest home mission doors ever opened to any Church.

By reason of the overlapping of presbyteries, for some time there will be difficulty in applying the methods of our Board to the field of the former Cumberland Church; and the rule of the Assembly regarding our appropriating money in bulk to the presbyteries on their estimate of need seems, for this current year, not to be feasible. The Board of Home Missions therefore would respectfully ask the General Assembly for this year to waive the rule which requires the Board to make a specific appropriation to the presbyteries, so far as it applies to Missouri and the Indian Territory; and to give the Board authority to make grants to churches in these synods, after consultation with the home mission committees of the presbyteries within whose bounds the mission fields are located.

VACANCY AND SUPPLY.

Two years ago the General Assembly devised a plan concerning "Vacancy and Supply" and directed the Board of Home Missions to designate one of its officers to be the medium of communication between vacant churches and ministers desiring a settlement. The rules adopted by the Assembly governing this matter were understood as giving the representative of the General Assembly direct access to any vacant church. Upon this theory the work was being pushed with energy, when objection was made to such interpretation of the Assembly's rules, and it was insisted that all names of ministers seeking a charge should be sent to the presbyteries' committees on Vacancy and Supply. The effect of this was to reduce the efforts of the Assembly's representative to merest routine and so to defeat the purpose of the Assembly in its desire to render substantial aid to ministers who shrink from importuning their friends to present their names to vacant churches.

As experience has seemed to show that the present method fails of accomplishing permanent good, the Board would respectfully suggest that progress might be made if the General Assembly would require the following things:

(1) That the Stated Clerk of each presbytery forward to the representative of the General Assembly for Vacancy and Supply, a list of churches becoming vacant as soon as this knowledge comes to him. He should also be required to give such representative of the Assembly for private use (not for publication) all necessary information regarding salary, the condition of the church, etc.

(2) That the representative of the General Assembly should have direct access to any vacant church and full authority to send to its session or appropriate committee the names of ministers seeking a settlement, with such recommendations or certificates as such ministers may furnish,

(3) That the session of any vacant church receiving names from the presbytery's committee on Vacancy and Supply, or names from the representative of the General Assembly, shall be required to report to presbytery at its next meeting what disposition it has made of such names; it being understood that the official suggestion of names to a session does not necessarily require that such persons be invited to preach, but does make it obligatory upon the session to report to presbytery what consideration it has given to these official suggestions.

The Board awaits the instruction of the General Assembly and will cheerfully attempt any service which the Assembly may determine.

DIFFUSION OF INFORMATION.

Several lines of campaign have been followed during the year. In conjunction with the Sunday School Board two presbyteries in Ohio and one in Pennsylvania were visited in February; the Dayton and Columbus Presbyteries by the Rev. S. R. Ferguson, superintendent of Sunday School work in Iowa, and the Rev. W. S. Holt, D.D., synodical missionary of Oregon. They presented the needs of their respective fields to various churches, their movements being under the direction of the Home Mission and Sunday School Committees. In Erie Presbytery they were joined by the Rev. A. W. Wright, pastor-at-large of Bismarck Presbytery, in a similar effort.

Dr. Holt continued his travel eastward, speaking in several of the churches of Syracuse Presbytery early in March, and later visiting many churches in and near New York City. Mr. Wright spoke in several of the churches in Washington City Presbytery during his stay in the East.

Since January the Rev. Thomas C. Moffett, pastor-at-large of the Arizona Presbytery, has been speaking under the direction of the Board in various presbyteries of New York and New Jersey. For five weeks he was located in Buffalo where many churches near by were reached. At the close of the fiscal year he also visited Washington. Mr. Moffett has been commissioned as special representative of the Board for Indian work, especially in behalf of the work among the Navajo, Pima, Papago and other Indian tribes of the Southwest. A quickened interest in this important effort is developing, of which some results already appear, and others far greater it is hoped will soon follow.

Since November first the Rev. A. F. McGarrah has been commissioned as special representative of the Board, presenting the cause of home missions in the presbyteries of western Pennsylvania. He has made his headquarters in Pittsburg and has done effective work, of which abundant testimony comes from pastors and other representatives of churches he has visited. Mr. McGarrah was formerly on the frontier of California and has peculiar gifts for presenting the broad work of home missions. He has especially reached the young people, and largely through his efforts a splendid young people's rally was held in Pittsburg in February, when both home and foreign missionary enterprises were effectively presented. Under his direction further aggressive educational methods are being adopted for extending interest in missions throughout the section of the Church where he has been laboring.

The attempt to secure a special representative in each church to handle the literature of the Board and otherwise afford a medium of communication has met with gratifying response. The Board now has this intimate association with a large number of churches and new names are being added to the list every day. It is designed that these representatives in the various churches shall devise effective means for distributing the literature sent out by the Board; shall as far as possible check waste, and shall constantly offer counsel for the direction of the Board as to means and methods of a more effective missionary educational system.

DEPARTMENT OF CHURCH AND LABOR.

The interest in the work of the Department of Church and Labor has extended not only into the other denominations of our country, but many European countries as well. Unchallenged by any other Church throughout the world, the Presbyterian Church is today clearly in the lead in this important phase of Christian work. One of the chief functions of the department is to create an atmosphere in which our ministers and churches may work more easily. In this connection a "press bureau" furnishing the three hundred labor papers in the United States and Canada with original articles presenting our view-point of the labor question, and discussing the workingman's relation to the Church, is a part of the general plan. In this way we have been speaking weekly to nearly three million trades unionists and their families, thus making an audience of at least ten millions. We are sending more literature to the unchurched workingmen of the United States through these syndicate articles than is being sent out to the same class by all the tract societies in the United States combined. There are about sixty such organizations. If the Board of Home Missions were compelled to print in leaflet form the matter which is being sent to the labor press and to pay the mail and express charges which would be necessary in order to send it to our workers, it would cost the Board more each week than it costs to run the entire department for a year. A labor leader of national reputation recently said that the influence of these articles has been such as to completely change the attitude of the labor press toward the Church.

Labor unions, marching in bodies to the house of God for a special service, is a comparatively new thing. This was witnessed in many cities on last "Labor Sunday"—the Sunday before Labor Day—in response to the invitations sent out by our ministers, at the suggestion of this department, and more workingmen attended church than on any previous Sunday in the history of organized labor.

Labor mass meetings held in the largest auditoriums in many cities on Sunday afternoons have been attended by from one to ten thousand men, and, when Jesus Christ was presented, have resulted in hundreds definitely accepting Him as their personal Saviour.

The response in the shops, of both unionists and non-unionists, when our ministers have gone to them at the noon-hour, during the progress of great shop campaigns, has been most encouraging. Besides the shop meetings which have been conducted by individual ministers throughout the Church and in some cases by groups of ministers who have gotten their suggestions and material from our office, the department Superintendent conducted three ten-day shop campaigns during the winter in New York, Newark and Rochester. In the three cities one hundred and fifty shops were entered. Nearly five hundred meetings were held, which were addressed by two hundred and fifty ministers. As a partial result of these campaigns, requests came from about one-half of the factories in which meetings were held, for permanent weekly meetings. These will be conducted by the local ministers under the supervision of a general committee appointed for that purpose.

The plan of the exchange of fraternal delegates between Central Labor Unions and ministerial associations, is constantly growing in favor, not only with the ministers but with the workingmen themselves. This plan is now in operation in about a hundred cities and is resulting in a more cordial relationship between the Church and labor. The official approval and recommendation of this phase of our work by the American Federation of Labor has given the movement a greater impetus on the part of the workingmen.

Because trades unionists could be reached so readily through their national and local organizations, and through their powerful labor press, we have been giving considerable attention to this class of workingmen. The response to our appeal is, by many, considered marvelous. Without committing ourselves to organized labor in any way, as a Church, the American Federation of Labor unanimously endorsed the work of our department at its meeting in Pittsburg.

For the first time in the twenty-six years of its history the last annual convention of the American Federation of Labor was opened with prayer, to the evident gratification of the three hundred and fifty delegates who represented two and a half million men.

For the first time in its history, also, a minister was received as a fraternal delegate, the executive council recommending that the Superintendent of the Presbyterian Department of Church and Labor be received in that capacity, which recommendation was unanimously adopted. He was requested to serve on one of the most important honorary committees of the Federation.

On the first Sunday afternoon of the two weeks' session of the American Federation of Labor, a labor mass meeting was held under the auspices of the Department of Church and Labor, which was addressed by the Superintendent of the department, who spoke on "Labor's Champion." The speaker was introduced to the two thousand workingmen by John Mitchell, who told the audience that the opposition of many workingmen toward the Church was based upon a false conception of the true spirit of the Church.

More and more the department is being called upon for suggestions with reference to the solution, by individual employers and by organizations, of the problems of capital and labor. The practical experience of the Superintendent for eight years, as a machinist in one of the largest shops in New York City, and as a trades unionist, permits him to speak with authority, from the viewpoint of the workingman. Labor bills which were to be introduced to the legislature have been submitted to him for criticism. During the year an important labor conference was held in Scranton over which Mr. Stelzle presided. Representatives of the coal-carrying railroads, coal operators, besides other large employing interests, were present. The workingmen of the district sent some of their best leaders to present their interests. Writing for "The Interior" with reference to this conference, the Rev.

Invitations were sent out to representatives of the local unions and the district and national officers of labor organizations. These responded in generous numbers. Mr. Stelzle delivered one of his forceful and direct addresses, showing how religion is involved in the labor movement, and how the labor question in itself is fundamentally a moral and religious problem. He called the Church sharply to task for its weakness, demanding greater democracy within its borders, and a clearer social message from its pulpit. He interpreted the laboring man to himself; he spoke of the obligations of the employer to the employee, and altogether made a most happy impression.

"But that formal address in a regular church service was of little importance compared with what followed. About two hundred men adjourned to the lecture room of the church to partake of refreshments, and there occurred what the local papers called 'the most novel scene witnessed in this community.' Large and prominent coal operators were shaking hands and eating and drinking with union officials whom they had fought for years but had never met; Mr. T. E. Nicholls, the president of District 1, United Mine Workers, and recently elected as a labor representative to Congress, came in touch with the forces that had opposed his election most strongly and bitterly; officers of the Moulders' Union (at present on strike) were found chatting with ironmasters and owners of foundries from which they had withdrawn their workers; the great union organizer, Hugh Frayne, known throughout the labor world of America, was seen on the best of terms with the attorney representing the great coal-carrying railroads who has been trying for two years through the courts to break up the Mine Workers' Union. It was indeed a novel sight.

"Then Mr. Stelzle sat at the end of the hall and an open parliament was conducted. It was carried through with the utmost good nature. Representatives of both sides expressed their views, Mr. Stelzle constantly acting as mediator. His genial common sense composed the difficulties as fast as they arose. Men who had only cursed one another for years, paid graceful compliments to each other; the ethical basis upon which both sides must rest their cases was disclosed, and misunderstandings that had been a chronic source of friction were explained away; class distinctions were faced and discounted; and what was best of all, the human element was kept constantly to the front, so that mechanical arrangements of labor and capital seemed to fade and the contestants regarded themselves as men dealing with men of like passions and similar prejudices."

The department now issues about twenty-five leaflets, both for the Church and for workingmen; those for the Church dealing with practical methods for meeting specific workingmen's problems in their communities, and those for the workingmen meeting their criticisms and misunderstandings with regard to the Church.

In spite of the largest liberty given to workingmen in public meetings, Mr. Stelzle has not been asked a new question in nearly two years. We are thus in a position to specifically and aggressively meet their misapprehensions.

In view of the recent organization of the Presbyterian Brotherhood, some special leaflets have been issued containing suggestion to men's clubs. Practically every other denomination of importance in the United States is considering the matter of establishing similar departments in their churches. Courses of lectures covering the question of the Church's relation to workingmen, and kindred subjects, are given to the students in our theological seminaries and colleges, thus establishing a "traveling chair of Christian Sociology."

With the removal of the department from Chicago to the headquarters in New York, it has been possible to develop several phases of the work far more rapidly than could have been done in the West.

It is our purpose to make this department so helpful that it will be of value to even the humblest worker in our Church, who comes to us for definite information with reference to the problems which are confronting him in his local field.

FOREIGNERS.

Last year the Board in its Annual Report (pages 9-16) presented in detail the work carried on amongst the foreign-speaking people in the United States. The survey included not only the work under the direct supervision of the Board, but also that cared for by individual churches, presbyteries and synods. From that statement it appeared that the Presbyterian Church was preaching the gospel to five hundred and fourteen churches and stations, reporting a membership of nearly thirty thousand. It is practically impossible to state accurately the number of languages employed. The work among the Indians is carried on in many tongues and the various dialects of European speech are numerous.

There has been no marked advance in the number of new missionaries commissioned or stations opened. The serious difficulty in the matter of finding suitable men to preach to the foreigners is not less, although earnest efforts to find and train such men are constantly put forth.

We would respectfully call the attention of the General Assembly to the necessity of unifying this work. It would be an economy of men and means and would result in increased efficiency. Appeals for the offerings necessary to carry on this form of missionary effort would be less frequently and be more intelligently and satisfactorily presented. The Board is now looking for some one especially qualified by birth, training and gifts to take charge of this department.

SYNOD OF NEW YORK

The Presbytery of Boston, by reason of the peculiar character of its work, is continued under the care of our Board while the rest of the synod provides for its own home missions. This presbytery is discussing the question whether the time has not come for it to cut loose from the Board. It would then be independent both of the Board and of the synod. Progress has been made during the last year and doubtless within a very short time the presbytery will see its way clear to provide for its own weak churches, as well as to continue its contributions to the Board for the needs of the whole country.

The Iroquois Indians in the State of New York a year ago enjoyed a wonderful revival which was mentioned in our last Report to the Assembly. As in the parable, after the good seed had been sown, an enemy sowed tares. Unscrupulous white people have been diligent on the one hand in endeavoring to deprive the Indians of land lawfully theirs, and upon the other in charging them excessive sums for services rendered in looking after their interests before the Government.

The Rev. Morton F. Trippe, more than twenty-five years a missionary among these people, says:

“The closing scenes of the Kansas award business were largely tragedy. Our Indians were compelled to pay from twenty-five to thirty thousand dollars for so-called legal expenses—a cruel robbery of a helpless people; and the award that at first promised three hundred and twenty-five dollars per capita, dwindled to a little more than one hundred and twenty-five.

“Again a notable decision has been rendered by the state courts in the case brought by the Seneca Nation of Indians against the Ogden Land Company to define the title of the Company to four reservations in the state. The court decided that the Land Company owns the land, the Indians only having the right of occupancy.”

The most serious drawback has been the almost unrestrained sale of liquor to the Indians. Many who promised well a year ago have fallen victims to the tempter, and irreparable injury has resulted to their homes.

Among the Five Nations we are maintaining two centers, Mr. Trippe and the Rev. J. Emory Fisher being in charge. The year's work and progress are worthy of mention. Witness the missionary's words:

“The Young Men's Christian Association building, in which the Tunnesassa church meets for worship, was dedicated last September. It was a notable event because it is the only Young Men's Christian Association building devoted to the use of the Indians east of the Mississippi river.

“Another event worthy of emphasis is the special work of the Cornplanter and Tunnesassa Young Men's Christian Association on the Cattaraugus Reservation. Led by the Holy Spirit these men, twelve or fifteen in number, went to that distant reservation and assisted the missionary in evangelistic services. The meetings resulted in hopeful conversions and in bringing backsliders to the church.”

It was a great blessing to the Indians of both fields.

Of a prayer meeting which was reported by Mr. Fisher we quote:

“Our prayer meeting last week was one of the most precious we have had for a long time. All but one took some part. All spoke, two spoke twice and most of them prayed. There was the same manifestation of God’s presence and glory that we had three years ago at our great revival.”

Mr. Fisher simply opened the meeting with Scripture and prayer, all the rest of the exercises being voluntary. All but one spoke in Seneca.

Several presbyteries within the Synod of New York seek the Board’s aid among their foreign-speaking people—St. Lawrence, Buffalo, Westchester and New York Presbyteries. New York City presents an almost limitless foreign mission field under home mission care. Progress is being made in finding men to do the work and in spiritual results from their labors, yet we are still in the day of small things

The work of home missions within the bounds of this new synod has made steady though not rapid progress during the past year. There have been a larger number of additions to the membership of the Church on examination than ever before, and there has been a gratifying increase in the contributions to the Boards of the Church.

In Grafton Presbytery coal mines are being opened and the building of coke ovens signifies the development of another interest. Such industrial conditions are bringing in many people, both American and foreign. Chiefly among these some of our missionaries are laboring. For instance, on one field, fifteen miles one way and fourteen the other, there are six or seven thousand people of all nationalities and tongues: Polish, Ruthenian, German, Welsh, Slavish, Syrian, Bohemian, Croatia, Italian, Russian, and English; perhaps one or two more. And our one missionary is the only resident Protestant pastor.

Wheeling Presbytery has a warm interest in the work carried on in the city of Wheeling among the Syrians. The mission has made satisfactory progress during the year and it is hoped that ere long all the religious needs of the Syrian colony will be provided for adequately.

In this rapidly developing state the foreign population is certain to increase, and thus greatly extend our field for mission work. As yet we have only made a beginning, and the efforts thus far have been at a great disadvantage. The chief difficulty is lack of competent workers.

New work is urgently demanded in Parkersburg Presbytery, and throughout the synod new fields are calling for our attention. The Rev. John Calvin Ely, D.D., synodical missionary, says that four or five additional men are needed.

The chairman of the synod's committee on home missions says:

"We have witnessed a great awakening, as in recent years capital and labor have poured into West Virginia in steady streams, as they will continue to do for many years to come. We are 'pioneering' in the old East, and we doubt if there is a more promising home mission field in all this country than ours."

Under the superintendency of the Rev. Donald McDonald, D.D., the educational as well as the evangelistic work of our Church has made marked progress. Dr. McDonald's salary is provided for in part by the Synod of Kentucky and so he has supervision of such churches as are aided by the synod's fund. In his report he says:

"The evangelistic work in our synod has been very successful. The Assembly's Committee promised us $750.00, but on account of an empty treasury we can only get $550.00. Yet with this small sum we have been able to do much. About two hundred and fifty-two have been added already to our membership, and we have arrangements made for eleven more special services in as many different fields. One weak church has added forty-eight to its membership, and will ask nothing this year from the Board. Another has added thirty-three and will ask nothing from Board or synod.

"More than all other influences combined, our work in eastern Kentucky is rapidly making history and changing the whole aspect of things in hitherto neglected and lawless territory. We are trying to occupy every strategic point. Railways and commercial enterprises are acknowledging the value of the work done. Property has doubled in values, and the population in some places has trebled since we planted academy and church. The demands for our missionary enterprises are multiplying. There are four places at present applying for our Christian academies. One little town has subscribed $10,000.00, will put up the buildings themselves, and ask only that we take charge of the institution. Another community offers to do the same thing and a church offers to pay the teacher's salary.

"Four of our academies are running over and we must enlarge, or lose the opportunity for which we have been praying and working. The door was never wider open for us. We are determined to enter and occupy."

The Rev. Calvin A. Duncan D.D., synodical missionary for Tennessee, reports:

"In the old synod of Tennessee nearly all the churches are regularly supplied with preaching. Women's societies are raising more money. During the year four church buildings, four manses and one teachers' home have been erected, a chapel-schoolhouse enlarged, and many churches and school buildings repaired. For a few months during the past two winters evangelists appointed by the Assembly's Committee have labored in our bounds with fairly good results both as to conversions and additions to the Church and as to the awakening of church members. There has also been unusual activity in evangelism on the part of the ministers of the synod. While there has been marked interest in some places, there has been no general awakening.

"As to giving, our people are not doing as much as they should; but in a general way there is advance in benevolent contributions. There is a slow but healthy growth. The number of tithers is increasing. As reported to the General Assembly of 1906, our churches gave to home missions $1,092.00 more than the preceding year. In the last ten years our churches have made a gain in contributions to home missions of ninety-five per cent.; to foreign missions, ninety-six per cent.; to all benevolent schemes seventy-nine per cent.

"We need at least four new schools in destitute mountain communities that are earnestly reaching out their hands to us for help. Above all else we need such an outpouring of the Holy Spirit as we have not yet experienced.

“Notwithstanding difficulties there has been steady growth along all lines of church life and work. The Cumberland Union is a great encouragement. We have the best both of their men and churches. By this Union our Church is greatly strengthened and our field enlarged.

“The wonderful anti-saloon movement in Tennessee is a great encouragement. Recent legislation will permit us to sweep out the saloons from the cities of our state as they have already been swept out of the villages and country. The Brotherhood movement is an encouragement. In a number of our churches the men are now organized and working as never before.”

The last General Assembly erected the Synod of Florida. This has involved the dividing of one of the presbyteries and other rearrangement. Intimately related with the movement for the new synod was the establishment of a Presbyterian college in the state.

When the Board entered Florida thirty years ago it was with the expectation that it would be rapidly settled by people from the North and that there would be both room and a call for vigorous home missionary work. Because of the failure to fully realize these expectations the Board from year to year decreased its appropriations for that state. By reason of the erection of the synod, however, the Board feels that so far as its means will allow it should second the expectations of the brethren there with regard to sustaining work already in hand or which may be developed. This does not involve any purpose on our part to continue indefinitely the support of small and weak churches with no promise of growth or of self-support. The Board is in hearty readiness to keep step with whatever progress Presbyterianism may make under the new conditions. Opportunity has scarcely been afforded the new synod to demonstrate the wisdom of its erection, or to mature any large plan looking towards substantial and rapid progress.

In Minnesota, at the urgent request of the Rev. R. N. Adams, D.D., synodical missionary, our Board has utilized pastor-evangelists more than in any other part of the country. Unfortunately for the purpose of a careful study, the full work was begun too late in the fiscal year to enable us to determine the value of the office. It has, however, met with the warmest approval of Dr. Adams, who is convinced that its advantages appear in the large accessions to the churches, in their increased ability to care for themselves, and in their increased offerings both for the Boards of the Church and for carrying on the work.

Dr. Adams has been synodical missionary in Minnesota for more than twenty years—years characterized by great faithfulness, earnest devotion and marked success. During that time there have been erected in the synod one hundred and sixty-four church buildings and forty-seven manse. The roll of churches has increased from one hundred and forty-one to three hundred and six—a net gain of one hundred and sixty-five. The membership has increased at a larger rate. In 1886 were reported 8,768 members; this year, 24,750—a net gain of 15,982.

In his annual report to the Board Dr. Adams says:

“In the southern half of the state where the lands are mostly under cultivation, with railroads and villages and cities already established, the great work is to group, to keep, and to develop the old fields. They are often depleted by removals of those upon whom the churches depend for support and management, and whose places are taken by representatives of foreign lands. Their work in very many of these older communities is largely one of reformation.

“Another phase of the work is that of bringing these old churches to self-support. We have made some progress along that line this year and a number of churches have asked less aid.

“St. Cloud presbytery should maintain services at no less than six places never before provided for, and prepare to erect five and perhaps six new churches. St. Cloud is a presbytery of magnificent distances; so are three others. The period of early settlement has passed, but this region is in the stage of great material improvement and increase of population; it behooves us to keep abreast of these forward movements and to even anticipate settlements, where we can do it with a degree of certainty."

During the past year North Dakota has had the largest accessions to its churches in all its history, has increased the number of its churches by fifteen, and a score or more of places are seeking Presbyterian services with a view to organization.

While the emigration from the western part of the state to Canada and the Pacific Coast has greatly depleted the membership in that section, yet within the last seven years eighty-eight churches have been organized, all but six of which were—when organized—the first and only English-speaking Protestant churches in the community.

Work among foreign-speaking people has been begun and prosecuted with success, especially among the Ruthenian Stundists, of whom there are in this synod about twelve thousand.

The Rev. Andrew Christy Brown, D.D., synodical missionary, in his report says:

"Prosperity and progress, material and spiritual, have marked the year. Hundreds of miles of new railroad have reached out into new territory. Multitudes of new settlers have crowded in from the East. Scores of new towns have sprung up on the open prairie. Lands have increased greatly in value and the crop yield was so great that the railroads, with the increased demand of their greater mileage, have not yet been able to transport all the grain to the market. Renewed evangelistic effort has added substantially to the membership of our churches. An increase in general benevolence is apparent. An increasing number of new church buildings of the better quality has been erected. A growing interest in Christian education and a spirit of broader, kindlier comity in relation to other Churches is on every hand.

"If the growth of religious life and of church work kept pace with the progress in material things we would have reason for great gratitude, but many of the churches in the western part of the state are losing by removals to the Northwest, and we are unable to supply our fields because of the scarcity of suitable ministers. It is a great pity to see splendid opportunities lost when new towns are opening in a prosperous and fertile land where our Church could do the work.

“The Bible Conference on the Chautauqua grounds seems to have become a permanent institution. Its influence upon church life and character of preaching has been distinctly felt all over the state in other denominations as well as our own. The attendance last year was double that of 1905, and it is expected that the coming year’s conference will be more than twice as large as the last.

“Deeply impressed with the need of leaders of Christian thought and with the necessity of raising up gospel ministers upon our own soil, we are now struggling with the proposition of establishing a Christian college with the expectation that it will open its doors with the beginning of the school year in the fall of 1907.”

For nearly forty years the Sioux Indians, living in Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana, have been organized into a presbytery of their own, known as the Presbytery of Dakota and included within this synod. The Rev. John P. Williamson, D.D., a noble son of a sainted father, is spending his life in loving consecration to the spiritual welfare of these people and the care of all of their other interests. From being among the most warlike and savage of the Indian tribes they have come to be among the most Christian. They receive aid in part from the Board of Home Missions, but contribute largely of their means for giving the gospel to other Indians within their reach, and their missionary zeal is worthy of the warmest consideration.

The Rev. H. P. Carson, D.D., synodical missionary for South Dakota, says of the other work in this synod:

“New settlements and railroad towns reasonably open for work under the auspices of the Presbyterian Church have been supplied with home mission service, faithful and fairly efficient, save in a few cases where it seemed impracticable from either local conditions or inability to secure suitable men willing to undertake the work for the remuneration.

“We shall need at least twenty new missionaries to adequately man our fields the coming church year.

“Evangelistic services have been held in only two fields under the direction of synod’s Committee. The results were not remarkable, though not without encouragement. More attention needs to be paid to preparation for the evangelist. There is too much disposition to expect him to both prepare for the meetings, and to carry them on successfully.

“Immigration continues to pour in and more work is in sight, as the new settlements will soon be in better shape for effective service, and still other new settlements will be forming. South Dakota has entered upon a new epoch; the new-comers are the class who bring cash and a purpose to remain and take part in the building up of the state; the railroad building begun already will continue through the coming year.

“The expected opening of another great county, Tripp—the remainder of the Rosebud Reservation—during the coming church year, will continue the large current of immigration into the state.”

Some years ago the synod of Nebraska took up the question of self-support and devised a plan looking towards progress in that direction. Changes in the ministry of the synod and other reasons hindered the working out of the plan as rapidly and successfully as was hoped. Last fall the synod took up the question again with the view of reaching self-support more swiftly and heroically.

Self-support is to be kept steadily in view by every synod and reached as rapidly as possible. Some synods prefer to do it by stimulating the missionary churches to take care of themselves, and urging all churches to contribute so faithfully and largely to the Board of Home Missions that a larger sum shall be sent from the synod to the Board than is appropriated by the Board to the synod. Whatever plan be adopted, it would seem important that it accomplish genuine self-support; and that all churches take at least an annual offering for the general work of the Board. We would rejoice to see Nebraska taking its place with the older synods in successfully administering its own home mission work and generously providing for more needy synods elsewhere.

The Rev. Thomas L. Sexton, D.D., synodical missionary, reports that the year has been attended with general prosperity along all lines of church work:

“Six churches have been planted with encouraging prospects. The large majority of our churches have been supplied with regular preaching services and to a large extent the mission fields have been pushing forward towards self-support. The entire synod is contemplating such an advance as will enable us to take care of our mission work in the near future without outside assistance. On account of the prevalent railroad discussion and the reduction of rates, it is predicted that the contemplated railroad extensions in this state will be abandoned, so that the outlook for much new work the coming year is not favorable.

“There will be some demand for additional appropriations on account of some feeble churches connected heretofore with the Cumberland Church, for whose welfare we shall be held responsible after the meeting of the next General Assembly.

“In the matter of systematic and proportionate giving, it is encouraging to note that a number of our people are beginning to devote a tenth of their income to the Lord’s work, and they receive the blessing promised. This duty is frequently urged from the pulpit, and others are encouraged to imitate the good example placed before them by the tithe givers.”

Probably nowhere has the question of Union with the Cumberland Presbyterian Church resulted in more complication than in the Synod of Missouri. The Board has felt it impossible as yet to make specific appropriations to the presbyteries of this synod, and to the Synod of the Indian Territory, because there has been so much regrouping of our churches with Cumberland churches, so much reorganizing of fields and constituting of new presbyteries. We believe, however, that before the fiscal year is ended the whole situation in Missouri will have so clarified that next April we can take up the work on the usual lines.

The Rev. John B. Hill, D.D., our synodical missionary, reports:

“At present the reunion and reorganization have come, legally or illegally, in almost every instance where there were both Presbyterian and Cumberland Presbyterian organizations in the same Missouri town, much to the betterment of the local work; but many home mission groups are completely demoralized and will remain vacant and decaying until systematic regrouping can be effected regardless of old lines.”

Last summer many ecclesiastical gatherings were attended by our synodical missionary for the purpose of studying the questions arising in connection with the reorganization of the synod and the readjustment of the presbyterial boundaries. Some of these were: ten meetings of presbyteries, three meetings of the Kansas City Presbyterian League, one Ministers' Alliance, one ministers' picnic, one open-air meeting of a Woman's Missionary Society, two Chautauquas, ten of more important committee meetings, as well as a volunteer gathering at Pertle Springs. Dr. Hill says:

“There is a great deal of new work in sight. The trouble is to get men enough to come anywhere near doing the work we already have, without trying to go into many inviting fields, some of which are urgent, that we should enter at once. There are many important openings in southeast Missouri, the part of the state now most rapidly developing.

“The situation in Missouri is in every way encouraging, unless it may be that we cannot get men enough to supply our country groups. The Cumberland reunion opens vast possibilities for more effective work than has been done by the denominations working separately. Our state is growing rapidly, both in its cities and in the farming and mining regions. Our Church is waking to its unprecedented opportunity.”

The past year in the Synod of Kansas has been one of marked material prosperity, yet it seems difficult to secure anything like an adequate salary for many of the home missionaries within its bounds.

Considerable time has been given to rousing the churches to the need of giving more largely to the Boards. Dr. Fleming has suggested a minimum of twenty thousand dollars from all sources as the standard the synod should attain. He says the cry of fifty cents a member has waxed old, and some of our older churches have at least paid little attention to it.

“The synod and all of its presbyteries have committees on systematic and proportionate giving. They are urging a subscription plan, and are trying to get a percentage for each Board, according to the General Assembly’s suggestions. There are a great many tithers scattered up and down in a synod, but almost everything depends upon the willingness of pastors and sessions to push the subject of contributions.”

While the Cumberland problem is not a serious one in Kansas, yet it involves some addition to the needs of some presbyteries. Some grouping will prove economical for the Board’s treasury in some localities, while in others it may increase the financial need.

In addition to the churches that have come to self-support, a goodly number have made fair progress in that direction. Special circumstances in the way of removals and local crop failures, however, have hindered the advances in this direction that were hopefully anticipated.”

To fully equip our fields, the Rev. S. B. Fleming, D.D., synodical superintendent, estimated that at least ten new men would be needed. A prospect of securing the necessary number from the graduates of this year’s seminary classes seemed to indicate that no important fields need be pastorless.

SYNOD OF INDIAN TERRITORY

The Rev. Frederick W. Hawley, synodical missionary of the Synod of Indian Territory, resigned from this office on September first, 1906, accepting at that time the pastorate at Bloomington, Illinois. For about ten years he had faithfully served Oklahoma and Indian Territories. During the changing conditions of these years the establishment of many churches was largely due to his energy and forethought.

The condition of the Indians in the Indian Territory, by reason of the allotment of lands, has given grave concern to the Board of Home Missions and to all of their other friends. The action of the Government, however it may be defended from the point of necessity and general political wisdom, was accomplished against the protests of the Indians and has greatly discouraged them. They have too much reason for the fear that ere long their land will be taken away from them by the more energetic and unscrupulous whites, and so their various tribes reduced to poverty.

It has seemed advisable to unify the Indian work within the bounds of the synod, at whose request the Board has appointed the Rev. S. R. Kean and the Rev. William Meyer superintendents of Indian missions. It is proposed to have a separate schedule of appropriations for the Indians without at all impinging upon their relationship to their respective presbyteries. This plan has received the approval of the synod and good results are hoped from its energetic prosecution.

Henry Kendall College at Muskogee has been a center of light, not only to the Indians but to all the people in the Territory. It has been maintained at a large annual expense to the Woman's Board, who last fall presented a proposition to the synod that it take the property, which has now become valuable, and bring the college under the entire control of the synod under a body of local trustees. The synod has appointed a committee to consider the whole question, and it is earnestly hoped that they will be able to make such a recommendation to the synod as will warrant the Woman's Board in turning this important plant over to the Presbyterians of the Territory.

The Synod of Indian Territory is one of those most concerned in the Cumberland Union and the consequent readjustment of presbyteries as well as local fields. Reference has been made in the earlier part of this Report, as well as under the statements concerning Missouri, to the technical difficulties in the Board's way of making presbyterial appropriations in the usual manner this year. Our workers write hopefully, however, and expect that soon the united work will be running smoothly.

Change in population has removed many and helpful members from our churches. "More than ever before," one pastor says, "they are going into Texas and New Mexico. Of course others come in to take their places, but more Presbyterians have left than have been replaced."

Nevertheless, the rapidly growing population of the new state of Oklahoma prompts the Rev. J. A. B. Oglevee, chairman of the synod's Committee on Home Missions, to say that there ought to be at least fifty new organizations within the synod:

“We have very much good work in sight that ought to be done but which must, it seems, go undone because of lack of funds. The old work is fairly well in hand, and, if only the right sort of men and enough money could be obtained, our Church would take a rapid step forward and contribute more generously toward providing the means of grace and molding the character and destiny of the new State of Oklahoma.”

The death of the Rev. H. S. Little, D.D., synodical missionary of Texas, is chronicled on the first page of this Report. It was a strange Providence that brought this man of God to the very verge of his promised land and then denied him admission to it. He looked forward to and rejoiced in the Cumberland Union as the event which would remove the walls he had been unable to scale and bring within his vision and grasp the mighty State of Texas for his beloved Church. God willed that from the heavenly seats he should view the new day which has come to Texas.

We have carried on work in Texas since before the War. True, we have been a feeble folk, for there were many difficulties in the way of rapid or substantial progress. Cumberland Union, however, here opens before us a larger field of usefulness than can be set forth in words. There is little opposition to Union here and our Cumberland brethren are enthusiastic as to possibilities of service for the Master within the Synod of Texas.

The Rev. Arthur F. Bishop of Austin, Texas, chairman of the synod's Home Mission Committee, writes:

“We look forward hopefully to the future. The Union and reunion with the Cumberland Presbyterian Church means more to us than to the brethren in any other synod. We reported last year less than four thousand members. Next year the Synod of Texas will report about thirty thousand. Not only will our numbers be largely increased, but our field of operations will be greatly enlarged. We will have a foothold in several of the larger cities, such as Fort Worth, Sherman, Waco and Paris—where we had no work before.

We will also have a much stronger hold upon the rural districts, an exceedingly important advantage in a state which has such large agricultural interests. Moreover, it will give us prestige among the denominations here, such as we never held. We will be the largest Presbyterian denomination in the state and will have opportunity as never before of emphasizing the national and universal character of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America and her work.

“The growth of our state has been and is phenomenal. Her marvelous resources are being rapidly developed. There is a constant inflow of new populations. Along the lines of the new railroads new towns are springing up as if by magic. The rapid and solid growth of our older communities is very marked. In view of all this we regard the Union of the two great synods of Texas as a providential indication that we are to undertake great things for God, and expect great things from God in the conquest of this great state for Jesus Christ. We believe that the united Church has come into the kingdom for such a time as this.

“We believe that we have at last learned the meaning of the providence of God, in maintaining our little Synod of Texas through all these years of struggle and discouragement—that it might become the nucleus about which, through Union and reunion, a great Synod of Texas might develop.”

The past year has witnessed the resignation of the Rev. Charles F. Richardson, who, since 1902 and with marked success, served the Synod of Montana as synodical missionary. The Rev. A. K. Baird, D.D., who preceded him, was reappointed to the office for a brief period and entered upon the discharge of his duties with his former energy and thoroughness. Dr. Baird in his report says:

“Settlers have taken up land that, as far as can be seen now, can never be irrigated. They plan to raise some stock and engage in ‘dry farming.’ That is a mystery to me, Old-Timer as I am. For eighteen years I traveled over our hundreds of square miles of Montana’s arid lands and always accounted them utterly worthless, except as stock range—

five acres to a calf—for farming, of no value. It looks now as though such was not the case. Many thousands of acres of land that I would have counted dear at fifty cents an acre sell readily at five, ten and twenty dollars up, according to location, obtainable water for house use and stock, and the possibility of cutting a little hay, and so forth. Whether permanent and prosperous settlements can be made on these immense areas of arid land is in process of testing. I have my doubts. But recent facts seem to be against me. This summer I have driven through mile after mile of wheat fields, with houses and families and considerable little villages starting up—and this on lands of scant rainfall and utterly and eternally unirrigatable. They yield fifteen to thirty bushels (and up) to the acre. From the lands bought or filed on in the Culbertson region this year it looks as though the influx of settlers next year would far exceed that of this year. If successful, these settlements will revolutionize this section of the 'Great American Desert.'

"Then irrigation schemes are multiplying and several extensive ones, in the bounds of the synod, have passed the experimental stage and large tracts of land now under ditch are rapidly being covered with homes and families. Land worthless for farming two or three years ago is readily bringing from thirty to forty dollars an acre, and irrigation on extensive scale is only beginning. From year to year Montana will receive a large population finding homes and fortune on lands now desert, transformed into gardens. Only water is needed for this."

The desire is expressed that at least three good men might be secured to fill vacancies on the mission fields within this synod.

During the past year eleven new churches have been organized within the bounds of the synod and application has been made by two other communities to be erected into a church. The missionary churches are making progress towards self-support.

The new work is large and pressing and limited only by the means at hand for its performance. At least twenty new fields need attention.

In his annual report, the synodical missionary, the Rev. T. C. Kirkwood, D.D., says:

“The evangelistic movements of the last two years have been productive of great good. They have been conducted in different ways. The first year by large gatherings in the larger cities. The influence of these went out to the regions beyond. Never were there so many pastoral evangelists as during the period following these meetings. Last year under the leadership of the Rev. and Mrs. A. N. Thompson, D.D., a different and yet efficient work was carried on and good accomplished. There was a strong desire to cover, with revival method and grace and power, the entire field of our widespread opportunity. And in some presbyteries to a very great extent this was accomplished.

“One thing in our mission work is worthy of more attention than it receives. Our churches, after a time, reach what is called self-support. That is, they do not receive any further assistance from the Board of Home Missions. The very next year such a church needs to provide a larger salary for its minister. It may be the same man who has been sacrificing his own interests to aid the church to come to this advanced position, or it may be a new man. About the same time a new edifice is needed and all the energies of the church are consumed in a movement looking to that end. As a consequence our benevolences suffer, but in the course of time they are usually made up.”

The retirement of the Rev. Samuel E. Wishard, D.D., from the position of synodical missionary to the Synod of Utah—a position he had held since 1890—was an event of great moment. Christianity and Presbyterianism looked to him as to the highest defender of their cause in the Mormon country. No heart beat truer and no soul was more brave than Dr. Wishard's. He continued his service in that field considerably after he had passed his eightieth year, and retired reluctantly, because he was convinced that a younger man might carry a heavier load. He is now in California and bears with him the affectionate regard and prayerful remembrance of all connected with the Board of Home Missions.

The decision of the United States Senate to permit Mr. Smoot to take his place in that body was an unspeakable disappointment, not only to our Board, but to every one who understood the facts in Utah. The Board of Home Missions has known from its missionaries that the leaders of Mormonism were polygamous and anti-American. The abundant and conclusive evidence of this condition of things was not of a character which could be submitted to the United States Senate. While it is no part of our duty to sit in judgment upon that august body, none the less do we deplore the fact that it failed to see the light and to maintain the right. The settlement of the case favorably to Mr. Smoot has convinced the Board that, whatever justification there was in the past for any aggressive antagonism to Mormonism as anti-Christian, it would now be better to confine our work in Utah to the simple teaching and preaching of the gospel. We shall hope to put greater emphasis upon evangelistic tent work which has proved so successful in the past, not only with ourselves, but also under other leadership. The advantage of tent work lies in this—that the Mormons feel free to come, knowing they will not be called to an account for attending a Presbyterian church; and thus they are more apt to be responsive to the gospel than when it is presented by methods with which we are more familiar.

The Rev. Josiah McClain has been chosen synodical missionary in place of Dr. Wishard. In his report he says:

“The field has greatly improved by reason of immigration from the East and West. Idaho has had a great boom this last year. Her reservoirs and canals have brought into the state more than fifteen thousand good people.

“Utah has been helped by new people coming into the mining towns and into Salt Lake City and Ogden. But the Mormon strongholds outside of Salt Lake and Ogden are not affected at all. Salt Lake City is growing rapidly and the growth is almost entirely gentile. This place is fast becoming a railroad center. It is by reason of this growth both in Idaho and Utah that the work of the synod is increasing in strength and importance.

“There is much new work in sight for next year. Lots of it we have not even mentioned to the Board. We are preparing to enter the mining camps in the future. We have missed it in the past by keeping out of these points.

“Evangelistic services have been held in several of the churches, but they have been independent of the Evangelistic Committee.”

Among the interesting items which come under review in New Mexico are the maturing of the plan for the erection of the Mary E. James' School for Boys at Santa Fé. The money has been raised, the plans have been prepared and accepted and probably the work on the building will be begun before this Report is in the hands of the General Assembly. This is a noble tribute to one of the most eminent and influential women in the Church, who has consecrated her life preëminently to the Woman's Board. May the new school for boys be a fountain of increasing blessings to the whole territory of New Mexico.

Another important event is the division of the Arizona Presbytery into two, to be known as Phoenix Presbytery and the Presbytery of Southern Arizona. Sub-division of presbyteries which cover a large territory not only results in a closer and better supervision of the work, but also in most cases calls for a larger appropriation from the Board because of the growing needs of the field. The work within these two presbyteries possesses marked variety. There are not only the mining camps with their fluctuating populations, but places of stability and promise need our attention.

In Arizona a large population of Spanish-speaking people are growing rapidly in numbers and far beyond the apparent ability of our Church to minister to their spiritual needs. There is also the Pima Indian field, which has had such great blessing under the supervision of the Rev. Charles H. Cook, D.D., and his associates. The mission to the Papagoes, recently inaugurated, is rejoicing in growth whose permanence is suggested by the erection of the "John Eliot Memorial Chapel," dedicated last November. The new work among the Mojaves and Navajos has encountered serious difficulties. None the less it has made progress and is full of hope.

The property of the Tucson Indian school, under the Woman's Board, located within the city limits, has been sold and a new site purchased at a little distance from the city upon which new buildings are to be erected. It is believed that the change of location will be not only for the moral and spiritual benefit of its pupils, but for its enlarged usefulness.

* Includes 23 Indian and Mexican helpers.

The Rev. John R. Gass, D.D., synodical missionary, writes us that there is more new work in sight for the next year than can be overtaken. The country is filling up with permanent and prosperous settlers faster now than ever before in the history of the territories. Six new churches have been organized in the synod and in order to supply vacancies and provide for the new work at least twenty-two more men are needed.

This great state has had another year of unparalleled commercial activity. Railroad construction never was so active. Twelve hundred miles are now under contract. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul; the Great Northern, and other roads, are opening new territory in every direction. New communities, villages and cities are springing up. Three billion feet of lumber were cut in Washington last year, placing her first of the states in her lumber products, and the business continues unabated. Some of the irrigation schemes projected a year ago are nearing completion, which means new communities within the next twelve months.

All the trains are bringing people. The cities were never more prosperous. Old towns are taking on new life and new towns are springing up as if by magic. Potlatch, in northern Idaho, is a town of fifteen hundred people supported by the largest saw mill in the world. Fifteen months ago it was a pasture field eleven miles from the nearest railroad. Three years ago Raymond, on Willipa Harbor, had one small saw mill. Seven mills are now in operation, while four mills and a shipbuilding plant are under construction. Eighteen months ago Oroville was a tumble-down village with one store and fifty residents. Today she is a railroad terminus with good prospects for a second railroad.

It goes without saying that in such an immense field the call for missionaries is constant and increasing.

Mission work among the logging camps is new in Washington, but is opening a most inviting field for special service. It is estimated that fifty thousand men are engaged in lumbering within the bounds of the synod. Many of these are in logging camps without gospel privileges. Last summer the Rev. F. E. Higgins, who has been so successful among the loggers of northern Minnesota, spent four months among the loggers of Washington with most gratifying results.

The Rev. D. O. Ghormley, D.D., synodical missionary, writes:

“It is gratifying to observe the growing effort on the part of our mission churches to ask as little from the Board as possible. Twenty-five churches have reached self-support within five years. But the urgent calls to enter new and promising fields exceed the number coming to self-support. Twelve churches have been organized within the year. Another man must be located on Grays Harbor. Willipa Harbor needs a second man. A second man must be located on the Tacoma and Eastern Railroad. Two men are wanted in each of the Presbyteries of Puget Sound, Bellingham, Spokane and Walla Walla, while Central Washington calls for one—all wanted for fields in which we have never had a minister. Fourteen men are needed for vacant churches.

“While our mission churches are making creditable progress toward self-support, much more would be accomplished if systematic giving were practised more generally. Many givers are systematic, but congregations do not adopt and insist upon systematic and proportionate giving as they should.

“The evangelistic work of the synod has been prominent throughout the year. Many churches have held special services with good results, securing the assistance of available brethren. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey and the Rev. W. O. Forbes were employed for six months by the Evangelistic Committee. The former labored within the bounds of the Presbyteries of Spokane and Walla Walla, resulting in the strengthening of the churches wherever they went. The Rev. Mr. Forbes confined his labors to the Presbyteries of Olympia and Puget Sound. Many conversions are reported. One new church will be organized as the result of his meetings and each church he served has been greatly strengthened.

“All things considered, the year has been one of the most encouraging in the history of the synod. Five more such and we will consider self-support. Thanks for the opportunity to take part in this great work. Thanks to a generous Church for liberal support in the extension of the Master's Kingdom. Thanks for a noble band of consecrated, self-sacrificing missionaries. Thanks to God for His abundant blessing upon their labors. To Him be all the praise.”

Perhaps no synod is more fortunate than the Synod of Oregon in this respect, that its leading commercial city has in it a Presbyterian church known far and wide not only for its large numbers and generous gifts, but for its deep, practical interest in every Presbyterian church in the state of Oregon. We give unstinted praise to the people of the First Church of Portland, while we do not forget the splendid services of many other congregations within the bounds of that synod.

The Rev. W. S. Holt, D.D., synodical missionary, in his annual report, says:

“By the union of the Cumberland Church with ours, Oregon now has one hundred and twenty-nine Presbyterian Churches.

“The city of Portland, with its remarkable growth for the past five years, is calling for and receiving very careful attention. We have established two new churches and housed them and two new missions, one of which we thought was housed, but which has outgrown its building erected last December and is compelled to erect another this coming season. Another mission will also build. Portland now has seventeen churches and eight missions. We need six more men for the work now in hand, and three in addition to these if we are able to divide fields which demand division for the greatest efficiency.

“Evangelistic services have been held in Grande Ronde, Pendleton, Southern Oregon and Willamette Presbyteries under the aid and direction of the Assembly’s Evangelistic Committee. The results of those meetings have not been reported in full, but in nearly every case there have been substantial additions to the churches.

“There is much need in our synod for work in rural communities, off the railroads, in which nothing is now done by any Church. The communities are much scattered and the work would be difficult to maintain financially, but there are many American families who have never heard a sermon since they came to Oregon, and many children and young people who have never seen a church or a minister, or been in a church service. Their appeal for help is a very strong one. We want to heed it. It is expensive work and nearly all support must come for some time from outside the synod. We simply do not dare to ask for what we really need in this direction and what we are anxious to do. We are fortunate in having a band of fine Sabbath school missionaries who are doing all they can for just such sections in our state, but we need the settled minister to stay with the people and care for their spiritual needs.

“Eastern families are coming into our state and we are looking for rapid increase in our population. The entire synod is feeling the impulse of new life.”

The supreme event in the history of California during the past year was the earthquake and fire in San Francisco and vicinity in April, since discussed in many ways and from various standpoints. It will suffice here simply to refer to the fact that the work of the Presbyterian Church in that region has been so affected that it will take many years to recover what has been lost. Not only was there the material loss affecting the churches and the homes and business of the church members; but there was also a wide scattering of the people, and an element of great uncertainty was introduced as to the future life and work of each of our churches. The Presbytery of San Francisco is naturally the constitutional leader in the work of upbuilding and extending the cause of Presbyterianism in that city. Not only the Board of Home Missions but the entire Church will cordially second every wise and energetic movement towards the permanent rehabilitation and extension of the cause of the Master in that city.

Happily the earthquake affected only part of the vast state of California. In every other part and in Nevada the Church has been growing and new fields coming into view. New mining camps are opening in Nevada, many of which will be prosperous and populous communities; the reclaiming of arid lands under government direction is bringing vast areas under cultivation. Large agricultural and fruit-growing districts in California are being subdivided and thrown open to settlement. New cities and towns are growing rapidly, and the field for missionary enterprise is constantly expanding. We shall need more men, but it is less difficult to secure men than support.

The work among the foreign-speaking people in California is a varied one. That which holds a peculiar interest is the work among the Stundists. This presents practically the same features it did a year ago, crowded congregations and intense devotional spirit, with, however, but little progress toward organization on Presbyterian lines. Mr. Teichrieb's ministry among them seems to be highly appreciated, and he is evidently regarded as not only useful but indispensable. And yet they do very little towards his support. He excuses this on the ground of their poverty, and the heavy demands made upon them for the assistance of their persecuted brethren who are trying to make their way to this country. Money was raised by them to provide transportation for twelve families who were stranded at El Paso, Texas. The question was discussed by them concerning a still larger company just landed in New York whether they should not be advised to go to Canada instead of California. Several attempts have been made at colonization, but thus far without much success. A few went to Hawaii, but soon returned. Some are scattered through San Diego County, working on ranches. An attempt at colonization has been made in Lower California, near Ensenada, and may yet win success, though the poor people in their ignorance were sadly swindled by their agent, himself a Russian, who absconded with a large sum of their money, which should have been paid over for land purchased. They have had good crops, however, and may yet pull through.

The Board of Foreign Missions conducts work among the Chinese in San Francisco and Oakland; the Board of Home Missions among these and other foreigners in other parts of the state. We are in conference with the officers of the Board of Foreign Missions with regard to unifying this work on the Pacific Coast.

The Mexican work under the supervision of Miss Mary E. Merwin has had a year of progress, and such progress as calls for more preachers and larger appropriations, which the Board regrets it has been unable to make.

In his annual report the Rev. W. B. Noble, D.D., synodical missionary, says:

"All departments of our Home Mission work show marked progress. It is true many of our churches have suffered severely through the earthquake disaster of last April. But in general there has been progress everywhere. More churches have reached self-support than in any preceding year, new houses of worship have been erected, church debts have been paid, half a score of new churches have been organized, and a large advance over preceding years has been made in the contributions of our churches and women's societies to the treasury of the Board.

PORTO RICO.

“The year just closing has witnessed some remarkable changes both in the results and the prospects of the gospel work in this island. It has been like building a temple where the progress seems most rapid as the framework is going up. We are now engaged in the inside work and, while the external evidences of progress are not so numerous, we who are inside know that more and better progress is being made than at any former period. The days have passed when men are attracted by the novelty, and now the Spirit is doing His work in finishing and beautifying the inner man. Numerically we may have made smaller gains than in previous years, but in spirituality and power there has been great growth. Our work in the island has expanded as well as strengthened. In almost all parts new stations have been opened and from all we hear good reports.”

Our entire work in San Juan has been continued under the direction of the Rev. Robert McLean, who wrote the above paragraph. In the old city itself our work has always been hampered by lack of proper accommodation. Last fall we were obliged to leave the house in which previously we had rented a room for church and school purposes. Providentially there was then available at a remarkably low figure a property on Fortaleza Street, near the governor's palace. It is admirably fitted for reconstruction into church and school and teachers' rooms. Its acquisition was made possible by the generosity of Mrs. Hugh O'Neill of New York, who, in memory of her husband, gave the entire amount necessary to purchase the property and remodel the building. The school in San Juan under the Woman's Board was closed during the year on account of inability to secure suitable place for the classrooms and for the teachers' home. Grateful for the new equipment, our Church will be able to make advance heretofore impossible in either Spanish or American church.

In the suburb of Santurce the work among the natives has gone on encouragingly. Large audiences and large attendance at Sabbath school services testify to the hungry hearts and eager response to gospel truth. A unique feature of the year was the Christmas picnic at the beach, participated in by three hundred children from both the native Sunday schools.

A large help in Santurce work has been the addition of Dr. and Mrs. E. Raymond Hildreth of the staff of the Woman's Board hospital, which has had a successful year of missionary ministry. Dr. Hildreth's musical talent has been helpful in the church as well as in the hospital.

In addition to his duties in the city of San Juan, Mr. McLean, with the aid of one native helper, Alfredo Archilla, has conducted regular services in seven out-stations and supervised the work at three former stations which have grown into organized churches.

One of these, Toa Alta, is making progress under the direction of Federico Garcia, who conducts the work there and at Candelaria and Espinosa. Last fall Mr. Garcia passed a thorough examination for licensure, which was granted by the presbytery at its meeting at Corozal.

Corozal is another of the former out-stations of San Juan where we now have an organized church. It is under the care of the Rev. H. T. Jason, a graduate of Lincoln University. A church building has been erected here with the assistance and oversight of the pastor. One of the special features of the year was a watch-night service on December thirty-first. It opened at eleven o'clock. To it came not only those who would naturally have been expected, but also all the guests at an evening dance across the street.

Naranjito is the third church organized from the list of San Juan out-stations and it has now a station of its own, Barrio Nuevo. It has been since October under the direction of the native helper, Francisco Quiñones.

As has before been reported to the General Assembly, the special field allotted to our Church at the entrance of Protestant Churches into Porto Rico is the western end. The first stations reached after leaving San Juan and its neighboring work are those of Isabela and Quebradillas, both of which have church organizations. For the first six months of the year the Rev. James A. McAllister continued his successful ministry here, leaving at the end of September to assist in the Bible Training School in Mayagüez. The Board was happy in being able to provide a Spanish-speaking successor, the Rev. E. A. McDonald. The work was therefore not seriously interrupted by the change. Besides the two churches of Isabela and Quebradillas, Mr. McDonald has four out-stations. The enthusiasm of the rural people for our services is hinted by the fact that at one of the stations, in a private house used for services, an audience of seventy assembled in the single room sixteen feet square with palm-leaf thatching, the day before Christmas, when this little building was dedicated to the service of the true God. All that seems necessary in order to win an attentive audience of respectable size is to place lighted candles wherever possible around the room, letting it be known that our missionary is to conduct a meeting. Oftentimes the audience overflows the rooms and listens outside the doors and windows.

On the west coast on the curve of the bay is Aguadilla, where we have the first church building we erected outside of Santurce in San Juan. The few out-stations have now grown to ten and two organized churches, Malesa Alta and Moca. Throughout this year the Rev. Leland H. Tracy has continued in charge with Juan B. Soto and José A. Lopez as helpers. The growth of the work reminds one of apostolic times. There are now twenty-one services each week and seven Sunday schools with more than six hundred scholars. There are more than five hundred and fifty church members and a waiting list of those who are proving their faith before being received. No small share of this success is due to the Woman's Board school with its three teachers.

"You may think," Mr. Tracy writes, "that we should not have overdeveloped the work, but this growth is natural and is only the indication of what we could do with more help. I have before me four applications for country work from people who have offered their house if we can but send some one to preach. I have had to tell them that not until we have more missionaries can we accept their invitations. Here in the city we have the opportunity of opening four more Sunday schools and preaching places. We have on the average eight services a week, at each of which I preach. We have six week-night appointments and to meet them, travel more than sixty miles."

There is manifest need for an additional worker. Added to this is the need of small chapels. Most of our country meetings are held in unsuitable buildings. With these two helps the additions to the church could be doubled and nearly every one in this district would be within reach of the gospel.

About midway from the coast to the eastern boundary of Aguadilla province we have the church of San Sebastian with its stations of Las Marias and Goacio. The missionary pastor there is still the Rev. E. S. Lheureux. Serious illness compelled his temporary return to the states last summer. During his absence services were maintained by his helper, Tomas Vidal Martinez. Although the work had been in progress at San Sebastian since May fifteenth, 1903, the church was not organized until this year. It has fifteen charter members, all received on confession, and in the two Sabbath schools on the field there are seventy-five scholars.

In the southwestern part of the province of Aguadilla, in the hill country, is the Spanish town of Lares. This is our inheritance from the Congregational Church, which first entered the field and then transferred the station to us. Until last summer it was under the supervision of Mr. Lheureux, his helper conducting most of the services. Last summer a graduate of Auburn Seminary, 1906, the Rev. E. A. Odell, went to the field. With the church reorganized and a missionary pastor on the ground the development of the work will be much more rapid. There is at present but one out-station, Barrio Nuevo, but there are nine roads leading out into thickly settled country and each is an avenue of opportunity. Lares is therefore a strategic point. On the north there is no Protestant mission between Lares and the coast, nor for about an equal distance to the east, and much farther to the south, while San Sebastian on the west is the nearest field in that direction. The native Christians and the missionary force, including the pastor and two teachers under the Woman's Board, are praying for a thoroughly equipped church building in Lares and for chapels in the adjacent region.

In Mayagüez, "the Presbyterian city" on the west coast, our work has gone forward under the leadership of the Rev. Judson L. Underwood, pastor of the church, who holds the usual Sabbath and midweek services. More than a dozen stations within and without the city tax to their utmost the time and strength of the American missionaries and Pedro Gil, the native helper converted from the Roman priesthood. Hormigueros, one of our organized churches, is included in this field.

The medical work, which so long has been a strong feature centered at Mayagüez, was taken up last September by James H. Black, M.D., who conducts clinics through the week in several towns as well as in the city of Mayagüez.

Since the beginning of our entrance into Porto Rico the excellent school, Colegio Americano, under the direction of the Woman's Board, has been one of the strong points of our Mayagüez mission.

A step forward has been made during the past year in the establishment of a Bible Training School. Many of the converts to Protestantism in our various missions on the island were bright young men of earnest spirit. Of these several indicated their wish to minister to their own people. There has been great need for those who understood the customs and the language to tell in simple phrase the gospel story to the many unreached by our few American missionaries. To meet this need, after long and careful anticipation, the Bible Training School opened last October. It marked an era in the Protestant work in Porto Rico. By virtue of his office as moderator of the presbytery, the Rev. Robert McLean of San Juan presided at the opening services. He wrote:

"The effect of this move is felt in all the island. The gathering of so many fine young men to enter the gospel ministry made a deep impression on all who were present."

"Although this institution is likely to fill the most pressing need for carrying to a successful issue the gospel ministry of these people on a permanent basis," writes Mr. Underwood, "it began its existence in the most humble way."

In the second story of an unpretentious house a few rooms have afforded class opportunities, and served as dormitory for some of the fifteen students who throughout the year have been in attendance. The faithfulness of both teachers and students has been marked. Mr. Underwood is in charge of this Bible school. Associated with him are Mr. McAllister, formerly of Isabela, and Evaristo Lugo, a Porto Rican, an earnest Christian, well educated and apt to teach. The latter has charge of the preparatory subjects corresponding to the first three years in academic work. He writes:

"The good results are surprising if we consider the readiness shown by many of those scholars to adapt themselves to the studious life. For instance, a young man named Juan Fernandez who came accompanied by his wife from Quebradillas, where he earned his living as a carpenter, has attained an average of eighty-eight per cent. in spite of the fact that he finds it necessary to help himself by earning something outside to increase his income. Another student, Ramon Ortiz, some days before the opening of the seminary, left the farm work to which he had been brought up, and came on foot about eighteen miles to get a place in the college."

Mr. McAllister's subjects in the school have been Greek, Church history, Introduction to the Scriptures, and Systematic Theology. In addition to his teaching he has taken charge of Cabo Rojo with its six out-stations. At Cabo Rojo we have an organized church. This field was formerly included among the out-stations of San German. It is one of the hardest fields to cover and more than any one missionary should be asked to carry alone.

Añasco is another of our organized churches and grew out of the Mayagüez field. For a time it had its own pastor, but for two years, in the absence of any American missionary, it was cared for from Mayagüez. To Añasco the Board last September sent the Rev. Arnold Smith, a graduate in the spring from Auburn Seminary. The native helper, Luis Sanchez, serving under Mr. Underwood's direction from Mayagüez, continued as Mr. Smith's helper. They include another organized church, Sabanetas, and four stations.

Añaseo, with about three thousand inhabitants, is on the railroad, eight miles from Mayagüez. The house now used for our services is very small. Even at prayer meeting it is filled and many gather outside to listen. We have secured from the town council as a church site a lot facing the plaza. Such a building would stand as proof of the permanency of our work. Many of our people, although poor, will give what they can toward it. Our great hope, as elsewhere, is in the children. They are enthusiastic and never tire of singing the songs, so old to us but new to them.

Under the Woman's Board the mission school with its sixty pupils, conducted by the Misses MacArthur, is exerting no small influence in molding Christian character.

No more encouraging field in Porto Rico is open to our Church than San German, where for a year and a half there was no settled American pastor. The need of an educated leader will be recognized by the fact that, in addition to the seven preaching places now under the care of Mr. McAllister, there remain nearly twenty reached regularly by the Rev. J. Will Harris, who went to the field last July, and his three native helpers. We have organized churches at three of these stations—Lajas, Sabana Grande and La Pica. Upon a lot in San German secured by the Board in the early history of our work here, a building is now being erected which is to be both church and manse. San German is an inland town and has been a stronghold of Romanism. The surrounding country is thickly settled and its need is emphasized by one of the native helpers whose words are translated thus:

“The future of this island depends on the development of the rural population. That development will depend in some measure upon the aggressiveness of evangelical Churches. Advance on the part of Protestant Churches will depend upon the provision made for Christian worship. To that end chapels are essential. Our Church would be wise were it to provide inexpensive chapels in each rural district adjoining the towns or cities where it has resident workers or missionaries. May we not hope for a chapel or two in this growing district? Pray for us, brethren; pray for the conversion of this island that God pour His rich blessings on the evangelical work and workers. So I pray.”

The latest reports give us twenty-two organized churches and seventy other stations, with more than two thousand members.

From the view-point of the home mission committee, the chairman writes:

“With the rapid material development of the island we must keep pace, else it will become materialistic. The Spanish authorities built the churches in the best and most conspicuous part of the town, hence in their mind the church is an important part of the religious life of the people. It stands for permanency and character, hence we should push the work of establishing ourselves in a church wherever we have a permanent work. The school-house means much to them, but we should see to it that that which made the school-house possible should have an equally important place in their life.

“With the wonderful gifts of nature, the possibilities of development, the certainty that this will be a great resort for Americans and an important strategic point, it behooves us to preëempt the ground for Christ and His Church in this the day of our opportunity.”

CUBA.

The Board has been glad to avail itself of the continued leadership of the Rev. J. Milton Greene, D.D., superintendent of Presbyterian missions in Cuba since our entrance there. From his statements we make the following presentation of Cuba's needs and her response to the labors of our missionaries:

The social and political disturbances of the last year have interfered somewhat with the progress of our work in Cuba, and yet it has been at once a surprise and a gratification to note how slightly the attendance upon our services and our schools has been affected; while the fruits of our work in hopeful conversions, as seen in the additions to our church membership, have been full of encouragement and inspiration.

As always happens, some fields have yielded richer returns than others, and a survey of the field impresses one deeply with the conviction that if we are to adapt our Cuban work to actual conditions, expend our energies most wisely, and advance most rapidly, the day school must accompany the preaching services and we must aim at the conquest of the youth for Christ.

The completion of our church edifice in Havana may well be considered as marking a new epoch, not only in our own mission but in all others. The impression of dignity, culture, winsomeness, solidity, and practical helpfulness is clearly seen in the largely increased attendance upon the services and in the deference shown to our work even by those who lack the courage of their real convictions, and so fail to identify themselves with us.

The edifice was begun in December, 1905, and dedicated October 21, 1906. With the lot on which it stands it represents an outlay of fifty thousand dollars, as in addition to the church proper there are living apartments for the missionaries and an infant class room.

Besides the central church, we have in Havana and the immediate environs six preaching stations and Sabbath schools, all of which are supplied by the Rev. J. Milton Greene, D.D., and his two assistants, the Rev. Antonio Mazzorana and Mr. Gregorio F. Martinez, the latter a Filipino. The outstations are Regla, Jesus del Monte, Cerro, Manrique, Marianao, and Puentes Grandes. The latter is a mission of the central church which pays the rent of the building and all incidental expenses. We have here a Sabbath school of sixty children and a weekly preaching service attended by about the same number.

Regla is an organized church with forty-four members, and of late is proving to be one of our most prosperous and hopeful fields, the capacity of our chapel being fully taxed at every service and a deep spiritual interest being manifested.

As a conservative estimate we may say that the weekly attendance at our services in Havana is about seven hundred. Attention should also be called to the excellent work done in visitation and Bible conferences by Miss S. Louise Conklin, our Bible reader, who in her work at the hospitals, among the sick in their homes, in the families of our congregations, and in her aggressive evangelistic visitation from house to house, is doing a vast amount of good. In personal conversation and by the distribution of evangelical literature she is pointing many blinded souls to Christ. As an organist also her services are invaluable. We hold eighteen services week by week and in all of them the offering of praise in song plays a very important part.

Our mission in Bahia Honda has proven successful beyond our highest expectations, so far as the attendance at our services is concerned, as many as two hundred people crowding our chapel oftentimes and listening eagerly to the truth. We found them deplorably indifferent, astoundingly illiterate, and marvelously corrupt. A heathen city could hardly have presented a darker problem, and the transformation already effected is a wonderful testimony to the power of the gospel as a panacea for all the ills of human hearts, homes, and society at large.

After six months of monthly meetings conducted by Dr. Greene, Mr. Martinez ministered among them with great success for four months as resident pastor, and now Dr. Hervas—an ex-priest—is continuing the work, having added to his preaching services a day school for the neglected poor and a night school for illiterate adults.

In the congregations of San Cristobal, Candelaria, Artemisa, Güira, and Bejucal, the recent revolution injured us more than in any other part of our work, for the reason that the opposing forces made those portions of Pinar del Rio and Havana provinces one of their principal theatres of operations. But at all these points our services have been continued without interruption, and in Artemisa with such a marked spiritual blessing that the attendance has increased fourfold and we were permitted to organize a very promising church there on the seventeenth of March, with a membership of forty-one persons.

This church and that of Candelaria are under the immediate care of the Rev. Francisco Castro, a man of rare culture and piety and an excellent preacher. At Bejucal also the work of the Rev. E. P. Collazo has resulted in the formation of a church of twenty members. The opposition here has been especially bitter, but our little group of believers have shown a marked faithfulness and firmness.

In Güines, Gamara, San José, and San Nicolas, we have the field cared for especially by the Rev. A. Waldo Stevenson. Here, despite the early, intense and long-continued activity of the insurrectionists, the work has moved steadily forward. In Güines Miss Wilson's school has proved a great power not only to win and hold for daily instruction her seventy pupils, but a large proportion of these have been induced to attend also the Sabbath school and preaching services, and they form a large part of the congregation.

Much the same may be said of Nueva Paz, where Miss Stearns, with an attendance of thirty children, continues the excellent school work inaugurated by Miss Potter, and where the faithful pastoral labors of Mr. Hubert G. Smith have not only resulted in doubling the congregation and greatly increasing the church membership, but in winning for him the cordial esteem even of the Romish and indifferent elements among the people.

Passing on to Sancti Spiritus, we have the Rev. Herbert S. Harris, with the Misses Ross, Espey and Pyland doing a very thorough and far-reaching work along both educational and evangelical lines. Besides the central church, Mr. Harris maintains a preaching station and a Sabbath school in a remote part of the city and also holds stated services at the two outlying points of Cabaiguan and Tunas. For this work he has a valued helper in Mr. Louis Gomez, who is an elder of the church and also a licentiate of the presbytery. The school work here has been from the first phenomenally prosperous, over one hundred scholars being now enrolled and a large proportion of them being from the most favored families of the city.

The three day schools with their teachers, as well as the Bible reader in Havana, are the phases of our Cuban missions maintained by our Woman's Board.

Summing up our Cuban work, so far as figures can represent it, we now have ten organized churches with a total membership of seven hundred and fifty and one hundred and fifty catechumens. We have seventeen Sabbath schools with forty-one officers and teachers, and an attendance of somewhat over seven hundred. Of Young People's societies we have organized six with an active membership of one hundred and thirty-six and an associate membership of twenty-six. We have three day schools with an attendance of two hundred and four. Our contributions for the year amount to somewhat over two thousand dollars. The increase for the year in church membership has been over seventy per cent.

There is no denominational friction nor competition on the island. The opportunities are far beyond the combined ability of all the Churches to supply missionaries and teachers.

Cuba's need is desperate. The time is ripe, and events conspire to sound forth in our ears the Macedonian cry. The real and effective intervention in Cuba must be by the Christian Church through her preaching and schools.

THE CANAL ZONE.

The Report of last year made an appeal for special funds for securing church property on the Canal Zone, and the continued support of our missionary there, the Rev. J. J. Kilpin Fletcher. In response to request made last summer the Board was enabled to purchase for his use a tent and its necessary equipment with which to minister to the colony of Negroes at Fox River, the colored quarters of Cristobal. In August the tent, ropes, poles and so forth were shipped and soon placed on a site which we occupied with the permission of the authorities. The laborers contributed toward the flooring and seating. Sabbath afternoon services were held with an attendance of over two hundred.

In addition to the tent equipment there were also furnished stereopticon slides for rendering services attractive, and, for advertising them, a printing-press with a large assortment of type.

Morning services on the Sabbath, by permission of the Bureau of Labor and Quarters, have been held in the dining-room of the Cristobal Hotel. While grateful for this permission the situation is not conducive to devotion, as is indicated by the following:

“We are limited to certain hours for services. And the noise—almost always trying—sometimes becomes almost unbearable. When in the other end of the hall for meeting a dozen waiters are hurrying around laying tables, or in an adjoining room—separated only by a wire gauze—a machine is washing the dishes for three hundred men’s meals, or blocks of ice are being hauled all over the place, and the cooks are raking fires and slamming doors and rattling dishes—while all their conversation can be distinctly heard because there is not even a door or window to obstruct the sounds—devotion becomes almost an impossibility, although patience gets a chance of doing her perfect work.”

The Sabbath school, in which the missionary’s family assist, is held temporarily in the public school room. There is also an organized Christian Endeavor Society.

Through the courtesy of the Isthmian Canal Commission we hold a fifteen-year lease, at the nominal rental of one dollar a month, of a desirable site in Cristobal, about three hundred feet from the shores of the bay.

A manse and church building equipped for social purposes as well as for religious uses is manifestly the urgent need. The plans for manse and church have been submitted by the Ducker Company of New York and approved. The estimated cost of buildings and furnishings is about eight thousand dollars. A large part of this money is pledged. The Board cannot go forward until the whole amount is in sight.

The conditions are hard owing to changes of population and to the absorption of interests in the great Canal enterprise. When, however, our mission shall be housed in property of our own we may expect larger results and more rapid advance.

ALASKA.

The work in Alaska has been as varied as the conditions in the district.

Beginning our survey at Saxman, the first point reached, the Rev. Edward Marsden continues his labors with the people in that region and on the islands round about, reaching them as heretofore with his steam launch, the “Marietta.”

The progress of the Saxman people may be judged by their efforts to improve the town. Under the lead of their missionary, last summer they made a strenuous endeavor to secure what is with difficulty secured anywhere in Alaska—good roads for the town. The work was conducted on a volunteer basis. About forty-five men in ten days built a walk two thousand feet long, paying for the lumber and doing all the work themselves. The women cooked the meals, and it was a time of real enjoyment.

The missionary and his wife are helping the people by keeping in their own home a few children, who go to school and also learn something of housekeeping. Mr. Marsden says: "If we had the means to do so we would gladly keep fifteen. At present we have only five." Here is a suggestion for any one who wants to help in that most genuine kind of missionary work.

The spiritual health of the community is reported good. Whenever the church bell rings they all come to worship. Of how many communities could such a report be made? They have family prayers and they are not ashamed to show their Christian life wherever they go.

It is difficult to lead the natives there or anywhere else to move very strongly toward their own support. Alike their inheritance and their poverty preclude this. But they keep the church building in repair and pay all running expenses.

We have no missionary at Kasaan, but it has been under Mr. Marsden's care, he visiting that station once a month. The government teacher, Mr. Law, keeps the Sunday school going and helps the Kasaan people to lead a good life.

On the west side of the Prince of Wales Island in Jackson or Howkan—the largest village of the Hydahs, and the home of the totem pole. Mr. Samuel G. Davis, a native, continues in charge of Howkan and the neighboring station of Klinquan. His father was a white man but he speaks the Hydah language readily. He knows the people, their habits of thought and living, and is highly respected and useful in the community. Our Klawock missionary visits the field several times each year, administering the sacraments, directing the business of the church, and instructing Mr. Davis in the development of the work.

At Klawock the Rev. David Waggoner continues his fruitful labors. It is the principal village of the Hanegah tribe, with a population of three hundred. We have a new church and manse there and the work has taken on both permanence and progress. During Mr. Waggoner's six years at this station he has seen the work grow slowly but steadily from heathenism to the light and civilization of the gospel.

At Wrangell our missionary, the Rev. J. S. Clark, has contended earnestly and successfully with the peculiar difficulties of that station. The natives who had been alienated from the church are coming back, and both native and white congregations and Sunday schools show growth. The property is in improved condition and the prospects for growth are better than for years.

Our American church in Juneau received its new pastor, the Rev. Alexander Pringle, in July; and, although the church has met with severe losses by death and removals, the little band is pressing forward with courage. It is hoped that the work there will become self-supporting in a short time. The federal offices of the district during the year have been removed to Juneau from Sitka. That means a number of substantial families added to the community. The pastor has made a new departure in the organization of a "Social Study Club," the object being to study the social teachings of Jesus and to endeavor to do the social work needed right there. The people have become much interested in it and some not members of the church have joined the class.

Our native church in Juneau under the care of the Rev. L. F. Jones, our oldest missionary pastor in Alaska, has had a year of prosperity. A new church building costing about twenty-five hundred dollars, was dedicated the Sunday before Thanksgiving. In connection with the dedicatory services the sacraments of baptism and the Lord's Supper were observed, the church being filled. Mr. Jones says:

"On Thanksgiving Day another special service was held when, after the sermon, the meeting was thrown open for expressions from the people as to their gratitude to the Giver of all good. Different ones told what they were especially thankful for. All spoke of being grateful for the gospel."

A native mission, well attended, is sustained in Douglas Island, where there is a commodious chapel. The mid-week prayer meeting is as well attended as the Sunday service, the members taking part without hesitancy.

There are four hundred natives in Juneau and Douglas, of whom one hundred and seventy-five are communicants in the Presbyterian Church. This alone tells the story of faithful and persistent work. Mr. Jones is also ministering to a small community at Tee Harbor, thirty miles north of Juneau.

Shakan is an out-station of Juneau under the general care of Mr. Jones and recently supplied by William Benson, a product of our Sitka school.

Hoonah, an Indian village of four hundred people, is an island station seventy miles northwest of Juneau. It has been supplied during the year by the Rev. M. J. Caldwell. We have a church and a manse here, with fourteen acres of land. The work had been much disorganized by a long vacancy between the going and coming of missionaries, and it is always both an isolated and difficult field.

In Sitka, there are eight hundred natives, about one-half of whom affiliate with the Greek Church and the rest are under our care. The Rev. W. S. Bannerman has continued there, ministering to both the white and native congregations.

The well-equipped and commodious hospital is in charge of Miss Gibson, a competent trained nurse. Both hospital and Training School are under the direction of the Woman's Board. The Training School is under the superintendency of Professor Beattie and is a fountain of blessing to all of southeastern Alaska.

Advance has been made during the year. The Rev. D. O. Ghormley, D.D., synodical missionary for Washington, last spring made a tour of all the mission stations of southeastern Alaska. He suggests that there be a Bible school to train more native helpers to carry the gospel to their own people. Thus fewer American missionaries would be needed for Alaskan native work. It will require a few years to prepare Christian young men for this service, and the experiment in the Training School at Sitka now well inaugurated will be watched with great interest.

At Haines, twenty miles south of Skagway on the Lynn Canal, our mission has a school building, church and manse. The village has a population of about two hundred and fifty natives and a growing population of whites. It is also a military post. The Rev. Allen F. McLean continues in charge of the station. The combination of the native and white elements make it a field of unusual problem. No less than in mission fields in the states does the pastor need a practical knowledge of sociology. The "social hall" has afforded opportunity for many gatherings. The natives have been allowed to conduct their own socials, the work being in charge of a committee of their most capable young men. To lead the natives in their recreations is by no means the least of the pastor's work. Tactful sympathy is essential when the pastor must be the leading factor in the amusements of his congregation. Notwithstanding the difficulties Mr. McLean writes encouragingly.

Mr. McLean has appealed earnestly for hospital help for the natives, the Post physician offering to give necessary medical and surgical attention if a nurse can be provided. The Woman's Board, therefore, plans to send a nurse and to use for a hospital the building no longer needed for school purposes.

Twenty miles up the Chilcat River from Haines is the isolated station of Klukwan, which continues under the care of Mr. Fred R. Falconer, with an occasional helpful visit from Mr. McLean. The church and manse are combined in one building and furnish a pleasant home for our missionaries and a place of worship for the people.

Mr. Falconer says:

"We are in better condition for fruit-bearing than ever before. The seed sowing has been going on without a falter and we can see it taking root and springing up in the lives of the people. During the quarter we have had several Sunday evening song services, each song being interpreted and the main thought brought out in a few words from the missionary. These song services have been found helpful and will be continued through the winter. At the close of the first, when the invitation was given, eight stood up for prayer; the largest number at any one service during the quarter. We have one hundred and ninety natives in the village this winter and the attendance at the services, especially on Sunday, is good and encouraging."

The work in the YUKON PRESBYTERY, which covers interior and northern Alaska, has been marked by the usual number of fluctuations and alternations of hope and depression. The migratory character of the population makes it almost impossible to establish churches with any certainty that they will long remain.

The Rev. Howard M. Frank has taken up the work at Fairbanks laid down by the Rev. S. Hall Young, D.D., and not only at that station but in the creeks round about, as opportunity has offered, has been untiring in his devotion to the people. He and his self-sacrificing wife have had a strenuous winter, closing in the dramatic journey which they were obliged to take in order that his wife might secure medical attention in the states. On an open sled, with the thermometer ranging from thirty to forty-five degrees below zero, they journeyed over unbroken reaches of snow for hundreds of miles, reaching Valdez at last in an exhausted condition, having escaped many perils and undergone great hardships. Mrs. Frank has come home for rest and recuperation, and the young missionary has gone back alone to his station. He desires to be relieved at the earliest date possible, and the Board is looking for an energetic and capable man to succeed him in that typical Alaskan mining town.

When Mr. Frank was called to Fairbanks to take the place of Dr. Young, services at Cleary and on the creeks were discontinued for the time. It is much to be regretted that those little companies of Christian people are yet without a missionary.

Our work at Council has been continued under the care of the Rev. A. J. Whipkey, who has found access to the homes and hearts of many of the natives. Gradually the natives are being won from their pagan superstition and many of them have come out confessing the name of Christ. The attendance has varied from seventy-five to one hundred natives at the church every Sabbath, and many from regions round about Council have heard the message of the gospel there for the first time. Mr. Whipkey reports:

“About the middle of February some thirty natives, belonging to another tribe, came to Council. I asked them why they came and the answer was, ‘To hear more of the Christian doctrine.’ The majority had heard little or nothing of Christ, but on talking with them I found out that a long time ago a missionary or some religious teacher had visited this tribe of people. It may have been ten years ago and, as far as I can learn, he had been there but a short time. The seed was sown during the visit of the missionary and for all these years the Word of God had had a place in the hearts of these people.”

At Teller the Rev. S. Hall Young, D.D., after withdrawing from Fairbanks, has cared for the small company of whites and natives. During the coming summer he will be an itinerating missionary, visiting the various camps in interior Alaska, and mapping out the ground for such further missionary advance as we may be able to make.

The Rev. S. R. Spriggs still holds our northernmost station at Point Barrow. The conditions of life there have been often related. They remain the same. But Mr. and Mrs. Spriggs have endured and suffered and continued, and thereby many of the natives have been led into the Christian life. Mr. Spriggs writes:

“Our morning services are given over usually to the exposition of some gospel truth, and the evening services to learning simple Bible verses, translated. In this latter they are proving very adept and in a short time some of the younger ones will have learned a good round number of Bible verses. It is very interesting and gratifying to see what efforts they all make to learn them.”

Mr. Spriggs' report written on the twenty-seventh of October and postmarked at Barrow “Nov. 1, 1906,” reached New York in March. It tells of considerable sickness, especially among the little ones, which “makes one wish more and more for a physician”; of better moral conditions because of “the cleaning work of the revenue cutter Thetis last summer,” resulting in happier, more wholesome home-life; of the enthusiastic response to their ministry—people coming ten miles on Saturday evenings in the Arctic winter that they might surely be present at the Sabbath morning service. In closing he says:

“Excuse me for being economical with my paper but I have to be. Cause: San Francisco fire. Our lists were destroyed so they sent us a made-up list of something to eat, but included nothing else. We are thankful, however, for what we have.

“This letter is going as far as Kotzebue by deer team. I trust it reaches you safely. Remember us at the throne of grace for strength to do our daily duty.”

The whole of Alaska presents a problem of increasing interest as well as difficulty to the Church, for that great territory is increasing in wealth and gradually in population. It is bound to be one of our most important possessions, and the seed-sowing time must be emphasized now in order that when more settled conditions come the position of the Christian Church may somewhat equal the religious needs of the communities.

LITERATURE DEPARTMENT.

This department is enlarging in every phase of its service. The growth which during the past year has given most encouragement is the increase of interested workers who are appreciating and distributing our literature. Because of this the literature receipts have reached the good sum of $6,043.71, or $1,248.44 more than last year. The greater portion of this advance may be attributed to the growing number of study classes using the text book on immigration, “Aliens or Americans?” In many localities this study has not only increased but created interest for missions. One who had finished the course said:

“I never would have taken the time to read those books on immigration if I had not joined the class; but now, after having enjoyed them, I can say I would not have missed the opportunity.”

A large percentage of the growth of the department during the year has been occasioned by the demands from churches for literature on monthly topics. There are six hundred and forty-three churches which receive these monthly issues. Among them this year 632,300 copies of leaflets have been distributed—an average of 52,691 each month. By a faithful development of the “follow-up” system, it is hoped to secure such increased and systematic use of literature as shall win increased gifts.

To meet requests for helps to secure special offerings, 300,000 collection envelopes and 5,000 pledge cards have been sent to churches. For collecting funds in women’s societies and junior organizations, 360,722 envelopes and 14,900 mite boxes have been utilized. In young people’s societies 10,446 collection envelopes and 10,200 pledge cards and blanks have been distributed. Special programs on home mission topics have also been provided for the young people and largely used by them.

There has been unusual demand for special literature for the preparation of addresses, papers and programs. To meet these calls 1,742,237 copies of leaflets, books and pamphlets, aggregating 13,926,112 pages, have been printed. These figures represent 429,753 copies issued and distributed by the Woman's Board, and 22,409 copies jointly by both Boards.

A larger edition of the Prayer Calendar was printed for 1907 than for any previous year, and the advance in sales has warranted the increase. Our workers on the field testify to the special strength, guidance and blessing which can be traced directly to its use, and we wish to express sincere gratitude to all the faithful "remembrancers."

One stereopticon lecture—on immigration—has been added to this department, and has been used largely by churches with study classes in that subject. This lecture and its slides are pronounced "the best yet." The use of the stereopticon in presenting home mission fields is manifestly growing in favor.

Our literature department is the only base of supplies for printed information on the home mission work of our Church. Its present efficiency is due to the personal efforts of individuals who use and distribute its publications. We therefore bespeak further the earnest co-operation of pastors, sessions, and other workers to help in securing the best use of the best literature we can provide.

We have continued our part in the Assembly Herald. Our thanks are due the many contributors who have freely enriched the home mission pages with no other reward than the privilege of thus sharing in the promotion of the cause.

In addition to the presentation of the Board's work, at the request of the self-supporting synods each month our department has included a page on synodical home missions, supplied by each synod in turn.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEPARTMENT.

The development of the young people's work in our Church made it necessary to increase our force in that department, and Mr. Von Ogden Vogt, General Secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, was elected as Young People's Secretary to serve conjointly with Miss M. Josephine Petrie, who for more than seven years had been sole Secretary. Together they will strive to bring the young people of the Presbyterian Church into an organized line for the evangelization of our country.

On request of the Council of the Brotherhood of our Church, Mr. Vogt is giving part of his time this year to aid the Brotherhood in its work of organization.

The report of the Young People's Department has had the approval of our Board and is herewith presented:

Several plans have been used to interest the young of the Church in home missions.

GENERAL INFORMATION

1. Field Letters. Each of these is a printed circular containing letters from two or three missionaries, descriptive of progress on the field. Six of these letters were issued three times last year, from the Alaskan, Indian, New Mexican, Mormon Mountain, and Porto Rican fields. The edition of each letter ran from twelve to fifteen hundred copies. Beside these larger editions, shorter notes were issued at the same time from thirty different mission stations. The number of copies of these varied from one to two hundred. Letters from a field are sent regularly to every organization of young people making any contribution to the work of that field. They have been useful in many meetings.

2. Endeavor Topic Programs. Six Christian Endeavor topics last year were upon home missions. The department issued programs for each of these as follows: "Trustees of God's Bounty," "Home Missions Among Foreigners," "John Eliot and Missions among the Indians," "Home Missions Among Our Island Possessions," "Marcus Whitman and Missions on the Frontier," "Presbyterian Missions Among Freedmen" (prepared by the Freedmen's Board). These programs have been sent for the asking.

3. Sunday School Programs. For use on the Sabbath preceding Thanksgiving a program, "A Thanksgiving Service for Sabbath Schools," was issued. It displayed the situation among the Indians. For the Sabbath nearest Washington's Birthday the program, "For God and Country," dealt with Cuba. The first of these brought offerings to the Woman's Board, the second to the general work of the Board of Home Missions. The programs were not as generally used as those of the previous year.

4. Journals. The department has utilized a page each month in the "Assembly Herald" and the "Home Mission Monthly" for miscellaneous information and suggestion. Boys and girls have been reached in a similar manner by various material in "Over Sea and Land." Our Presbyterian weeklies and the "Christian Endeavor World" have kindly given space for announcements.

5. Circulars. A large amount of the regular leaflet literature of the Boards has been distributed to the young people by this department in answer to inquiries and otherwise. Two new leaflets for the purpose of interesting individuals in the missionary plans for young people have been widely distributed. All the pastors of the Church have been notified of the recent enlargement of the department.

MISSION STUDY

A class for study is perhaps the most effective mode of missionary education. Material has been furnished as follows: study class books and two pamphlet suggestions for leaders, in co-operation with other denominations; two announcements of immigration courses; enrolment cards; six studies on "Aliens or Americans?"; leaflets and the Board's Report on the subject of immigration. The interesting and timely subjects of the home mission books of the year have contributed largely to the taking up of home mission study. Plans are already laid to urge the continuance of study on the immigration question for next year also. This includes "Coming Americans" for juniors. The new book announced for next season is "The Challenge of the City."

Especially noteworthy is the development of mission study in Sunday schools. The most conspicuous instance was the course of eight weeks by the whole Sunday school of Brown Memorial Church, Baltimore. Each regular class simply became a mission study class for the two months. Preparations have been made to foster this tendency for the coming year. For such as think best to use supplemental lessons only, announcement has already been made of studies prepared by the Rev. George H. Trull.

LOCAL ORGANIZATION

1. Very few young people are reached for missions except through some organization of the local church.

2. The condition, therefore, of organizations for the young is of vital concern to us. Christian Endeavor societies are responsible for widespread missionary enterprises. Various other societies are deeply interested in missions. Intermediate societies have increased in number and the special salary assigned them has aroused their enthusiasm. Junior societies have responded most heartily to every suggestion for the work of their hands in behalf of the San Juan hospital. Mission bands under the care of women's societies have flourished.

But all these successes take no account of the many hundreds of young people of our Church who are not reached by any of these societies. For many smaller churches the need of more careful nurture is evident. In most large churches the general work for the young is not logical. Young people of the same church are organized in different societies often unhappily competitive, with no plan of progression and no comprehensive plan of training in all that churchmanship involves.

3. It has not been the work of this department to undertake the large task of unifying this unsystematic condition. Nor has the department taken any steps to start special missionary organizations, although organization would seem to be a prime practical method of developing interest. To add more organizations would merely increase present complications. The department believes that the young of the Church should be organized with a view to providing for all the elements of a rounded system of Christian nurture. One of these elements is undoubtedly instruction in the missionary affairs of the Church and it will be included whenever such a rounded plan is undertaken.

4. The best work for missions by the young of the Church, therefore, will never be accomplished until the Church does better work for the young themselves.

GENERAL ORGANIZATION

1. For more than ten years, one secretary has had entire charge of this department. This report chronicles the addition of another officer. The enlargement has been necessitated by the remarkable growth of the work, especially the development of study classes and the opportunities at conferences and institutes.

2. Presbyterial and other intermediary organizations have not been changed. The reason is the same as suggested in connection with the local church situation. It has been thought unwise to elaborate such machinery in view of the present urgency for some comprehensive plan of supervising all work among the young.

3. Synodical and Presbyterial Secretaries of the women's societies have been invaluable as heretofore. They have undertaken the heavy task of keeping correct the lists of local society correspondents. They have kept their societies informed as to the special objects of their synods. They have cheerfully passed on the suggestions of this department. This secretarial office is so important that it merits the interest of especially gifted personalities and the co-operation of all pastors and societies of young people.

4. Other Leaders. Files of leaders are kept, such as names of delegates to summer missionary conferences and the winter institutes held in cities, mission study inquirers, boys interested in the Indian work, et cetera. The office keeps in touch with those thus listed.

5. Meetings. The secretaries have, of course, used all possible opportunities for reaching young people through general conferences, rallies, and individual church meetings. Plans are well under way for a summer institute of eight days to be held at Grove City, Pennsylvania, for the young Presbyterians of western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia. This school will be for both home and foreign missions. A few presbyteries have had notably successful gatherings of the young. Christian Endeavor Unions and the Young People's Missionary Movement conferences have inspired much missionary interest.

GIVING

1. Special Objects are always popular. Nearly five hundred scholarships or shares are assumed by the young people. They are also responsible for thirty salaries of missionary pastors and teachers. In the Alaskan field they supply three full salaries and maintain the general work of the Sitka school. For the Indians, six salaries and the expenses of the schools at Good Will, South Dakota, and at Tucson, Arizona. In the southern mountains, six salaries and the general work of the Farm School, and two hundred and fifty dollars for an addition to one of the Tennessee mission schools. In the New Mexican field, five salaries and the general work of the Menaul School at Albuquerque. Among the Mormons, four salaries and assistance to the New Jersey Academy, Logan, Utah. In Porto Rico, six salaries, many shares in the San Juan hospital and the maintenance of the Endeavor Building by the Juniors. In Cuba, three salaries, one of which is furnished by the Intermediate societies.

Much interest has been awakened during the last two months among the boys of the Church in a proposal to send their gifts for the Indians of New Mexico Synod.

Money from young people of the Church is applied as they desire. The total contributions from the young people are equally divided between the Board of Home Missions and the Woman's Board, the division being made from undesignated funds. Again this year it has been found that many young people's societies have been giving to objects not under the charge of the Board. Such gifts are, of course, not credited in our reports to General Assembly.

Secretaries.

WOMAN'S BOARD.

To the thorough organization of the women is due a large part of the intelligent interest felt throughout our Church in behalf of home missions. Nor have our women stimulated interest alone. Their mission schools and hospitals have laid foundations without which on many fields our missionary pastors would have found their work hampered, if not impossible.

The Annual Report of the Woman's Board has been received and approved, and is herewith presented:

With grateful acknowledgment of God's guidance in the affairs of the Woman's Board of Home Missions, and with renewed confidence in Him, we hereby submit the twenty-eighth Annual Report:

To Christianize America is to furnish a base of supplies in Christianizing the whole world. Various agencies are at work to this end, but to the women of the Presbyterian Church has been given a definite part, and a part for which by nature women are particularly fitted. To safeguard children, to educate them, to train them in righteousness, to lead them in safe paths is instinctive in women, and especially in Christian women, and when General Assembly recommended that the women of the Church be organized for the support of mission schools among the exceptional peoples, the recommendation struck a responsive chord throughout the Church. How else can we account for the loyal support accorded the Woman's Board by Synodical, Presbyterial and auxiliary societies? The steady advance in receipts from year to year to meet the need of growing work, the eager interest in the work on the field which has resulted in the women of the Church becoming intelligently informed about home missions. The results of these years of service amply justify the work.

Missionaries among the exceptional peoples assert that they are powerless in laying the foundations for effective church work without the help of the mission school. To educate the children is to furnish a base of supplies for the Church.

One missionary writes: "The most intelligent, most zealous, most progressive Christian followers in Colorado and New Mexico are those who have been converted in our mission schools."

A missionary from another field pleading for a new school says: "We need a school to buttress the work of the Church, and to build up the Church, in addition to supplying the intellectual needs of many who are without school privileges."

But the influence of the mission school does not stop with the children, for the work there is an open sesame to the hearts and homes of the parents; while the study of the Bible, the singing of Christian hymns, the unconscious influence of contact with Christian teachers is carried back to the homes by the children themselves, so that "A little child shall lead them" is being verified in every mission school.

The mission school becomes, then, not only an educating influence in every community but a strong evangelizing agency, the mission teachers a vital factor in Sunday school and church work. Nor does the mission field alone receive all the benefits, for the presence of an active woman's missionary society in a church means that the women of the church are spiritually alive, and vitally interested in everything pertaining to the welfare of the home church.

A REVIEW

Mrs. Darwin R. James, the President of the Woman's Board of Home Missions, has spent the year in travel around the world; and although the work has been cared for by the five vice-presidents residing in New York City and vicinity, who have presided in turn at the meetings, we have greatly missed her strong leadership and broadminded personality.

The Advisory Committee has been strengthened by the addition of several representative women, and it has faithfully attended to the duties of administration.

Only one change has been made in the chairmanship of committees; Mrs. Lindemau having resigned as chairman of the Indian Committee, Mrs. J. E. McAfee was appointed in her stead.

The appointment of Miss Edith Hughes as field secretary of the Southwest was made at the last annual meeting. Her territory includes Colorado, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Texas, Tennessee and Kentucky.

All our field secretaries, Mrs. Flora D. Palmer, Miss Julia Fraser, and Miss Hughes, have been in the field constantly, educating, stimulating, and instructing societies. This work is not easy. Constant travel and exposure to all sorts of weather have been endured without murmur, for these women have counted it a joy to serve.

The Rev. D. E. Finks has continued throughout the year to educate the churches through his beautiful stereopticon views.

Mrs. M. B. Lee of Minnesota, Mrs. D. F. Diefenderfer of Pennsylvania, Mrs. F. F. McCrea of Indiana, Mr. H. P. Freece of Utah, Miss Mary M. Russell of New Mexico, Miss Lydia A. Hays of Alaska, and Miss Sarah B. Sutherland of New Mexico, have all given valuable service in presenting the work before societies.

ORGANIZATION

Our organization will be strengthened by the re-union of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church with ours, and we extend to these missionary women now in the Cumberland Woman's Board, and their workers, a hearty welcome, and invite them to share with us in the work for the evangelization of America.

At a conference with their representatives, January 15 and 16, 1907, the following plan of union was agreed upon:

1. That the Woman's Board of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church continue to solicit and receive funds, as at present, until July 1, 1907.

2. That the Cumberland Presbyterian Church transfer to the Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., for the Woman's Board of Home Missions, the work at Barnard, N. C., with the understanding that the schools will be continued upon practically the same lines as heretofore.

3. That the work among the Choctaw Indians, as now conducted by the Woman's Board of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, be commended to the Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A.

4. That as all auxiliary women's missionary societies in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church are home and foreign missionary societies, it is recommended that after July 1, 1907, donors in these societies designate the proportion of their gifts for home and foreign mission work, and that in the event the donors do not so designate, the auxiliary societies shall by vote determine the amount. [All gifts for home missions to be sent, through the Presbyterial Treasurer, to Miss S. F. Lincoln, Treasurer of the Woman's Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City.]

5. That in presbyteries and synods where the work of the Cumberland Presbyterian and the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. is organized into presbyterial and synodical societies, the next meeting of the presbyterials and synodicals shall be joint meetings for the purpose of reorganization, the time and place to be agreed upon by conference of the officers of the two, unless there are separate organizations for home and foreign work, and that a secretary and treasurer for each be elected. In presbyteries and synods where there is the organization of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church only, no changes need be recommended, except that the policy of the secretaries and treasurers of home and foreign work be adopted.

INTERDENOMINATIONAL

The Interdenominational Day of Prayer, the fourth Thursday in February, serves to bind together the women of the home missionary societies in the various churches, and to unite them in prayer for the evangelization of America. The day was generally observed.

Two interdenominational home mission conferences will be held this summer, one at Winona Lake, Indiana, June 24-July 1; the other at Silver Bay, N. Y., July 12-18. These conferences are especially for leaders, and mark an advance step in home mission work. Model study classes will be conducted, and a home mission institute held each day.

THE FIELD

The work of the Woman's Board of Home Missions on the field is full of encouragement. The year has been marked by special attention to Bible study, and by the presence of a deeply evangelistic spirit, particularly in the boarding schools.

A copy of a new book, "One Hundred Fifty-six Lessons in the Life of Christ," prepared by a member of the Woman's Board, has been placed in every school, and the teachers testify to its helpfulness. Six hundred and seventy-nine pupils have confessed Christ this year.

The work in Alaska has continued with few changes. The addition of an advanced course in Bible study to the curriculum in the Industrial and Training School at Sitka, with a view to training our pupils to become interpreters and evangelists, is to be noted.

The missionary at Haines writes: "I have just completed a census of the native people, and find there are three hundred in the village. Our people are dying at the alarming rate of over two a month. Many of them could have been saved had the proper care been given in time. Today I shall officiate at the funeral of a young woman who, some months ago, gave birth to a child in a cold, damp room, and from that time has gone steadily down. Dr. Reynolds, the Post physician, says that had she had the proper care at that time she would still be alive and well. If the present death rate keeps up they will all be dead in twelve years. During the month of December at least three babies died at birth which would have been saved had the mothers been properly cared for. Is there not some one in our great Presbyterian Church who will come to our assistance for this needy and stricken people?"

The Woman's Board could not turn a deaf ear to this urgent plea, so a nurse will be stationed at Haines and a few beds maintained where the natives can be cared for, as we already have the building and part of the equipment necessary, and believe that the funds required will be supplied.

In the Indian field. The first convert among the Mona Indians in California shows that the boarding school at North Fork, even though small, is beginning to bear fruit.

A title has been obtained for the four city blocks on which our school for the Pimas and Papagoes was located at Tucson, Arizona, and which has been divided into building lots and sold. The ranch has already been sold, and a new site purchased, three and one-half miles from town. New buildings will be erected soon, and provision made for one hundred fifty Pima and Papago boys and girls.

The most notable event to chronicle in the Mexican field is the completion of the plans for the "Mary E. James' School for Mexican Boys." Built of concrete, with red tiled roof, located on high ground, near the Allison School, this building will be a fitting testimonial to the honored President of the Woman's Board.

A new school was opened at Tierra Amarilla, in Rio Arriba County, N. M., with one teacher. It has become well established.

The school at Las Cruces, N. M., was closed because the public school was providing educational facilities, and the workers were more needed elsewhere.

In November, 1906, fire destroyed the laundry at the Menaul School, Albuquerque. The building was insured, and the gift of two thousand dollars from the estate of Miss Priscilla McSparrin, through the Trustees of the Minonk Presbyterian Church, made it possible to erect the "McSparrin Memorial Industrial Building," which will meet the needs of the institution far better than the old building.

In the Mormon field there has been progress. The attendance has been larger than last year. The new school at Ferron, Utah, with two teachers, has found favor with the people, and they are pleading earnestly for a building.

The contract has been let for the new girl's dormitory for the New Jersey Academy at Logan, Utah, and, although the price of building materials has advanced, it is hoped the women of New Jersey will furnish the necessary funds to complete and equip it.

A new feature was introduced at Gunnison, Utah, by the opening of a kindergarten in connection with the school, with the result that the school has been very popular.

In the Mountain field we report, with regret, the resignation of the Rev. Thomas Lawrence, D.D., the president of the Normal and Collegiate Institute. The Woman's Board has recorded upon its minutes the following resolution:—

“Resolved, That in accepting the resignation of Dr. Thomas Lawrence, Superintendent of the Asheville Normal and Collegiate Institute, the Woman’s Board of Home Missions desires to express high appreciation of the success which has attended his connection with that institution in the training of large numbers of young women who have gone out from the school to extend still further the influences for good which they there received. As an educator, as a Christian minister, and as an indefatigable and ardent leader, Dr. Lawrence has made a lasting impression upon the great mountain section in the midst of which he labored. The Board also records appreciation of Mrs. Lawrence’s connection with the school and the distinct aid rendered by her, and assures both Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence of the deep regret felt in severing a relation that has been so satisfactory and productive of good.”

Professor Edward P. Childs, of Newark, Ohio, has been chosen as Dr. Lawrence’s successor, and will assume the work July first. Prof. Childs is a Christian educator and enters upon his duties in the vigor of life—after years of experience in teaching. We anticipate the continued prosperity of the school already so influential.

We are glad to report enlargement at Lawson, West Virginia. A year ago the Priscilla Home was burned. With the insurance, and by gifts of the women in West Virginia, as well as elsewhere, a new Priscilla Home is being built, which will accommodate twenty-five girls. In addition the Pattie C. Stockdale chapel school house has been erected, named in memory of the mother of the donor. The new school and Home will be opened about September.

Among Foreign-speaking people there has been advance. The study of “Aliens or Americans” has directed attention to and aroused interest in foreign-speaking people, with the result that many societies are desirous of helping.

A missionary among the Italians in Detroit, Mich., is new work undertaken by that presbyterial society; a missionary among the Magyars in New York City, supported by New York Presbyterial, is rendering valuable service to the Magyar Church.

In Cuba and Porto Rico the mission work continues to pave the way for and supplement the work of the church. Many changes have taken place in the force and, while no new stations have been opened, the work has been greatly strengthened. Miss Ordway, superintendent of the hospital at San Juan, and Dr. Hildreth, the physician, with their corps of nurses, are real missionaries and the hospital ministers to soul as well as body. We have had no school at San Juan, because no suitable building could be secured. Through the gift of a friend, a building for school and church has been purchased, desirably located, and the school will be re-opened in September.

At Mayagüez the Colegio Americano greatly needs a building for school and teachers' home. The land has been purchased, some money is in hand, but not nearly enough. As the rules of the Board prevent the erection of any building until all the money is in the treasury, we must wait until it is all secured—even though the need is imperative.

We were not able to secure teachers for San Nicolas, Cuba, but Mr. Stevenson, the pastor, has carried on the school. He says: "The school has been the foundation of the little congregation we have here. It has been the training school of the young people for the Christian Endeavor Society. The daily Bible study I have given them in the school has enabled them to carry on a Sabbath school of about thirty on the Sabbath days, although I am never able to be there in person."

In addition to the regular work there are supported in whole or in part among the Freedmen, by means of funds contributed by women's societies but administered through the Board for Freedmen, seventy-five teachers in sixteen boarding schools; fifteen teachers in five academies, and forty teachers in thirty-five parochial schools.

THE MAGAZINES

Last year was a record year with the Home Mission Monthly. It was hardly to be expected that their large increase of twenty-six hundred could be maintained, for there are always some who fall off each year; but not only has that record been maintained but there has been an advance of over fourteen hundred this year, so that again the magazine has not only paid all its expenses but has contributed twenty-five hundred dollars towards the General Fund of the Woman's Board. This approbation, so freely shown, is well deserved, for the Home Mission Monthly is a constant means of personal touch with the field; a treasury of new material, freshly gathered, not to be found elsewhere; and the one who reads it thoroughly can not fail to be intelligent on home missions.

Over Sea and Land, despite the fact that the subscription list of a children's magazine is constantly changing, has maintained the standard of last year, and its subscription list is nine hundred and twenty-four ahead.

LITERATURE

Believing firmly that information is at the foundation of intelligent giving, the Woman's Board has strengthened its literature by issuing thirty-five new pamphlets and leaflets, and forty-five reprints during the fiscal year. Collection envelopes for summer offerings, Sabbath school offerings, monthly offerings, and thank offerings, and mite boxes have been sent out to the number of nearly half a million.

Special programs for praise meetings, the Interdominational Day of Prayer, and the Sabbath school program for the Sunday before Thanksgiving have been sent out for use of societies and Sabbath schools.

The Prayer Calendar is increasing in popularity and usefulness, and binds together in prayer the workers at home and on the field. The sales have been in advance of last year.

The advance in receipts for Woman's Board in the Literature Department has been $778.95.

Mission study classes on "Aliens or Americans?" have increased the demand for helps, and the same topic will be recommended for the coming year.

The Woman's Board has called to the assistance of the Publication Committee Miss Katherine R. Crowell, so favorably known to missionary workers as the author of "Alaska for Juniors," "Coming Americans" and other books for Juniors. We welcome this new worker, because we know her coming will broaden and strengthen the literature of the Woman's Board, and so furnish helps to meet all demands.

BOXES

There are two kinds of boxes prepared by women's missionary societies—namely, those sent to home missionaries and which are in addition to the salaries of these pioneer workers, and those sent to mission schools. There were four hundred and thirteen boxes sent to missionaries; and to mission schools three hundred and twenty-six boxes of clothing and books, nineteen wonder bags, two thousand yards rag carpet, one hundred and thirty-six rugs, and one hundred and fifty-two Christmas boxes. Thirty societies sent money for Christmas treats for schools.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEPARTMENT

Since 1896 there has been but one Secretary of the Young People's Department, and the addition of a second secretary chronicles enlargement owing to the growth of the work, the development along the line of mission study, etc. Mr. Von Ogden Vogt and Miss M. Josephine Petrie are now the joint secretaries of this department, and the receipts from Christian Endeavor societies, senior, intermediate and junior, and from Sunday schools are now divided equally between the Board of Home Missions and the Woman's Board.

It is the policy of the department to work with pastors and so to present home mission information to the young people that they will be a vital force in all present and future missionary enterprises of the Church.

As a means to this end, young people's secretaries have been elected in synodical and presbyterial societies whose duty it is to pass along to local young people's organizations of whatever name and to Sunday schools, their specific work for home missions.

Mission study classes have been recommended and special helps have been sent out with good results.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS

The special object for the Woman's Board on the Sabbath preceding Thanksgiving was the Indians, a popular topic, and the contributions were generous.

Mission Bands continue their support of the work at Sitka, Alaska, but many more bands should be organized and maintained. To train the children of the Church to the systematic study and support of home missions is a task worthy of the best effort and deserves the encouragement of missionary societies.

SUMMARY

A comparative analysis of the total receipts of last year and this shows that the receipts for current work are $3,352.65 less than last year; that the women's societies have maintained the standard of last year and advanced $14,682.17; that there is a shortage on legacies (always a variable quality) of $10,000; that the receipts from churches show a decrease of $679.75. This year for the first time the gifts from Sunday schools to the Woman's Board and the Assembly's Board have been divided equally, so that we have transferred to the Board $3,374.92 from the Sunday schools and the amount transferred from the Christian Endeavors' and Young People's Societies was $10,774.20, making a total of $14,149.12.

From a comparison of the expenses of the year we find these increased because of the advance in the price of food stuffs and fuel, because of the necessity for long deferred repairs in the many buildings owned by the Woman's Board, and because of the increased cost in printing.

With increased expenses we must plan for increased receipts another year. We must not cease our efforts until in every church there is a woman's missionary society, and every woman in the church is having a part in it; we must strengthen the weak places. More attention must be given to training the young people of our churches to systematic giving for the work of their own denomination, and to securing contributions from Sabbath schools for the evangelization of America.

What of the new year? We must advance in order to provide for the answer to our own prayers. We must endeavor to make it possible for the women in every church to have the privilege of giving for missions; then, with an organization in every church, we must not rest content until every woman in the church has a share in it. Let us attain our advance by securing the co-operation of more women.

Then, let us strengthen the weak places. More attention must be given to training the young people of our churches to systematic giving for the Boards of their own Church, and to securing contributions from Sabbath schools for the evangelization of America.

Missionary women are grateful that they have a share in this great work, and the message to each and all is,— “Bring thy best, for He is kingly,

 Bring thy offering full and free;
 Thou canst never match His bounty,
 For He gave His life for thee.
 Oh, to give with glad thanksgiving,
 Freely, freely, we receive,
 Counting this our crowning blessing—
 That He gives us power to give.”
 Respectfully submitted,

ELLA ALEXANDER BOOLE,

Secretary.

CONCLUSION.

The Board of Home Missions approaches the new year with an unusual sense of responsibility,—not only because its ordinary work increases in extent and urgency by the phenomenal development of our country; by the rush of new populations to the newer sections of our land; and by the greater urgency of special problems, as those of labor and immigration; but also because it is now compelled to undertake two new departments, each of which alone would tax its resources.

By order of the General Assembly there has been turned over to this Board the evangelistic work in the missionary synods, and in the self-supporting synods so far as desired by them and within its means. It is proposing to conduct this evangelistic work as outlined in the earlier part of this Report,—a plan entailing upon our resources a drain which will undoubtedly be large, though it cannot now be estimated.

Then, too, we have the glorious opportunity of the South and Southwest open to us by the reunion of our Church and the Cumberland Church. This vast field will call for more missionaries, probably, than we shall be able to supply. We will be limited alike in our resources and in men adapted to the work.

But, trusting to the cooperation of our Church and sure that it is unwilling to fail in either of these directions, we are making appropriations in excess of those of last year to the amount of fully one hundred thousand dollars. To overtake this large sum there must be a gain of at least twenty per cent. in receipts from all sources. For this we now appeal to the Church at large. We trust that pastors and sessions at an early meeting will face this situation and will devise plans to discharge these obligations.

An additional one hundred thousand dollars can easily be raised for home missions, provided early and systematic efforts are put forth by those who in synods, presbyteries and churches, are responsible for the supply of the means necessary to carry on the work of the Church. We therefore ask the General Assembly to ask the Church for eleven hundred thousand dollars this year, as the least sum on which the work of this Board in all its departments can be carried successfully through the year.

The death of the Rev. Thomas A. Nelson, D.D., elsewhere noted in this Report, made a vacancy in the Board, to fill which the Board has elected the Rev. Allan Douglas Carlile, D.D.

The terms of service of the following members of the Board expire with this Assembly:

SYNODICAL SELF-SUPPORT AND SUSTENTATION

SYNOD OF BALTIMORE

The home mission work in the Synod of Baltimore has been carried on during the past year quietly with a good measure of success. We are called to mourn the loss of two very valuable men on the Committee by death. Mr. William Ballantyne of Washington, and Mr. John P. Ammidon of Baltimore, have both passed to their reward. Dr. Bittinger of Washington and Dr. Robbins of Baltimore have resigned after many years of most faithful and useful service. Dr. G. Garland Hanner and Dr. DeWitt M. Benham have been appointed as their successors, so that there is practically a new Committee.

Fifty-five churches grouped in forty-three fields, and two unorganized fields, have been aided by the Sustentation fund. Two churches have attained self-support and are to be congratulated. Two new churches have been organized in the Presbytery of Baltimore. Southminster in Cumberland, Maryland, and Arlington in a suburb of Baltimore. Both these churches give great promise of usefulness. Olivet Church, Wilmington, has been refurnished and greatly improved and the congregation greatly encouraged.

Two hundred and twenty-four members have been added to the aided churches on profession of faith and one hundred and thirty by certificate. Forty adults and one hundred and seventy infants were baptized. These churches contributed three thousand four hundred and twenty-seven dollars to benevolence. Nine thousand six hundred and fifteen dollars was expended in aid of the churches.

There is a very large foreign element in the bounds of the Synod of Baltimore. Home mission work is carried on successfully among the Bohemians of Baltimore and the Italians of Wilmington, but it will require much larger means than we now have to meet the necessities and opportunities of this large population.

These strangers are quite ready and willing to listen to Protestant preaching, and purchase and read the Bible in their own languages. A great field is opened here to the Presbyterian Church and we should not hesitate to enter in and reap the harvest.

No money or effort is better invested than that which teaches and illustrates the gospel of Christ to the strangers which come to our shores.

Grateful to God for the many blessings of the past, we look to the future with hope and confidence.

W. H. LOGAN, ·

Chairman of Sustentation Committee.

SYNOD OF ILLINOIS

There was no increase over the 101 missionaries who labored the previous year in the bounds of the synod, but by more thorough grouping, and the enlisting of volunteer effort, the number of churches supplied under the direction of the home mission committees of the different presbyteries was increased from 114 to 143. The total number of communicants in these churches was 10,142, an increase of 472. The additions by profession of faith were 1,300, and by certificate 616. Eight churches reached self-support. One hundred and forty-three Sabbath schools were reported with a membership of 14,370. One hundred and thirty-seven church buildings have an estimated value of $534,500. Debts were paid in 11 churches to the amount of $9,444. Four new churches were organized. One hundred and twenty-seven assisted churches contributed $6,686 to the Boards of the Church other than Home Missions, and 49 of these churches contributed to all the Boards.

The amount of contributions reported by treasurers as coming from Illinois $60,332, of which $36,516 passed through the presbyterial and synodical treasuries; $21,432 was sent to the Woman's Board, and $2,383 was sent directly to the Home Board from churches or individuals. The amount expended for the support of home missions in the synod was $33,525. The aggregate for home missions reported in the Minutes of the General Assembly was $101,019.

The synodical superintendent, Rev. E. L. Williams, D.D., has directed 32 series of evangelistic campaigns, in addition to his regular work, and the presbyterial pastor-at-large of the Cairo Presbytery has conducted about 18 more. In the month of February, 1906, 112 days of evangelistic work were done by three evangelists and the superintendent. This resulted in 126 additions to our Church in five different places. In this work he has had the co-operation and financial assistance of the Evangelistic Committee of the General Assembly.

In co-operation with the Board of Publication and Sabbath School Work, a Lithuanian colporteur was employed during the summer to work among the foreign-speaking population.

He visited twenty towns in the central part of the state, and sold or distributed a number of Bibles and other literature in the native tongues. The coal mining industry is bringing a large foreign population into the state.

The consolidation of the former Cumberland Presbyterian Church with ours will largely increase our responsibilities, but will also help us solve the problem of the country churches, as most of their churches are rural. Of the 196 churches of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, nearly all are south of the center of the state. The Illinois Church Extension Society of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church will continue to carry on the work of home missions among their churches till October, 1907, when it will be consolidated with our Committee.

Involving as it does the special problems of city missions, the work of the Presbytery of Chicago has been prosecuted along special lines under the continued supervision of the presbyterial superintendent, Rev. George P. Williams, D.D. Thirty-seven missionaries and other workers have been employed in churches and missions having 3,596 members, of whom 431 were added by profession of faith, and 309 by certificate. There are 36 Sabbath schools, with a membership of 5,855. The Woman's Board sustains five schools with 245 scholars amongst the foreign-speaking population of Chicago. Since this report was prepared Rev. G. P. Williams has resigned his position of superintendent of missions in Chicago to take the position of Western Secretary of the American S. S. Union. His long and efficient service in our home mission work is highly appreciated and his resignation deeply regretted.

THOS. D. LOGAN,

Chairman of the Committee on Home Missions.

SYNOD OF IOWA

The question of self-support has passed the experimental stage and has taken on the steady march of assured success. It required two-thirds of a century to reach such independence. Rev. Launcelot G. Bell began preaching in Iowa in 1836, and he planted a string of churches across the southern boundary. He was a fellow-traveler with Samuel J. Mills, going down the Mississippi with General Jackson in the war of 1812, which finally opened the Mississippi to its mouth for Americans.

The rural church is the great factor in the Hawkeye state, and it is difficult to keep these pulpits manned, owing to the small salaries, feeble churches and removing members. But out of these churches come missionaries and city church pillars in great abundance. We do the plowing and sowing, for other states and nations to reap much of the fruitage. To have ten churches reach self-support delights us.

Our city work prospers. One church, less than two years old, was very liberally aided for one year; now it is self-sustaining, and is dedicating an edifice worth $25,000, substantially paid. Another, with less expensive property, has a similar record. A third is going more slowly, but bids fair to make a prompt return on the investments.

Our foreign work is among the Bohemians and Germans. We are putting a Bohemian missionary at large in the field, hoping to do a more aggressive work for this nation, and are educating some Bohemians and Hungarians at Dubuque. The seminary and college there has just opened a splendid new building, erected at a cost of $100,000, and a devoted band of German ministers rally around it as their alma mater.

We have arranged for an assistant to the pastor at the State University, by appointing a graduate of one of our church colleges to a scholarship in the university, where he pursues graduate work, and aids in caring for three hundred of our sons and daughters who are studying in that institution.

Our annual expenses are about $16,500, and the income is about the same. We ask forty dollars for each hundred communicants, and they pay about thirty-seven dollars; though some pay fifty, or more. There are over a hundred missionaries whom we help to support, and two hundred fifty churches look to us for assistance.

A revival is evident in 644 additions by confession of faith to 277 by letter. New churches were built to the value of $50,000 by our mission congregations. Iowa wants a score of preachers who will push the upbuilding of the country church and grow up with it.

J. B. DONALDSON,

President of the Board of Iowa Presbyterian Home Missions.

SYNOD OF MICHIGAN

Self-support in Michigan has passed its fifth year and in every way justified the faith in it manifested by the whole synod when viewed as a possibility at the beginning of that period. Excepting our inability to secure men for the vacant fields the outlook is of the most encouraging character. We raised more money and made more and larger grants than ever before. The well-to-do citizens are expressing their appreciation of the work being done by larger individual gifts and an occasional bequest. A work worthy of attention is that of the student workers who are employed during the summer months, those thus employed gave a good account of themselves and either opened new fields or built up old ones in such a way as to make the calling of a pastor possible. The mission among Italians of Detroit is one of our most promising efforts, and as a result of the labors of the Rev. Pasquale De Carlo a church will be organized and a building secured. The Synod's Committee, in connection with the Board of Publication and Sabbath School Work, is planning for the union of the two departments in Michigan under a single administration. This will increase the efficiency of both causes at a decreased expense.

WILLIAM T. JAQUESS,
Chairman of Committee on Home Missions.

SYNOD OF NEW JERSEY

At its session in October, 1906, this synod celebrated the completion of twenty years of Synodical Home Mission work. The success of this work has been noteworthy. From the time New Jersey relieved the Board of Home Missions of the care of her churches, she has from her own funds completely met all home missionary appropriations within her borders. She has never closed a year with debt. During these twenty years she has doubled both the amount raised and expended for missions within the state, and a number of missionaries. She has not only continued what had been previously given to the Board of Home Missions, but has increased the annual amount more than fifty per cent.

This synodical work has been called for by the rapid growth of this comparatively small and old commonwealth. New Jersey has almost exactly doubled its population in twenty-five years, and the rate of increase has been accelerating. Sea-shore resorts, suburban towns, manufacturing cities, have sprung into being and have grown with a rapidity for which it is hard to find parallels even in the young and spacious West.

The increase in the number of churches has not kept pace with the relative increase of population. This was not to be expected. It is not even desirable. The needless multiplication of small churches would have hindered rather than have helped. But many new churches were called for; and, comparing the figures of the Assembly Minutes, there was an advance from two hundred and eighty-two churches in 1886 to three hundred and thirty-five churches and nine missions separately reported, or three hundred and forty-four in all, in 1906. This shows a net gain of sixty-two; and, allowing for eleven churches stricken from the roll, a total of seventy-three new churches and missions in twenty years. All this was the work of New Jersey Presbyterians within their own state; and was done, not entirely but largely, through synodical home mission agencies.

Recent immigration has brought New Jersey face to face with a problem, which while not unrecognized twenty years ago, is in its extent and character essentially new. It is the problem of the evangelization of the non-English-speaking immigrant. The Bureau of Immigration reports the destination of immigrants by states and territories. In the list of fifty-four of these separately specified, New Jersey stands fifth in the actual number of immigrants (nearly sixty thousand in 1906). This is more than were destined to all the eleven Pacific Coast and Rocky Mountain states together, or than to the whole of the eighteen southern and southwestern states from Maryland to Texas inclusive. In proportion to population only New York, which contains the great gateway and distributing center, received an appreciably greater percentage than New Jersey.

Through the German Seminary at Bloomfield and the establishment of German churches, a beginning of work in a foreign tongue had been made before. But the great present influx has called not only for a developing and widening of the work of that seminary; but for a great increase in the diversity of tongues employed and in the amount of mission work to be done for the people of foreign speech. To this call the churches all over the state are awakening and responding. There are missions in other tongues than English in every presbytery; and this has become the major part of the mission work in Newark Presbytery. Beside the German work, of which nearly two-thirds is now self-supporting, missions were carried on for the Italians last year in at least ten places, for the Hungarians in six, for Syrians in two, and at one point each for Armenians and Ruthenians. Calls are constantly coming to start at other places.

As an efficient way of raising money and an economical way of spending it, as means of conserving old churches and planting new ones through men thoroughly informed and interested in the local conditions, as a flexible instrument for grappling with new emergencies and co-ordinating general interest and local action, New Jersey's plan of Synodical Home Missions has proved itself by the test of years.

For the statistics of the past year reference can be made to the tabulated statement printed in this report. It may suffice here to say that the gifts have never before been so large; for the first time, and very appropriately in this twentieth year, the receipts exceeded twenty thousand dollars. Never has wider, more diversified, or it is believed more effective work been done, never have pastors, sessions and people been more heartily united in their interest and support of this work than in the year which closed the second decade of this movement.

SAMUEL McLANAHAN,

Chairman of the Committee on Synodical Home Missions in New Jersey.

SYNOD OF OHIO

Great bodies move slowly. It has required nine years for our synodical plan of home missions to become operative throughout the bounds of synod. The last presbytery has fallen into line and we are now a united people. The wisdom of the plan so wisely planned and so faithfully worked has at last vindicated itself to all the presbyteries. We have reason to thank God and take courage. Loyalty to the enterprise of home missions within our bounds has not militated against a generous support of the work entrusted the Home Board in New York. This is evidenced in our gifts of more than $70,000 for the general work the past year.

There has been a growing conviction upon the part of the committee that the synod as a whole has had a wholly inadequate conception of the work to be done and that we have as yet but touched the rim of our ever-increasing obligations. The hurrah days are happily passed. The real problems of the small church, the depleted congregations, the changing populations have become positively insistent. The new king—king people—who knows not Joseph has come, not with a retinue of royalty, but of threatened ruin to many of our cherished ideals. The self-supporting synods received about 90 per cent. of the more than 1,000,000 immigrants the past year, Ohio receiving her due share. As yet we have but a few churches and missions to minister to this vast army of occupation speaking fourteen languages. Here is prime opportunity for evangelization. It is doubtful if any foreign mission field is more important of occupation than some of the districts in the eastern and southern presbyteries of Ohio.

Synod's committee has in its employ a very efficient superintendent in the person of Rev. Samuel S. Aikman and the true and tried missionary, Rev. D. D. Bigger, D.D. A revised plan for synodical home missions was adopted at the recent meeting of synod in Cleveland.

In the prosecution of the work more than $27,000 were expended by the presbyterial committees and $3,100 were paid for the support of the two synodical missionaries. The 125 missionaries ministered to 197 churches, having a membership of 12,621, receiving upon examination 1,130 into church membership.

The synod needs both men and money. These it must have. Some of our faithful missionaries are laboring upon wholly inadequate salaries and too many churches are pastorless. Our united prayer is that the Lord of the harvest will send forth more laborers.

GEORGE E. DAVIES,
Chairman.

SYNODICAL HOME MISSIONS IN PENNSYLVANIA

Synodical Home Missions in Pennsylvania closed its nineteenth year on September 30, 1906. During these years 365 churches have been aided; 111 of these were brought to self-support either singly or as members of groups; while the whole number of churches in the synod grew from 909 to 1,062. In the past seventeen years, 16,931 members were added on confession of their faith and 8,422 by letter; and the synod expended in this work under direction of its Committee, $460,608, an annual average of $24,255. The synod requires each aid-receiving church to make an annual offering to each of the Boards: In the past 14 years these aided churches gave to the Boards $187,848, an annual average of $13,417, or more than one-half as much as the aid received from synod's fund.

Last year the synod aided 159 churches and missions, supplementing the salaries of 133 ministers; in these churches were 11,513 members, and under the preaching of these ministers, 1,299 members were added, of whom 940 stood up to confess Christ, an average of about 19 for each Sabbath of the year. In the home mission Sabbath schools were 12,859 members.

Three of our largest presbyteries, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Huntingdon, support their own work; the statistics from these are not included in the foregoing. Adding these, the number of ministers employed was 179; the churches aided, 222; the additions to membership, 2,325; total communicants in home mission churches, 17,619; and the Sabbath school membership, 22,116. The mines, the mills and the manufactories found in every part of our state make Pennsylvania the greatest home mission field in our land today.

IMMIGRANT EVANGELIZATION

Pennsylvania receives annually one-fifth of the foreign immigration—one million since the last census. Eighty-four per cent. of the immigrants coming to Pennsylvania are Slavs and Italians, the character of our industries attracting these races. With these we are getting in our state the Continental idea of the Sabbath, the socialist's idea of government, the communist idea of property, and the pagan idea of religion. These ideas are antagonistic to those embodied in our civilization and free institutions—our American ideals being largely the outgrowth of our Protestant faith.

Hence we believe that the urgent need of our day is immigrant evangelization. Ten or twelve years ago a beginning was made in this work, and it has gone steadily forward until seventeen of our nineteen presbyteries are now carrying on missions among the foreigners in their respective fields. Over $40,000 were expended in this kind of mission work in this synod, last year, most largely in the presbyteries of Pittsburgh, Lackawanna and Lehigh. These missions are inaugurated, organized and directed in each presbytery by a committee of its own, and the work is largely supported by funds raised for this purpose in the presbytery, employers of this foreign labor frequently contributing to its support.

In most of the presbyteries appropriations are asked for, and received from, synod's fund to supplement the money raised on the field.

This new field of home mission activity is developing rapidly, and it will require a very much larger share of our Home Mission contributions in the years to come.

While thus liberally supporting its own work, the Synod of Pennsylvania has very largely increased its gifts to the Board of Home Missions, these contributions and legacies, last year, reaching $200,000, as shown by the Board's Report.

J. M. McJUNKIN,
Secretary and Treasurer.

SYNOD OF WISCONSIN

This work of the past year has been most gratifying in many respects. Several of our churches have advanced to self-support; among which may be mentioned Baldwin, which last year received $400; West Beloit, which has been drawing $250; and Abbotsford and Harper Memorial, to which $200 had heretofore been granted. That churches are willing to voluntarily relinquish such large grants of aid is very encouraging. A much larger number of churches have reduced their applications for aid, with promises to still further reduce another year.

During the past twelve months all the churches have increased their gifts to Synodical Self-Support, and the money has been raised with much less difficulty than previously. In fact, there has been more enthusiasm throughout the synod regarding Wisconsin Self-Support than ever before, and all feel assured that the work is getting on a sure footing.

Even since assuming self-support Wisconsin has urged the giving of $1.00 per member. In no other synod is the mark set so high, and surprise has often been expressed at our attempt to get that amount. With 17,156 communicants Wisconsin raised $11,613.14 this year. Many of our churches gave $1.00, and more, a member. Especially was this true of almost all our small and weak churches. Many of our strong churches also have set the mark at $1.00, and throughout the whole synod there is no thought of lowering the standard. The enthusiasm and sacrifice of the home mission pastors has been marked, and they may ever be found urging to greater endeavor.

The northern part of the state is all home mission ground, and we could spend profitably twice what we now raise if we could get it. More miles of railway have been built in Wisconsin in the past year than in any one year for ten years. Great numbers of settlers are coming in, and many communities are without any religious service whatever. There is no question of competing with other denominations. There is ground enough untilled for all, with no need for questions of comity to arise. The appeal to Wisconsin for Wisconsin is accomplishing wonders, and yet we have only just begun.

We feel confident that another year will see another advance in giving, but, however much we may advance, the need for money for new work is ever in the lead. When we began self-support in 1902 the cry was raised that to give $1.00 per member for home missions would decrease the offerings to the other Boards. It is gratifying to know that instead of a decrease in general benevolence we have witnessed an increase.

*Synodical Superintendent of

TREASURER'S REPORT

The Board of Home Missions has the honor of reporting to the One Hundred and Nineteenth General Assembly, at the close of its largest year's work, with no debt and a small balance in hand.

This gratifying result, however, has been reached, not through any large increase of offerings on the part of churches or societies, but through a gain in the legacy and real estate income items.

From the report of the Secretary it will be seen that there has been large increase in the work along all lines, and also that new lines of work have been opened up which have required considerable sums of money. In spite of this, however, and of the fact that our people have been kept more thoroughly informed this year than ever before upon the progress of the work, no appreciable increase has come from living sources.

It is vital to the future success of the work that the people of our denomination shall at once awaken to the importance of the work of Home Missions and the necessity of larger support therefor.

The comparison of receipts for the years 1906 and 1907 is given below:

Receipts of the Woman's Board.—The receipts of the Woman's Board show a slight decrease as compared with last year.

In addition to the total amount collected by the Woman's Board from various sources, as shown in the statement of receipts on page 119, $73,025.30 was collected and forwarded by the various Woman's Societies through these offices, for the Board for Freedmen.

Administrative Expenses Provided For.—It will be seen that the interest on permanent and reserve funds, together with the income from real estate, more than care for the administrative expenses of the Board.

Financial Statements.—Attention is called to the financial statements constituting the Treasurer's report. Special notice should be given to the report on pages 278-279 the same being a showing of the receipts on account of the combined Home Mission work of our church, covering not only the receipts of this Board, but of the self-supporting Synods as well.

Presbyterian Building.—This year the Presbyterian Building begins to provide income for the current work of the Board. The net earnings for the twelve months (Board of Home Missions one-half) are $13,692.86.

Annuities are still being paid on account of gifts for the building mortgage, at the rate of 4 per cent. upon $237,500.00.

Offices have been well rented during the year with a gradual increase in rates.

Owing to the change in conditions and the northward march of business, it has been found that the large assembly hall, on the first floor of the building, is no longer in demand to any considerable extent, either for rental or for the holding of religious or denominational meetings. By unanimous vote of the two Boards, therefore, it was decided some time since to convert this hall into business space. The alterations are now going on, and there will thus be added to the rental space of the building a store and loft, from which income approximating $8,000.00 will be secured.

Havana Church Building.—This building has been completed during the year at a cost, approximately, of $50,000. Our English-speaking and Spanish Churches in that city are thus provided with a permanent and suitable home. At the same time, and under the same roof, provision has been made for school rooms and homes for our pastor and teachers.

Some thousands of dollars are still needed with which fully to complete the payments upon this property.

San Juan Church Building.—The Board and the denomination are under great obligations to Mrs. Caroline O'Neill for her generous gift of $15,000 with which to purchase and reconstruct a building in a central location in San Juan for church and school purposes, this building to be known as the "Hugh O'Neill Memorial."

Loans.—It has been necessary, during the year, to borrow from the banks, in order to pay promptly the expenses of carrying on the work, the sum of $250,000. This has been carried at the uniform rate of 4 per cent.

Permanent and Annuity Funds.—Seventy-one thousand nine hundred and twelve dollars and forty-one cents have been added during the year, by gifts, to the Permanent and Annuity Funds. During the year, however, $27,000 of such funds matured and have been credited to the current work account, leaving a net increase of $44,912.41.

Receipts by months and quarters are given below, a careful study of which will show clearly why it is necessary for the Board to borrow during a large part of the year.

APPENDIX.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE ON HOME MISSIONS

The Standing Committee on Home Missions would respectfully report that the one hundred and fifth Annual Report of the Board of Home Missions, the official record of the Board for the last year, and the Annual Report of the Woman's Board of Home Missions, and the Report of the Young People's Department, have been placed in their hands and carefully examined. One thing becomes evident from the reading of these Reports and that is the hour has struck for the Presbyterian Church to make an advance in her home mission work. The ex-moderator in that vibrant, virile, courageous, Macedonian appeal for the south and west, declared that this was to be a home mission Assembly. And why should it not be? Was there ever an Assembly that had a greater call to be? This, the largest Presbyterian Assembly that ever assembled on this continent or any other, representing at last every section of our great land, meeting not many hundred miles from the center of the population of the United States, able to look northward and eastward, westward and southward upon the grandest field ever offered to a Church, a field that carries within it possibilities for the welfare of the whole world which no other on the earth possesses—why should it not be a home mission Assembly and sound the note of an advance?

Thrice has the call come to our home Church to advance:—

First, when the swelling tide of population overflowed the Alleghenies and the "winning of the West" began. Then was the heart of the Church moved, though weak herself, to send the gospel to the "multitudes who are ready to perish on our frontier." Out of this advance came the ministry of such men as James Hoge, Samuel Doak, Gideon Blackburn, and many others of the great pioneer preachers who laid the foundation of Christianity in the middle west.

Second, when the Civil War had ended and the spirit of union fell upon the divided hosts of Presbyterianism, when Old School and New School became one school to learn from the great Head of the Church what He would have them do for America; when Henry Kendall, statesman that he was, with far-sighted vision, with masterly grasp, with courage to venture, planned; and Cyrus Dickson with eloquent tongue and fiery appeal waked and stirred the Church to follow the great masses of people filling the northwest. Then the Church arose and girded herself to plant Christianity from the Mississippi to the Pacific and to make possible the great synods which are represented here to-day.

But a third call has come. Again the spirit of union has fallen from above upon dismembered Presbyterianism, and the last door on this continent closed to us has been thrown open, and the land is before us. Recognizing, as we ever must, the faithful, self-denying, heroic work done by our brethren there—still, there yet “remaineth much land to be possessed” and there is a brotherly cry saying, “Come over and help us.” To this cry our Church will not be deaf. Already the heart is moved and in this report we find the plans laid, and wisely, for the advance march. Even now a new chapter in the history of American Presbyterianism is beginning to be written, and future assemblies will rejoice over the work done. This open field—to work with and for our brethren in that part of the land where God has cast their lot—is enough to move the Church to mighty effort—but that is not all: From this report we learn that—looking north and south, east and west from where we now are—there is one insistent fact to be seen, and that is the need for Christian work—one mighty motive appealing to us, and that is: To make and keep America Christian. Christian in her cities; Christian in her country communities—the strength of her power; Christian on her frontiers; Christian in her islands of the sea, realizing that there is not one spot on this continent but what is fraught with danger to our nation if it have not the gospel of Jesus Christ.

But if there is one fact of need and one motive to move us, there is also one word that sums up the whole situation, and that word is opportunity. Think of the opportunities granted to us as a Church as we work in connection with home missions! There is the opportunity of taking the exceptional populations—Indian, Mexican, Porto Rican, native of Alaska, Mormon, or belated Mountaineer—and helping to make of them the unexceptional, intelligent Christian citizens. The opportunity to help save the depleted country churches from whose well-stocked families are to come our future ministers and missionaries and the working members of our city churches. The opportunity to take weak churches in rapidly growing towns or on the frontier and sustain them until they can care for themselves, keeping step with the advance of the nation. Opportunity now is beginning to come to take vast multitudes annually coming to us of the wrong kind of immigrants and help make them the right kind. Opportunity of helping to solve one of the greatest problems of modern times—how to keep peace between organized labor and organized capital and to help the laboring men to realize that the Church of Jesus Christ is his friend. Opportunity—last but not least—of directing and cherishing the work of the evangelist to be pastor or presbyterial evangelist so that the unsaved man, wherever he be or whoever he may be, may become a Christian. These are some opportunities.

In the Report of the Board and its work your Committee find three things to which they would call your attention:—

First, certain radiant points—points for congratulation. First there is the Treasurer's Report—clear, systematic, business-like—stating that for its ninth consecutive year the Board reports no debt; that the Board received for current work last year $963,326.81, an advance of $51,533.09 over the year before; that the Presbyterian Building begins this year to provide income for the current work of the Board to such a degree that the amount received from it, together with the interest on permanent and reserve funds and income from real estate, more than care for the administrative expenses of the Board. Then there is a splendid year's work done by the missionaries—1291 of them, 39 of them Cuban, Porto Rican, Mexican and Indian helpers—preaching to 1,505 churches, preaching to congregations which if united would make a congregation of 69,896 persons, receiving into the churches 12,311, organizing 124 churches and 167 Sunday Schools. And thinking of this year's work we must remember it was accomplished in the hard places with many difficulties to contend with.

The Woman's Board's pages of this Report are radiant. Again they report contributions of more than half a million dollars. In the 191 schools under their care 10,354 pupils have received instruction from 458 missionary teachers, and 679 have made profession of their faith in Christ. Their mission study classes organized; their Literature Department constantly enlarging; the aid they render to the home missionaries, the salaries of some of whom they pay, and others whom they assist by generous boxes of clothing—all these things and more too might be mentioned to show their unwearied devotion to the cause of home missions.

Coming close to these and under their fostering care is the Young People's Department. From the young people come contributions to the amount of $99,668.24. They are being organized, trained, instructed and interested in the great cause of the Church, and a better day for the Church is coming. This department has grown so much as to become too heavy for the faithful secretary who has done so much to develop it, so the Assembly and the department too are to be congratulated that Mr. Von Ogden Vogt has been secured to serve as an additional secretary, from whose former experience in young people's work much may be expected.

One of the marvelous things of to-day is the story of the Department of Church and Labor. The advance made the past year, the success attending the efforts of the Rev. Charles Stelzle, the response on the part of working men and their organizations, point to this as one of the providential movements of the day, to be sustained and encouraged by all who would win the working men back to the Church. The Presbyterian Church is to be congratulated that to her has been given the honor of blazing the way in this much needed work.

And what shall we say of Porto Rico, Cuba, and Panama and Alaska, except that God is working with those whom you have sent there, and "remarkable changes in some of them, both in results and prospects of the gospel work" have been witnessed.

In the work among the foreigners reported last year to the Assembly serious difficulty has been experienced in finding men fitted to do the work, and greater results will follow if the work can be unified.

The self-supporting synods of the Church, doing their own home mission work, have made their own report to the Assembly. From the other synods not yet self-supporting come notes of cheer and hopefulness. Especially is it to be noted that in these synods 119 churches reached self-support—a larger number than in any previous year—and 348 churches asked less from the Board, showing that these synods have their faces set toward self-support.

We find that a wise and well adjusted plan was adopted by the Board in working in co-operation with the Boards of the Cumberland Church and is reported here. Also that the Board, in obedience to the direction of the Assembly, has adopted a plan of re-organization for the work of evangelization, dividing the missionary field of the Board into four sections with a field secretary for each.

The Board finds the plan of "Vacancy and Supply," devised two years ago and committed to it to work out, fails to accomplish the desired end, and would ask some further changes to increase its efficiency.

One of the sad things about the Board is that each year some faithful missionary falls at his post, or faithful supporter is called to his reward. Among others, two especially would this Board hold in loving remembrance to-day, the Rev. Thomas A. Nelson, D. D., who for almost twenty years had been a member of the Board, carrying on his heart its interest and giving cheerfully his time and labor to its welfare; and the Rev. Henry S. Little, D. D., synodical missionary of Texas for so many years, whose name is loved and revered wherever he was known—a name worthy to be written alongside Daniel Baker, D. D., in the religious history of the State of Texas.

These are some of the things that your Committee finds in the Report put into their hands.

But, there is one thing more which we dare not close without asking your most serious attention to, and that is that "the Board approaches the new year with an unusual sense of responsibility," as it says. Three things cause this feeling: The fact that last year there was no appreciable increase in the gifts from the churches to this Board, even though it was a year of financial prosperity. If it were not for legacies the Board would have to report a debt—a most startling and ominous fact for a Church as rich as ours. But add to this another fact—that the Assembly has put upon this Board the evangelistic work in the missionary synods and in the self-supporting synods too, so far as desired. This will be a new and heavy draft upon the Board's resources. But add to this another fact—the vast new territory of the south and southwest is to be entered this year, and the work assisted there. To meet all these new demands the Board has been compelled to make its plans to spend $100,000 more this year than last. To meet this advance there must be an increase of at least twenty per cent. in receipts from all sources. The period of felicitation and congratulation has passed and the time has come when the Church must raise $1,100,000 or face a debt at the end of the year. The situation is a grave one, calling for the most earnest consideration on the part of all interested in the progress of the work of God. We must have either a new spirit or a new method to secure contributions to this cause: the truth is we need both. We have been using some great words of late expressing most happy facts—federation, union, re-organization—but there is one more word we must begin to use and that word is re-consecration. This is the word for the hour, and in it alone is to be found the hiding of the power we need. The wealth, power and opportunity of our great Church will come short of the glory of God unless there can be born within us a new spirit of consecration. Give to the Church this, and there will be no debts to report next year, but a gathering to rejoice at the new manifestation of God's power and grace. The events of Providence are calling upon us to make an advance in our giving. What shall our answer be? Ministers and sessions have a great responsibility in determining what that answer shall be. God grant that we may not be found wanting.

The following recommendations are submitted for adoption:—

1. That the records of the Board be approved and that we note with gratification the business ability displayed in the management of the Board.

2. That the following persons, whose terms of service expire with this meeting of the Assembly, be re-elected:—

Ministers: Rev. Samuel J. Niccolls, D. D., L.L.D., Rev. Joseph Dunn Burrell, D. D.; Rev. Albert Edwin Keigwin, D. D. Laymen: Walter M. Aikman, William H. Corbin, Robert C. Ogden, Henry W. Jessup, and that Rev. Allan Douglas Carlile, D. D., be elected to succeed the late Rev. Thomas A. Nelson, D. D.

3. That the General Assembly ask the Church for $1,100,000 as the least sum with which the Board can successfully carry through its work in all departments.

4. That the Woman's Board be commended again for the zeal, wisdom, consecration and business ability they have shown in again raising more than half a million dollars and expending it in their most important work.

5. That the plan of Union between the Woman's Board and the Woman's Board of the Cumberland Church be commended. (See page 64).

6. That on the Sabbath preceding Thanksgiving day an offering be taken in our Sabbath schools for the mission school work, and on the Sabbath nearest Washington's Birthday, one for the general work.

7. That the Assembly notes with pleasure the strengthening of the Young People's Department and commends their plan for interesting the young of the Church in home missions by mission study classes and by giving information to Sunday schools and young people's societies.

8. That the Assembly commends the founding of the Training Schools at Sitka, Alaska, and Mayagüez in Porto Rico, for the purpose of training native helpers.

9. That by reason of larger attention on the part of the Board to the incoming foreigners the Assembly recommends that a special department for this service be erected so that the work may be unified and pressed with energy by the Board.

10. That the General Assembly approves the plan of re-organization outlined in the Report of the Board by which the missionary field shall be divided into four districts with a field secretary for each.

11. That the Assembly also approves the plan for taking over from the Evangelistic Committee the evangelistic work so far as it relates to the missionary synods, and its plan for pastor evangelists is also approved and recommended to the hearty co-operation of the churches.

12. That we congratulate the Board of Home Missions and the Cumberland Board of Missions and Church Erection on the harmonious adjustment of the work under the new conditions and expect from it the happiest results in cementing the ties that bind the two denominations on the home mission field.

13. That we felicitate the Church on the marked favor with which the Department of Church and Labor has been received, both by the Church and the working men.

14. That in regard to the plan of "Vacancy and Supply" that the following resolutions be adopted:—

1. That the Chairman of the Committee on Vacancy and Supply in each presbytery forward to the officer of the Board of Home Missions in charge of the department a list of the churches becoming vacant as soon as this knowledge comes to him. He shall also give for private use (not for publication) all necessary information regarding salary, the condition of the church, etc.

2. That the officer of the Board of Home Missions having in charge the matter shall send to said Chairman of said Presbyterial Committee the names of ministers seeking a settlement with such recommendation as such minister may furnish.

15. That in order that proper representation may be had from the Cumberland wing, and that in appointing new committees of the Board persons may be secured who will be able to give their time and thought to the new work, the Home Board is authorized to increase the present membership of the Board by nine (9) persons.

Signed on behalf of Committee by the Chairman.

(Signed) EDGAR A. ELMORE.

But the number of such Trustees may be increased or decreased at any time by the said General Assembly, and in case of an increase the additional Trustees shall be appointed by such General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America; provided, however, that the members of the Board as at present constituted shall continue to hold office until their successors have been appointed by the General Assembly. Not less than eleven members of the Board shall constitute a quorum for the purpose of electing officers, making by-laws, or for holding any special meeting; but for all other purposes, and at stated meetings, five shall be a quorum."

SECTION 3.—This Act shall take effect immediately.

ACTION OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Seventieth Annual Report of the Board of Foreign Missions and the manuscript volume of its Minutes for the year ending April 30, 1907, were presented to the General Assembly, in session at Columbus, Ohio, May, 1907, and were referred to the Standing Committee on Foreign Missions.

The Committee presented its Report to the General Assembly, which was adopted. The Report, condensed, and other recommendations submitted, is herewith presented.

The Board of Foreign Missions has reached its three-score years and ten—it was organized in 1837—and, all things considered, the growth of its work and the extension of its usefulness and the increase of its activities have been remarkable. Through all its history it has been signally owned by Almighty God in its efforts to advance the Redeemer's kingdom. Every year has recorded steady progress, and none has been more notable than the last. It is impossible to read the reports from the field without a thrill of optimism: everywhere the light is spreading, everywhere the cause of Christ is advancing; the outlook is full of hope; the future of Missions is as bright and certain as the promises of God. So far as your Committee is able to discover, there is no place for a minor note in the music of missionary enterprise.

When we go up to the watch-tower and look far away over heathen lands the vision is inspiring and glorious.

Turn to China, Japan and Korea, and you find that the past year has been one of the most wonderful perhaps in the whole history of Missions in those lands. The record of the changes that are taking place seems almost incredible. The opening of China to Western ideas, the education of women, the abolition of foot binding by royal decree, the abandonment of Confucian ethics and of mere classical Chinese learning and the substitution of Western science and learning in their examinations for official position; the steps taken to abolish the use of opium; the open door and the larger opportunity for all Christian work, evangelistic, medical and educational; the substantial assistance given by the Dowager Empress to the hospital in Peking and by others in authority to the cause of Christianity—all indicate changes and movements that are radical and revolutionary. Said a Chinese military officer recently: "We are going to do away with all things Chinese and adopt the things of the Western world." Reactions will come, new obstacles to the progress of nations will arise, but the whole attitude of China toward Christian civilization and the outside world give great promise and hope for the future. We only regret that while China is striving to eradicate the opium curse, she is, in the adoption of the things of the Western world, being threatened with another almost equally harmful curse in the widespread adoption of the American cigarette, of which 860,000,000 were imported from America by the British-American Tobacco Company, and 5,160,000 pounds of leaf tobacco which was converted into cigarettes in China, an increase of more than 33 per cent. in two years. We feel that this cannot but be disastrous to Chinese mind and character, and have a deleterious effect on the missionary work, and should be a source of regret to every well-wisher of China and of worthy American enterprise.

Even more reassuring is the condition of things in Japan. The marvelous progress of the Sunrise Kingdom in the last fifty years needs no rehearsing here. Such a resurrection from the dead past, such a taking on of new life, such development in material and intellectual power, has never before been witnessed in human history. Not less wonderful has been the spiritual progress; indeed, it is not too much to say that Japan's marvelous quickening of national life has come mostly from the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Already not a few of her statesmen and military leaders and prominent officials are Christians. Thousands of her students are following Jesus, and the whole trend of her development seems to point toward her complete Christianization.

In Korea the light seems to shine even more brightly. There in the Hermit Nation the Christian Church is growing in numbers and strength and influence with a rapidity which reminds us of Apostolic times. To read of the multitudes in that land who crowd about the missionary to hear his message, of the multitudes that throng the place of prayer, of the sacrifices the people make to hear the Gospel, and spread the Gospel, is an inspiration. More than one-fourth of those added to the Church in all our foreign fields were added to the Korean Church, and more than one-half of all who were added to the Church on foreign missionary territory were in these three Oriental lands.

In India a spirit of prayer has been manifest wherever missionary enterprise has gone. The Church of India is united, aggressive and full of hope. There have been hindrances, there have been drawbacks, but notwithstanding all difficulties the work has steadily advanced. While there have been no new developments during the past year, the movement toward union on the missionary fields of India is still strong and full of promise. Carey's vision of a Christianized India is slowly but surely coming to realization.

Turning to Siam, we discover that this great world enterprise of Missions is going from victory to victory. The King gives it his hearty endorsement and support. Influential officials encourage the missionary in his work; not only by their words, but by their gifts. The opening up of new railways, moreover, is a material contribution of no small significance. It gives to the messenger of the Cross more rapid transit and easier access to wider fields of usefulness.

The report from Laos is of a piece with all the rest. The number received on confession of faith last year was a decided increase over the year preceding.

The visit of the Rev. Howard Agnew Johnston, D.D., who was sent out under the auspices of the Evangelistic Committee of the General Assembly, was an inspiration to the brethren in all the countries through which he traveled.

The work among the Chinese, Japanese and Koreans in San Francisco may be spoken of in this connection. It has been greatly disturbed by the dreadful earthquake and fire of a year ago. The Chinese suffered perhaps most of all; but Chinatown is rebuilding, the scattered Chinese Christians are returning and the work for the coming year is not without promise.

In twenty-seven stations in Latin America, located in Mexico, Guatemala, Central and South Brazil, Chile and Colombia, the Board is carrying on missionary activity. These are centres of evangelizing and consecrated effort through which thousands are being turned from darkness into light, from a dead and idolatrous formalism to a faith in Jesus Christ. The record of the past year in these countries is on the whole one of great encouragement. Once sealed against the Bible, quarantined against the Gospel and the Protestant missionary, they are now almost everywhere accessible, and the herald of the Crucified is free to tell this story of redeeming love.

[In none of the countries touched and moulded by Spanish Catholicism have greater victories for Christ been gained than among the Filipinos. There, in these newly acquired possessions of ours, two thousand adults were won to the Saviour last year and multitudes of children brought under Christian influence.

Wherever the Gospel is presented and the story of the Cross is told, the results are much the same. It takes strong hold of the black people of Africa. They receive the Word of God gladly, and exhibit its fruits in the practical application of its teaching to their own lives. They take special delight in maintaining their own churches and schools.

The Committee is happy to report that our Persian Missions are in a prosperous condition; schools are increasing in number, the medical work growing in usefulness and influence, and the evangelistic movement is successful in winning souls for Christ. With the incoming of Christian ideas, there is an incoming of a spirit of liberty. A constitutional form of government has been established, and this with the industrial development of the country seems surely to point to a new era in the history of Persia.

The year just closed has been a notable one for Syria. In spite of the death of the Rev. William K. Eddy, an efficient and beloved worker; in spite of the severe trials and deep sorrows; in spite of removals made necessary by failing strength, there has been steady advance all along the line. The schools are full to overflowing, and good progress has been made towards self-support by the native churches.

Not the least of the significant movements in which we rejoice is the awakening among the men of the Church. They are beginning as never before to realize their responsibility and to grapple with the problem of evangelizing the heathen. The great Convention at Omaha in February last was an event of historic interest and importance. Over a thousand men gathered there at their own expense to confer together about Missions, and to talk over policies and methods and ways and means of carrying out the great commission. With enthusiastic unanimity they adopted the following missionary policy:

1. It is the mission of the whole Church to give the Gospel to the whole world.
2. This entire Church being a missionary society, each member of the body is under covenant to help fulfill the will of the Head, to give the Gospel to every creature.

3. Every Christian is commanded to go, if not in person then potentially, having a share by gift and prayer in supporting a parish abroad as well as the parish at home.

4. Our giving should be an act of worship (Proverbs iii. 9), cheerful, (II Corinthians ix. 7), and according to the rule of three (I Corinthians xvi. 2):

|-----------------|-----------------------------|
| Individually | “Let every one of you |
| | Lay by him in store on the |
| Systematically | First day of the week, |
| Proportionately | As God hath prospered him.” |

It was an inspiring spectacle and full of promise for the time to come.

The Omaha Convention set up as a standard for our reunited Church a total of 4,000 American missionaries, supported in the foreign field at an expenditure of $6,000,000 per annum, and that standard has in careful phraseology been approved by the Board. It is also approved by your Committee, provided it be understood as the ideal standard toward which the Church must strive as rapidly as practicable. Some have thought that the Omaha Convention demanded that the Church during the year now opening furnish $6,000,000, and that it would be subject to censure if it furnished less. To such a position your Committee would not agree, because, even though endorsed by the Assembly, it would be regarded by many as visionary and likely to do harm; but neither the Board nor anyone else, as far as is known, has urged anything so impracticable. On the other hand, your Committee adopts absolutely the Omaha declaration, that it is the duty of this generation of Presbyterians to evangelize its proportion of the heathen world, even though it takes 4,000 missionaries and requires an outlay of $6,000,000 a year to do it. And it holds that that ideal should be pushed to reality just as rapidly as sound methods will warrant. The serious duty of this Assembly is to declare how near the ideal standard it thinks the Church should with sober, stern determination set out to come this year. As the total income for current work last year was about $1,268,000 (total received from all sources about $1,400,000), securing $232,000 this year, or $1,500,000, would only extinguish the present deficit of about $92,000, cover the increased cost of operation and permit an advance of less than 6 per cent. With matters as they are on the other side of the world, who would dare be content with one dollar less? If the reunited Church wishes to blot out its deficit, and advance its Foreign Missions more than 6 per cent., it must put into the treasury of the Board over $1,500,000.

The Foreign Missionary Conferences immediately preceding the Assembly are instructive, inspiring, a source of great profit and helpfulness and should by all means be continued. The taking of Christian and Easter foreign missionary offerings in our Sunday-schools, already quite common, and a practice sanctioned by the Assembly, should become general. The Forward Movement should advance until the study of Missions has a place in the work of every church and every Sunday-school.

The following recommendations are submitted for the adoption of the General Assembly:

1. That the action of the Board in electing to its membership Mr. James M. Speers to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Albert J. Pitkin, and Rev. Charles R. Erdman, D.D., to fill the vacancy made by the death of the Rev. Robert Russell Booth, D.D., be confirmed.

2. That the election of the Rev. Stanley White to succeed the Rev. Dr. Ellinwood, whose advanced years and feeble health make it necessary for him to lay aside all active work, be confirmed.

3. That the following members of the Board whose terms expire with this Assembly be re-elected, namely: Rev. Eben B. Cobb, D.D., Rev. James S. Dennis, D.D., Mr. Alexander Maitland, Mr. John Stewart, William E. Stiger, Esq., and the Rev. W. P. Stevenson, D.D.

4. That in view of the distinct missionary responsibility of the Church as outlined in the Omaha Platform, the Synodical and Presbyterial Committees on Foreign Missions, acting under the advice and with the assistance of the Board, suggest an apportionment to the respective Synods and Presbyteries and local churches—the amount required on a reasonable basis of annual advance to meet the Church's obligations.

5. That in view of the fact that the total receipts of the Board last year exceeded $1,400,000, not less than $1,500,000 be raised for the work of the current year.

6. That the General Assembly, contemplating a great enlargement of effort in world evangelization, reaffirms the historic principle of Presbyterianism, that the Church by virtue of its very constitution is a missionary society. That missionary interest on the part of every member is not optional but obligatory. That every church member is bound to do all in his power to send the Gospel to those in heathen darkness, and that the Assembly calls upon the Church and every communicant in the Church to be faithful to this sublime and solemn duty.

7. That all our ministers be urged to preach special missionary sermons at frequent intervals, to the end that their people may be informed and inspired and quickened upon this subject, and that Synods and Presbyteries give it a large place in their annual meeting.

8. That the records of the Board, which we find to be very accurately and carefully kept, be approved.

9. That the membership of the Board be increased from twenty-one to twenty-three, by the addition of T. H. Cobbs, Esq., and the Rev. E. E. Morris, who are members of the Cumberland Board of Missions and Church Erection.

Respectfully submitted,

INTRODUCTION
TO THE SEVENTIETH ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE U. S. A.

The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church U. S. A. was organized in 1837. It presents herewith the Seventieth Annual Report to the General Assembly. A carefully prepared summary covering the history of the Board, giving in detail statistical information relating to all branches of the work, accompanies this Report, but no table of statistics can give any adequate conception of the variety and extent of the services rendered by the Board during the period designated by the Psalmist as "The days of our years."

While it is of interest to note the vast increase in the number of missionaries, in the number of native workers, in the new Stations opened, in the strategic positions occupied during these years, it is of greater importance to mark the advances made in the realization of the real aim and object for which the Board was organized.

It is at least suggestive that this Seventieth Annual Report records the culmination of certain great movements which mark the onward progress of the missionary cause.

Prominent among these is the recognition by the Board of the Distinct Missionary Responsibility of the Presbyterian Church. A paper on this subject was prepared early in the year and sent to all the Missions. It embodied a tentative statement of Mission policy and made an attempt to ascertain the proportion of the entire population for whose evangelization the Presbyterian Church is responsible in the fields where the Board's missionaries are at work. The missionaries in each Mission were asked to consider carefully the data furnished, and to make such suggestions as in their judgment might seem wise. On February 19-21 there was held in the City of Omaha, Nebraska, an Intersynodical Foreign Mission Convention for Men. At this Convention a series of resolutions, based on the paper prepared by the Board and sent to the Missions, were adopted as follows:

We, men of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, gathered in intersynodical convention of more than 1,000 delegates, profoundly impressed with the goodness of God in the gift of Jesus Christ to be the Saviour of the world, filled with wonder over the triumphs of the Gospel in non-Christian lands during the last 100 years, touched by the appeals which come to us for the light of life from lands without Christ, and conscious of the solemn responsibilities laid upon us by the rich blessings of God, temporal and spiritual, which we enjoy, do hereby adopt the following as the deliberate expression of our privilege and duty in the extension of the kingdom of our Lord.

I. It is the judgment of this convention for men that the number of human beings in non-Christian lands for which the Presbyterian Church, United States of America, is directly responsible in the work of evangelization in this generation is approximately 100,000,000 souls, being distributed as follows: Mexico, 2,500,000; Central America, 500,000; South America, 10,000,000; Japan, 4,000,000; Korea, 6,000,000; China, 40,000,000; Siam, Laos, 5,000,000; India, 18,000,000; Persia, 5,000,000; Turkey, 2,000,000; Africa, 5,000,000; Philippines, 2,000,000.

II. It is the judgment of this convention that the force of Presbyterian American foreign missionaries, native pastors, Bible women and teachers, ought to be increased in the immediate future until it reaches the number of one American foreign missionary and five trained native workers (or their equivalent) for each 25,000 unevangelized people now in non-Christian lands, providentially allotted to the Presbyterian Church for evangelization. This would mean for the Presbyterian Church, United States of America, 4,000 American missionaries, or about five times as many as we now have.

III. It is the judgment of this convention for men that it will cost not less than $6,000,000 a year to fully meet the great responsibility outlined above, and we therefore set ourselves resolutely to the work of bringing the foreign missionary offerings of our Church up to this mark.

IV. In the judgment of this convention, it will be necessary, in order to raise the funds required for the discharge of our missionary obligations, for every church to adopt a missionary policy embodying the following principles and methods:

OUR MISSIONARY POLICY.

1. It is the mission of the whole Church to give the Gospel to the whole world.

2. This entire Church being a missionary society, each member of the body is under covenant to help fulfill the will of the Head: to give the Gospel to every creature.

3. Every Christian is commanded to "go," if not in person, then potentially having a share by gift and prayer in supporting a Parish Abroad, as well as the Parish at Home.

4. Our giving should be an act of worship (Proverbs iii. 9), cheerful (II Corinthians ix. 7), and according to the rule of three (I Corinthians xvi. 2):

|------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------|
| Individually | "Let every one of you Lay by him in store on the |
| Systematically | First day of the week |
| Proportionately | As God hath prospered him." |

OUR MISSIONARY METHODS.

1. Let Synods and Presbyteries, through their Foreign Missionary Committees, labor to have every church adopt this missionary policy.

2. Let the Board of Foreign Missions, in consultation with the synodical foreign mission chairman, and such laymen as the Board may select, annually lay before the General Assembly a statement of the amount needed for the ensuing year and a suggested apportionment of said amount among the various Synods and Presbyteries, not as an assessment, but as a definite share of the responsibility.

3. Let every church prayerfully assume its share of this responsibility, which may be represented by a sum of money which adequately represents the church's financial ability; or by "A Parish Abroad," which represents as much money as the church can contribute to this work; or by the salary of one or more foreign missionaries.

4. Let the subscription method be set in operation by the Session of the church, by which every member shall be reached and given opportunity to express his love for souls and loyalty to Christ by a weekly, monthly, quarterly or annual offering to this cause.

V. While we recognize that the ability of churches and individuals varies, it is the judgment of this convention that each of our churches should strive to attain an average of $5 per member for foreign missions (10 cents a week), and we hereby urge the foreign missionary committee of our Synods and Presbyteries and Sessions to seek to secure that result, and pledge our own best efforts to raise that average in our own churches.

VI. Recognizing that the successful accomplishment of this project involves not only the expenditure of wealth, but also of lives, we set ourselves to pray that the Holy Spirit of God may choose and send consecrated men and women into this work of Foreign Missions in sufficient numbers to secure the evangelization of the world in this generation.

The Board at its meeting April 1, after carefully considering these resolutions, adopted the following Report submitted to it:

At the last meeting of the Board, the resolutions adopted at the Men's Presbyterian Foreign Missionary Convention, in Omaha, were referred by the Board to the Home Department Committee and the Executive Council for consideration and report. These resolutions related, first, to our distinct missionary responsibility as a Church; second, to our missionary policy, and, third, to our missionary methods.

With reference to our distinct missionary responsibility, the resolutions of the Convention follow and are based upon the paper submitted to the Board at its meeting on March 4, 1907, which the Board authorized to be sent to all the Missions, but on which it deferred action until the Missions should be heard from. A large number of the Missions have already replied, approving of the statement of policy embodied in the paper and specifying, in greater or less detail, the form and extent of the reinforcement they would need to compass the work required of them. In view of these replies and of the action of the Omaha Convention, which seems to make it wise to lay the entire proposition before the Church at large without any delay, we recommend that the Board approve the main outlines of the policy submitted to the Missions, and transmit the same to the General Assembly for its endorsement.

The second section of the Omaha resolutions, entitled "Our Missionary Policy," refers not to missionary policy abroad, but to the missionary ideal of the Church at home, and simply enunciates the historic principle of the Presbyterian Church and the methods already in use by the Board, this principle and these methods having been already approved by the General Assembly.

The third section provides for an apportionment to the Synods and churches of the budget of the Board, not as an assessment, but as a suggestion to each church of its definite share of responsibility.

A proposition of this character was embodied in a paper sent to the Missions, and has been before the Home Department Committee. We recommend that the matter be referred to the General Assembly, with the request of the Board that an apportionment of the Foreign Mission budget among the Synods and churches be authorized by the Assembly.

If the Assembly shall see fit to approve of this action of the Board, and the Church shall endeavor to carry out the resolutions, it should mean large things for the Kingdom of Christ.

The close of seventy years of history finds the Board better equipped than ever before in its Home Department for carrying on its great work. The reorganization of this department was fully set forth in the Introduction to the last Annual Report. Some advances have been made, however, since that date. The home field is now divided into four districts, and not three as heretofore. The Eastern District embraces Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina; the Central District embraces North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Nebraska and Kansas; the Southern District embraces New Mexico, Texas, Indian Territory, Missouri, Arkansas, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, and the Western District embraces Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, Nevada and Arizona.

A new Assistant Secretary, Mr. J. M. Patterson, for many years the efficient and faithful Secretary of the Cumberland Church in connection with their Boards of Home and Foreign Missions and Church Erection, has been assigned to the Southern District. The Rev. Dwight E. Potter, of Oakland, Cal., has been appointed to have charge of the Western Section. The Rev. Charles E. Bradt and Mr. David McConaughy have charge of the Central and Eastern Districts respectively.

The Rev. George H. Trull, formerly assistant pastor of the Fifth Avenue Church, New York City, has been appointed an Assistant Secretary in the Home Department to take charge of a much neglected portion of the home field, namely, the development of Missions in the Sunday-school.

During the year the Rev. B. M. Brown has acted as special representative of the Board in interesting individuals in the work of Missions. The entire expense connected with Mr. Brown's budget has been met by friends of the Board.

The Forward Movement has gone steadily on, leading the churches to put the support not merely of Foreign Missions, but, in many instances, likewise of the whole of the benevolences upon the more stable basis of an individual systematic contribution, instead of the uncertainty of the occasional collection.

The principles and plans of the Forward Movement have been promoted by means of campaigns under the direction of the Foreign Missions Committees of the Presbyteries. Within the year, such campaigns have been conducted in the Eastern District in seventeen of the Presbyteries of the Synods of Baltimore, New York, New Jersey, Ohio and Pennsylvania, including visits by missionaries and other representatives of the Board to no less than 333 churches.

For the purpose of training leaders, a conference was held last fall at Pocono Pines, Pa., to which were invited members of the Missionary Committees, local and Presbyterial. So helpful did this conference prove that arrangements have been made to continue it permanently; the next to be held at the same place, August 29 to September 1.

The Forward Movement Magazine, "All the World," continues to serve as a medium of communication with the members of Missionary Committees throughout the Church, it being sent to any who contribute as much as $2.00 a year to the work of the Foreign Missions Board; its circulation is 10,000.

The educational branch of the Home Department tries to be what its name implies. It is not a mere bureau of information, however much the latter may be needed, but an agency for the systematic study of Missions. It lays principal emphasis not on the circulation of facts, but on the securing of personal development, and especially on the training of leaders and campaigners who shall be able to extend the work in local centres. It has been recognized for a long time that the bulk of the Bible teaching in the Church must be done by the laity, and it is seen with increasing clearness that the laity should have special training for this work. The same thing is true of the systematic study of Missions. We therefore feel that the present standard of success should be the way in which we are multiplying a body of lay teachers who have some knowledge about Missions, some enthusiasm for it and some experience in the best methods of teaching it.

Measured by these standards the growth of the work during the past year is even more gratifying than the numerical increase. Last year when the report went to press we had 552 classes on our files. By the first of September, 1906, when the year closed, we had 701. As the report goes to press this year we have 780 classes and hope to close the year with over a thousand. During the coming year we expect to inaugurate some new lines of work.

The great Convention at Omaha evinced the growing interest of the men of the Church in Foreign Missions. There were ten hundred and seventy-four registered delegates, all of whom paid their own traveling expenses and practically provided for the expenses of the Convention. It is a refreshing sign that the men of the Church are beginning to grapple with the Mission problem, for in no other way will it be possible for the Board to meet the ever-increasing demands from its many fields. The Laymen's Movement, which sprang out of the Haystack Commemoration held in the City of New York in November of last year, gives another indication of the deep hold which the cause of Missions is taking on the men of the Church.

This year the women of the Church have shown their usual zeal, devotion and efficiency. The Women's Boards and societies show an increase over last year.

The relation with the Women's Boards and societies has been harmonious. A joint conference between representatives of the various Women's Boards and societies and representatives of the Assembly's Board was held, in which an agreement was reached in regard to the difficult question relating to special object gifts. What is known as the "Station Plan" or "Parish Plan" was adopted. By this plan the budget of each Station as a whole, and not separate classes of work, is made the basis of assignment of special objects, and donors are given shares of greater or less extent in the work of the Station. A leaflet giving in detail this plan has been issued by the Board and widely circulated. It is hoped that this plan will greatly simplify the whole question of special objects.

While the receipts this year have not been as great as were expected, and while we deplore the deficit of past years, yet it is well to remember that during the last few years both churches and women's societies have shown a commendable increase, and that the deficit is due simply to the growth of the work and a decrease in the always uncertain factor of legacies. We believe that large results must continue to accrue in the immediate future from the plans now in operation, or about to be put forth, in connection with the Home Department.

It seems possible to report to the Assembly each year now a more wonderful year than the year preceding, in direct spiritual results and in general influence, as the work of the Missions expands every year. Perhaps the most significant ecclesiastical situation at present is found in Japan, where the Church of Christ, solidly established, with many self-supporting churches and a body of strong and able Japanese leaders, is filled with a just sense of its national responsibility. Interesting problems of Mission policy have in consequence arisen, whose solution the Board believes to be not only entirely practicable, but also full of promise for the Mission work in Japan and Korea and China. In India the Swadeshi movement, primarily a boycott of foreign goods, is growing into a general nationalistic agitation. The number of self-supporting congregations in the Indian Church, however, is so small that a true nationalistic movement would not have an adequate base to rest upon. Ecclesiastically, however, the Presbyterian Church in India is entirely independent of the many home Presbyterian Churches, the products of whose Mission work are united in it. This movement toward union on the Mission field, while it has materialized in no new practical expressions during the year, is still strong and hopeful.

Not the least encouraging feature of this Seventieth Annual Report is the growth of the native Church in spiritual power. More significant even than the large ingathering of souls is the deepening of the spiritual life of the native Christians, the raising up of a body of consecrated leaders and the prevalence of the revival spirit. It is worth more than passing mention that the missionaries in Colombia, a barren field, have sent a request to the Board that the Rev. Arcadio Morales, D.D., the beloved and faithful pastor of the Church of Divino Salvador, Mexico City, Mexico, should be loaned for a period of six weeks or more to carry on revival services within the bounds of the Colombia Mission. A careful reading of the Reports of the China Missions will show that China is raising up leaders destined to exert great influence on the future life of the Chinese Christian Church. In Korea the Christians have given thousands of days' labor purely for evangelistic work. No greater proof is needed of the efficiency of the work of the foreign missionary than these evidences of the spiritual life of the native Church.

Our fellow-workers on the foreign field have been greatly blessed during the year by the visit of the Rev. Howard Agnew Johnston, D.D., who was sent out under the auspices of the Evangelistic Committee of the General Assembly. It is significant that at the present time two members of the Board, Rev. John Fox, D.D., and Hon. Darwin R. James, with Mrs. James, are visiting the Missions and thus forming an additional bond of sympathy between the Church at home and abroad.

As the statistical table at the close of report would indicate, the receipts on the field for the support of the work are steadily increasing. Interesting gifts for Mission work or benevolent purposes have been made to or through the Board. The Dowager Empress of China has given 10,000 taels ($7,200) to the hospital in Peking, connected with the medical school, jointly conducted by the London Missionary Society, the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions and our own Board. The Emperor of Korea gave $3,000 for the Koreans who suffered from the San Francisco earthquake and sent his money through the Board and its representatives in San Francisco. High officials of the Siamese Government have aided liberally the work in Siam, and a prominent Mohammedan woman in Teheran has built a woman's ward in the Board's hospital there.

The year has been marked by an unusual number of casualties. The severe earthquake in San Francisco destroyed much Mission property and interfered seriously with the work among the Chinese and Japanese. The earthquake in Santiago, Chili, injured the Board's property to the extent of many thousands of dollars, but in neither case was the life of any missionary sacrificed.

In China heavy floods have produced widespread destitution in many districts. The missionaries in the provinces of An Hui, Kiangsu, Shantung and Hunan have given much time and energy to the distribution of the gifts so generously sent from our own and other lands. In addition to sending considerable sums of money to the famine sufferers in China, the Board has also been able to send relief to the famine sufferers in Persia.

One of the important questions before the Board during the year has been the matter of such reorganization and readjustment as was necessary in view of the union with the Cumberland Church. As the Board of Missions and Church Erection of the Cumberland Church has had charge of the three causes of Foreign Missions, Home Missions, and Church Erection, these three Boards of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. have acted together, in conference with the Cumberland Board. At a joint conference in New York City, on December 12, the following resolutions were adopted:

First: That, after the meeting of the General Assembly in May, 1907, the Cumberland Presbyterian Board of Missions and Church Erection should continue and maintain its legal corporate existence, for the purpose of serving the best interests of all concerned, and performing such functions as may be deemed necessary; but that, as soon as agreements between the respective Boards of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. and the Cumberland Presbyterian Board have been reached, it should turn over its Home Mission stations and Home Mission work to the Board of Home Missions; its Foreign Mission stations and its Foreign Mission work to the Board of Foreign Missions, and its Church Erection funds and Church Erection work to the Trustees of the Church Erection Fund of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

Second: That the corporate members of the Cumberland Presbyterian Board of Missions and Church Erection should become and be made members of the above-named Boards of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., as follows: Home Missions, three; Foreign Missions, two; Church Erection, two.

Third: That a joint office for the South and Southwest should be maintained in St. Louis by these three Boards, which office should also be the general office of the Cumberland Presbyterian Board of Missions and Church Erection.

Fourth: That the work to be done through this joint office by any particular Board shall be under the general supervision of a Committee composed of the members of that Board who are also corporate members of the Cumberland Presbyterian Board, and that the appointment of agents, the granting of appropriations and loans, and the adoption of plans and policies for the South and Southwest by any particular Board shall be only after all such matters have been submitted to such Committee of said Board.

Fifth, That this Conference is unable to make a united recommendation as to the final disposition of "The Missionary Record," but that, inasmuch as this publication has been a great power in building up the work of this Board and is well known among our people, we strongly recommend that it be preserved for the present, either as a separate publication or in combination with some other similar publication, and to insure that its influence shall not be lost, the joint office above mentioned should have ample representation in it.

These resolutions were subsequently submitted to the Board of Foreign Missions and were approved by it, and the following action taken:

It was voted to approve of these resolutions, with the understanding with reference to Resolution IV that the Committees provided for in that resolution are genuine Committees, each of its own Board, and each consisting of regular members of its own Board and subject to complete authority of the Board, just as all its other Committees are, and with the understanding further, with reference to Resolution V, that the Board reserves the right to request the General Assembly to approve of the continuation of "The Missionary Record" as a distinct foreign missionary magazine under the Board of Foreign Missions of the United Church.

While still believing in the desirability of a distinct foreign missionary magazine in order that the cause of Foreign Missions may have adequate presentation to the Church, the Board is of the opinion that for the ensuing year it would be wise to continue "The Missionary Record," as at present. In accordance with the above resolutions, the Board would request the General Assembly, as provided in the Board's charter, to increase the membership of the Board from twenty-one to twenty-three, and to appoint the two members of the Cumberland Board of Missions and Church Erection, nominated by that Board, to membership in the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

Arrangements are under discussion between the Cumberland Women's Board and the Women's Boards of Foreign and Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. for the future administration of the women's work of the United Church.

The Foreign Missions of the Cumberland Church are located in Mexico, Japan and China, and among the Chinese in California. Joint meetings of the Missions of the Cumberland Church and the Board's Missions were held last Fall, and the work of the two Churches has been, since May 1, the beginning of the fiscal year of the Board, consolidated in one united work.

The last General Assembly referred to the various Boards concerned an Overture from one of the Presbyteries with reference to the desirability of increasing the salaries of missionaries. The Board has had this question under careful consideration for four years. The great economic changes which are taking place on the Mission fields, especially in the increase of prices and the advance in the cost of silver, have not only pressed on the foreign missionaries, all of whose salaries are paid in gold, but have also greatly increased the difficulties of the Board in maintaining the work paid for in native currencies. In making out its budget for the fiscal year of 1907-1908, the Board felt that some relief in both directions was imperatively necessary, and has ventured to incur financial liabilities to the extent of nearly $1,160,000 in order to maintain our existing work and to provide for the work formerly carried on by the Cumberland Board, to increase the salaries of the missionaries in Japan, Siam, Laos and parts of China, and to add a little, in the Missions where the emergency was most acute, to the inadequate appropriations for the native work. The Board earnestly hopes that the General Assembly may make some provision for the securing of this large amount and for even larger contributions, so that the needs which this budget does not cover may also be met.

The year has been one of marvelous change in the Orient. The intellectual awakening in China, the demand for higher education, the breaking with old customs, the adopting of things Western, has gone on with ever-increasing pace. There are now not less than 15,000 Chinese students in Tokyo, representing the best families from every province of China. These young men are open to Christianity. Two of the missionaries of the Board, Rev. Robert F. Fitch and Rev. J. E. Williams, have spent a portion of the year laboring with great success among these Chinese students. The Chinese Consul-General at Yokohama said, "I would that all the Chinese students might become Christians." A representative of the Chinese Government from Hunan declared that he hoped that all the students who came from Hunan would become Christians, for if they did not they would go back agnostics. Nothing indicates the wonderful change going on in China more than that the ancient Examination Halls in the old city of Ningpo have been sold and the proceeds devoted to the erection of a large school to accommodate 600 boys. Normal schools, law schools, schools for teaching mathematics and sciences, schools for the much despised barber class, schools for the rich and for the poor, schools in every temple and even schools for girls have sprung up like magic over the Empire.

In Korea the spiritual awakening is as marked as the intellectual awakening in China. The Koreans, though their dreams of an independent nationality have faded, are developing the nobler qualities of Christian manhood and womanhood. The account of the revivals now in progress is a remarkable one.

In India the spirit of prayer has wonderfully pervaded the whole Mission enterprise. The first Sunday in December was set apart by the missionary societies at work in India for a day of special pleading for God's blessing upon the millions in that land who had never even heard of Jesus Christ. A letter signed by the representatives of all the various churches in India was sent forth calling for special prayer on that day. The India Church was never more aggressive, more united, more imbued with the spirit of the Master.

In Persia, the people have wrung from the rulers the form of constitutional government. The death of the former Shah has not stopped the progress of "reform." The new Shah has not withdrawn any of his father's concessions.

The wonderful extension in the Philippines, the youngest of all the Missions of the Board; the development of self-support in Africa; the steady growth in Siam and Laos; the unusual manifestation of approval on the part of the rulers in that land; the munificent gift this year of the friend whose former gifts made possible the great industrial plant at Sidon, and the ever-increasing opportunities in the land of Syria and other Mission lands for educational and evangelistic work, all attest this seventieth year in the history of the Board is a most memorable one.

In Guatemala and Colombia the small force of the Board, coupled with the many political disturbances, have seriously interfered with any large ingathering of souls.

In Chili and Brazil there has been steady progress.

The Rev. Hunter Corbett, D.D., Moderator of the General Assembly, and veteran missionary of the Board in China, although granted an extra year's furlough in order that he might remain to the close of this Assembly, sailed in March, as he deemed it his duty to be present at the great Shanghai Conference (April 25), commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of the beginning of Protestant Mission work in China. As we look back over the one hundred years since Robert Morrison went to China, let us thank God, take courage, and hope and pray that the Church, recognizing its magnificent opportunities, will press forward in the great work of world evangelization.

The death list of missionaries as given on another page is a long and honored roll, two of the number having been in the service of the Board for more than a generation—the Rev. Benjamin Labaree, who went out under the Board to Persia in 1860, and Miss Isabella A. Nassau, who went to West Africa in 1868.

On March 18, the Board elected the Rev. Stanley White, pastor of the Hillside Presbyterian Church of Orange, N. J., as Secretary to succeed Dr. Ellinwood, whose advanced years and feeble health have obliged him to lay aside all active work, and would respectfully request the Assembly to confirm his election.

Mr. White is a grandson of Norman White, a former President of the American Bible Society; a grandnephew of William E. Dodge and the son of the Rev. Erskine N. White, D.D., Secretary of the Board of Church Election. Mr. White is at present a member of the Board, and both in that capacity and as a pastor has been a close student of Missions. By virtue of his deep missionary interest, his administrative ability, his solidity of judgment, his pastoral sympathy and his high character, we believe that Mr. White is admirably fitted for the work of the Secretaryship to which he has been called.

On November 5 Mr. James M. Speers was elected a member of the Board, to fill the vacancy caused by the death, on May 7, of Mr. Albert W. Pitkin. Rev. Charles R. Erdman, D.D., was elected to fill the vacancy made by the death of Rev. Robert Russell Booth, D.D. The Assembly is requested to confirm these elections made by the Board.

The terms of office of the following members expire with the meeting of this Assembly and it is recommended that they be re-elected, viz.:

| REV. JAMES S. DENNIS, D.D. | WILLIAM E. STIGER, ESQ., |

The Board nominates to the Assembly _____ to take the place of the Rev. Stanley White, whose membership in the Board expires with this Assembly.

Extract from the minutes of the Western Foreign Missionary Society, Pittsburg, Pa., August 28, 1832:

The Secretary presented letters from Mr. Pinney and from Rev. Dr. Miller, on the subject of the expediency of sending out two missionaries to Africa this Autumn, with the view of exploring the district of country contiguous to the Colony of Liberia, and fixing upon a proper site for the contemplated Mission, and it was Resolved, That if any missionary brother can be obtained to go out with Mr. Pinney, or if it shall be found practicable to make suitable provision for the same, that these missionaries be sent to Africa during the course of the coming Autumn.

The Liberia Mission was formally opened February, 1833. This year, therefore, marks full seventy-four years of labor on the West Coast of Africa.

It also chronicles an event that cast a gloom over the entire Mission force. Miss Isabella Nassau, who was appointed in 1869, and assigned to what was then the Gaboon and Corisco Mission, died at Batanga on June 12, 1906. With the exception of a few furloughs, taken at long intervals, Miss Nassau spent the entire period from 1868 to the time of her death in active service in West Africa. Miss Nassau was pre-eminently a missionary teacher. Her teaching was not confined to children and youth, but for many years she was the sole instructor of candidates for the ministry in this most needy field. The larger number of the native ministers composing the Corisco Presbytery were trained by Miss Nassau. She was a woman of no mean intellectual attainments, a most diligent student, a tireless worker who possessed the spirit of her Master in such an eminent degree that she was herself the best exemplification of the beneficent character of the Gospel which she so efficiently taught.

Secretary Halsey in his Report thus speaks of Miss Nassau's work:

A well-trodden path leads by Evangeline Cottage. Carriers from the distant interior pass on their way to the factory beyond. The good missionary, who for more than a generation has served the Lord in Darkest Africa, sits in the doorway of her cottage, and by aid of the baby organ induces the carrier to rest for a while on his journey. The Word is preached to these passers-by, some of whom are never seen again.

The ranks of the Mission were still further depleted by the resignations of Rev. R. H. Nassau, D.D., appointed to the Mission in 1861; Mrs. R. H. DeHeer and Mrs. M. L. Reutlinger, who joined the Mission in 1865 and 1866, respectively, and Mrs. Peter Menkel, appointed in 1892.

Extract from Minutes of the Board, May 21, 1906:

"The resignations of Mrs. M. L. Reutlinger and Mrs. R. H. DeHeer as missionaries of the West Africa Mission were presented and reluctantly accepted, with the expressed hope that it might be sometime possible for them to return, and with best wishes for their comfort and usefulness while in this country."

The Gaboon district was occupied June 22, 1842. Benito was opened in 1864; Batanga, 1885; Efulen, 1893; Elat, 1895; Lolodorf, 1897.

The past year missionaries have made extended explorations with a view to opening a new Station. It is hoped before the close of the year 1907 a new Station will be opened in the distant interior.

The significant events of the year in the West Africa Mission were the removal of the MacLean Memorial Station to the new site, the erection of the new church at Elat and the reopening of Batanga Station. The new Lolodorf Station lies three and a half miles to the west of the present Lolodorf.

In February the undulating building ground on which the Mission compound was to be erected was defined as a mass of stately trees and dense jungle. The following buildings were erected during the year: two dwellings, two schoolhouses (one for the Bulu and the other for the German), a hospital with eighteen beds, a dispensary and surgical room on the roof, storeroom for merchandise, house for tools and food, four boys' dormitories arranged on the plan of native village with public house across end of street running between rest of houses. This will shelter 120 boys. Three houses for workmen and one suitable for donkeys. Seventeen buildings in all. The materials for the new buildings were found mostly on the new site. The entire work was done by the natives under the oversight of the missionaries. Small-pox interfered seriously with the work for a time.

The great church at Elat was completed and dedicated on November 18, 1906. Notwithstanding a severe storm, more than 700 persons gathered on the day of dedication. The building seats from 900 to 1,000 people. It was entirely constructed and paid for by the people.

The reopening of Batanga, closed by order of the Mission last year on account of difficulties in the Station, was hailed with delight by both the missionaries and the native Christians.

The most encouraging signs of the work for the year were:

First, the growth and development of the native schools:

Five village schools were organized in connection with the Batanga Station. All these schools with but a small exception paid all that was asked; the native church made up the balance. The enrollment was nearly 200. The school work at this station shows much promise.

At Lolodorf six village schools have been established, all entirely self-supporting. Total enrollment, 298. The function of the village school is to instruct the children through the chart and primer, preparatory to their going to the Station for the more advanced training. They are the feeders for the Station school and relieve the congestion at the Station school. Each school is a strategic educational centre, moral and religious, opening a door to multitudes of boys and girls in the shadow of the bush.

Twenty-three village schools are in operation in the Kamerun field, of which sixteen were opened the past year, and with very few exceptions they are entirely self-supporting; that is, the schoolhouses are built, teachers paid and books and slates bought without expense to the Mission.

Second, the increase in systematic giving by the people:

At Batanga the plan of systematic giving was started the latter part of the year for the first time. Previous to this Batanga had done very little in the way of self-support. They have now pledged themselves to pay all the expenses during the year, and also to pay the expenses of the school at Ehikihiki. Of the 365 members only about seventy-two have not subscribed. The pledge for one year will amount to 100 marks; the least was one-half cent for one week—the most twelve cents for one week. This is an increase of many hundred per cent.

The Women's Missionary Society of Baraka contributed $28 during the year toward the support of a catechist among the Fang.

At Efulen twenty-seven members have been received into the church during the year on confession. Monthly offerings have been taken, bags or envelopes being used. Some have given sparingly; others with a definite income have given a tenth. One old widow and two elderly men have taken an advanced position, giving about one-half of their living. All the expenses of the village school have been borne by the natives themselves.

The five village schools, all self-supporting, are situated from ten to forty-five miles from Efulen. The people build the schoolhouses and furnish the food for the teacher, and the tuition pays the salary. If there is any deficit, the Christians at Efulen agree to make it up.

At Lolodorf sixteen members have been added to the church on confession. Regular monthly contributions have been taken, amounting to 205 marks, a large sum when the penury of the givers is considered. A portion of this money has been set aside for the new church building which is contemplated.

The church at Elat has developed in the grace of giving. October 26, 1902, Elat Church was organized. Gifts that day were 156 marks. 1903, gifts in four quarterly offerings, 154 marks; 1904, 128 marks; 1905, 180 plus 113 for a new church building. The giving for this special fund extended into this present year. In this year, 1906, eight instead of four offerings were made. The first six offerings under the old plan amounted to 135 marks. Then the pledge system was introduced and under that plan the September and October offerings amounted to 209 marks in two months. This is far in advance of anything ever done before. Plans are now being devised to use the money in such a way that the people can see what is being accomplished with their gifts.

Third, the increased zeal manifested in evangelistic work:

At Baraka a committee consisting of the members of the session and a number of evangelistic workers took up in earnest the matter of developing the spiritual life of the church and evangelizing the regions beyond. The entire country surrounding the Station was divided into twenty sections; a committee of two members for each one of these districts was appointed, whose duty was to visit the district not less than four times a month for the purpose of preaching and teaching. It is too soon to speak of results, but many church members have set to work and there are already signs of harvest.

At Batanga trips were made to different points for about fifty miles along the coast and back into the bush. A member of the church was appointed to explore into the interior with a view to locating a new site. Members of the church who were sent forth on itinerating trips came back with a glowing account of how the people gathered to hear God's Word.

At Efulen formerly the church sent out Christians on evangelistic trips, paying for food only; this year nine companies of two each were sent out, and they held 261 meetings with an average attendance of forty-one. Villages have thus been reached which could not otherwise have been touched by the missionary.

At Elat the students for the ministry have proved most efficient in visiting the nearby towns and preaching the Gospel. Everywhere people were found ready to hear. In many instances where the missionary went over ground that had been trodden before, the people begged him to "Stop and tell us just one or two things about God."

At Lolodorf Sunrise Prayer Meetings have been held throughout the year, conducted by missionaries and natives. Considerable itinerating has been done by the native elders and Christians well-grounded for the work, among the Ngumba, Mbele, Yewondo and Dwarfs. One elder spent an entire month among a new tribe and found a welcome for himself and his message. The missionaries have also done much itinerating in addition to the work of the native Christians, as for example: Mr. Krug, of Elat, reports a three weeks' trip to east and northeast, reaching the Jah and Nlon Rivers, speaking to not less than 4,000 people.

The growth of the work is seen especially at Elat.

The attendance on church service during the last session of school has averaged 800; on communion Sunday, 1,074. Sabbath-school averaged 694; of these 244 were school pupils and 450 from the town. There are fifteen classes, all but one taught by natives. Seven years ago thirteen seekers after the truth were found at Elat. Two of these are now in the church, one an elder. One died a believer. The other ten have not yet manifested by consistent living that they have an abiding faith in Christ. Some of them, however, are seeking church membership. The past year 350 confessed Christ, almost one a day. This shows how great the advance has been. Of those who have confessed Christ, 150 have been school-boys, while most of the other 200 have been women. The women outnumber the men three to one. Some of the men, however, are Christians in stature. One of the men who has not yet learned to read has confessed Christ. He owned nine wives. He is now trying to dispose of eight of them. Three were inherited at the death of his father, five from his brother, but he had himself married only one. The death of his brother was the means of bringing him to Christ. The brother had twenty-two wives. The fact that such wealth could not ward off death made a profound impression on this man. He is in a difficult position. He needs prayer that he may be kept true to the Saviour, whatever the cost in earthly goods or friends.

The work at Elat is advancing by leaps and bounds. Missionaries, candidates for the ministry, church members, advanced inquirers, school-boys seem imbued with the spirit of spreading the Gospel.

BARAKA STATION.

The report says:

It is with unfeigned regret that we find ourselves compelled to admit that the work at Baraka this year has not been a success. Although there have been one or two encouraging features, there have been a great many discouraging ones.

EVANGELISTIC.—

Retgression in the church work was soon evidenced, both by smaller audiences and diminished contributions. For, to be candid, we were much surprised or disappointed at this, for we could not but see from the very start that we had to deal with an organization which had developed too quickly and too suddenly for the small amount of reserve strength it possessed. After prayerful consideration the following conclusions were arrived at: 1. Discontinue the Sabbath evening service, with the exception of the last Sunday in each month, when the monthly missionary meeting will be held. 2. Divide the surrounding country into twenty sections. 3. Appoint a committee of two members for each of these districts, whose duty it will be to visit them regularly not less than four times a month, for the purpose of preaching and teaching.

A trip was made by Mr. Langlois to an island in the Munda River in order to ascertain whether the needs would justify the presence of an evangelist. A hearty welcome was given to the missionary, but it seemed impossible to open work.

A Young Men's Bible Class was instituted for a portion of the year, but it did not prove successful. The membership of the Gaboon Church is now 120. Twelve were received on confession of faith. The Catechumen class numbers twenty-four adults and twenty juniors.

During Mrs. Ogden's stay she supervised the meetings of the Woman's Missionary Society, and did much visiting. This Society contributed $28 during the year for a catechist among the Fang. Twenty-six members were received into the Fang Church.

EDUCATIONAL.—This year the school was under the care of Mr. and Mrs. Langlois. The work has been very trying from the start.

We began with ten Mpongwe boys and twenty girls as boarders, and twenty-nine boys and ten girls and a Fang boy as day-scholars. Dr. Johnson, by aid of the "Dorothy," succeeded in bringing thirty boys and four girls, making a total of 104.

The Fang children after a time became dissatisfied and homesick, and a fish famine aggravated the situation, so that on July 18, the Fang children were dismissed for the term. The Mpongwe school, though not large, gave much satisfaction, a regular curriculum of work being carried through without difficulty. In addition to the school work the girls were taught sewing, mending and laundry work, and all the scholars have had some instruction in carpentering, and work at least two hours a day on the Station. The last term was finished on November 9, with a total attendance of sixty-two—thirty-seven Mpongwe and twenty-five Fang.

ITINERATING.—Dr. Silas F. Johnson, having been assigned by the Mission to the Fang work, did noble service with the "Dorothy" between January 15 and October 15, the time he was stationed at Baraka. He journeyed on the launch "Dorothy" 103 days, visiting sixty-nine towns, forty of which had never been visited before. Almost all the accessible towns on the river and its branches were reached. In the course of this journey, Dr. Johnson made a map of the field, locating the towns and giving the number of people in each by actual count. A log-book was kept, showing all the trips made by the “Dorothy,” giving the time between the towns visited, also anchoring places, channels, sand banks and the like.

Dr. Johnson says of the “Dorothy” and of the work among the Fang:

The little “Dorothy” has been a most faithful servant, having been our home for one hundred and three days, and having carried us safely throughout the year without missing a single date. Mrs. Johnson has accompanied me almost constantly on these journeys.

There are not as many people in the upper part of the river as during Mr. Marling’s time, but there are more in the lower part, and during the past year the population of the river has increased.

It was a surprise and delight to find how many towns now located in out-of-the-way branches of the river had at one time been located near Angom Station, and the people had a remarkably clear knowledge of the Gospel, learned from Mr. Marling twelve or fifteen years ago. On the other hand, it makes one’s heart ache to know that a number of these towns have never been visited since they moved away from Angom, simply because there has not been sufficient missionary force to make it possible.

All the people except possibly some of the Catholics are glad to see the “Dorothy” coming, and complain that she does not come often enough.

The members of the Fang Church, 156 in number, reside in some fourteen different towns scattered from one end of the river to the other, and it is a very difficult task to keep in personal touch with them, or ascertain their true spiritual status. Quite frequently visits have been made to most of the fourteen towns, but it has been impossible to give to the church anything like adequate care.

Communion has been held three times and twenty-six members received. The church is sadly in need of a pastor who can give it his entire time.

There is a distressing lack of good native helpers in the Fang field, and it has been impossible to secure the number provided for in the appropriations, but the three or four employed have done good work.

The part of the report on the school would sound better if written in silent letters only, but perhaps the failure to make it a success this year may lead to success in the future. Thirty-four were enrolled, but were not pleased, and so many ran away and the balance became so discontented that it seemed wise to dismiss the school after about five months. The boys say they would like a school up in their own country, and all the Fang are anxious to have us reopen Angom or build a new Station.

BENITO STATION.

No missionaries were stationed at Benito during the year, the Board having been unable to comply with the demand of the Government that a Spanish teacher should be secured. The work, however, was placed in the hands of native helpers under the care of the missionaries of the Batanga Station.

EVANGELISTIC.—Two of the six churches in the Benito district have native pastors. Two have been in charge of licentiates and one under a local evangelist. The Benito Church has been regularly cared for by Elder Charles Makanga. Six other groups of Christians have been cared for by Bible readers who have done evangelistic work in surrounding regions. While the work has naturally suffered from the lack of missionary supervision, the Christians have manifested a commendable resolve to advance the interest of the Kingdom. The two native pastors visited all the churches and moderated the Sessions. Satisfactory progress was made in the matter of self-support. This was especially marked in the case of the Corisco Church. The six churches contributed not less than $375 for all purposes, supporting three Bible readers in addition to those employed by the Mission. This is a large sum of money when the earning capacity of the Christians is considered. One hundred and sixty persons united with the churches on confession of faith, a net gain in membership of 33 per cent.

EDUCATIONAL.—Five schools in as many towns have been maintained with satisfactory results, the people bearing a fair share of the expense in every case, and one school being entirely self-supporting.

The Corisco Church was in charge of Licentiate Bodumba Ibia, the noble son of a noble father. A portion of his report is given herewith. He is a master in his own tongue, but even in the English he is forceful, if at times not quite according to the grammarians :

The Corisco Church has made a step higher in mounting the hill of self-support. This hill is known and believed by both foreign, and especially the natives, that it is and should be impossible that the native church should reach its top. It is true that every church that could not start at the bottom, building up at the very foundation, could not reach the top; and giving not a proportionate, and without a system, but giving now and then will avail nothing.

The charge of the Apostle Paul to the churches of Galatia and of Corinth which we have adopted was the cause; and giving proportionate, and with system was the means of this moving which enabled us to do more than it has ever done. The church has a membership of ninety.

In this number of ninety, twenty-seven read the word of God themselves, eighteen of these are women, and nine are men. There are others who learn to read, too.

The evangelization of Africa is an immense work, but only men and the means from Africa is what is needed. Therefore let us pray, hope and wait. God will give the men, the means and the increase.

EDUCATIONAL.—The report continues :

We did not have the regular school at the beginning of the year because we had not room more than to keep four small boys, therefore we fixed the places for ten boarding pupils. So we found nine pupils and ten were day-scholars. These day-scholars were boys, girls and grown women. The boarding pupils were seven boys and two girls.

The friends gave most of the food and church gave a little part

This coming year has a hope of large school, and the people will give more help. We were teaching in the church, but we expect to have a separate place for school next year. The whole number that attended the school were nineteen pupils, and we had school seven months, May to November.

The valuable property at Benito has been in charge of one of the faithful helpers of the Mission.

BATANGA STATION.

The report of the Batanga Station states that the year has been one of the most promising for a long time.

EVANGELISTIC.—There are three churches within this district within a radius of about thirty miles—the Kribi, the Batanga and the Ubenji churches. The first and last named have had native pastors. Good work has been done in all these churches.

The Sunday morning services in the church here at Batanga have not been as well attended as we could wish, but it has averaged about 200. This low attendance is partly accounted for by rum, contact with corrupt white traders and the greed for wealth which prevails here at the beach. We believe, however, that there is a better spirit among the Christians than formerly. This is especially manifested in the attention which they give to God's Word at the services. But Ndenga (the local evangelist) is especially apt in presenting the truth to them, and young and old, yes, and little children, listen attentively. His beaming face and earnestness compel attention. He preaches because he loves to preach.

The Batanga Church now has a membership of 365. There have been about seventy on the roll of the Catechumen class this year, but some of these have long been neglecting the meetings and so have dropped, while others were dropped for greater sins. Quite a number, however, have expressed their desire to become Christians and wish to become members of the class. An effort has been made to get the children into the Sunday-school, with the result that the average attendance has been about 100.

That there has been a constant warfare between light and darkness is especially manifest in Session meetings, where members are constantly being called for chastisement. When it is a question of either leaving some sin or having the name removed from the roll it becomes a real struggle. To leave the sin is often a difficult matter and a severe test, and the surprise is, not that more are not able to do it, but that so many do it. There has been some visiting in the towns, but not as much as we would like because of the Station work which, especially at this Station, keeps one at home. But individuals have been urged to leave their sins and seek the Saviour.

ITINERATION.—There have been few regular trips made this year. There were a few trips to the Mebeya. Different points for about fifty miles along the coast and back into the bush from some of these places for several miles were reached several times during the year. One of the members of Batanga Station who was appointed on a committee to explore part of the interior with a view to locating a new site spent fifteen days in traveling and itinerating. The Batanga Church sent two members out for three weeks itinerating in a territory rarely visited by a missionary. They came back with a glowing account of the way the people gathered to hear God's Word. They were greatly surprised at the reception given to them by the people.

EDUCATIONAL.—There have been two terms at the Station, and one and a half of the village schools during the year. The attendance was very regular. Most of the pupils were enthusiastic, many of them studying German. One new feature of the school was the Teacher's Normal Class. The terms of the Station and village schools were so arranged that all the teachers would be in the Station school for two terms where they received special training. In addition to the direct supervision of the superintendent, instruction was given to them in arithmetic, geography, history and grammar. In the first term eighty-four were enrolled, and in the second 120 for the two terms of twenty-four weeks. The tuition received amounted to $83. Nothing was furnished to the pupils free. No one was taken as a boarder within the two-mile limit, and no pupil was allowed to advance until he had passed a suitable examination. The school work is full of promise for the future. The people have shown that they want the school, both by the large number of children sent, by the way they sign the contracts, and by the amount paid for tuition.

MEDICAL.—The medical report of the Station is short and significant, when it is taken into consideration that the doctor in charge was also the superintendent of the Station school. Eleven hundred and ninety-two patients were treated from February to November. One hundred and eight patients were treated in the Hospital.

CARAVANS.—An effort was made during the year to secure an educated native to take charge of the caravan work. The attempt has been only partially successful. The caravan work is very arduous, often taking the entire strength of the missionary during the year. About 1,200 loads, or 30 per cent. more than any previous year, were made ready and sent to the interior.

LOLODORF STATION.

The moving of the Station from the old to new Lolodorf proved to be in the interest of efficiency. A scourge of smallpox in the early part of the year interfered with the work. Its origin was traced to the interior. Under the vigorous quarantine measures of Dr. Lehman, in which he received the full aid and support of the Government, the scourge was confined within narrow limits. For a time, however, travel was blocked, and pest camps were established in the bush. Infected houses were burned, hundreds of people vaccinated and all public services suspended. The German officer in charge of the Lolodorf Station sent a warm note of appreciation to Dr. Lehman for his services during the time of the smallpox epidemic.

It is of interest to note that the land of the new site has been accurately measured and found to be 250 acres. Telephonic connection has now been established between the Lolodorf military station and Kribi on the Coast. This will prove of great advantage to the missionaries at the Station.

EVANGELISTIC.—The work of the young church has been gaining upon the interest and affections of the people. The attendance during the year was between 200 and 600, depending upon whether school was in session or not. In most cases persons who were devoted to the services at the old site found their way to the new Station, and while there were some losses from the immediate neighborhood, these have been more than made good by the increasing attendance of the people of many villages surrounding the new site. Sixteen persons have been added to the church on confession of their faith.

The Bible school which precedes the morning service had an average attendance of 250. An elder of the church is superintendent and the teachers have been drawn mostly from the native Christians.

On Mondays the meetings of the Nsamba were held. This class includes all the members of the church and all others who are in their last probationary year before uniting with the church. The meeting of what is known as the Esulan—those who are in their first year of probation—was held on Tuesday afternoon. The attendance has varied from 50 to 300.

The missionaries were not able to make as many evangelistic trips during the year as usual, owing to interruption by smallpox, and the demands made upon them due to the transfer of the Station. Mr. Fraser spent one week among the Ngumba and Bulu, west and south of the Station, reaching some villages which had not been visited by a missionary.

Dr. Lehman made two short trips. One was to Malumba, where he saw about eighty Dwarfs and vaccinated many people, including some Dwarfs. Miss Mackenzie has made numerous visits into adjacent villages, and Mrs. Lehman reports thirty or more meetings. The quiet work of the women of the Station, though without observation, has reached many a woman's heart, has shed light upon the path of many an oppressed wife and mother stumbling in the dark, and has added not a little to the spiritual uplift of the people.

EDUCATIONAL.—The school work has had its share of attention in connection with the transfer and rebuilding of the Station, and while this weighed a little heavy upon the taxed teachers, the results have been very gratifying. The work has been constructive and expansive in respect to better organization, more exacting requirements, the establishment of more village schools, and enlarged effort for studying German. The average number of boarding pupils attending while at Lolodorf was eighty-six; at the new site, 130.

The total average attendance at the old Station was 132. The new site, 170. One of the new features was the introduction of the contract plan whereby 147 boys, their parents or guardians consenting, entered into an agreement to attend the boarding school in periods varying from one to three years. Another advance was made in the grading and organization of the school. In the line of industrial training, some advance has been made. A considerable number of the boys have confessed Christ, and many have grown in grace as well as in knowledge. The year closed with the school at MacLean Memorial Station on a well-organized basis.

MEDICAL.—The record of the year, which is incomplete, shows 1160 patients treated, beside the care of the school-boys. Fifteen hundred and seventy-two marks were received in payment for medicine or services. In the hospital, which was completed in June, there was an average of ten patients daily.

TRANSLATING.—The following Epistles were translated by Mr. Fraser—Philippians, Colossians, 1st and 2d Thessalonians, 1st and 2d Timothy, Titus, Philemon, and two chapters in Hebrews.

ELAT STATION.

Two outbreaks of smallpox interfered seriously with the work of the Station during the year. Three of the school-boys and the wife of one other were stricken, one woman dying from the disease. In the providence of God the missionaries escaped.

EVANGELISTIC.—Church services and classes for probationary instruction were held regularly, except during the periods of quarantine necessitated by the smallpox. In the last three months a deepening interest was manifested, indicative of revival spirit among the people. This apparently dates from special services for men held on Sabbath afternoons in the schoolhouse before the new church was completed.

There are forty-four members of the church in good standing. Two additional elders have been ordained and installed during the year. Elat Church has two candidates for the ministry, and in addition six men of known character and more than average ability will ask to be taken under the care of Presbytery at the next meeting. These six are all in the German department of the school, and there are others who are thinking of entering upon this work.

EDUCATIONAL.—Smallpox interfered seriously with the school year. The enrollment the first four weeks was 430, and the second nine weeks 350. The last term had an enrollment of 425, with a daily average attendance of 393. The tuition collected from the scholars amounted to $116.50. The enrollment of girls this year is larger than last. Of the twenty enrolled, sixteen were from a distance and from ten different villages. It is most difficult to secure the attendance of girls at the school. In addition to the sessions in the morning, the girls have been taught the use of the needle, and also how to make bibobola (native bread) from the cassava, grown on the place. This served the double purpose of meeting an emergency, when food was scarce, and of training good housekeepers for future Elat homes.

The training school of the Mission was held at Elat. In the first term eight students for the ministry, two from the Coast, were taught the Acts of the Apostles. In the second term the studies included Old Testament History. These candidates are the living epistles of the Mission. It is to such men we must look for the evangelization of Africa.

INDUSTRIAL.—The industrial work has made rapid progress during the year, albeit the industrial superintendent had to spend much time in supervising the erection of the two new dormitories, each to hold eighty boys, and the church, and a new residence for the physician. On the farm, the fields of cassava and sugar-cane started last year are very fruitful. More than 1,000 rubber trees have found their way from nursery to plantation.

Classes in carpentry show gratifying progress, as does also a class in tailoring.

MEDICAL.—The smallpox epidemic gave extra work to the two physicians, Dr. Lippert and Dr. Johnston. Unfortunately the good work of vaccination was stopped by lack of virus. The hospital of sixteen beds has been full most of the time. A new dispensary 12 x 24 feet was built during the year. This adds to the efficiency of the medical work.

EFULEN STATION.

The work at Efulen has moved forward steadily in all its departments.

EVANGELISTIC.—Twenty-seven members were received into the church on confession of their faith. The total membership is now seventy-two. At the beginning of the year the Sunday-school was placed under the care of native superintendent and teachers, the missionary also teaching some of the classes. The experiment has proved eminently successful. The average attendance in Sunday-school for the year has been 515.

The meetings for women continue to be a source of strength to young women in withstanding the temptations about them. So many people have come from a distance to spend the Sabbath at the Station that a meeting was organized for women, this meeting being held at the same time as the men's meeting.

Different members of the Station have spent 102 days in itinerating trips. Special meetings have been conducted in villages, and while primarily intended for women many of these gatherings have been attended by boys and men.

The Inquiry classes were continued during the year, the enrollment at the close of the year being a little less than 300. Only a few of the school-children have been placed on the inquiry roll, many of the older boys stating that their lives have not been consistent, but that as soon as they could "rectify their palavers," they wished to be placed on the roll again.

The superstition of the people showed that even after a dozen years of preaching many still believe there is some efficacy in having their names on the roll. It is significant that the number of requests to be enrolled this year are fewer than in former years, while the attendance on the preaching service is larger, which would seem to indicate that the importance of a consistent Christian life is gaining ground. Some idea of the strength of superstition still prevalent at Efulen after twelve years of the preaching of the Gospel can be gained from the following incident related by the Rev. W. C. Johnston:

Only yesterday, in a village about a mile from here, a woman asked me to come in and see her daughter. She has been sick for six weeks. So-and-so (one of our church members) had made medicine for her, and had driven the witch from the lower part of the abdomen, where it had been guarding the way and preventing a child from being born. But now the trouble was up in the chest. They agreed to bring the woman up to have the doctor treat her.

Last week one day as I was entering a village about twelve miles from Efulen, I found the people gathered at a stream at the foot of the village. A sick woman was lying beside the stream and some women were holding an umbrella over her. In talking with her I found that she had been taken sick the day before with severe pains in the abdomen. There was also a kettle of bark juice and water there beside the stream and a large goat tied beside the path. As I was standing there talking some one said, "What are you waiting for? Put her into the water." The women picked her up and carried her into the stream, which was scarcely knee deep. They had a stick across the stream to rest her head on, as the woman did not seem able to hold her head up. Then the medicine man, who had a large knife in his hand, called the men to bring on the goat. The goat was brought and its throat cut over the kettle of bark juice. Then the goat was carried into the stream and the warm blood was squirted over the sick woman. Then four well women lay down in the stream with their feet up stream beside the sick woman, and the blood was poured over them as well. Then the medicine man took the kettle of bark juice and blood, and with a bunch of leaves sprinkled it over the women in the stream. He kept saying, "Witch, get out of this, go away and sit down, don't trouble us any more, etc." All this time the women lay shivering in the cold water.

A man in the same village had one eye bulged out, or rather hanging down on his cheek, about half as large as a hen egg. He would never see out of it again. He told me some one had thrown a leopard's whisker and hit him, and had in this way caused a witch to get into him and push his eye out. The other eye was becoming affected, and I urged him to come to the doctor at once. He came a few days later. A Bulu man wanted to try his hand on making him medicine before he came.

EDUCATIONAL.—There was a successful school work done at Efulen during the year. The enrollment of boarding and day-scholars has been 234. Of this number seventy-four have been studying German. A German teacher for the entire year is a luxury that has not often been permitted to Efulen boys to enjoy. The scholars taking German have contracted for one year, 1906, and on the last day of school the scholars were told that next year they would be required to contract for three years. This is in accordance with the policy of the Mission and bodes well for the future. Only a few girls have been gathered into the school.

A Literary Society was organized. The society met once a week and had a program consisting of songs, recitations in German, essays and debates in Bulu. This means a large advance for the "bush" boy and girl.

MEDICAL.—A new hospital and dispensary were built during the year. The twelve beds were in constant use. The dispensary work was unusually large. The receipts from the natives amounted to 1,002 marks.

Two new dormitories for boys and one for girls and a new dwelling house were completed during the year.

The total contributions, as far as reported from all the churches of the West Africa Mission, amount to $1,089.52, as compared with $928.35 for last year, and in several cases this does not include a considerable balance still on hand. Much has also been spent on buildings which does not appear in the reports.

A comparison of the field receipts for three years from all sources, including church contributions, medical, school fees, boys' work, garden produce, etc., is interesting:

|------------------------|------------|
| In 1904 they were..... | $2,600 00 |
| " 1905 " " | 3,834 00 |
| " 1906 " " | 4,984 00 |

NOTE.

The following is a copy of the action of the Board, December 3, 1906, on the resignation of the Rev. R. H. Nassau, D.D. :

"The Africa Committee and the Executive Council wish to place on record their appreciation of Dr. Nassau's long and eminent services. Going to Africa in 1861, he has labored with single-hearted and self-sacrificing devotion. He has done much and suffered much in the cause of Christ. We assure him of our high personal regard, our confidence in his Christian character, and our cordial hope that in his declining years in the home land he may enjoy the quiet opportunity for literary work for which he is so richly qualified and which he has so long desired to do."

MISSIONS IN CHINA.

These are important times in the history of China. The "awakening," of which we have heard so much in the last year or two, would seem at the present time to be almost complete. Western learning, colleges, and schools, are the chief topics of the day. But though the power of the West, to "hustle the East," in these respects, has been fully demonstrated, yet, "East is East and West is West" still; and while education is opening the eyes of the Chinese to the fact that they have been mistaken in supposing that China was the central pivot around which rotated all the lesser kingdoms of the world, yet the Chinese probably think more of China to-day than they ever did in the past, and "China for the Chinese" is their motto. A spirit of independence is rife, and "kow-towing" to the foreigner is becoming a thing of the past. This independence is seen as much in the churches as elsewhere, and the foreign missionary has this problem to cope with. Independence is a quality to be admired; but independence, without being properly balanced by sound judgment, often proves disastrous, and herein lies the danger for the Chinese, and especially for the Church. The Chinese pulpit now seldom fails to impress upon its hearers that China, to become prosperous and powerful like Western nations, must adopt the Christian religion. To prevent this from becoming the chief motive of those desirous to enter the Church, the foreign missionary, as never before, must stand by the cardinal doctrines of repentance for sin, salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ, and amenability to future judgment.

China has had an awakening to a sense of temporal need. She needs another awakening—an awakening to a sense of sin and of spiritual need.

We would do well to remember that, notwithstanding the much-discussed "Western learning," "medical aids," and other "aids," to forward the kingdom of Christ, there is no improvement on Pentecostal methods, and the power which brought 3000, in one day, to the foot of the cross in apostolic times, is available for the Church to-day. The "old, old story" of the cross is "the victory that overcometh the world."

The Central China Mission has been divided during the year, the four older Stations of the Mission retaining the name Central China Mission, while Nanking and Hwai-yuen have been constituted a new Mission, to be known as the Kiang-an Mission.

The reinforcements for the year were Miss Lillian A. Taylor, who was married to Mr. Herriott, in Shanghai, and Miss Edith C. Dickie, who had been for ten years one of the workers in the offices of the Board.

The General Assembly at its meeting in May, 1906, approved of the withdrawal of the Presbyteries in China, connected with the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, and their union with other Presbyterian bodies in China in the formation of a united, independent Presbyterian Church in China. This approval was cabled to China, where the new Synod of Central China was organized on May 26. There are now four independent Presbyterian Synods in China, namely, the Synods of Manchuria, of Fukien, of East Quangtung, and of Central China, or the five provinces. There remain the two Synods of North China and of West Quangtung to be independently organized. The following statement of the steps leading up to the union in Central China is of historic interest:

Until the present year the ministers and churches of the Central China Mission have been connected with the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America. Four Presbyteries had been formed, and these had been organized into the Synod of Central China.

For many years the subject of separation from the "Home Church" and union with other Presbyterian bodies in a national Church has been the subject of much prayerful consideration. At the time of the General Missionary Conference held in 1890 there was a meeting of 120 Presbyterian missionaries from all parts of China, at which meeting many expressed a desire for closer union, but the time was not ripe then for its accomplishment.

In 1899 the Southern Presbyterian Mission overtured its sister Presbyterian Missions in regard to a meeting in connection with the General Missionary Conference which had been planned for 1901, and proposed that at this meeting Presbyterian Union and kindred topics should be discussed. An encouraging response was received, but the Boxer outbreak prevented the proposed meeting. A committee of five different branches of the Presbyterian denomination arranged for a meeting in October, 1901, and during the Boxer outbreak a social gathering of sixty-five Presbyterians representing eight Missions, was held at Shanghai, at which addresses were made and resolutions were passed favoring the plans of the Committee.

The October conference was held as arranged, and was attended by fifty-four delegates from ten different Missions. At this conference it was agreed to organize a national "Committee on Presbyterian Union," and the Conference resolved "to take steps for uniting more closely the Presbyterian churches, hoping to facilitate the ultimate attainment of a wider union."

The Committee on Presbyterian Union met in 1902, in 1903 and in 1905, and formulated a Plan of Union looking toward the formation of six independent union Synods and an ultimate union in one National General Assembly.

In accordance with this plan the Central China Mission has severed its connection with the General Assembly of the homeland and has joined with missionaries of the Southern Presbyterian Church in forming the "Synod of Five Provinces." The union embraced all the Presbyteries which have been organized in Central China—in the provinces of Anhui, Chehkiang and Kiangsu—and it is hoped that the Synod may include all the Presbyterian churches in the provinces of Honan and Hupeh and perhaps those of Szechuen. The Presbyteries are: Anhui, Hangchow, Kiangtseh, Nanking and Ningpo; that of Kiangtseh being composed of ministers and churches connected with the Southern Presbyterian Mission and others with our own Central China Mission. The Synod includes sixty ministers and thirty-three churches, with some 3,300 communicants.

The new Synod was organized at Nanking on the 26th day of May, 1906. The cable brought congratulatory messages from the American Assemblies, and a beautiful spirit of love and fellowship prevailed.

NINGPO STATION.

The work in the Ningpo field is one of the oldest and most extensive and best developed pieces of Mission work connected with the Presbyterian Church in China. Problems of independence and self-support, of spiritual life and purity, and freedom from political entanglements,—all the problems of organized Christianity have to be faced by churches and pastors in this field. The report states:

It is encouraging to see how the pastors are facing the difficulties which threaten the Church, both within and without, and how they long for the spiritual quickening which alone will solve the problems.

A graded standard of qualification for admission to church membership has been adopted by the Presbytery; and a deep appreciation of the need of greater care in admitting members, gives us ground to hope that the sessions will make an honest effort to raise the standard in their several churches.

There are twenty-two out-stations in the Ningpo field, besides between the two points, Ningpo and Yu-yiao, where missionaries reside. Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker are alone at the latter point. Mr. Shoemaker reports:

I visited all but one of the out-stations during the year, spending several days in most of them, and wherever possible, a series of evening evangelistic services were conducted.

Mrs. Shoemaker reports thirty-five days spent in the five villages near Yu-yiao, which she has been visiting regularly for over a year.

Mrs. Shoemaker further reports forty-six days (aside from travel) spent in thirteen of the country stations, calling and teaching as opportunity offered.

During the last two months I have been giving English lessons twice a week to the daughters of one of the best families in the city. I was loth to accept the invitation, as I am not fond of the work, but it seemed an opportunity to carry the truth into a home where otherwise it might not enter. Both mother and daughters in this home can read and write their own language, something that one rarely finds, even in the better homes.

Absence of missionaries on furlough has cut down the working force of the Station, so that only two members, instead of five, have had to carry on the country work. Only two of the Bible women were also free to go itinerating. One of these was a former Bible woman, now a voluntary worker who accepts only one-half salary when she is free from home cares.

EDUCATIONAL.—There are five day-schools in the field, and also two self-supporting schools, and a school supported by the gentry, and conducted by two graduates of the Ningpo Academy. Mr. Shoemaker visited this school at Dzaing-Ding and was much pleased with the place given to Christianity in the work. They sing hymns, as well as other songs; there are talks given on virtue which are Christian in their teaching; Romanized and the Church catechism are studied Sabbath forenoon, and in the afternoon many of the boys go with Mr. Zi to the chapel service.

Ningpo Academy.—Mr. Wright reports:

As was the case last year there have been a number of difficult cases of discipline, and the students have been perilously near rebellion more than once. It was fortunately possible to avoid an open outbreak without any sacrifice of principle.

The most notable event of the year was the graduation in January, of nine boys, the first graduating classes since school was reorganized.

All nine made an excellent, and some of them an unusual record. Three are studying in institutions of higher learning (two at Hangchow College), where they stand high in their class; one is in charge of the Mokanshan Rest House, and the rest are teaching; they have formed an Alumni Association and hope to meet for reunion every year.

The change in the price of tuition noted last year has had the expected effect. The number of heathen boys has increased and the supremacy of the Christian influence of the Christian boys has been threatened. But as though to meet this very demand, the Christian boys have become more zealous.

Three heathen boys have come before the session of the Ningpo Church, and one has been admitted.

Girls' School.—Miss Rollestone, and later Miss Duncan, had charge of the girls' school, Miss Annie Morton and her sister having charge of the Anglo-Saxon Chinese School. Twelve of the girls have been admitted to church membership. The very fruitful evangelistic meetings have been conducted during the year by Miss Yu, a young Chinese woman, educated in a foreign school, who is being greatly used in evangelistic work among her own people.

Anglo-Chinese Girls' School.—The enrollment in the school was fourteen. The school has already made a deep impression on the community, and if properly equipped with buildings would accomplish a great work in reaching the girls and women of the more influential classes.

Ningpo College.—

Mr. Fitch continued in charge of this institution until the Chinese New Year. At this time, because the trustees refused to permit him to continue Christian teaching in the school, he withdrew, accepting their offer of financial reimbursement. Thus ends another attempt to make a school both Christian and self-supporting in character; but we are sure that the words and example of Mr. Fitch have served to make the men with whom he has dealt more tolerant toward Christianity and that he has appreciably helped in the great work of bringing about complete religious toleration in the schools supported by the Chinese, whether governmental or private. The head teachers in the college are still Christians, for the trustees were unable to find heathens of sufficient ability to entrust with the care of the institution. The college becomes, therefore, strictly secular in character, for there is no Confucian worship, and will be none so long as these men have charge.

The training classes for men and women were conducted as usual.

Our own workers' bi-monthly conferences are held as regularly as circumstances will permit. The bond of unity and sympathy which these meetings develop, and the stimulus to more faithful effort, both in self-culture and evangelistic work, are becoming more and more evident. There is a growing strength of purpose to be and do that which is worthy of the Master. The circulating library with some fifty or sixty volumes which has been established in connection with this conference, is being greatly appreciated by our workers.

The C. E. convention was held in Yu-yiao this year, with an attendance of about 200.

Mr. Wright and Miss Cunningham were married on April 11, and two weeks later Mrs. Cunningham, who had been in failing health for some time, passed away. She was not a regular missionary, but had entered earnestly into the work of her daughter.

SHANGHAI STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—There are three organized churches connected with the Mission in Shanghai, with a total communicant membership of 386, of whom thirty-one were added on examination during the year. The largest of the three churches is at South Gate, with 192 members. The Lowrie Memorial Church reports 120 members, seventy of whom were men.

One Bible woman has been supported by the women of the church. The Christian Endeavor Society among the men has held a weekly prayer meeting for their own upbuilding and also appointed different members to conduct evangelistic meetings in the chapel during the week and services at the municipal jail on Sunday.

A new impetus to this Sunday afternoon gathering was given by removal into the attractive chapel dedicated this Spring. This chapel is primarily erected for the daily prayer service.

The pastor of Hongkew Church reports for this church a membership of sixty-six, twice as many men as women; contributions to the amount of $453, certainly a good per cent., which is gratifying when we recall they have within the last few years changed their location and erected a church edifice.

The country work is very inadequately provided for, Miss Silver being the missionary who has given her time to it. So many missionaries have lived for so many years in Shanghai that it is sometimes assumed that the country round must be thoroughly evangelized. Miss Silver writes:

One large town was visited for the first time, and here they found a superior class of well-to-do people, whose best families welcomed them into their homes.

The place is only twelve miles down the river from Shanghai, yet we could find no tradition of any one having been there to tell these people of Christ. It was hard to tear ourselves away with cordial-faced women on either side of the street urging, "Come into our house and talk."

During the year eleven trips to the country were made and twenty-nine visits of from a day to three weeks were made to eighteen different villages. This but touches the possibilities of this field.

There was always opportunity to reach scores of those who had never heard before. It will not be easy to forget the scene in one large farmhouse, crowded with the neighbor women just in from the fields, sitting about on looms or spinning-wheel benches, each holding her youngest. We had been talking forenoon and afternoon, our throats were husky, daylight was fading, yet we endeavored to put before the women in the simplest, most direct way to reach their hearts the claim of our Heavenly Father to our love and worship.

EDUCATIONAL—Girls' Boarding School.—Miss Cogdal reports:

Nine years ago there was not a girls' school in all China except the few Mission schools, but now they are "all the rage" if we may use such an expression. They are established all around us, even in remote country towns and villages. In the beginning, it looked as if those who opened these schools were taking the mission schools as their patterns, but now one would hardly think so; many of them have no idea how a school ought to be conducted. A photograph recently presented to us by the principal of the neighboring girls' school in her attitude of unsheathing a big sword may illustrate somewhat the spirit of these schools, while war songs and military drill is the daily exercise of these future amazons of China. This spirit, and the compulsory worship of Confucius in these schools, has helped to foster antagonism to Christianity.

In view of these conditions we feel the imperative need of enlarging our school and receiving some of these girls to save them from such an atmosphere of rebellion and pretension of learning. These girls are able to pay their board and tuition, if we only had the house-room for them.

Our urgent need for a new building has been stated so pertinently in our reports of the last three or four years that it seems hardly worth while repeating it. Fancy two women cooking for a household of seventy-five people in a kitchen three feet by five, outside of the kitchen range, not as large as a good-sized bed, and fancy a household of seventy-five people without a bath-room.

We had an attendance of sixty-five the first term and of sixty-eight in the Spring term, the largest attendance we have ever had.

We have never had such a successful year in every way as the past, and the four girls who graduated this July have a higher standard of scholarship and better qualifications to work as teachers than any we heretofore have graduated; three of them are coming back to us to take the two years' normal course.

Fruitful evangelistic meetings were held in the school by Dr. H. A. Johnston and Miss Yu.

Lowrie Boys' School.—As reported last month, the school suffered severely from the boycott directed against American interests, Miss Posey's having been affected by the same movement, and having lost about half its pupils. The two schools were combined with good results.

The new year opened with a larger number than were in both combined at the close of the previous term, and we had enrolled eighty-three pupils—more than ever before—fifty-one of whom were boarders.

The former students rallied to our help and formed an "Old Students' Society," with the manager of the Commercial Press as president, and a number of prominent business men on the list as officers and members. They assumed the support of a highly qualified teacher of Chinese literature at a salary of $40 per month, and at a recent meeting they agreed also to furnish an assistant, who will probably receive $20 per month.

They are taking an interest in the general working of the school, offering prizes for excellence in scholarship and athletics; they desire that the school shall take its place as a thoroughly up-to-date institution.

GENERAL.—Three women's classes were held, and in March Miss Yu conducted a three days' series of meetings at the South Gate. Dr. Farnham's work in connection with the Chinese Tract Society, of which he has been Corresponding Secretary since its organization nearly twenty-eight years ago, has continued.

The translation of the Bible into the colloquial has always claimed a share of the time and interest of Dr. Farnham since his arrival in China, and he and Mr. Silsby have for years been on the Translation Committee. It is hoped soon to have the whole Bible in the language of this locality.

HANGCHOW STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—In the Hangchow Church sixteen members have been received on confession of faith. Only one has been suspended. There is a total of 177 members, 101 of whom are men, making a net gain of twelve over last year. The Sunday-school, which Mr. Judson superintends, numbers 235. This church, housed in a commodious edifice seating about 500, is now one of the strongest churches in the Synod of the Five Provinces. Special evangelistic services were held in the church after Chinese New Year, attended by large numbers of heathens. There were twenty or thirty inquirers.

The monthly union prayer meeting of all the churches in the city, in which the problems, individual, church and national, that face China to-day have been discussed and prayed over, has resulted in much good to the overflowing numbers of Christians who attend.

At Sin-z there are 121 members, eighty-eight of whom are men. Nine were received on confession of faith.

There were seven baptisms in Tong-yang during the year, and twenty-two in the whole field. These Christians, many of whom cannot read, need careful instruction, as with few exceptions they have only the barest rudiments of the Christian faith.

Only two foreign ladies have ever visited this field, and no foreign lady has ever visited the large city of Tong-yang.

There are two chapels in the city and five out-stations. These members of the Station have been at work part of their time in the country field.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Hangchow College.—The enrollment of the college is 110.

Mr. Chow, who it will be remembered took charge of the Hangchow exhibit to the World's Fair two years ago, and was the first Chinese Commissioner from China to the General Assembly, and who went last year with another exhibit to the International Exhibition in Belgium, was secured last February to take the position of Chinese Superintendent, on a salary of $50 per month, which is exceptionally low for such an efficient man. The pecuniary sacrifice which he is making is no small one.

A difficult problem concerns the education of boys from Christian families who can pay only in part, and sometimes not at all. To educate them entirely free would be demoralizing. It must be solved by impressing upon the minds of both parent and child that an education worth having must be worked for, and then means must be devised to provide such needy students with work, so as to earn at least their own board. During the last half of the year eleven boys were employed to mop floors, clean windows, do garden work, etc., taking the place of hired men. One young man stayed out a year to teach a day-school and earn his tuition. The idea of working one's way through college is quite foreign to the Chinese mind, but it is expected that it will have an educational value.

A number of the students have become inquirers and some have joined the Church.

There have been thirty-one boarders and three day pupils in the Girls' Boarding School, the girls ranging in age from nine to twenty-two. The Station has two boys' day-schools and one girls' day-school, and a primary day-school.

The girls' day-school in the upper city is taught by a graduate of the Southern Presbyterian girls' school. Under her energetic management seventeen pupils have been enrolled. She has made the school self-supporting by accepting as her salary only the tuition which the pupils bring in.

SOOCHOW STATION.

A fine new street chapel has been given to the Station by Mr. Tooker. Mr. Crawford writes:

Being placed directly on the street, and also on the street that leads to the great public park of Soochow, we have always had good crowds when it was opened for preaching. Along with Mr. Nyien, I preached in this chapel. We had large numbers of people who would sit for a long time and listen to the preaching. We are hoping to add some tables, books, magazines, papers, etc., and thus give the people a chance to read and converse with us as well as to give us a chance to preach the Gospel to them.

Mr. Crawford has made two trips to Dong-keu, and the work has been maintained in the two out-stations of Ng-kong and Moh-toh.

Miss Moomau reports:

On my return last fall I found affairs in a great upheaval at the girls' school. Only a few scholars had returned, because of the animosity existing between the Bible woman, Mrs. Yōn, and the teacher. Knowing of the approaching meetings at the M. E. Mission I insisted upon the teacher deferring her resignation until after those meetings, and I closed school and sent my three helpers—the two Bible women and teacher—to the M. E. Mission to remain during the meetings.

In a few days the hoped for result came—a deep conviction of sin, confession, and peace making. Since then there has been a spirit of harmony and God has blessed us.

Through this mother we found admittance to a Purity Home in Moh-doh and responsive hearts, not a few, in the lady in charge and many of the inmates, about forty in number. The lady in charge came and spent a week with my Bible-woman. Another has been in the hospital about a month, breaking the opium habit, while others come to the clinic.

Boys' School.—Dr. Hayes met with disappointment in the teaching station, one of the apparently most reliable teachers turning out to be a gambler.

One boy was taken from the school because he had become a Christian. His father sent him to a new government school opened within a stone's throw of our place.

Seven of our boys in school now are church members; five of the number are children of Christian parents.

There are three day-schools for boys and two for girls, with a total enrollment of 157. Of her girls' school with an enrollment of twenty, Miss Moomau writes:

These girls are not ordinary day-school girls. Three of them are from families who are among the wealthiest commercial families in Soochow and the others are from good families who are able to pay for their tuition.

What we need is a large native house where we can accommodate those who want to live with us.

TOOKER MEMORIAL HOSPITAL.—Dr. Cattell was absent most of the year on furlough. Dr. Fitch, now married to Dr. Tooker, of Hunan, reports for the hospital:

A wonderful year of awakening this has been for China. One of our friends, a military official, on the eve of taking his sons to Japan for education, said to us: "We are going to do away with all things Chinese now and adopt things of the Western world."

The one death in the hospital record was in a family of such pleasing memory that we should like you to know them, too—the pretty daughter, with her gentle head leaning against the mother's, tending her carefully night and day; the patient, least attractive of all, her life made bitter by a harsh mother-in-law, beaten from the time she had entered the family as a timid child to the present day, when she had grown-up children of her own; two or three nondescript, jolly children clinging to their big sister, all sunburned from their exposure in boatlife; then the father, the principal charm of all, tall, handsome, with almost the American alert face and firm chin, courteous and manly; and though we were able to do little for his wife, nothing in fact, showing a quiet confidence in us that seemed entirely free from heathen prejudice. Well we remember that last night, when his wife lingered on unconscious till the early morning, the sweet, girlish face of the daughter opposite, half in tears, yet smiling, and saying in answer to our question: "If she is well it will be well; if she is not well, why, it will not be well;" and the tall figure pacing up and down the room, hands behind his back, stopping now for a cheerful word with his daughter or the doctor, now at the table bent over a Gospel we had brought him, and saying: "Yes, I've seen this before." About five years before he had been brought in contact with the Gospel and was on the point of accepting, when the death of his father occurred, and he took this grief as a direct message of reproof from the gods. Now, as the soul of another dear one is passing, may the Master use this as a second call to himself.

The end is near, and he moves to the bedside at a sign from the doctor. He calmly clothes his wife in her burial gown, now and again drawing his hand over her brow: "Twenty odd years of happiness! Now your spirit is passing, close your eyes, close your eyes."

He took his little motherless family away from Soochow, and we had another glimpse of them when they returned to pay the proper respects to the dead. But he promised to bring them again in the fifth moon and let us put his children in Christian schools, and now, as we write, we are hoping for their coming—that they may be a family gathered in for the Master. "Truly worthy to be saved!" our Bible woman exclaimed, and in our human judgment we echo the words.

Chinese New Year past we received a patient, whose stay was followed by many hours of illness for our medical students, for it was during her stay that the frail health of both of these young women was discovered. One of them has since given up with heart disease, and the other on account of her lungs. Mrs. Li was in the hospital about three weeks before her laparotomy and a month after, and during these days there were many times that we despaired of her life; several times even when we thought the spirit had fled.

Mrs. Li joined the church before long, and we had hoped that her husband's heart was touched, but he proved an odd mixture of selfishness and gratitude. A fairly well-to-do man, he has not paid a cent on her bill; yet the day we sent it we found the city had been placarded with posters telling of the wonderful healing of his wife, and while she was still here he used to stop all his friends to tell them how her life had been saved and declared there must be something in a religion that would make one sit up nights with a patient as the doctor did, true enough. We who have always looked for patient watching from a physician do not realize that it is a part of medical ethics that comes from Christ.

THE MISSION PRESS.

A new leaven is at work in this old land, and the nature of the changes in progress has caused a development in native press agencies.

The Commercial Press is printing by the hundred thousand school books which seem well adapted for present elementary needs. Encouraged by their financial success a native syndicate is being formed for publishing educational works on a large scale. The prospectus indicates sympathy with the popular cry of "China for the Chinese," and one of the reasons given for helping to preserve and increase knowledge is the preventing of foreigners from getting all the good things, such as railway and mining concessions. The capital of the new undertaking is one million dollars (Mexican), and the promoters include some Chinese prominent in financial circles, and others identified with boycott endeavor. Five of the promoters are of Taotai rank.

As such undertakings develop there will be less opportunity for our supplying more elementary work (and less need, too, if these are sympathetic with Christian teaching), and our output will have primarily to do with quality rather than with quantity. The fact that a moral and spiritual change is necessary to any permanent good, emphasizes the need for the publishing of such works as the Educational, Tract, and other Societies are anxious to prepare. We try to help these societies in making our equipment adequate to their publishing requirements.

In last year's Report we referred to financial problems; our last balance sheet bringing us to the end of another quinquennium, we are able to give the following steps in the last fifteen years' development:

|------------------------------------------|-------------|-------------|-------------|--------------|
| Disbursements on General Working Account | $23,503.65 | $45,801.55 | $65,099.78 | $159,767.84 |
| Receipts on General Working Account .. | 35,464.48 | 67,521.13 | 102,296.29 | 223,074.95 |
| Disbursements on Wages Account | 9,290.44 | 13,163.79 | 22,381.58 | 46,293.72 |
| Stock Account | 4,630.86 | 8,774.31 | 43,251.17 | 60,155.43 |
| Sundry Debtors | 7,148.84 | 19,826.38 | 28,245.67 | 49,161.68 |
| Sundry Creditors | 4,579.18 | 7,762.54 | 8,753.07 | 15,751.17 |
| Capital Account | 53,486.50 | 65,832.57 | 112,381.38 | 181,636.82 |

The total pages printed, 81,284,288, are less than last year's total (although a little larger than that of the previous year), whilst the total number of copies of Chinese books printed is fully half a million larger than the total number of copies of Chinese books printed last year.

Among the works printed for the Chinese Tract Society are the commentary on Ezra & Psalms, also commentaries on Leviticus, St. John, Jude, Philemon, and the Pastoral Epistles.

Among the work for individuals ought specially to be mentioned Mr. Wang Hang-tong's excellent educational works; reprints of Dr. Mateer's mathematical works; Dr. W. M. Hayes' "Elements of Moral Science," as well as reprints of his other works; Dr. W. A. P. Martin's eight-volume "Mathematical Physics" and his seven-volume "Natural History and Chemistry;" Dr. D. Z. Sheffield's five-volume "Church History" (Mediæval Section); Rev. F. W. Baller's "Life of Pastor Hsi;" reprint of Prof. Hulbert's five-volume "History of Korea;" and we must not forget Mencius, in Wen-li and Mandarin, with Christian annotations, and other works from the pen of that faithful and persevering worker, Pastor Kranz.

The increase in periodical printing is notable. We now issue in English one monthly, four bi-monthlies, and four quarterlies; and one monthly romanized mandarin. The forty mission, hospital, and other reports would make several good volumes if the material were classified in a series. Work has been done on new issues of Dr. Mateer's Mandarin Lessons, Mr. Baller's Mandarin Primer, the New Testament Vocabulary, Mr. Soothill's 4,000 and Mr. Macgowan's "History of China." For the Medical Missionary Association we have issued Medical Nomenclature, including materia medica, pharmacology, pharmacy, and bacteriology.

OUTPUT FOR THE TWELVE MONTHS ENDING JUNE 30, 1906.

KIUNG-CHOU: Missionaries—H. M. McCandliss, M.D., and Mrs. McCandliss, Miss Henrietta Montgomery, Rev. C. H. Newton and Mrs. Newton, Rev. W. M. Campbell and Mrs. Campbell, Miss Alice H. Skinner, Rev. George D. Byers, Rev. David S. Tappan, Jr.

NODOA: Missionaries—Rev. P. W. McClintock and Mrs. McClintock, Rev. J. F. Kelly, M.D., and Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. M. R. Melrose and Rev. William J. Leverett.

KACHEK: Missionaries—Rev. Frank P. Gilman and Mrs. Gilman, Miss Kate L. Schaeffer, S. L. Lasell, M.D., and Herman Bryan, M.D.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mrs. C. H. Newton, Mrs. M. R. Melrose, Sidney L. Lasell, M.D.

This, one of the younger and smaller Missions, has suffered for want of proper equipment. But now a notable change for the better is taking place. The hospital at Kachek, the gift of Mr. A. W. Kilborne, and the Paxton Training School for Christian workers at Kiung-chou, the gift of Mrs. William M. Paxton, in memory of her honored husband, the late Rev. William M. Paxton, D.D., LL.D., are nearing completion. The New York Women's Board has given money for a residence for single women at Kiung-chou that has long been sorely needed, Mr. Lewis H. Severance paying for the land. And now Mrs. Albert J. Pitkin has made a handsome gift which will provide for the erection of another residence, a Girls' Boarding School and a building for the entertainment and instruction of inquirers and leaders who come from the country villages. These three buildings are to form a group to be known as the Albert J. Pitkin Memorial, in memory of her beloved husband, whose brilliantly begun career in New York as President of the American Locomotive Company, Elder in the Fifth Avenue Church and member of our Board was so suddenly arrested by his death November 16, 1905. These substantial additions to equipment and the arrival of two new ministers give great encouragement to the little band of workers in this large and important field.

KIUNG-CHOU STATION.

The personnel has been the same as last year save for the return from furlough of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell. But as the year closed the Station was giaddened by the arrival of the Revs. George D. Byers and David S. Tappan, Jr., new missionaries.

EVANGELISTIC.—Mr. Newton has made one trip to the heart of the island and found fine opportunity for work in the region of the Five Finger Mountains. He made friends with the Lois, stopping with them in their homes.

The journey was fraught with some danger, as the Lois are semi-savage and look upon the foreigner with much suspicion, even making raids upon the Chinese at times. The road had to be made through dense forest growth, and no white man has yet made his way to the top of the mountains. He also made two visits to the promising village of Ji-ae, where he baptized four converts. He has baptized in all twelve converts this year, preached every alternate Sunday and conducted a Sunday-school teachers' class.

Miss Montgomery also found time to visit Ji-ae and some of the surrounding villages, to sustain and comfort them in the serious illness of their leader.

He was brought to the hospital and later taken to Canton. He has completely recovered, and his friends feel that it is a great victory for the truth. While Dr. Howard Johnston was at the Station several small prayer bands were formed amongst the school-girls and Bible women to pray for the leader's recovery, and the whole incident has greatly strengthened their faith.

Miss Skinner has gone into the country at three different times, visiting five villages. If more time and attention could be given to the country work, it would not be long before there would be little groups of believers in many places, for the doors are wide open on every side.

Dr. Kelly spent a week in itineration in the distant villages and, while pursuing his study of Chinese, he has visited some of the many villages around Hoi-how, everywhere being kindly received and urgently pressed to return.

He has baptized three converts and administered the Lord's Supper on three occasions, has held a regular Sabbath-school class and has begun to preach in Chinese. In Hoi-how, two Bible classes each week, and three meetings a week on woman's day at the hospital, and one on Sunday have been held. Visits in the homes and the constant reception of callers have presented many opportunities for Christian teaching.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Paxton Training School for Christian Workers.—The year is one that missionaries and Chinese alike count the most exceptional and progressive thus far in the history of Hainan. It has been not only a turning point but a “right about face.” An up-to-date system of education called “the Western Learning” has taken the place of the ancient and very much revered custom of triennial examinations. At this crucial epoch in the history of the island and of China, the missionaries think very gratefully of the good donor of the Paxton Training School for Christian Workers. There has not been time yet to develop the school, as thus far so much strength that should have been wholly employed in teaching and oversight has, perforce, gone largely into the mechanical work of building, which was begun April 1, 1906, and is now about finished. Building operations are slow and difficult in this land of uncertain skilled workmen.

Had it not been for the able assistance of one of the two other members of the Station, the building would not now be approaching completion. Miss Skinner kindly took over the most of the work of teaching and left the superintendent free to push the work of construction. In addition we have had the help of our regular teacher Dang and that of teacher Ngou, as well as that of our native preacher Tang and our young Dam-ciu graduate, who gave part of their time as far as they were qualified. The latter's name seems to be influential in drawing a great many students to us. It has been my privilege to baptize both him and his wife during the year.

The enrollment has been fifty-four. Many times this number have been turned away for lack of room. In addition to the branches previously taught, daily instruction has been given in military drill. When completed, we shall have room for about seventy students, all that can adequately be cared for with the present force of instructors. During the last term, the students contributed $164.96 to meet the expenses of the boarding department. The older boys were charged $2 per month, but we expect to increase this amount to $3 this next term.

On the whole, the school is now ready to enter on its career of usefulness with brighter prospects than ever before and, with the Master's blessing on the work, should come to be a mighty factor in the regeneration of Hainan.

Anglo-Chinese School for Girls.—This school has been in session for forty-two weeks and, in spite of the crowded condition of the building, the girls have done good work.

They are orderly and cleanly in their habits, industrious in their work, and, best of all, they have shown unusual growth in Christian grace. The most noticeable is the change in the native teacher. Her instruction is thorough, she is patient with the children; her influence is strong, and she is unmistakably a good leader. She guides them in spiritual things, and she herself organized a prayer band for the noon hour to pray for the work. Three of the girls have united with the church and seven others have asked for baptism.

The little building was so inadequate that with an enrollment of twenty-five some had to sleep on the floor, and many who wanted to come could not be received. Mrs. Pitkin's gift therefore affords most welcome relief.

MEDICAL.—Hoi-how Hospital.—The hospital year shows larger figures and includes more work than any previous year. For ten months, the work was under Dr. and Mrs. McCandliss, and the other two months under Dr. and Mrs. Kelly. The daily services in the chapel have been regular throughout the year, and the aggregate attendance amounts to nearly 30,000.

The Sunday services have usually been crowded, and the congregational work has necessarily been closely connected with the hospital and dispensary work. The prayer meetings have been well attended.

Much effort has been put into the ward classes in the afternoons, six days in every week, and the patients have generally shown a good disposition towards the elementary books of our religion. Nearly all the hospital helpers are not only Christians, but able and willing to help in the teaching and evangelistic work.

The new women's ward has proved a great boon, and the school-room has been the scene of much active study. In the space set apart for maternity cases, six children have been born, the mothers and children all living.

In-patients, 512; attendance of out-patients, 10,605; major operations, 35; maternity cases in wards, 6.

NODOA STATION.

Nodoa has been kept from pestilence and from former alarms from triads or brigands. A very encouraging feature is the way in which the school is helping the church and hospital in opening up work among the Lim-ko population. This work among the Lim-kos is progressing, although none of the missionaries speak more than a few words of the dialect, which is very different from the dialect in use at the Station.

The Station has felt the loss of Mrs. Melrose's energy and experience since her departure for the United States on furlough.

CHURCH AND EVANGELISTIC.—The attendance at the chapel at Nodoa has been good.

The trouble is that we cannot possibly accommodate the congregations. The adobe chapel is small and close. With crowding on narrow benches, we can squeeze in about 180 people, but we often have over 200 at a Sunday service, and on special occasions the building is utterly inadequate.

Regular preaching has been begun in the Ben-liam region. Services are held every other Sunday, Mr Vang and Mr. Un taking turns at it. The congregations have averaged about twenty people, representing usually at least four villages, so that though the hearers are not numerous, they spread the Gospel widely. The meetings have been held in a room in the home of one of the Christians.

There is a family very much interested in a village about three miles from Tai-fong, and also one in Hom-hui, a village half way between Tai-fong and No-tai and about eight miles from each. A man in Hom-hui, who was formerly an exorcist, heard of the Gospel through one of our colporteurs. He came by himself to our compound to learn more and has come several times for instruction. He has, of his own accord, been instructing five other men in his village, who could not read, and one day when Mr. Leverett stopped at Hom-hui, he found that this man had been holding a service every evening with a song and prayer and explanations of a chapter in a book of Bible stories that he had obtained.

The women in both these places are anxious for instruction. The place in Kim-kiang, reported as rented in the last report, has been repaired and partly made over, and the lease has been extended for five years more.

Mr. Leverett writes:

Starting out on the road in the fall made me feel like a Rip Van Winkle, and that after only four months at home in Nodoa. On the streets in No-tia some one said, "Huh, he wears clothes like our school-boys." At Tai-fong and Kim-kiang, in they trooped with their white suits cut foreign style, vizored caps and canes under their arms. For, after becoming western students as to their exteriors, they wished to fill up as much as possible inside by pumping the foreigner. It was an entirely new experience.

Mr. Leverett's tour to Ngai-chow with Dr. Lasell precluded any visit by him to Lim-ko city, where two Christians live. The native colporteur, however, made several visits to that region and has been continually at work in the Lim-ko villages about Nodoa. Messrs. Vang and Un have made evangelistic tours among the Hak-ka villages about Nodoa, Nam-fung and No-tia.

Mrs. McClintock writes of the evangelistic work among the women:

Looking back over the year there seems to be no startling advance in the work, simply steady progress. Twice the women have come on the compound for special instruction. The first time was when all the church members were here at the Chinese New Year's. The second time we invited only catechumens and had a class of eight earnest women for ten days, and felt very much gratified with the result.

Visiting in the market has been kept up with varying success. The women's prayer meeting has been well attended and a teacher's meeting has been held each week. We want especially to mention the willing helpfulness of all our assistants' wives and the growth in spirituality of one of our older school-girls.

Boys' Boarding School.—The marked incident was the graduation of the two advanced scholars.

In order to make the occasion a noteworthy one, the magistrate of Dam-chow district, in which Nodoa is located, was invited to be present, as well as the local literati and local Board of Public Affairs. The magistrate took the two days' trip to Nodoa, and was for two days the guest of the missionaries during the exercises. It was a most notable occasion for all concerned, and the official took a keen interest in what he saw and seemed much pleased.

The average attendance this year was seventy, with an enrollment of eighty-one. There is a constantly increasing number of Lim-ko and Dam-chow boys in the school, and if the applicants are taken into consideration, there were nearly as many Lim-kos as Hak-kas; but many came too late to be accepted. There were also eight or ten Mandarin-speaking boys who applied.

A new teacher of the Chinese classics has been engaged and all his instruction has been given in the Mandarin dialect. Some new furniture and apparatus have been purchased during the year, and a few pieces of apparatus have been made in the machine shop. One of the older school-boys has spent two hours a day in the shop in part payment of his tuition.

The new wing is not yet ready for occupancy, but the alterations in the old building have made it much more suitable for school purposes. The outbuildings are in a bad sanitary condition, and in view of their proximity to the well it is feared that the water may at some time be contaminated and the health of those on the compound endangered, unless the means are furnished for putting the buildings in proper shape.

On Sunday evenings, the superintendent has preached sermons with special reference to the students. A prayer meeting has been held by the Christian boys once a week. Most of the older boys are Christians.

From the two students who have gone from Nodoa to the Shantung Union College, we continue to hear good reports. Dr. Bergen writes from there of the older one of the boys: "He is, as he always has been, a model student."

The rate has been increased and the receipts for the last year were $425.

Girls' Boarding School.—The school of last year closed in January, at the time of the magistrate's visit. The new year began February 15 with an enrollment of seventeen girls.

Two teachers have been employed, one of them being an advanced pupil, who taught two hours a day. Mr. Un, the preacher from Nam-fong, came over for two days each week during September and October, to instruct the girls in reading and writing Chinese characters. Geography, physiology, arithmetic, Chinese history and the Bible have been taught by the foreign missionary, and, during the last half of the year, calisthenics also.

MEDICAL.—Mary Henry Hospital.—The number of patients seen during the first half of the year was but two-thirds of what it should have been, owing to the effect of the American boycott. However, the last two months of the year showed a marked increase in both in and out-patients. So much was this true that, had it been so throughout the entire year, the work would have been by far the heaviest of any year yet.

The number of patients from official circles is worthy of note and has largely increased. Dr. Bryan has had the Nodoa military official with nearly all his subordinate officers and many soldiers under his care during the past year.

The hospital has been refitted. This and the fact that the assistants are now more experienced make both evangelistic and medical work in the hospital and dispensary more easy and much more satisfactory.

Catechism and Bible classes are conducted daily as heretofore. Medicines were dispensed and patients seen on one day each week for half the year at Nam-fong market, ten miles distant.

It is rather remarkable that the year passed without a single call to attend a suicide case.

The two boarding schools come in for a large share of medical attention. An epidemic of mumps attacked 90 per cent. of the pupils. Last year it was measles. Malaria, like the poor, we have always with us, but somewhat lessened, owing to the isolation of cases as soon as discovered.

Hospital Statistics: Assistants, medical, 1; dispenser, 1; matron, 1; coolie, 1. Itinerating trips, 1; village calls, one to thirty miles, 22; trips to Nam-fong market, ten miles distant, 25. Patients seen during village calls, 42; patients seen on itinerating trips, 120; patients seen at Nam-fong, 531; number of in-patients in hospital, 121; number of out-patients, 4,335; making a total of 5,149.

KACHEK STATION.

The work of this Station has been carried on continuously through the year. All the members of the Station enjoyed good health until August, when Dr. Lasell was obliged to leave on account of ill health. He is now rapidly recovering in the home land and will soon return to the field.

EVANGELISTIC.—The usual services have been held regularly in the chapel on the Mission compound.

In January we made a special effort to educate congregations more fully in Christian giving, and since the contributions have been better.

Another advance step was taken in May, when a mid-week prayer meeting was instituted, combining the school and household classes previously held, and adding the Christians and adherents from the market and from nearby villages. These meetings have continued interesting and helpful.

Three adults have been admitted to communion in the chapel this year.

The dispensary chapel in the Lower Market at Kachek has been used chiefly as a base from which our assistants have sold Christian literature.

In January, a large room was rented in the busy part of Kachek Market for street chapel preaching.

Here crowds of men pass every other day on their way to and from market. From two to four in the afternoon is the time when, business finished, they are apt to loiter around town awhile before going home. It is during these hours that the missionaries, with the street door flung wide open, and with printed charts and pictures in full view, draw in the crowds. The character of these meetings differ according to the audience present; sometimes a sermon is delivered; again there may be merely a quiet conversation listened to by the bystanders; on other days, some literary gentlemen undertake arguments, or a returned Singapore friend holds a discussion with the missionary.

Sunday services have been held in the Doa-lou Chapel once a month, and the Bible woman and assistants have also taught in the chapel and visited in the homes of the town.

The work in the Lok-lah Chapel has again been carried on under the direction of our faithful assistant, Mr. Ngang.

Evangelistic work among the women of Kachek has been done by house-to-house visits and by receiving many callers at the Manse.

ITINERATION.—With Mr. Gilman in sole charge of the school and pastoral work and with Dr. Lasell busy with the medical work and the erection of the hospital, the outlook for itineration over our large field was discouraging.

By seizing the opportunity of the Chinese New Year's vacation of the school, Mr. Gilman made a trip of nine days to Vang-chiu, visiting the Christians in No-lak and vicinity on the way. Mrs. Gilman accompanied her husband on this journey, and everywhere was welcomed by the women as the wife of "Uncle Good." Her presence encouraged the women to attend the Sunday service, which was conducted at the home of one of the school-boys in No-lak and again in the afternoon at the home of a Christian in a neighboring village.

Out-station.—Lok-lah in Ngai-chiu, 175 miles from Kachek on the southwest coast.—Dr. Lasell, of our Station, and Mr. Leverett, from Nodoa, made a trip to our distant out-station.

They were absent seven and a half weeks, three weeks being spent with the Christians at Lok-lah, holding Bible classes in the mornings and afternoons and meetings for prayer and song in the evenings. Dr. Lasell's report of their visit says:

After the second Sunday we began to prepare for communion service, which was to be held on the third. The main preparation was in the examination of candidates for baptism. In all, there were eight men and three women, of whom six men and two women were admitted and the others advised to wait. They all showed evidence of careful training and were approved of by the other church members as regards their personal conduct. Five children were also baptized. Our third week passed; our classes were finished, our exhortations ended; our long talks in the grass house or under the stars all ended. Many were the wishes expressed that we might stay longer, but that was impossible. The evident sincerity of regret as we said "Good-bye" caused a big wave of affection toward those faithful men as we thought of their brave efforts to live and preach the Gospel of salvation in the face of the odds against them.

School closing the latter part of June, Mr. Gilman left for itinerating work which covered a period of nearly two months, during which time he visited Hoi-how and Vang-chiu and later the long neglected Peninsula.

Three years have passed since Mr. Gilman's last visit there, and no Protestant missionary has been in Lui-chiu since then. The object of the present trip was especially the visitation of two families who have professed Christianity as a result of the teaching given them in the Hoi-how Hospital. He found a good demand for Christian literature and was encouraged by meeting many acquaintances made on former visits. With a native assistant from Kiung-chow, he spent a Sunday with a family near Lui-chiu who have been asking for baptism for several years. Leaving there, they visited and had delightful Christian fellowship with a family of four brothers near Tin-si on the southwest coast; they have given up all idolatry and have frequently visited Hoi-how for Christian fellowship and instruction. The Saviour surely demands that some one shepherd these scattered sheep.

EDUCATIONAL.—Kachek has two schools under its care: One is a day-school at the out-station of Lok-lah, having ten boys and two girls who are children of Christian parents; half of the salary of the teacher is provided by the Lok-lah Christians. The second is the Boys' Boarding School at Kachek. Mr. Gilman, who has charge of this school, reports that thirty-six scholars have been enrolled and that the average attendance has been about twenty.

The discipline has been good and fair progress has been made in the subjects studied. There has been much sickness in the school, especially during the absence of the Kachek physician during the months of September and October. It is thought that much of this sickness is due to the crowded condition of the sleeping quarters. A plan is now developing to erect a new dormitory which will greatly increase the usefulness of the school.

MEDICAL.—The dispensary has been open in its usual place in the Lower Market. Dr. Lasell had charge of the work until the first of August, when Dr. Bryan, of Nodoo, kindly took it over for a month; since then Kok-khiu, the medical assistant, has done what he could alone.

Of the medical work done while on an itinerating trip to Lok-lah last March and April, Dr. Lasell wrote:

I carried along a stock of medicines and soon had dispensed all I had, but managed to keep going with the aid of my scalpel. The brother of the head of Lok-lah market had a large ulcer on one foot which native medicines were only making worse. The head of the market asked me to call, which I did, and we soon started the foot on its way to recovery.

During my stay, I visited him almost every day, and generally found a little squad of people in his courtyard waiting for treatment, or to take me to visit some other patient.

I encouraged patients to go to the chapel as much as possible to identify the medical work with the preaching, so that every day a certain number of people were in attendance there. Several mothers brought their babies; a number came for treatment of eyes (eye troubles are very common in the South), and several came for removal of small tumors.

HUNAN MISSION.

SIANGTAN: occupied 1900. Missionaries—Rev. W. H. Lingle and Mrs. Lingle, E. D. Vanderburgh, M.D., and Mrs. Vanderburgh, F. J. Tooker, M.D., and Mrs. Tooker, Miss Emma T. Kolfrat and Miss Mary Venable.

HENGCHOW: occupied 1902. Missionaries—Rev. Geo. L. Gelwicks and Mrs. Gelwicks, Rev. D. E. Crabb and Mrs. Crabb, W. Robertson, M. D., and Mrs. Robertson.

CHENCHOW: occupied 1904. Missionaries—Stephen C. Lewis, M.D., Rev. and Mrs. T. W. Mitchell, Rev. W. T. Locke and Mrs. Locke, and Rev. C. H. Derr and Mrs. Derr.

Dr. and Mrs. Robertson were added to the Mission during the year, and located at Heng-chow. Dr. Tooker removed to Siangtan, to be associated with Dr. Vanderburgh in the management of the fine new hospital built by Dr. Tooker's father. The work has developed very well, considering the newness of it, and the inadequacy of the Mission's equipment and support.

SIANGTAN STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—The total number baptized is fifty-seven. Forty-nine have been baptized this year. Three have been dismissed for bad conduct. At I Suh Ho, thirty li up the river, a good native building was purchased the first part of the year, and turned into a chapel, so that we do not have to pay any more rent. Mr. Li, the chapel-keeper, has been teaching a day-school in connection with the chapel, and twenty-one pupils have been enrolled.

I Kia Wan is thirty li down the river, and here the work has been carried on for three years, but with very little interest shown. It was so discouraging that it was decided to close up and move elsewhere, but on the day fixed upon for moving there was such a large and interested audience that the decision was not carried out. A Christian man was sent to live in the chapel and keep a day-school.

Fifty loads of rice have been distributed from the chapel to the flood sufferers, and that has helped to interest the people.

The new church near the Mission compound was delayed in building several months by the flood and the difficulty of securing workmen, but we expect it to be completed and dedicated by the first of December.

EDUCATIONAL—Boys' School.—A Chinese teacher was added, making three Christian Chinese teachers in all. The highest number of pupils at any one time was twenty-six, and the general average twenty, of whom two were baptized Christians; eight were sons of Christian parents, while three or four others were supported by Christian friends.

Since the first of January there have been turned away probably twenty-five boys who wanted to study English, and were not satisfied to stay without it. At the close of the term, examinations were held in every subject, and on the whole the standard set was good, and in the case of some, surprisingly so; but the best thing to record for the school is that, on the first Sunday in June, eight boys signified their desire to become Christians. Three were baptized. These are all sons of Christian parents. Except for the teachers' salaries and the wages of a cook and gatekeeper, the school is self-supporting.

Girls' School.—School opened the middle of September, with ten girls enrolled, but later in the year another one was added. The progress of the school has been good, all have been interested and eager to learn, and some wanted to remain after school had closed for the Summer, preferring to be with the foreigner than to go home for a vacation. Owing to the flood in the early Spring, school had to be closed the last of May. After the Chinese New Year, one girl was baptized, thus making three girls who have become Christians.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Vanderburgh writes:

The main building of the new hospital, a two-story structure of 60 x 30, and the wards, also two-storied, 60 x 20, are nearing completion. The servants' quarters, painting and general finishing work are still to be done, but the main buildings in which the work of the hospital will be carried on will be finished in about three weeks, and we are delighted with the prospect of using such fine buildings, and wish hereby to express thanks to Mr. Nathaniel Tooker for his very generous gift.

At the dispensary, situated on the Lu Cleo Kiai, there have been 295 patients, and 29 visits have been made from there to nearby homes, and nine minor operations performed.

At the Kwang Siang men's dispensary there have been 269 patients, sixteen visits made, and two minor operations performed. During the latter part of the year a dispensary for women has been opened. Mrs. Venable taking charge, as far as she was able, of the women who came. It is hoped that the women of the walled city can be reached in some measure through this institution.

HENGCHOW STATION.

Hengchow, with its 100,000 souls, presents a large field for missionary effort. The London Mission has a large and growing work outside the South gate. Our own compound is outside of the North gate, but our work is mostly within the walls. The C. I. M. has recently come to our city, and two ladies will be engaged in woman's work. The Catholics are doing work at the northern limits of the city.

The country surrounding Hengchow presents an immense field for work, and with our present staff of workers we are unable to cover the ground as it should be. In both city and country, we have preaching services in chapels.

EVANGELISTIC.—In the city we have a Sunday morning service, which is usually well attended. The Sunday evening service is something of a Christian Endeavor Meeting. On Wednesday evenings a Bible class is conducted, while on Fridays there is a Catechism class for regular inquirers. Besides these, daily evangelistic services are held. At the North Gate Chapel, also, daily evangelistic services are held, except on Sundays:

Mr. Gelwicks reports:

For use in daily preaching at street chapel, a series of over a dozen charts, written in large characters and covering in outline the main themes of Christian truth, have been prepared. One of these is used at each service, thus giving a twofold chance of entrance for the message, and with the constantly shifting audience a half month is a sufficiently long cycle. The daily preaching service seldom fails to secure a good-sized and attentive audience, but their effect in producing a growth in regular attendants is scarcely appreciable. The prevailing spirit of both city and country districts seems to be: Everyone willing to hear, no one wishing to heed.

In April, after long attendance on their part and careful scrutiny on that of the missionary, six men out of a large number of applicants were baptized. Six converts from two towns in the Lei River country field came in for the Easter services. One of these received baptism, constituting our first church member from the country. His connection with our Hengchow Station antedates my own, and in asking for baptism he said, rather pathetically: "We in the country have not had the chance to develop that the city converts have had." In June a merchant, who had given up the wholesale opium trade for the Gospel, and the wife of the North Gate Chapel keeper were baptized. To these nine are to be added the seven baptized last year, which, with one received by letter, constitutes our present membership.

Our country work suffered a severe loss in the death of Chen Shu Teh, the Station's first country evangelist. He was zealous in service, a man who grasped spiritual realities. His death was a convincing witness to his faith in Christ and almost his last words were about plans for his field. The town in which he lived is a depraved place, steeped in opium, and I had contemplated transferring our chapel from there to a more encouraging place, as we scarcely had a single regular learner in the place. But on a recent visit I heard on every hand words of appreciation of our dead comrade. "Alas, a good man has died," was the sentiment on many lips, and it was doubtless sincere. So, more may have been wrought than we know. Perhaps the chapel won't be closed.

For the purpose of developing a church life, a monthly afternoon social has been instituted, which men, women and children are all encouraged to attend. For the men there is a talk, with illustrations and experiments, on some scientific or other instructive topic; for the women, lessons in sewing and knitting, and for the children we hope to have games and kindergarten exercises.

April witnessed the worst flood of the Siang Valley for perhaps some two hundred years. In connection with Chinese officials and fellow-missionaries, I have done what I could in administering relief. Many houses and much provisions were destroyed.

The work for women is very hopeful. Mrs. Gelwicks writes:

It seems to us that the women of this neighborhood are more noble than those of the old one, for they seem to be able to comprehend our message better and to be very kindly disposed toward us.

Mrs. Gelwicks has also been teaching a few girls who have come to her home.

MEDICAL.—The London Mission Board invited Dr. Tooker to make use of their hospital for medical work, during the absence of their own Dr. Peeke. Although this hospital is not situated in our particular section of the city, yet its influence was more than city-wide, serving or treating patients from all quarters. In all, 1,805 patients were seen in the dispensary, and about 100 out-calls were made.

CHENCHOW STATION.

This newest of Stations in Hunan is located not far north of the Lienchow Station, which was destroyed a year ago by a Chinese mob. It is very much encouraged as to the increased progress and as to the outlook of the work.

The Chenchow Station presents its third annual report with deep gratitude to God for His rich blessing upon our church members, inquirers, and our own lives. The special blessings of the year have been the increase of the members of our Station, the conference for Christian workers in which all branches of our work participated, the enthusiastic meetings of our Christian Endeavor Society, the greater number of patients in our hospital work, purchase of our first land in Chenchow, and increase in appropriations for native work which will partially meet our growing need.

EVANGELISTIC.—The Church at Kiahwoa has been increased by the addition of two members on confession of faith. Four others have been examined by the session, and will doubtless be ready for reception into the Church soon.

Linwu is only forty miles from Lienchow, and was deeply affected by the terrible massacre. Ten or twelve of our inquirers wished to be received into the Church, but owing to the confusion following the Leinchow tragedy, and to local disorder, it was thought wise to delay receiving them into full membership. Formerly both the Kiahwoa and Linwu churches were under the care of the Lienchow Station, and the sorrow for the suffering of their former leaders was intense.

The Sabbath-school in Chenchow, which met Sunday afternoons, in the latter part of April was organized into a Christian Endeavor Society, which meets regularly Sunday evenings. It would make your heart rejoice if you could attend one of these services and see the cordial manner in which the members of the society sing, pray, read Scripture and exhort. The Chinese natural aptitude for organization finds ample scope for Christian service in the committee system of the Christian Endeavor movement.

Woman's Work.—Mrs. Locke and Mrs. Mitchell began a weekly woman's evangelistic service in the Spring, which was later continued under the charge of Mrs. Mitchell. The average attendance was about seventy, and at some meetings there were over a hundred present. The women are getting acquainted, not only with us, but also with the Gospel.

Mrs. Locke writes :

We found the women very accessible. Together with Mrs. Mitchell, I began an evangelistic meeting for women, held each week on Tuesday. The meeting was so well attended that on bright days the chapel was too small to seat those who came. On rainy days we had as many as we could well manage. This meeting was preceded by a Catechism class for inquirers. On Thursday I held a small Bible class for women, whom I believed were true inquirers. Friday was devoted to receiving calls from the curious. On this day alone the women had full access to the house. No religious instruction was attempted. Tracts were distributed, however, and invitations to the meetings were extended. These days were of all the most taxing to one's strength and patience, and perhaps of little profit, but seemed necessary in order that we be free on other days from the crowds of women who always welcome a newcomer.

EDUCATIONAL.—Chenchow Boys' Boarding School.—There have been seventeen boys in attendance, eleven of whom come from Christian homes mostly in connection with our southern churches. Three of the students are church members, one of whom was received during the year. Four others have been examined for church membership and will be received in the Fall.

Girls' Boarding School.—Suitable rooms have been rented and equipped for this school in connection with Mr. Locke's house. Several students attended the Spring session.

There have been three day-schools at out-stations.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Lewis reports :

The hospital and dispensary have been open from October, 1905, to August, 1906, and in these ten months more than 5,000 treatments have been given, a daily average of about twenty patients. While this is only a beginning as compared with older hospitals, and not what we hope to develop when a better equipment is provided, yet we feel greatly encouraged to see this progress. It is more work than we were able to do in the two preceding years. We are also pleased to see an increased interest manifested by the Chinese in the foreigner's methods and means used. Before this year only two or three would venture to trust the foreigner and come into the hospital for treatment. During the past year, we have had twenty in-patients on an average of about twelve days each. Eleven of these have taken the opium treatment, and I am satisfied seven were cured of the habit, the other four leaving before the treatment was complete. I think that the fact that this habit can be cured is now sufficiently well known and believed in to insure many times this number in the coming year. The opium habit is prevalent everywhere in China, and especially so in our city, since it is the centre of an immense overland traffic between Canton and Hankow that employs thousands of human burden-bearers, most of whom on account of their hardships and exposure are addicted to this enslaving habit. Probably four-fifths of the remaining male population over sixteen years of age are in the same pitiable condition. These men offer the most important, as well as the most hopeful, opportunity in our work. We hope that means in the future will be sufficient, that we may not be compelled to turn away any of those seeking to be freed from this curse, as we have had to regretfully do during the last year. These and other in-patients are the ones that we have the most hope of reaching Christ, since they are with us for several days or weeks with nothing to occupy their minds.

As has been stated in our former reports, malaria is by far the most prevalent disease in the Chenchow field. During the ten months' work of the past year, fifty ounces of quinine have been dispensed. Fully three-fifths of this amount has been sold for full value, showing that the Chinese are learning to appreciate the worth of at least one foreign drug.

TEACHERS AND BOYS AT ENTRANCE OF GRACE CHAPEL, NANKING, CHINA.

KIANG-AN MISSION.

NANKING: on the Yang-tse-Kiang, 90 miles from its mouth; occupied as a mission Station, 1876. Missionaries—Rev. Charles Leaman and Mrs. Leaman, Rev. W. J. Drummond and Mrs. Drummond, Rev. J. C. Garritt, D.D., and Mrs. Garritt, Rev. J. E. Williams and Mrs. Williams, Rev. John Reese Jones and Mrs. Jones, Miss E. E. Dresser, Miss M. A. Leaman, Miss Jane A. Hyde, Miss Grace Lucas.

HWAI-YUEN: occupied as a Mission Station, 1892. Missionaries—Rev. E. C. Lobenstine and Mrs. Lobenstine, Rev. D. B. S. Morris, Rev. J. P. Cochran and Mrs. Cochran, Samuel Cochran, M.D., and Mrs. Cochran, Miss Rose Lobenstine.

For several reasons, it has been deemed wise to divide the old Central China Mission and to constitute a new Mission consisting of the Nanking and Hwai-yuen Stations. These Stations are both in the interior, and they use the Mandarin instead of the local dialects used in the other Stations of the Central China Mission. Much time was consumed by missionaries of these Stations in attending the Mission meeting. The old Mission, also, had grown very large. It was felt, accordingly, that it would be best to make a division, the new Mission taking its name from the first syllables of the names of the two provinces in which it is located—Kiang-su and An-Hui.

NANKING STATION.

The staff of the Station has been the same as during the preceding year, save that Miss Lyon has been transferred to Hangchow, and Mr. and Mrs. Williams moved to Tokio to spend the time until their furlough, in the Summer of 1907, working among the 15,000 Chinese students gathered in Tokio.

EVANGELISTIC.—During the year, sixty-two new communicants were added to the church connected with the Station.

A chief feature of the church life this year in Nanking was the evangelistic meetings held in May, under the leadership of Dr. Li, a graduate of Tientsin Medical College. All five of the Missions working in Nanking united in inviting Dr. Li to conduct these meetings for the deepening of the spiritual life of the church. The meetings lasted about three weeks, and were remarkably well sustained in attendance and interest throughout. At the end of the first week, after giving instruction in the cardinal doctrines of sin, repentance, faith in Christ and regeneration, in two meetings daily, the meeting was thrown open for prayer and confession of sin. At once it seemed as if a rushing, mighty wind filled the house and the spirit of conviction and repentance which had been working deeper and deeper, day by day, broke forth in a storm of prayer, weeping and confession of sin, no one paying attention to any other, all praying aloud and at the same time. This lasted about half an hour, when it gradually subsided and the meeting was closed. For two days the time of the meeting was taken up with confession and testimony. Here the women and school girls, contrary to their usual retiring custom, were prominent. There was not time at the union meeting for all to give their testimony, so this was continued in the various churches under the leadership of their pastors. In these meetings the schools undoubtedly profited most because the pupils were better able to understand the speaker's meaning. Life took on a very different hue after that to all of us. Whether in church or school, joy filled all hearts. In this the missionaries shared the blessing with the Chinese Christians. A little later Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston came; and his message was admirably calculated to supplement that of Dr. Li's. Dr. Li's addresses were all Christ-centered; Dr. Johnston's message was of the gift of the Holy Ghost and power in prayer. The whole complexion of the work was changed. The Sunday services were better attended and the weekly prayer meeting had more life in it. Circles have been formed for prayer, the wandering sheep have been prayed for and looked up. One opium smoker, the husband of one of the Bible women and a backsliding Christian, has broken off opium and is leading a new life in Christ. At the communion season late in June seven of the girls in the boarding school, aged about fifteen, applied for admission to the church; but were deferred until more established in their new-found faith and experience.

There are two churches in the city—the First Church and Grace Church, Mr. Drummond having acted as stated supply of the First Church, and Mr. Williams as pastor of the Grace Church. Mr. Williams says in his report:

The work at the four street chapels has suffered somewhat during the year, from lack of workers, and the country work has been maintained efficiently. This report would not be complete without mentioning our neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Cheng. Mr. Cheng spent nineteen years in the United States and is a graduate of Harvard College. He is teaching one of the most important government schools. Mrs. Cheng is also teaching in the girls' school opened by the Viceroy. Their Christian home in the midst of the dreary Chinese street is as a light shining in a dark place. They are faithful in their attendance at all our church services, and our friendship with them has been most helpful and delightful.

The Work at Tong-dzing.—The report says:

A year ago this Summer the old scholar of this village, a local celebrity, passed away at the age of seventy-five. He lived directly across the street from our chapel; and hardly a day passed that he and our elder, Mr. Gong, did not have it out as to the relative merits of Confucianism and Christianity. Elder Gong had never gone very deeply into Confucian teaching, nor had he likely ever heard of the five points of Calvinism; but he realized the convincing power of a clean life, and when pressed in the argument, and in imminent danger of being overwhelmed by a flood of classic quotations, he would always close in on the old man's personal life. The argument usually became quite heated; yet for years they maintained the most neighborly relations, although in his heart Elder Gong always regarded old man Dai as the arch-enemy of the faith in that region. Though an open opponent I verily believe he was used of God to keep up interest and to impress upon the elder the supreme importance of guarding his own life and that of the flock if they were ever to prove their case. Like Edom, ever on the border of Israel, it required eternal vigilance.

Itineration.—

The three out-stations—Sing Dien, Tien Wang Si, and Li Shui—are about the centre of our field; all the space beyond comprising scores of market towns between Nanking and Chinkiang, through which the new line of railway will pass; a distance of about fifty miles, over which we have done much itinerating work in the past. One-half of this territory is in our field and should be worked by us. If we cannot now open any station here we ought at the very least to have men to make frequent itineration through these towns. In spite of difficulties Mr. Drummond succeeded in visiting all the country stations at least twice, and some of them three or four times.

EDUCATIONAL.—Miss Dresser had charge of the girls' school until Mrs. Leaman's return from furlough. She writes:

Through the year we have had eleven girls from the better class enter our school; some were with us only a short time, two leaving to enter the Viceroy's school. Four were young married women, whose husbands were studying in Japan; one, the wife of Ku-ren; and the younger ones were the daughters of men studying or teaching. One, the daughter of a small official in charge of some of the city schools, another a daughter of an examiner of the first and second degree men in the city. All these girls have daily taken the Bible study and Christian books, and attended the church services. During the year we have had forty-two names on our roll. The average attendance, thirty-five.

The boys' boarding school continued under Mr. Williams' care. The educational conditions have changed very rapidly, however, as to the progressive movement throughout the empire, and it has been found difficult to keep up a school so poorly equipped. Mr. Williams writes:

After the New Year there were many new applicants; some of them younger students, who are promising, but mostly from an older class, who had been roused out of their country homes by the Imperial emphasis on the new education. We took in twelve men of this class. As they came from Hwai-yuen and the region about, we also hoped that the time given to them might, in some way, help in the opening of their home towns. This one exception from our invariable rule of only taking boys of twelve or thirteen years only proved the wisdom of the rule. These men were convinced, by frequent failures in district examinations, that to become a scholar in China was no easy matter; yet they seemed to think to master Western learning would be a small undertaking. After a few weeks' trial they soon scattered. Apart from this class there were twenty-five boys in regular attendance throughout the Spring term. With the regular annual decrease in the appropriations for the school and the regular annual increase in the cost of living and the very rapid increase in the salaries that educated Chinese can command, it becomes increasingly difficult to keep efficient teachers.

Both because of the conditions, and in accordance with the general principles of the Board in favor of united effort, a plan of union with the school of the Christian Mission was agreed upon, and pending the provision of funds for a yet larger union which is proposed between the Methodist, Christian and Presbyterian Missions in the joint support of a Christian University, the boys' schools of the Christian and Presbyterian Missions have been consolidated.

Day-schools.—

Owing to the opening of free day-schools throughout the city by the government, we found it necessary to close our day-schools in the city at the end of the year. We could not open our day-schools as free schools, so it was thought best to open instead three day-schools in the out-stations—at Shuen-hua-jen, Li-shui and Tong-dzing.

Mothers' Meetings were conducted by Mrs. Williams until she left for Tokio. She reports:

The April meeting was held in the chapel, as the numbers have outgrown any of our rooms. We had a talk on minor ailments and simple remedies by a trained nurse from the Quaker Hospital. Lady Shen, the wife of the Taotai, who is also superintendent of the schools of these three provinces, was present. Lady Shen is superintendent of the girls' schools in the city and is very friendly and interested in the work of the Missions. As her husband spent eight years in Washington, she is not an entire stranger to our foreign customs. She comes quietly in a chair or carriage, without a servant, without a pipe; in her lovely garments, and with her calm, strong face, she seems indeed a lady. She asked to attend all the mothers' meetings.

Theological Seminary.—Regular work in the Seminary began in October, 1906. Excellent, though as yet inadequate, buildings have been provided, and the Seminary is jointly supported and manned by our own and the South Presbyterian Missions, Dr. Garritt representing the former and Dr. Harris the latter.

HWAI-YUEN STATION.

This Station is supported by the Central Presbyterian Church of New York City, and the prayerfulness and sympathy of the home Church have borne unmistakable fruit in the prosperity of the Station from its inception.

EVANGELISTIC. — Churches. — Fourteen communicant members were added during the year, nearly double the roll.

A great improvement could be noticed in our church services this year. For one thing, we have more Christians now, and they are all reverent and attentive, worshipping as truly as though our little thatch-roofed chapel were the most beautiful cathedral that ever reared its stately spires toward heaven. Then, too, the heathen about us are beginning to realize that our service is very different from anything that they have ever seen in the temples, and they listen at least quietly and respectfully, and even sometimes seem to understand a little of the meaning of the worship that is "in spirit and in truth."

The repeating in concert of the prayer of confession and the singing together of the Gloria and Te Deum seemed to especially appeal to the Christians as giving them each one a part in the service. Some of the women have been very faithful and attentive, and we feel that great credit is due them, for it is not easy, sitting screened off in a corner, never seeing anything but the preacher's back, with the hymns and commandments too far away to be recognized, to give undivided attention to what is going on.

The prayer meetings this year have been especially good.

Out-Stations.—

Feng-yang-fu was visited four times during the past year by Mr. Morris and one or other of the helpers. Mr. Morris writes: "My first trip was with Evangelist Liu. We were away seven days, and on the whole felt encouraged by the willingness of the people to listen. One afternoon was spent at the Chien village, the former home of our Christian chapel-keeper in Feng-yang. It is about fifteen li from the city, and there are several men there who seem interested in the Gospel. One man from this village has been in Hwai-yuen for some weeks, taking care of his small son, who was operated on for calculus. He is very honest and grateful to us for healing his son. On the Sunday we spent in the Fu the street chapel was well filled. On this visit we were surprised to have special attention paid us by a small official, who invited us to a feast. He was as polite and friendly as any man I have met in the Fu, and yet we found out afterwards that this man had done the most to oppose our coming here, and tried to stir up a riot after we had rented our street chapel.

"Mr. Liu, who has many friends among the priests, found a Taoist, who invited us to his temple—a sad, dilapidated affair, in which the general air of desolation and neglect was intensified by the inscription over the door, 'There is no shore to the sea of sorrow.' He told us he was trying to raise funds to restore it, but feared it would be impossible. He seemed much discouraged. We talked with him of the true worship and the revelation of Jesus, but he listened quite indifferently."

Of another trip, Mr. Morris writes:

We visited the Ch'en village and found some little opposition there from the most important farmer in the place. It was not, however, unfriendly in spirit, and showed that the man had done some thinking about religion. He said that he was sincere in his idol-worship, even if others were not; otherwise would he be willing to spend several thousand cash every year for incense, candles, etc. He said: "You have the 'God of heaven,' as you say, but I have the god of earth, and he is my god just as yours is yours. You say you can't see your God, but I can see mine. I like to have him under my own roof with me." We tried to make him understand the goodness and greatness of the Heavenly Father, and that He was the only true God, but evidently he could not understand, or did not care to, for his last word to us was: "If He is the only true God, why has He not revealed it to us before?"

Itineration.—

About three years ago one of the Keng family, who was going blind, heard of the foreign doctor and stumbled into Hwai-yuen in search of sight, and when he walked back to Keng-kai-ts'un he was a new man. He had been blind, indeed; now he saw not only his own fields and thatch-roofed home, but on and up beyond anything that they had ever dreamed of in the little village, and they told his neighbors and his friends, and gradually they came to see, too. That year three men came into the inquirers' class, and after being taught for a few months, studying in the classes and patiently plodding along by themselves at home, learning to read their Bibles, they were baptized. "Now, in and about that village," Mr. Cochran writes, "there are twenty to thirty who gather for Sunday services; four have been received into church membership, and there are thirteen inquirers. Forty-eight Spanish dollars have been raised by the Chinese there and in Hwai-yuen toward building the little chapel;" and those that cannot give much in money are giving their work, carrying the lumber themselves, building the mud walls and thatching the roof.

One of the Christians who was obliged to be out in the fields with cattle on a Sunday morning, told Mr. Cochran that he had a little service all by himself out there. First he sang a hymn, then opened his Gospel of John and read a chapter, then he said a prayer, and then took out his red calico bag and solemnly put in it the few cash that was to be his contribution that day. Who shall say that this did not have all the elements of a church service?

Of a trip to the South, in February, Mr. Morris writes:

Our first stop was at Ma-t'eo-ch'eng, where we had good sales of books. We pushed on in the afternoon to see an inquirer who was a teacher and lived in a small hamlet called "In Front of the Temple." The temple was a small one, and would have been scarcely noticed had not the name of the village called attention to it. Our inquirer greeted us warmly, as did others in the place, and told us that he had broken off his opium habit and truly wanted to become a believer.

He said he had written the paper scrolls for the temple door at the New Year, and we were surprised to hear that their meaning was about as follows: "The True God cannot be deceived by men. No amount of incense can help the prayers of hypocrites." We thought it rather daring of him to post such sentiments on a heathen temple, and could not understand how his heathen neighbors permitted it, unless their inability to read kept them in ignorance.

Woman's Work.—Their report says:

We feel that there has certainly been great progress made in the woman's work this year. It is not alone that we have at last two Christians, nor that three other women have come out as inquirers, and we feel that two, at least, of them are nearly ready to be admitted into the Church, but besides this we notice such a different kind of interest in our meetings. The women listen so much more intelligently, and seem to go away understanding far more than they used to.

The woman's guest-room work this year has been mostly at the new foreign house, as that is so very attractive to the people. To "go and see the foreign house" is decidedly the thing to do in Hwai-yuen these days. Miss Lobenstine writes: "A great deal of time and strength have been given to entertain all classes and conditions of people who flocked from all the country about us to see the foreign house. Many were the rumors about the house; probably most of these guests believed we had babies hid under the floors. At any rate, they had to see every corner of the house, closets, cupboards, etc., and the garret was the place of greatest interest; even the tiny-footed official ladies had to be assisted up there. We are interested to know that some Chinese in town talk of building a foreign house like ours. This at least shows that they approve of it and express themselves so to us. We have had many in to meals, and there have been the frequent time-consuming feasts, tedious and often very fatiguing, but it is time and strength well spent, for it certainly has been a factor in the Hwai-yuen Station to give us the goodwill and kindly interest of the people."

We in the old Chinese house, too, have constantly received our old friends, women who come from real friendliness now and not from mere curiosity, and we were very much pleased at the New Year by a series of little "teas" given us by the women in the class. The tremendous effort that was made to have their tiny mud huts in perfect order; the table and the chairs (very rickety sometimes, and having to be approached cautiously and humored like their owners), and variety of teacups, enough to go round, borrowed from the neighbors, the proud lenders being allowed to stand at the door and watch us eat, as reward for their generosity; the sweets, as many as eight kinds sometimes set out on little saucers to tempt us; and the eager, trembling hostess, so anxious to do us honor and to make us happy—all this was very touching, and we would have been stone indeed if we had failed to appreciate their all, and more than all, so freely given for us. When we ate the greasy little cakes we knew that they would probably go hungry to-morrow to pay for them, and as we sipped the bitter tea out of the dirty cups, we realized that it seemed nectar to the people crowded about the door, and there was a new flavor, quite unlike the nasty one, natural to these viands, lent them by the self-denial they had cost.

We also went to several very delightful feasts given us by some of the officials' wives and rich women in town, and they showed us, in almost every case, the utmost courtesy and friendliness. They came with great apparent pleasure to the feasts we gave them in return, and altogether we cannot but feel that we have some very warm friends among these higher-class women.

EDUCATIONAL.—Schools.—During the year, the boys' day-school was changed to a boarding school.

As soon as it became known, however, that such a school was to be opened, the number of boys, who really had every reason for coming, quickly swelled to thirteen, and we were at our wits' end to find a place to put them, when, like an inspiration, came the thought of the gate house and storeroom opposite the front guest room. It was a matter of a very few days to move out all the trunks and boxes, sedan chairs and precious empty coal-oil tins, to knock down the rickety partitions and put in a front door. In the meantime, the carpenter had made sixteen wooden boxes, and the old gateman spent his spare moments oiling boards to put across them, and when the New Year's vacation was over the oiled boards and wooden boxes were turned into eight luxurious beds and set up in the great bare brick-floored room; a table contributed by one of the missionaries stood in the middle against the wall, a little mud hut in the next compound was furnished with a Chinese fireplace and smiling cook—and behold! a boarding-school!

In writing of the beginnings of this little school and its work during the year, Mr. Cochran says:

Including boarding and day pupils, we have thirty in all, and were even forced to turn away several for lack of room, while we expect several more to enter in the Fall session of school. Our teachers are good, and our text-books are good, and we are giving the best education of any school in this part of the province. One of our less promising boys, who left us a short time ago to enter the government school here, was highly commended by the Fu officials for the way he stood an examination in arithmetic and surpassed the others in their school. Our ordinary pupil is better than their best. Eight of the larger boys are members of the church, four of them entering last communion; two others are enrolled as inquirers.

In speaking of the girls' school, Miss Lobenstine writes:

The little girls' school, which had been started last year, made definite progress this year, and bids fair, we hope, in the near future, to become a strong branch of our Hwai-yuen work. Numbers were small, but an excellent class of girls came, and a splendid spirit of ambition to make the school thoroughly good was noticeable on the part of almost every girl.

Inquirers' Classes.—Two classes were held for inquirers during the year.

The first one was at the end of November. Mr. Morris says of it:

It was the best we have had so far. About twenty-five men attended, the majority being from the Keng village. With the exception of a few, the men were able to remain to the end of the class—eleven days in all—attending classes morning and afternoon. Sixteen of the men were, after examination, enrolled as inquirers, having promised to abstain from idolatry and opium and to follow the Lord Jesus Christ. This class gave us much cause for thanksgiving.

The second class was held the last of February, and began very discouragingly, for, on account of rain, the roads were almost impassable, and only a few men in and very near Hwai-yuen could come. Toward the end of the first week, however, the weather improved, and Mr. Sun quietly slipped away. He was gone for two or three days, and then came back muddy and tired, but beaming; into the guest room he marched (?), and following him were a motley array. Some twenty bluff farmers, in their homespun coats, with shapeless, threadbare hats or battered felt caps, and fuzzy earmuffs, some with straw shoes, some with their feet tied up in rags to keep out the mud and cold, all looking as if they had been down and rolled in the dirt, but all smiling and eager to learn, and for a week they sat, morning and afternoon, in the classes, listening attentively and trying to make their slow, unused minds grasp the greatest truths that have ever been revealed to men.

MEDICAL.—The Station has been busy during their building the hospital, for which funds have been provided by Mr. William E. Lobenstine, of New York City. Temporary quarters have been used, meanwhile, for the work. Dr. Cochran writes:

The hospital has rather more than held its own for the past year. Its work cannot grow much more in amount in the present inadequate quarters. Last Fall a good many perfectly suitable cases were turned away for lack of accommodations. At one time we had operations booked a month ahead.

Through the hospital we have opened up another most promising center, where the lame inquirer, Chu, and his old father live, and everywhere, as we itinerate in the country for a hundred miles around Hwai-yuen, we meet people who have been treated in the hospital themselves, or who have had relatives there, and who are most friendly to us and ready and eager to listen to our message.

PROPERTY.—An excellent piece of property, adjoining land already owned, was acquired during the year, giving a magnificent view of the two mountains and the river, and providing land for the hospital and physicians' residence.

NORTH CHINA MISSION.

PEKING: the capital of China; occupied in 1863. Missionaries—Rev. John Wherry, D.D., and Mrs. Wherry, Mrs. J. L. Whiting, Rev. A. N. Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham, Rev. C. H. Fenn, D.D., and Mrs. Fenn, Rev. William H. Gleysteen, Miss Eliza E. Leonard, M.D., Miss Bessie McCoy, Miss Jennie McKillican, Miss Alice Carter, Rev. E. L. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson, and F. J. Hall, M.D.

PAOTING-FU: occupied 1893. Missionaries—Mrs. Amelia P. Lowrie, Rev. J. W. Lowrie, D.D., Rev. C. A. Killie and Mrs. Killie, Rev. W. A. Mather and Mrs. Mather, Charles E. Lewis, M.D., and Mrs. Lewis, Rev. W. W. Hicks, Miss G. Newton, Miss A. Gowans, Miss Maud A. Mackey, M.D., and Miss Elizabeth T. Lewis, M.D.

SHUNTE-FU: occupied in 1903. Missionaries—Guy W. Hamilton, M.D., and Mrs. Hamilton, Rev. Edwin C. Hawley, and Mrs. Hawley, Rev. J. A. Miller and Mrs. Miller, Miss Louise Keator, M.D., and Miss Emma Hicks.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mrs. Wherry, Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Lewis, Mrs. J. A. Miller, and Miss Alice Carter.

The North China Mission has suffered two serious losses during the year. One of them was the resignation of one of the youngest members of the Mission, Dr. Joseph F. Griggs, on account of the serious and prolonged ill-health of Mrs. Griggs. Dr. Griggs was rapidly rising to large usefulness in connection with the large An Ting Hospital at Peking, but the circumstances left him no alternative but to return to America.

The other loss was a sore bereavement in the death of one of the oldest members of the Mission, the Rev. J. L. Whiting, D.D. Death came very suddenly and painlessly on August 25, 1906. Dr. Whiting had served the cause of Christ in China for thirty-seven years. He passed through the siege of Peking during the Boxer uprising of 1900, and did his full share of labor during those trying weeks. He was a patient, persevering and devoted missionary, who did his work quietly, but with a high sense of duty and an earnest desire for the salvation of the Chinese. During all these years, he has had the loving companionship and efficient co-operation of his beloved wife, who survives him and who needs the prayers of the Church at home. Mrs. Whiting, with that absolute devotion that has always characterized her, bravely remains on the field for a time.

NORTH CHINA AND SHAN-TUNG MISSIONS.

PEKING STATION.

The missionary in Peking has probably always felt that the capital of this great Empire is a strategic point to win for the Church; but now he knows it. It has meant more than this last year to be a missionary in Peking; it is going to mean still more in the future. It is going to mean some changes in our policy and methods. Education is assuming a greater relative prominence. Formerly, too, the missionary was content to labor among the humbler classes of the people; now the way is opening to take the Gospel message to those who are to be the leaders of the nation, the noble and educated classes. Alas, that our lack of faith has left us unprepared to enter these open doors! Unconsciously we have lowered our ideals for the Chinese, and now they are raising them for themselves. China bids fair to outdo her teachers in all that in which she was most backward. What would do for China asleep cannot meet the needs of China awake; and our efforts to meet the situation have seemed so inadequate that we have been thrown back more than ever on Him in whom are all power and wisdom. So it has been in prayerful dependence upon Him that the year's work has been done; and, while much of the work has been simply renewed efforts along the old lines, yet it has been, we trust, with wiser methods, in a humbler spirit, and with a brighter hope.

The Church at Second Street is the nucleus of our evangelistic effort. Mr. Cunningham has been the pastor. Dr. Wherry, Elder Kwoa and others have taken part in the preaching and the conduct of prayer meetings; while all the ladies of the Station have helped with Sunday-school work. In addition to the regular midweek prayer meeting, a woman's prayer meeting is held each Friday, numbering as many as sixty at times.

These meetings have been conducted both by missionaries and by native women, and the growth of the latter in the ability to conduct such meetings has been very marked. Our Bible woman, Mrs. Ma, has daily taught all women who could come for instruction, and has gone to the homes of others for that purpose. She and Miss McCoy have held two Station classes of one month each for the city women, in which the whole time was devoted to Bible study. A regular course of study for the women church members was adopted several years ago, and this year was lengthened to extend over five years. A good number of women are making decided progress in the work of the course, and passing creditable examinations as they finish each year's work.

For the men, a self-supporting station class was conducted by Dr. Whiting. A class which was held in the street chapel for some months, for the study of the simplified method for writing Chinese, now much in vogue, attracted a large number of young men, many of whom afterward joined the class to study Christianity. The class is still in session under the care of a native helper, and the fifteen young men now studying in it were all drawn from this source.

Thus an undertaking which seemed at first of little evangelistic value has proved a direct means of bringing men to a knowledge of the truth. It is from these classes that our church membership is largely recruited, and in them also is given most of the instruction which makes the church members into more intelligent and active Christians. A class for colporteurs and country helpers held its third annual session of a month, during May, under the charge of Mr. Cunningham and Mrs. Fenn. There have been thirty-five additions to the church during the year. A month of special service in the early Spring served greatly to quicken the spiritual life of the church. In connection therewith, a prayer band was formed to pray for a large outpouring of the Spirit on the Church of Christ in China; and the spirit of supplication has been greatly strengthened among the Chinese Christians.

Another method of reaching outsiders, which has been much used with the women, has been week-day meetings in the church for reading and explaining the daily paper. Reading rooms where this is done for men have been opened all over the city, this past year; and the women have been glad of a similar opportunity to keep abreast of the times. Through these meetings, some very interesting women have been led to attend the other meetings in the church, and to take a real interest in the truth as it is in Christ Jesus.

The educational work at Second street comprises the Boys' Academy, with which the day-school has been temporarily merged, and a girls' day-school. Mrs. Cunningham has continued in charge of the Academy, assisted by two native teachers. Mr. Cunningham has kept the accounts, conducted prayers, drilled the boys in singing, and assisted with the discipline. Dr. Whiting and Mr. Ts'ui Yueh each taught a class daily. The total number of boys who have been in the school during the year is seventy; but not over forty have been in attendance at any one time.

This condition may be accounted for by the dropping out of boys to enter the Medical College, or to attend the Methodist University to secure more English, or for family reasons; but chiefly the opening of many government and clan schools. The families of students wish them to enter such schools in order to stand a good chance of securing government positions.

In view of these facts, Mrs. Cunningham has adopted a rule requiring from the parents of students a written statement that it is their purpose to keep the boy in our school until graduation. Two boys only were graduated this year; but the increased requirements for a diploma will partly account for this. The Principal's aim in this work has been to understand each boy thoroughly and to work for him personally, in order to the building up of strong Christian character.

Several boys have been received into church membership, and the others are either members or catechumens. A Y. M. C. A and a Junior Y. P. S. C. E. have been in operation in the Academy, as heretofore. The work of the school has been carried on another year under the great disadvantage of having no suitable recitation rooms or assembly hall; but now, through the generosity of Mr. Emerson, of Titusville, Pa., who gave $2,000 gold for the purpose, and that of Dr. W. A. P. Martin, of Peking, who added the sum of $2,000 Mexican, a new administration building has been erected. This, with the good dormitory erected two years ago, gives the school a much more comfortable home, and greatly lightens Mrs. Cunningham's heart and labors.

The girls' day-school, averaging ten pupils, has done good work. The teacher, Mrs. Wang, is growing into a beautiful Christian character. Miss Carter has taught arithmetic in the school daily, and conducted the weekly examinations. Several girls have been prepared for the boarding school at Paoting-fu in this little, well-conducted day-school.

The work in all its departments has had a distinctly evangelistic aim; and this is no less true in the medical work than elsewhere. The work of An Ting Hospital has been carried on ten months of the year by Dr. Griggs, with some assistance from Dr. Young of the American Board Mission. The large number of 287 opium cases was treated, in addition to 93 regular in-patients. 1,829 different patients have been treated in the dispensary, averaging about three visits each. Dr. Griggs thinks that at least 40 to 50 per cent of the opium cures are permanent; and in all cases those who have been reached by the Gospel have remained firm. The three faithful nurses in the opium ward are all converted opium cases.

Most gratifying to the doctor has been the helpful interest of Deacon Tsou, who has made frequent visits to the wards and dispensary, encouraging the patients, helping them financially, and exerting a strong influence for the church. Another voluntary helper was the hospital cook, who conducted prayers, morning and evening, in the hospital in an intelligent and acceptable manner. The daily preaching at the street chapel, which forms the dispensary waiting room, has been faithfully done by Dr. Wherry, Elder Kwoa, helpers Ts'ui, Li and others.

The hospital equipment has been greatly improved by the gift of aseptic furniture and instruments for the operating room, to the value of $1,400 gold, from Mr. Benjamin Thaw, of Pittsburg, Pa. It is with great regret that we were forced to close the Hospital temporarily on the departure of Dr. Griggs. The newly-appointed Doctor Hall, cannot, of course, relieve this trying situation until he has had time to make a start at least on the language.

The Douw Hospital was open for eleven months of the past year. Dr. Leonard reports 94 in-patients (as against 64 the previous year), 164 visits to homes, and 7,375 dispensary treatments. Her assistant, Mrs. Lien, and the Bible woman, Mrs. Ma, have been most faithful in preaching in the waiting-room, talking with patients in the wards and visiting them in their homes.

The small cost of the woman's medical work, $1,054.63, including the doctor's salary, with $262.75 of that amount raised on the field, would justify it on purely humanitarian grounds; but in view of the many doors thus opened to the Gospel, the cost seems insignificant indeed.

While no gifts for equipment have come to the Douw Hospital this year, Dr. Leonard is always adding something to its comfort and convenience by her ingenuity and good house-keeping, not to mention her Montgomery Ward packing boxes. Dr. Leonard has given lectures in Anatomy and Physiology at the Union Training School for Nurses, initiated the past year with nine students.

She says, "I wish that every one of our school girls might have a year of such training before going into a home of her own. It would render these girls much more efficient wives and mothers; and would be of especial use to those who go to live at our country stations." The necessary preparation for these lectures has added very much to the doctor's labors; and next year, when the proposed Union Woman's Medical College opens, these labors will be still further increased; but they will be made possible by the return of Miss McKillican to Peking, to aid in the medical and evangelistic work.

We cannot pass from the Second Street Central without referring to Mrs. Whiting's industrial work, an unorganized department for which the Mission is in no way responsible, financially or otherwise, but which has come to be a recognized feature of the work at that compound.

If the healing of the body is a legitimate form of missionary endeavor, surely the providing of that honest labor by which it can be warmed and fed needs no apology. But the strongest argument for this work is the transformed lives of those who have been brought into the church through this means. From poverty and idleness, hopelessness and superstition, whole families have risen to lives of industry and independence, blessed by a cheerful spirit and a thankful dependence upon the Heavenly Father. Far from encouraging the "rice-Christian," the results of this form of Christian helpfulness seem to be the making of Christians who are content with a reasonable share of this world's comforts, with plenty of time for Bible study and the services of God's house.

The work at Ch'i Shou Wei, the small center in the southwest city, has been in about the same condition as last year, the most encouraging feature being the boys' day-school, conducted by the wife of the local helper, Mr. Li Lien Sheng. The school has had an average attendance of twelve, and no decrease in number resulted from the discontinuance of the English lessons given by Miss Carter at the beginning of the year. Mr. Li has spent part of his time in the country.

Regular Sunday services have been conducted by Mr. Li and Pastor Wang, but they have been poorly attended. The woman's prayer meeting on Thursdays has been regularly conducted by Miss Carter and Mrs. Li, but with little encouragement, though there have been a few faithful attendants. This place, the site of her former Mission work, bequeathed to us by Miss Douw six years ago, must evidently either have more or less done for it. There is a large field there; but it must be worked more energetically if it is to yield results.

At the street chapel on Pipe Lane, there has been regular preaching by Pastor Wang and some of the Seminary students. Attendance and interest have been good, and some have been drawn from there to attendance on the services at the Seminary.

The large heathen Sunday-school of 125 has been regularly conducted by Miss Carter and Mrs. Ma. Day-schools for boys and girls have also been conducted in the Seminary compound; but the girls' school has been closed for some months for lack of a suitable teacher. These schools are greatly needed in this neighborhood, and with good teachers and suitable rooms might be made a success. But the Chinese government is now doing so much in the provision of schools, that, unless we can house ours better and make them more attractive, they will not be well attended. Surely we do not want the children of our church members to attend heathen day-schools and take part in the idolatrous practices required there!

The lack of room for the new Union Theological Seminary at Second street, and the impossibility of securing suitable adjoining property for the purpose, having necessitated the rebuilding of the old compound on the Drum Tower, Great street, which has lain in ruins since the Boxer outbreak, it has meant practically the reoccupation of the place as a center of work. The residence there of two families and a body of students has attracted a great many people, so that the Sunday services in the Seminary building have had to be thrown open to outsiders, both men and women.

The Union Theological Seminary was opened last year for only six months, owing to the lateness of the completion of the building. On account of the shortness of the school year, and in hope of starting with a larger class of College graduates the coming year, it was decided to begin with a class of non-graduates for a "short cut" course. Twenty-four men were waiting to avail themselves of this opportunity, and have done, on the whole, good work. They have been earnest in their evangelistic efforts, assisting at the street chapel, preaching on the streets Sunday afternoons, bringing inquirers to the Sunday services, and carrying on an active Christian Endeavor Society.

The teaching in the Seminary has been done by Dr. Goodrich, representing the American Board, Mr. Meech, representing the London Mission, and Dr. Wherry and Dr. Fenn from our own Mission. Dr. Goodrich, in view of long experience, acts as Dean, while Dr. Fenn has had the general management of the establishment. Mr. Meech has come from his home for five hours each week, and Dr. Wherry for one hour.

Our entering into the North China Educational Union with the American Board and London Missions has been one of the most significant events of our year's history. It has entailed upon our Mission a heavy responsibility, and still more upon our Station. From the start we have been at a disadvantage. The American Board already had its two College plants, worth $70,000, and the London Mission had already undertaken to furnish a Medical College at the expense of almost $50,000. We had no plant at all for the Theological Seminary which fell to us as our share of the work. In fact, this work was given over to us by the American Board, which had already carried it on successfully for many years, in order that we might be able to enter the Union and share in its benefits. We were confronted at the outset with the statement that the Board was unable to appropriate money for the purpose. But friends were raised up in the persons of Messrs. Morris K. Jesup, John S. Kennedy and John H. Converse, who contributed together $8,600, and later an additional $3,900 to meet the deficit caused by underestimates, unfavorable exchange and advance in prices.

A Seminary building, consisting of dormitories and classrooms sufficient to meet immediate needs, was erected, two residences built for Dr. Goodrich and Dr. Fenn, the ruins cleared away and the walls repaired. Much still remains to be done to make the place what it should be, and the equipment of the building for its work is as yet very meagre. A more recent gift of $500 from Mrs. Thaw, of Pittsburg, is doing something in this direction, while a library and reading room are being started with a gift of $150 from Miss Alice Carter and brother.

Some literary work has been prosecuted this year by members of the Station. Dr. Wherry has continued his work on Bible Revision, and is spending his Summer with the other members of the Committee on completing the work on the Wen Li New Testament. Every year brings to him his share of Sunday-school Lessons to prepare for the Tract Society. Dr. Fenn has made progress on his Concordance of the New Testament. Mrs. Whiting has written articles for the woman's daily paper, and Mrs. Cunningham has prepared a Catechism in the new alphabetic character.

The return of Dr. Martin to reside among us as an honorary member of the Mission has been one of the happiest events of the year. It has been inspiring to see him working away with the vigor of a much younger man. He has given some stimulating addresses to the Academy boys and Seminary students.

Not for some years has the country work been so industriously prosecuted, and that in spite of short-handedness.

The enforced departure of Mr. Hicks' in search of health, and the assignment of Dr. Fenn to the Theological Seminary, left no men able to do country work except Mr. Cunningham, already pastor of the city church and assisting in the Academy, and Mr. Gleysteen, less than a year on the field. Both have taken hold most energetically. Mr. Cunningham has spent three months' time in the country, visiting all the stations once a month; while Mr. Gleysteen has lived four and one half months in the country, studying with his Chinese teacher and learning to know the people among whom he hopes to work. Miss McCoy, leaving the city work to Miss Carter (but two years on the field), and to the able Bible woman, Mrs. Ma, spent twenty-eight weeks in the country. Mrs. Cunningham also, in the intervals of school work, took several short country trips over the entire field.

Miss McCoy gave most of her time to village work, visiting twenty-four different villages, some of them several times. She also held four classes, of a month each, for both Christians and inquirers. A growing interest in the study of God's word was manifest, and many of the country women are now taking the same course as those in the city. Miss McCoy feels that several of them may make useful Bible women in a few years; and it is her aim to place a Bible woman in each of our out-stations as soon as possible. All this work was done without the assistance of such a helper, there being but one in the Station.

We have in our two country fields, to the north and the east, eleven centers where regular work is carried on. Six of these have chapels owned or rented by the Mission, and resident helpers. Two others have resident helpers, but no Mission property. Three are market towns, regularly visited by the helpers.

At Ma Fang, the center of the east field, a Martyr Memorial Chapel has been built; and Mr. Ku Te En, a college graduate, and his wife have done excellent service there, conducting a boarding school of sixteen boys, holding Sabbath services, and preaching on week days. From Ma Fang came seven of this year's nine additions to the church from the country.

The center of the woman's work in the east field is Hsiao Ku Hsien, where Miss McCoy has her headquarters. At Huai Jou Hsien, in the north field, Mr. and Mrs. Kung Te Tsang have faithfully preached and conducted a small boarding school of six pupils. The chapel there has now been put in good shape for present needs. The same is true at Kao Li Ying, where we are at last well housed.

At San Hoa Hsien, in east field, work has been carried on as usual; but has been in the main unresponsive. At Ping Ku Hsien, where we have had a native helper for only one year, the work has been very encouraging, book sales large and much interest shown. Of the class of eight inquirers none were baptized this year.

Three newly opened outstations are Ching Hoa (opened through the woman's medical work), Chi Chou and Pang Chun, the last a large market town, to which two colporteurs have been sent. A Mr. Pai, who had heard the Gospel in Shansi, invited them to make his home their base of operations, and has donated buildings on the main street for a chapel. A gift of $75 from Miss Carter and brother provided the funds for remodeling the building. When Mr. Pai's aged mother gave up her idols in answer to her son's prayers, the chapel was dedicated, and is now in use.

This country work is being actively prosecuted during the Summer by an earnest band of Seminary, College and Academy students, traveling from place to place, selling Christian books and preaching at fairs. These and one or two of the helpers leaving to pursue their studies will leave a heavy burden on the few remaining; but it is hoped that others may be found among the Christians who have spent some time in station classes, to temporarily fill the vacancies.

To sum up, the Peking Station shows a force at work of five ordained missionaries, two medical missionaries, four single ladies, and four wives, a total of fifteen. Of these, four are still in the preparatory stages of language study, although two have been able to do considerable direct work. One is obliged to give most of her time to her family. This leaves but nine able to do full, or nearly full, work. Of native helpers of all grades, men and women, we have twenty-six, chiefly of the lower grades. Of these, four are wives of helpers, and give but part of their time to the work. Three are students in the Theological Seminary, and can only give a little time to chapel preaching, save in the Summer. Of the remaining seventeen, one is the Station writer, who gives a good deal of time to preaching, one an ordained man who teaches or writes half the day and preaches the other; three are school teachers, two hospital assistants—one a Bible woman. The rest are lower grade helpers and colporteurs.

The need of trained helpers is too evident to require comment, and forms a sufficient reason for our desire to take a full and active part in the Educational Union, which is our great hope for the future of our work. The Mission can do the work of training men and women to meet the need, if financial aid is forthcoming; but one thing must be borne in mind by the Home Church, namely, that conditions have greatly changed. The cost of living is nearly double what it was a few years ago, and the intellectual needs of the Chinese Christians are also growing year by year. Even for the same amount of work, more money is required than in the past. But such a standstill is impossible; the work must go on enlarging; and our native helpers must receive higher pay to enable them to live as the work demands. Our school and hospital work has often been crippled because we could not pay what a first-class teacher or assistant could command.

The changed conditions affect also the missionary, and render him unable to help out financially as he has formerly done. We are praying that the necessary funds for the enlargement of the work may be forthcoming, and we believe that they will be, for the work is the Lord's and He will provide for it all that our faith is able to appropriate.

PAOTING-FU STATION.

The history of this Station is now divided into two almost equal periods by the terrible year 1900. Founded by the Rev. Dr. Whiting and Dr. George Yardley Taylor in 1893, it was hardly seven years old when the fury of the Boxers laid it low and smote down several of our beloved missionaries and the most active of the Chinese believers. It lay prostrate for two years, and now, six years after that devastation, we come with joyous acknowledgment of God's goodness to record what he has wrought.

The routine work of twelve men and women presents little of interest to the historian or his reader, though it aggregates with us four thousand days of toil. Yet it is, as elsewhere in the world, out of this unremitting round of persistent, prayerful, noiseless effort that God brings to pass results that are important enough to record and that mark epochs of less or greater moment in the history of His cause.

Miss Gowans makes, day by day, her visits to the woman's headquarters in the city, varied by journeys into the country. Dr. Lewis almost makes his home in the Taylor Memorial Hospital, losing many a meal (a practice not laid down in medical literature) because it is too far to run from his operating room to the house.

Mrs. Lowrie, who returned from furlough in October with Dr. Lowrie, though a victim of rheumatism and unable to step upon the ground for many months, is a center round whom many interests revolve and to whom one and all very often resort. Dr. Lowrie is usually found in the pulpit on Sunday and in the city chapel during the week. Dr. Maud Mackey lives, surrounded by her patients, in Hodge Memorial Hospital and over her dispensary.

The arrival of Dr. Elizabeth Lewis during the year was gladly welcomed and she is now hard at work on the language.

Mr. and Mrs. Mather, who are nearing the completion of their language studies, have begun their work, Mr. Mather having the oversight of the boys' school and a wide country field. Mr. Miller, with journeys into the country and catechumen classes and treasurer's duties, finds both hands full; and Mrs. Miller, besides four hours' teaching of her four growing boys, imprints herself and the Gospel on the sick women of the Hodge Memorial Hospital. Miss Newton has made her school, as heretofore, her other self.

This company, by the good hand of our God, has enjoyed a year of wonderful oneness of heart, not a single jar breaking the fellowship of the entire year. A strong bond to the securing of this blessed feature of missionary corporate life has been the noon-day prayer meeting, where every interest is brought to God as it arises, as well as the welfare of sister Stations, and, through that invaluable Year Book, the interests also of the Kingdom in all the world.

The general work has found two sources of refreshment.

First, there was an Autumn rally of Christians from the whole field, where, through the personal reports of varied experiences, from their fellow-believers in widely scattered homes and in contemplating the example of those who laid down their lives in 1900, and in the discussion of such practical themes as How to Keep the Faith, The Value of a Sabbath Well Spent, The Example of the Vigorous Church in Korea, there resulted a distinct turning anew to God on the part of almost all who were present. Second, at the close of the year, after much special prayer, when as a result of Dr. H. A. Johnston's searching addresses during a five-days' visit to Paoting-fu a large number from the schools, the hospital patients and other attendants upon the church expressed their determination to live for God. In an oriental assemblage such a demonstration means less than with us in the West; some misunderstand the invitation, others follow the crowd, others would ingratiate themselves with their elders, and with others again there is no solemn obligation in any promise. Yet, with large allowance for these peculiarities, there remains a company who have received the Lord Jesus in deed and in truth.

But the picture has its shadows also, for the year has been marked by a dire manifestation of the power of indwelling sin.

It involved the girls' school, though happily not one of the pupils, but a clever and unstable teacher invited from a distance, who was instantly dismissed. Her paramour, a member of the church, refused to make the acknowledgment of misdoing that had relieved the shadow of her sin, and was expelled from the church. It involved the boys' school, where one of the older pupils, charged with grave misconduct, had to be dismissed, but not before he had disclosed practices by the teachers unworthy of their profession, which led to a thorough overhauling of both teachers and scholars and the re-establishment of the school on a basis of better understanding, and with a determination to be more faithful in the future.

One of the Christian communicants was also tempted into gambling; but he confessed immediately and forsook his sin.

The city of Paoting-fu has undergone such a change of exterior during these few years as almost to become a different field of labor. Referred to in recent annual reports, the transformation has steadily continued. To macadamized streets, and municipal lighting, and modern police system, and newspaper reading rooms, and Anglo-Chinese College of 300 pupils, normal school of 700 pupils, military school of 1,000 pupils, have been added wireless telegraphy connecting up by air line with Tien-tsin and Peking, a convicts' industrial school, a law school, besides additions to the 2,000 pupils of younger years scattered in boarding schools throughout the city, each school wearing some distinctive uniform.

These resident students aggregate now full 4,000 souls, as many probably as are similarly gathered in any city in China. And this where in 1894 the missionaries could not coax more than two boys to attend our Anglo-Chinese school under the care of Mr. Miller, though as good as the best here now. Add to this the camps of 20,000 soldiers who roam the city on ticket-of-leave, and you have a picture of life and activity quite like the seaport towns.

But with the prosperity have come the harlot and the opium den as never before. One of our ladies, during a call upon the prefect's family, to whom she was introducing a visiting friend from America, was invited by the bright little girls of the prefect to walk through their private grounds, which lie within the same enclosure as the official courtroom. What was their consternation to see the little children point with glee at some criminals kneeling with bared legs on iron chains, their faces distorted with the excruciating agonies of the torture to which they were being subjected. Looking at suffering with glee is by no means peculiar to Chinese children, but we can only hope that some substitute will soon be found for the inhuman torture to which criminals are still really, though not ostensibly, liable in China.

The daily proclamation of the Gospel at the city chapel reaches many of the residents or visiting students. When the foreigner is speaking, the chapel is well filled; but we have no Chinese helper with the spirit and the gifts to attract an audience, or to hold one already gathered.

For such a man we ask our friends to pray the Lord of the harvest, as well as for a woman who is qualified to conspicuously lead in reaching and training her country-women.

Notwithstanding this lack of efficient helpers, we have been brought into fellowship with two scholarly men of independent means and occupation, one of whom, Mr. Jen (Run), has been baptized, and the other is, we hope, soon to follow, while a third, who has been interested for eight years, is a frequent attendant at the Sabbath services.

These are the first men of this class to be won from the residents of the city. For their upbuilding, as well as to form a nucleus of the future Chinese church, which will probably be located within the city walls, and also with a view to reach the merchant class who are confined to their counters all day, Dr. Lowrie has held a service on Sunday evenings in the city chapel, which, with an average attendance of perhaps thirty, is one of the new enterprises of the year.

In the city also, Dr. Mackey and Miss Gowans carry on their patient labors for the bodies and souls of its women. A dispensary on alternate days has borne fruit, besides the countless pains relieved, in the conversion of a woman, who, "from being a grumbling, discontented creature, has become a contented, earnest, Bible-loving Christian, anxious not only to please God but to bring others to her Saviour." And, though the mandarin's wife, Mrs. Wu, so cordially a supporter of the work, has moved to Tsinan-fu, Shantung, there are still ten official families where Miss Gowans is a welcome visitant, and who are generally "grateful for the privilege of having prayer in their homes."

One haughty dowager, who used to be greatly amused at our kneeling down for prayer in the meetings, at my last call begged me to pray with her, ordering her servant to bring a rug that I might have something clean and soft to kneel upon.

From these official families there gather, three times a month at Miss Gowans' home, to a prayer meeting, a number of ladies and their servants and children, which averages about fifteen persons, rising on one occasion to thirty-five.

For ten days a month, during nine months, woman's catechumen classes have been conducted by Miss Gowans, Mrs. Mather snatching some time from her study to get, in teaching there, a first taste of actual missionary work.

An average of twenty-three women have gathered each month, among them an old woman "who had not tasted anything palatable,—not even salt,—for forty-one years, in fulfillment of a vow made to the gods when she cried to them to relieve her mother from great agony," and another woman brought by her little son, who first became interested in Miss Newton's city mission Sunday-school, who then "coaxed his mother to read a little and attend classes; and every spare minute he has while she is in a class he, now advanced to the boys' boarding school, presents himself to help her with her lesson." In that mission Sunday-school there has been a total attendance of 1,571 during the year, double the attendance of four year ago; and one boy, besides the little fellow above referred to, has also entered the boarding school.

At the Mission Compound in the west suburb, which is known as Fu Yin Yuan (the Good News Gardens), we know not how sufficiently to condense the activities of the place into reasonable compass. They are at least seven in number. At the entrance stands the Heroes' Memorial Church.

A goodly audience of many types of character has comfortably filled the building on Sunday mornings, when pupils well instructed in the Bible, and their teachers accustomed to excellent preaching elsewhere, and Christians male and female, many of rather humble capacities for understanding the message, and scholars from the new government schools, besides the general heathen auditor who knows nothing of the Gospel, constitute an audience not easy to supply with teaching adapted to the needs of all.

There have been twelve additions to the church during the year, and the sad necessity of discipline has expelled one communicant and suspended three others.

After Dr. Johnson's message, twenty-five persons applied for baptism.

Mr. Miller ministered to the church for two months in the Autumn, after which Dr. Lowrie succeeded him, that he might be freed for country and hospital work. He again took charge for the month of July, with the same efficiency and growing power that characterized his ministerial work during Dr. Lowrie's absence on furlough.

A series of monthly missionary prayer meetings, with maps, was begun; and in the course of the year, the needs of Syria, Africa, India, China and Korea were brought to the minds of the people, drawing out their sympathies and prayers for the people in the same darkness as themselves.

In our Sunday-school, which is taught by eleven earnest Chinese and foreign teachers, the general interest seems to have been increased by reciting in concert the Lesson Titles and Golden Texts for the successive lessons, together with all the preceding ones in the quarter, with the result that the school responded more intelligently than heretofore at the quarterly review, besides, through the constant repetition, deeply imprinting portions of Scripture on the pupil's memory.

In the hope of reaching with special instruction the students in the government schools of the city, a students' meeting was opened, for two months, on Sunday afternoons, the attendance at which, though not large, was encouraging.

One scholarly teacher asked the question, What is the sum and substance of Christianity? He did not seem satisfied with Dr. Lowrie's reply that it was "A forgiven man's receiving daily strength to do right, through trust in Jesus Christ the Saviour of men," and later on ventured an answer to his own question, "Isn't it chien jen, determination and endurance?" a reply which throws an interesting light upon the impression made by the church in China on intelligent observers of its progress.

For a company of Provincial College students, Mrs. Lewis gave informal invitations to social Saturday afternoons, which they greatly enjoyed. The two Missions, Congregational and Presbyterian, have united in asking the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. to send a Secretary to Paoting-fu for work among its thousands of students, to which request an encouraging reply has been received.

The Station has recently established a Conference, including all its male workers, both Chinese and foreign, evangelistic, educational and medical, to meet once in six weeks, in which all make report of their work, and such questions are to be brought up for discussion as may arise and fall within the survey of such a Conference.

Thirty boys has been the average attendance at the boys' boarding school in Mr. Mather's charge. This year it has been christened the Hero Lovers' School, a name suggested by that of the Heroes' Memorial Church hard by. It has this Summer graduated its first class of four boys, who received their certificates and some sound words of counsel from Mr. Miller and Mr. Chou, their much loved former teacher, and are hoping to continue their studies at Truth Hall, Peking, in the Autumn. The fathers of two of these boys were beheaded by the Boxers, and that of one other was led out to death and only rescued by the united pleadings of the whole village, with whom he was very popular.

Dr. Johnston's addresses took strong hold of the boys, until every boy in the school, old enough to understand the step but still undecided, stood up and confessed Christ. One of the most warm-hearted Christians and diligent students is a lame boy, who entered the school from the hospital and seems to be filled with the desire to bring others to the Lord, taking books on Saturday and Sunday afternoons into the villages round about, and talking very earnestly to the villagers who gather about him and his school companions.

The girls' school, now named the Union Memorial Girls' School, has also graduated its first class of seven girls, five of whom are of our own Mission, one from the American Board, and one from the London Mission. Six of these girls will go to the Bridgeman School in Peking, and one has already been engaged by Miss Gowans as a helper in woman's work, having declined two offers of marriage in order to reserve a free hand for the Christian work into which she desires to enter. Miss Newton writes:

As far as I can see, each one of these girls has a growing spiritual life. I do not expect ever to send out a class more hopeful and promising than this one. In next year's graduating class there are eleven girls, among whom are eight decidedly above the average in character and ability, and the last one to become a Christian was led to express this desire at Dr. Johnston's meetings.

At the head of the corps of teachers is still Miss Li Wen Cheng, whose personal character, varied and indefatigable labors, and perennial contagious cheerfulness are a marvel to all who know her. At a trying juncture during the year, involving a teacher's dismissal, it was most refreshing to have the elder's wife, Mrs. Li, a former pupil and later teacher in the school, who had resigned last year to give her whole time to her husband and children, come forward and say, "I can't see you in a plight like this. I'll come back and teach. My baby is older now, and though, with five children, there's plenty to do, still I must come back." She is the daughter of the late Elder Hsueh, of Peking, who used to pray that, before all else, the Lord would grant that his descendants might be children of God.

There were forty-two girls, not Christians at the beginning of the year, and the seventeen believers, together with four teachers, agreed each to take two girls to pray for, which they did in private, besides holding many meetings for united prayer, with the result that in the course of the year, every one prayed for had expressed a desire to serve the Lord. Some of these were found to be insincere in this profession, but Miss Newton writes that "there is no doubt that the Lord has visited His people."

The girls of our own Mission have been prompt and cheerful in paying their school dues, and those of other Missions are improving in this respect. The prefect of the city, chief magistrate of seventeen counties, suggested that Miss Newton take charge of an official girls' boarding school, recently opened in the city, which has an industrial department, engaged chiefly in the making of cigarettes, an industry borrowed from Japan.

The Hodge Memorial Woman's Hospital has its Chinese title now hanging above the entrance, and during the hospital year has averaged eighty patients a day, cared for from twenty to eighty patients in the wards at one time and sent Dr. Mackey for eighty-two outside visits.

The hospital matron, by nature one of the best types of Chinese women, has this year united with the church, and her former faithfulness and unselfishness have been hallowed and deepened through prayer and the influence of truth.

A class for training nurses has been begun under the instruction of Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Perkins (of the A. B. C. F. M.). One of the pupils, during a lingering illness, and at her departure, exhibited such conquering faith and happy anticipation of heaven and meeting with her Lord as to deeply affect all who attended her.

Another pretty little girl, who had been sold by her widowed father to a life of shame, whose cruel mistress had so tightly bound her feet as to superinduce gangrene, requiring the amputation of one leg, after which her market value was nil, was gladly yielded up by this owner to Mrs. Lewis and Dr. Elizabeth Lewis, who have adopted her. The heart of the now vigorous and happy girl, who hops so briskly about on her crutches, seems to turn Godward, and we earnestly pray Him some day to occupy it fully.

This hospital is really a big evangelistic class, where many a patient is retained long after she might be dismissed, in order that she may fully understand the truth which Mrs. Miller's daily, systematic instructions, reinforcing the constant influence of Dr. Mackey and her Christian Chinese associates, continually impart. One woman, an inveterate gambler, and considered a hopeless case by her husband, was led to abandon the practice while at the hospital, so much to his delight that he assisted her to return to one of the woman's classes for further instruction in this good way.

Five men's monthly catechumen classes have convened, each for ten days, under Mr. Miller's supervision, averaging twenty-one men to the class, coming from ten counties, and some even from the provinces of Honan and Kansu.

The men pay toward their food about what it would cost them to live in their country homes. At the examinations held at the close of the class, it was interesting to hear the more intelligent give an analysis of the book of Matthew, first half, from memory, together with the details of any paragraph suggested to them.

Turning now to the wide country field, stretching east and west one hundred miles, and from south to north forty miles, we realize as yet but imperfectly how inadequately we have brought the Gospel to those who depend upon us alone, aside from the Roman Catholics, for the truth of God; and the Roman Catholics do no public evangelizing anywhere in North China.

Two secular influences are powerful throughout the villages of this region,—one, the influence of the young men who have gone from home either to labor in the mines of South Africa, or for the Russians, who are building as a modern city the town of Harbin in North Manchuria; the other that of the iron Viceroy, Yuan Shih Kai, whose very name is as potent in controlling the populace of our province as ever was that of Richard the Lionhearted among the Saracen children.

In a large annual religious fair,—for the church fair in its last stage of degeneration is to be found in China,—visited by Mr. Miller and Dr. Lewis, a man somewhat tipsy came up to the former and embracing him said, "I know you: you were here last year. Now you just tell the Viceroy to relax his law a little, or the fair will be ruined." He referred to the law against gambling, this year rigidly enforced, and diminishing the attendance as much as half, for the many devices for encouraging the gambler are the chief attraction of the fair. Nevertheless Dr. Lewis treated above 200 patients during the clinic, which lasted the entire day, while Mr. Miller and the evangelist aided, now in preaching and now in such other ways as opportunity offered.

Two other such journeys were made by Mr. Miller and Dr. Lewis to the east and to the north of Paoting-fu, in one of which, at the city of I Chou, a former hospital patient, a Mohammedan, came promptly forward, showing in every way his sympathy, indicated to them the most suitable place to reach the crowd, and offered to secure permanent quarters for regular visitation. The chief of police, an officer unknown to China four years ago, invited the two workers in a most friendly way to his headquarters, where lay upon his table a New Testament and other Christian books.

In the mountain district of Kuang Chang, distant eighty miles, the group of thirty or more Christians has been visited by both Mr. Mather and Mr. Miller, and successful classes of six and eight days duration, for the edification of Christians and the instruction of inquirers, were held. One old blind man was led over the mountains thirteen miles in order to attend both classes. Evangelist Chao and blind Feng, who supports himself by tract selling, spent two months with this company of Christians, increasing their knowledge of the Word and assisting them to learn to sing, which Feng, an enthusiastic singer, is somewhat qualified to do.

In the Man Cheng church, our oldest out-station, regularly visited on Sunday by Mr. Mather and Elder Li, who also together made a visit to the homes of the Christians, there has been nothing unusual to record, save that, in an adjacent village, one of the most intelligent and prosperous members of the church, himself somewhat feeble in health, has held for several months an evening Bible study hour for fellow villagers, which has been a source of blessing to himself as well as to the little group which gathered quite regularly during the Winter and Spring. Two or three of the most promising Christians in the Station are in the Man Cheng church.

One of them is a young man in whose home the only grandson, the only link to the family future, while walking in the gloaming a few steps from his grandmother's side, was seized and so cruelly mangled by a wolf that death ensued in a few days. The sorrow in the household can better be imagined than described, and was intensified also by the taunts of unbelieving neighbors, who expressed surprise that the Christian's God could not avert such a catastrophe as that.

This young man, Wang Lu, rose in our Autumn rally, towards the close of the session, with evident but suppressed emotion, and declared that he must say a word before they parted. For, since they all knew of the sorrow that had befallen his home so recently, he must share with them the wonderful truth that until you have met a real sorrow like this you cannot fully know what it is to trust in God, or to find a comfort that the world cannot give. "It must be all right," said he, "and I know that God has given us a peace, after going with this awful trial back to Him, that is altogether unknown to the world." It is interesting to know that, soon after, when a heathen neighbor lost by sickness his only boy, he sent for this same Wang Lu to come in and speak to them words of consolation.

The Wan-hsien chapel was reopened this Spring. This chapel is well located in the center of the town, but is not suitable for even the temporary residence of a foreigner. It was here that, early in the year 1900, Mr. Simcox was driven out upon the roof by a mob, and his Christian companion badly beaten, to be also murdered in the Summer of that year.

We have been much encouraged in this reopening. Perfect order has prevailed. A large company of hearers gather on market days, and still more when Mr. Miller or Mr. Mather has visited the place on a Sunday. One prosperous young man bought a tract and returned after a few days able to recite it from cover to cover.

In this field, Mr. Chang, a Christian teacher of a village heathen school, has bravely taught his boys the Scriptures, and especially Pilgrim's Progress, so that they are able to narrate chapters of the wonderful allegory, yet he has retained his pupils and the good will of the parents. Visits have been made by Miss Gowans, accompanied by Mrs. Mather, and by Mrs. Miller, to this western field, who found a cordial reception both among Christians and idolaters.

To the east and north of Paoting-fu, we have three out-stations, one newly opened at Pai Gou Hoe for the women of that region, whom Miss Gowans has visited twice during the year, and who voluntarily found for her the house which has now been rented. On a boat trip to this point, during the rainy season, when Miss Gowans, Dr. Elizabeth Lewis and Miss Hicks went, accompanied by a Chinese evangelist, throngs, quite respectful save in one instance, came to the water's edge to be healed, as many as eighty-five of whom received treatment at one stopping-place. These all heard the Gospel, and, through the evangelist Tien, the men also, who were almost as numerous as the women.

On one of these trips, Miss Gowans visited a wealthy family, whose mother, while suffering from dropsy in an aggravated form with complications involving the heart, had remained months in the Mission Hospital, and, an operation being inadvisable, had returned home to die. She did not die, however; but now, restored to perfect health, warmly greeted the missionaries, while her daughter, an unusual young woman, told how, on perceiving her mother dangerously ill, she and her sister-in-law had knelt in the middle of the open court to the true God, and prayed that He would restore her to health.

The helper at the village of Tsang Tsun is a consecrated man, Mr. Tsui, instant in season and out, whose labors have not yet borne fruit in souls won; but when they do, those souls will presumably have real piety and be fruitful in their turn.

He was greatly moved during the Summer conference at Peitaiho last year by the presentation of the Christian duty of individual soul-saving, and with the notes made at that time as a basis, originally derived we learn from Dr. Johnston's book on "Personal Work," he has prepared a hand book for the personal worker, which, though somewhat crude, is a labor of love, and the first effort of a Chinese Christian to stir up enthusiasm and practical endeavor, through the printed page, on this theme so vital to the very existence of the church in China,

It is with dismay that we think of our country field, with eight entire counties, and the northern half of five more delimited between us and the American Board Mission, in but six of which we have as yet out-stations. They should as speedily as possible be increased to sixty-six, with a praying Chinese man and woman in each, devoting their whole time to making the Gospel known.

For such large things as these, yea, larger still, do we pray the Lord of the harvest; and with confidence that He is able to do exceeding abundantly, above all that we can ask or think, we would enter on the new year with broader plans for the training of men and women to help, and a wider evangel to reach the ears of many, who shall become the faithful men of the future, able to teach others also.

SHUNTE-FU STATION.

The work of opening a new station does not all end with the first year, neither do all events of interest take place at the beginning. Much can be written; but far more has happened than can be put on paper. The members for the past year have consisted of Miss McKillican, of Peking, who was kindly loaned to us by that station, Dr. and Mrs. Hamilton, Miss Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Hawley and Dr. Louise Keator.

Dr. Hamilton has been "Jack of all trades," but, unlike the proverb, master of all. The building began to occupy his time upon his return to Shunte-fu from Paoting-fu, where he had gone with his wife in August, because of her serious illness. The woman's dispensary was the first building to be erected; and while this was still in progress, negotiations began for the rental and repair of a suitable building for a city chapel in the business section of the south suburb. This change has proved beneficial to the work.

Daily clinics were begun in the men's dispensary,—the mornings being reserved for surgical operations in which an anæsthetic was necessary. The patients were seen in the afternoons. Being alone, with only one untrained assistant, the clinics were rather laborious. The total number of patients seen during the seven months was 4,320, and of outcalls fifty-two. We are looking forward this Fall with much joy to the opening of the fully equipped new hospital, made possible by the generous gift of Mrs. Hugh O'Neil, of New York. The opium refuge has had forty-eight patients, five of whom professed faith in Christ and have become earnest students of the Word.

After receiving in December the authorization from the Board, several weeks were devoted to preparing specifications, ordering materials, and drawing plans for the men's hospital and ladies' house. The actual work of building began about the middle of April, and from that time Dr. Hamilton's time was divided between clinics and superintending native workmen.

He has also been station treasurer, which has been far from simple, when so much building material had to be bought and so many accounts kept. Being associated so constantly with the Chinese, Dr. Hamilton has had almost no time for study, but has learned to talk better than many that have passed their examinations.

The woman's work has shown a decided increase in interest. Many of Mrs. Whiting's friends returned to us in the Fall. At first, they were disappointed not to see her, but our new senior member, Miss McKillican, with the new arrival, Miss Hicks, soon made them feel welcome, and the women's rooms were often crowded.

They learned a verse of one or two hymns, several Bible verses, and a simple prayer. The room for this work with women is large, airy, and comfortable. The foreign stove, pictures on the wall, Miss Hicks' baby organ, and a doll, contributed by Mrs. Hawley, were objects of unfailing delight to our visitors. The uses of these various objects often proved a real help in beginning a conversation with the women.

The opening of the dispensary brought a large number of women.

The heart would be hard indeed that would not be moved to pity at the sight of the amount of helpless, hopeless suffering which one meets in the waiting room day after day; and while the sense of one's helplessness depresses and frequently almost overwhelms one, yet the opportunities for the expression of interest and sympathy bring joy and satisfaction to our hearts. The hot water, tea, and raw eggs, often given to the weary patients, showed them that we are here because we really love them and want to help them. Miss McKillican's receipt for cooking eggs is known extensively about Shunte-fu.

Some of the women have found the room so delightful that they have brought their work and remained for hours. This affords excellent opportunity for telling them of Jesus. Miss Hicks has rendered much assistance, especially during the last month or two, when she taught in the waiting room. Among the congregations were to be found the halt and the blind, and not infrequently a child or two with small-pox.

Mrs. Chou, who became a Christian while Mrs. Whiting was in Shunte-fu, is still faithful. She remained true to her belief, although at the critical New Year time, when incense is supposed to be burned in every home, her husband threatened to kill her if she did not recant. She came several times to ask us to pray for her, and the New Year season passed with only revilings from her husband.

A number of dispensary patients have been visited in their homes. One woman in particular begged Miss McKillican to come and teach her. God has been with us beyond our expectations. Fruit is already being gathered, and we pray for a bountiful harvest soon. Both Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Hawley have had a share in this work.

The strictly evangelistic work at the station has been carried on by Mr. Hawley, who had been in China but one year when the whole work fell upon him. He, too, has had a share in the building, being a member of the building committee. A visit of three weeks from Mr. Cunningham, of Peking, was helpful. He held an inquirers' class in the country field, and was instrumental in clearing up a difficulty that had arisen from certain men claiming to be adherents to the church, but who really were using the name of the church to advance their own interests and were in no way connected with it. Two officials were visited, and the name of the church cleared, after plainly stating the facts in the case.

A large class gathered, some coming from distant villages, and for ten days the men met to study the truth, some seeming very much in earnest.

In the evenings, the room was packed to its limit, some listening from the outside. On the last day, thirty men, all apparently interested, listened attentively. All wanted to be enrolled as catechumens. These men themselves furnished the room in which the class was held. Those who came from distant villages experienced some discomfort in sleeping on cornstalks laid on the ground in an open shed, as the nights were cool. Since Mr. Cunningham's visit, Mr. Hawley has made five trips there.

The two country helpers reside in the country, each having a donkey and going from place to place, as the Chinese select. At present, there are eight or ten villages where meetings are conducted by the Chinese.

A day-school has been started, and with the regular Chinese studies the boys are taught gospel songs and Scripture verses. A graduate from the Shantung Union College has conducted the Sunday services, and has done daily preaching in the street dispensary during the winter months. Mr. Hawley alternated with him in conducting the Sunday services.

The Sunday-school has fourteen members. Most of the people in the city, who are interested, were formerly Dr. Hamilton's dispensary patients. A handsome church building which will seat about 400 persons is nearing completion. This was built from the large gift of Mrs. O'Neil.

Mrs. Hawley and Mrs. Hamilton went to the country in company with Miss McKillican, but the time had not yet come for work among women who had never before seen a foreign woman. All day, and shall I say, all night, the small room was crowded with inquisitive faces to see the foreign women. Let us hope some of the seed sown then fell on good ground. Mrs. Hawley also taught English to a young helper.

A large part of our work has been to be courteous and agreeable, and Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Hawley have been royal hostesses in this line. All hours of the day, eyes peering in at the windows, never alone, no privacy; and yet this is what it means to open a new station, and to open the hearts of China's poor, ignorant superstitious women. What would we not give to have the thought entirely removed that we are not savage and that we have no vats of pickled hearts and eyes in our cellars! Mrs. Hamilton, who loves boys, has had a class every Sunday of dear, interesting little fellows, from ten to twelve. They do so enjoy singing, "Jesus loves me!"

The woman's dispensary opened December 2nd. The number of patients seen during the six months following was 1,340, with several outcalls. The work on the whole has been interesting and encouraging. A large part of the patients come from a distance; many had to return to their homes without being cured, as one treatment was not sufficient to effect a cure, and there was no place for them to remain here.

We are looking forward with the keenest delight to the new hospital where patients can come and stay, "without money and without price," as it were. I do not know how soon it will be when the hospital is completed, but were I to judge from the number who have already said they would come for operation, there will be enough to keep two doctors busy.

We rejoice more than we can tell in the munificent gifts from Mrs. O'Neil and her daughter. The funds were given by Mrs. Darlington, the daughter of Mrs. O'Neil. The residence for the single women of the Station is a great boon to Dr. Keator who has had to live at all sorts of places since her arrival on the field. The money for the woman's hospital has been in hand since Christmas, and by Spring we hope to see this new building erected on our beautiful compound.

This is not all we have done as a station, but only the most abbreviated outline. The routine work, with the many interruptions not on the daily program, has brought several of our members to appreciate the fact that there is a limit to strength, even when that strength is spent in doing the Lord's service.

From the encouraging beginning, we have every reason to anticipate much for the coming year, and to this end we will work and pray without ceasing, realizing that all things are ours through Him who said, "Go, and I will be with you, I will bless you and in blessing you I will make you a blessing."

TENG-CHOU STATION.

The missionaries write:

For the privilege of carrying forward the work in this part of the vineyard for another year, we thank God; and as we think of the great numbers still in heathen darkness even after forty-five years of labor, and of the smallness of the force of laborers attempting to accomplish the herculean task set before us, we feel that we must fall at the feet of Him whose the harvest is, and pray Him to send forth laborers into His harvest.

In addition to the regular force of workers at the Station, Rev. W. M. Hayes, D.D., and Mrs. Hayes have worked in the Union Theological College at Ching Chou-fu, and the report of their work will appear in connection with that institution.

EVANGELISTIC.—Early in the year, an experienced native pastor was installed over the Teng-chou City Church, where he has since done efficient and faithful service.

The two organized churches in the Lai Chou-fu district have called a young licentiate to be their pastor, and he was ordained and installed in February.

In the district south of the city, although there is no church yet organized, the Christians have subscribed half the salary of a student now taking a special course in the Theological College at Ching Chou-fu, and expect him to preach for them next year.

A marked feature of the work of the year has been the series of special evangelistic services held throughout the field.

The first and largest was held at Ning Kia in the Lai Chou-fu district in the first moon of the Chinese year. Though we have our coldest weather at this season, it is a time of leisure for the farmers and is consequently a favorable time for meetings of this kind. A mat shed was erected and all the arrangements were made by the Christians themselves. Mr. Irwin was assisted by Miss Vaughan and Mr. Thompson from Tsing-tau, and the Revs. Ding and Swen were among the native brethren who took a leading part in the meetings. These friends came direct from revival services previously held in Tsing-tau field, and soon led all into deep heart-searchings and a desire to "get right with God." Other meetings followed in important centers elsewhere, in which Mr. Irwin had the assistance of two blind preachers from Chemo and a number of other helpers. There were many cases of deep repentance on the part of church members who had been lukewarm in their service, or were even outright backsliders.

That this repentance was genuine has since been shown by a better attendance at church services, by a spirit of harmony and helpfulness, by the organization of Christian Endeavor, temperance and anti-foot-binding societies and prayer circles, by the institution of regular family worship in many homes, and by the increased gifts for church and benevolent purposes, which this year amounted to $640.

In the Teng-chou field, we have twenty-five out-stations and a total membership of 646; the missionaries are assisted by ten native helpers and four Bible women. This is a small force to do our share toward evangelizing this large field which we occupy together with the Southern Baptist Mission.

In the city, three prayer meetings for women have been held each week, with a total average attendance of ninety-four. Two of the ladies of the Station have charge of this work and they are assisted by the four Bible women. Sixteen hundred visits have been made in the homes of the city by these workers, and many return calls were received. These visits have been made not only in the homes of the lower and middle classes, but also in those of the wealthy and official class. The anti-foot-binding movement has made good progress during the year. Heretofore, practically all our women church members had bound feet, with the exception of those who unbound them while they were students in the Girls' High School. But this year at least seven in the city and a few in the country have unbound, among them four old women, and the sentiment is even felt among some of the wealthy families in the city.

Two inquirers' classes for women, lasting about two weeks, were held in the city with an attendance of thirty, and one class for men, besides five classes for men in the country.

EDUCATIONAL.—Our boys' schools are:

1. A High School in the city, occupying part of the old college buildings. There are twenty-six in attendance, all but two of whom are boarders. At the close of the special meetings last Spring, a Y. M. C. A. was organized, the membership being composed of the boys from this school and the Anglo-Chinese School. The members number forty. Most of the boys are professing Christians and often go out in groups after Sunday-school to preach under the leadership of some older man.

2. An Anglo-Chinese School of twenty-six boys. These were mostly with the High School last year. This school is managed by the natives themselves, and is supported by what they give and what is received in answer to prayer. No Mission funds are used. The school meets in a small room under the belfry of the church.

3. Day-schools. Of these we have in the city two for boys alone and one mixed. In the country there are fifteen boys' schools. The total attendance at all of them is 227.

The teachers this year are of a higher grade than usual, and with the help of the native school inspector, the introduction of new books, new methods and a new course of study, are doing much to raise the standard of the schools.

Girls' Schools.—1. At the head of these stands the Girls' High School, with an attendance of fifty. The teaching staff consists of one woman missionary, two native teachers for full time and one for half time. This school has been doing efficient work for many years and its graduates are widely scattered, doing much service for the Master, in addition to their household duties.

In the school there is a flourishing Christian Endeavor Society and a prayer circle. The Christian Endeavorers have made a flag for their society, upon which are the characters which mean "Faith strengthened, power increased," while in one corner is a white star on a black ground, having in its center the word for "Love." The prayer circle includes the whole school. At the meetings, opportunity is given for confession of faults, and the girls are very candid with one another. Many difficulties among them have been settled by prayer for more sympathy and love, and that each may in honor prefer the other.

After many years spent in the heathen homes into which they were married, two former pupils have returned to worship God. One of them, after twenty years' absence, during which time she was not allowed to have connection with Christians, walked nearly twenty-five miles to visit her old school and spend a few days in Bible study in order to prepare herself for baptism. She and her son have since been admitted to church membership. Thus we have been permitted to see the gathering of some precious fruit as a result of faithful seed-sowing of our predecessors many years ago.

The commencement exercises were attended by a crowd too large to be seated in the school chapel. Among them were five local officials, who were enthusiastic in their praise. There were but two girls with bound feet, and every one noticed how hard it was for them to march. So we hope the anti-foot-binding movement was helped onward a little, as well as the cause of education for girls.

2. Girls' Day Schools.—Of these there are in the city one primary school and one mixed school. In the country, four girls' schools have been in operation during the year. On account of lack of pupils, two of these will be consolidated for next year, but it is hoped that another will be opened, so that the number will remain the same. Forty-three pupils have been in attendance at these schools.

3. Industrial School.—This was established especially to help very poor women and girls, and those with little or no education. They are taught lace-making, and also spend part of time in the study of simple Christian books. Four from this school have been admitted to the church this year.

MEDICAL.—Since the removal of the physician in charge from East Street to the College compound, we have been running two dispensaries—one at the old location and one where the doctor lives. Both are open certain hours daily, Sundays excepted, and the attendance has been good. All are expected to pay a small fee for their medicines, and now that the custom is established, they seem to think it quite right that they have to do so.

We have received more than the usual number of calls to visit patients of the higher classes in both city and country.

Of in-patients, we have had sixty-two. This number, though small, is an increase of about thirty-five per cent. on the attendance of last year. They are expected, when able, to attend morning worship led by the doctor, and are taught during the day and evening by native helpers.

The usual number of cases of attempted suicide have received attention, and a large proportion of them saved. The favorite method of committing suicide recently seems to be by drinking dissolved match heads, though there are still many cases in which opium is used. In one particular case the young lady used ten ounces of face powder, which contains various metallic poisons.

One of the busiest half-days at the hospital was spent in sewing up and dressing the scalp and other wounds of four men who had suffered at the hands of a man who "ran amuck" on the streets with a large heavy knife in his hands.

The wounds on the scalp of one man made a total of about eighteen inches in length. One had his skull cut clear through, one had to have portions of his skull removed, and one had one of the bones of his forearm and one of his hand cut through. Strange to say, they all made a good recovery, as did also a fifth man who was wounded at the same time, but did not come until later for treatment. Another remarkable case, was that of a woman who had a tumor weighing two pounds removed from her neck.

The following summary will give some idea of the medical work:

CHEFOO STATION.

The force was temporarily diminished by the departure on furlough of Mr. and Mrs. Wells in April and Dr. Cooper in June. Dr. and Mrs. Corbett were expected to return in the spring, but owing to Dr. Corbett's election as Moderator of the General Assembly he was detained at home and spent the year speaking among the churches.

EVANGELISTIC.—The street chapel and museum on the main street of the city continue to attract great numbers of people, all of whom, besides seeing objects of interest, hear something of the Gospel. This year, Dr. Elterich has had the supervision of this work, and Elder Li Si-hwoa, a man of great spiritual power, has been in local charge.

Over 90,000 visited the museum during the year. Quite a number have been brought into the church in this way, but the results can never fully be known, for Chefoo is largely a city of transients who come and go in the interests of commerce. Undoubtedly, many go to their homes with the germ of what they have heard in their hearts, and the resolve to live a better life.

In the spring, the Chefoo Church opened a street chapel outside the West Gate, where thousands of people pass daily. There is an evangelist in charge and one of the church members gives his services in the mornings without remuneration. A student in the English school, the son of one of the native pastors, holds a Bible class there on Sunday mornings and other boys sometimes go to help in the preaching.

The Sunday-school is carried on in three departments. Mr. Booth is superintendent of the men's department, Mrs. Cornwell conducts the primary school, and the women's classes are in the charge of Mrs. Yii, one of our leading Chinese women.

We had the great pleasure of a visit from Dr. H. A. Johnston in May. He spoke at our regular Chinese service and our church, which seats 500, was filled to overflowing. Many were much impressed and no doubt this helped greatly toward the results of revival meetings held here in connection with a normal class during the summer.

We had four days of special meetings and the Holy Spirit was certainly present with us. The meetings began at 6 o'clock in the morning and continued, except for meals, until 10 o'clock at night. There were confessions of sin, resolves for deeper Christian life, and prayers for relatives and friends.

The membership of the Chefoo Church is now 217, thirty-seven having been received this year. The contributions for the year have amounted to $278. After the floods in Hunan, a special collection was taken and $20 gold were sent to the Chinese girls' school in San Francisco and $50 to the sufferers in Hunan and Kiang-su.

The native pastor divides his time between our church and the Ki San Church, which is in connection with the Chefoo Industrial Mission. It is a small church of twenty-nine members, six having been received this year. The services are well attended. The contributions of this church amounted to $138.

A good class of people is being reached, including shopkeepers and men of education, so we feel we have much to encourage us.

The work among the women has also been encouraging. More time has been given to visiting this year and they have always been found very friendly and cordial. Several have unbound their feet, and the anti-foot-binding feeling is undoubtedly growing.

Miss Grace Corbett has a Bible class of twenty-one young Christian women, and those who cannot attend the regular class Sunday morning meet during the week at central places near their homes.

Besides the regular Thursday prayer meeting, a class is held for inquirers and outsiders on Wednesdays, as it was felt they needed more attention and instruction than could be given at any of the regular services.

After Dr. Johnston's visit there was a week of special meetings for the women which were well attended, and again during the four days of revival meetings some of the women were very much helped. There were two meetings for the women alone, and some of them confessed their sins with tears and asked for prayers, not only for themselves, but also for their heathen relatives and friends.

As Chefoo is one of the recruiting stations for coolies who are sent to South Africa to work in the mines, thousands of these men from all over the province come to the city and wait here for the transports. Mr. Cornwell has had charge of the work among them, and at the request of a Mr. A. W. Baker, superintendent of the "African Compounds and Interior Mission," he secured two Chinese preachers to go to South Africa to work among their fellow-countrymen there.

It was thought there would be special advantages for Christian work among these coolies away from their homes, and most encouraging reports reach us from time to time of the work there. Word has lately been received of a Y. M. C. A. started by one of these men, with a membership of twenty, which increased to eighty in two months. One of these preachers comes from a village where there were no Christians, and it seems as if he could find missionary work nearer at hand than Africa. However, since his departure the members of his family have been awakened and are all coming into the church.

Most of the year Dr. Cornwell acted as local secretary of the Chinese Y. M. C. A., but although still keeping the supervision of the book-store in connection with it, in September he surrendered the secretaryship to Mr. Fryer, a young Christian business man in Chefoo.

This summer the International Committee sent Mr. A. W. Gilbert to take charge of the naval Y. M. C. A. work, which was a great help to the local committee. After Mr. Gilbert's departure in the fall, all but two of the local committee resigned, leaving the responsibility on Mr. Cornwell and Mr. McMullan. The work has grown more and more important and burdensome, requiring more financial support than can be met in Chefoo. The American fleet in these waters is the second largest fleet in foreign waters, and with thousands of young men coming largely from farms in the Western States to these posts and no chaplain among them, there is an opportunity for work which cannot adequately be done by any missionary whose hands are already full. The committee has appealed to the International Committee to establish work on a permanent basis and send a secretary regularly during the six months the fleet is here. Without this it would take three to six months of a missionary's time, which we cannot afford.

COUNTRY EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Up to the time of his departure on furlough in April, Mr. Wells spent much of his time in country itinerating and did a splendid work in the Lai Yang district. He has visited over half of the 2,000 villages in that district and he has planned a forward movement, which, if it can be carried out, will undoubtedly aid much in the evangelization of that field.

One day, while visiting in a Chinese home, one of the members of the Station came across an interesting case which is connected with this Lai Yang work. A man living about seven miles from Lai Yang City had heard something of the Gospel and, becoming interested, had regularly attended the Sunday service in the city. This resulted in great opposition by his family, especially his mother, and when at the Chinese New Year time he refused to worship with the rest of the family, the persecution became so sharp that finally he was compelled to leave home with his wife and children.

Dr. Elterich has made two country trips in the Spring and two in the Autumn, visiting the Stations not only in his own field but also those of Dr. Corbett's. These Stations are scattered over five districts, and Dr. Elterich examined seventy-eight inquirers and received forty-one. After Mr. Wells left, Dr. Elterich also had charge of the street chapel in Lai Yang City and the helpers in that district, as well as the schools in Dr. Corbett's field which had been under the care of Mr. Wells.

Mr. Cornwell has spent three months of the year in itinerating and his field is in good condition.

Dr. Cooper also spent over three months in the country, holding six classes for women. These classes were well attended, the total number being 144. Quite a number of the women in these classes either unbound their feet at the time or promised to do so later. Dr. Cooper also had a class for Bible women for two months in Chefoo.

BIBLE AND INQUIRERS' CLASSES.—In the Spring, the Chinese Church organized a two weeks' class for women. About fifteen came.

Mrs. Nevius has had three classes for women, one of which is still in session.

It is an interesting class of twelve women in the study of the Romanized systems. Her object is to give to the aged, no less than the young, the ability to read God's Word, as many of them are too old or too dull to learn to read the complicated Chinese characters.

This summer a class of forty preachers and teachers was conducted in Chefoo for special study.

Four inquirers' classes have been held in Dr. Corbett's and Dr. Elterich's country fields and two in Mr. Cornwell's district.

In Mr. Cornwell's field, there has been one case of severe persecution in which the district magistrate, thwarted in his effort to rob a Christian of land and enraged by a fancied disrespect on the part of the Christian, entered the meeting place, dragged out and beat severely an aged Christian. The case was reported to the American Consul and, after long delay, the official was censured and the land restored.

One new church was organized in Dr. Elterich's field and two places in Mr. Cornwell's field have asked for church organizations, which will be the first churches ever organized in that district.

Pastor Ding has had charge of the five churches in the Chimoa district and, with the valuable assistance of Miss Vaughan, he held revival meetings among them in the Spring, which were attended with wonderful results.

In connection with the whole Chefoo field, there have been 148 members received this year, and the contributions have amounted to $1,250.

EDUCATIONAL.—This is an important department of our work, for the future of China depends on the rising generation and our Christian schools can exert a great influence over the young.

Mr. Booth is principal of the English School. It has a larger attendance this term than ever before, there being 121 students.

This school is reaching a different class of students from any of the other schools, for as the tuition fees are much higher, the majority are necessarily from the wealthier families. In some ways, this makes a more difficult field of work, but very earnest efforts are made to win the boys for Christ. Many of them on leaving school obtain positions of influence.

At the Chinese New Year, the Boys' High School closed, graduating six boys and sending them to the Shantung College. The Training School of twelve young men was also disbanded, some of them becoming preachers and others teachers.

In September the Boys' High School from one of the country Stations was moved to Chefoo and there are now over thirty boys in attendance.

Mrs. Nevius has under her care two day-schools for boys. There are fifty pupils in these two schools, and with good teachers they are in prosperous condition.

The day-school with kindergarten in connection has had forty pupils, both boys and girls. There are a few advanced girls, but most of them are doing primary work. We have good teachers and the public examinations and closing exercises, held twice a year, always draw a large attendance.

The country schools are all under the supervision of a school inspector, who visits the schools regularly and examines the pupils. There are in all twenty-five day-schools with over 400 pupils.

In the summer, the school inspector held a class for teachers, showing them new and advanced methods and giving them much help. The preachers' class already spoken of was held at the same time and Dr. Elterich, Mr. Cornwell, Mrs. Nevius and Mrs. Wight, besides Pastor Wang and Elder Li, all assisted in the teaching.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Cooper, when at the Station, opened the dispensary a part of every morning and many women came to be treated. After she returned to America on furlough, the Station secured a young Chinese doctor, who received his medical education from Dr. Neal in Chinan-fu, and he is having a large attendance of both men and women at the dispensary.

LITERARY.—Mrs. Nevius, although suffering from ill health, has devoted the greater part of her time to literary work. She has now in the press a "Descriptive Catalogue" of the books made by Dr. Nevius and herself during their life in China. There are fourteen of Dr. Nevius' books and twelve of her own, not including those made in the Ning-po colloquial. She has also in the press the Mandarin Catechism in the East Shantung Romanization and three more books in preparation.

TSING-TAU STATION.

The year has been an unparalleled one as regards spiritual blessing. A wave of revival has spread over the whole field and wonderful have been the results. The Station force has still been small, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Davies and Miss Vaughan. During part of the year, however, Mr. T. N. Thompson was lent from the West Shantung Mission.

But God did mighty things through that little band and the faithful Chinese pastors and helpers who were with them. The whole Church in America should be profoundly stirred by the following narrative:

The spiritual awakening had its beginning in the formation of a prayer circle in the Spring of 1904 with nineteen members, all Chinese but the three missionaries. This prayer circle later on, owing to an increase in its members, had to be divided. Now there are two, one with eight members and the other with twenty-two. These are the original circles and do not include those which have since been organized by each Chinese pastor in his own field.

For six months all prayed as directed in the prayer list, and it was only after that period that any striking results were observed.

The first signs of God's special blessing were seen when the Ping Tu district was visited in the fall of 1905 by Miss Vaughan and her Chinese Bible woman.

At Sung Kwoa Tswang, although in the midst of harvest time, the Christians all came to the meetings. Deep searching of heart took place and all were bowed with shame because of sin and selfishness. Here a heathen woman who had heard the Gospel preached for thirty years, but who had never yielded to Christ's claims, broke down and submitted. Prayer was offered and answered for her daughter-in-law who had been ill for months. Eight women promised to unbind their feet, and since then all the women in the village have unbound their feet and many have become Christians.

Six other villages were visited, including Sa Kau. Special prayer had been offered for this place, and when an invitation came to go there, all felt the answer had been given. However, on arriving there it was found that proper provision had not been made for entertaining Miss Vaughan and her Bible woman, and the church itself could not be used for the meetings because used as a storehouse for crops. After prayerful consideration Miss Vaughan decided not to remain; before leaving, however, she admonished and reproved the Christians, exhorting them to repent of their spiritual coldness.

The Christians as a consequence became stirred up, and after Miss Vaughan's departure one man, Mr. Seung Hwoa Ling, who had not read his Bible for some time, opened it and the first words he read were those in the tenth of Luke, where Christ commanded His disciples, if the cities did not receive them, to shake the very dust from their feet. This passage affected him so much that he sought the other church members and impressed them with the thought that God's severe displeasure would be visited upon them if they did not speedily manifest signs of repentance. The church building was at once put in order, arrangements made to accommodate Miss Vaughan and the Bible woman, and a humble apology and earnest request were sent to them to return and conduct the proposed meetings. So Miss Vaughan and the Bible woman came back.

These meetings were entered upon in fear and trembling, as there had been a fierce quarrel between some Christians and non-Christians. A heathen man had been struck and severely wounded by a Christian. Three or four days were mostly spent in prayer for this man's recovery. The Lord answered and peace was restored before the conference ended.

Then began a spiritual conflict for the Christians, which continued for two weeks and ended in one entire day being spent in confession of sin and pleading for the Holy Spirit. Mighty was the victory obtained. Mr. Seng Hwoa Ling, who had been a Christian preacher, but who had left his Master and disgraced His name, was the first to bow in contrition. All the other Christians followed. Many of these men had been in prison for their misdeeds at the time of settling the indemnity claims after the Boxer troubles in 1900. One man said he had not prayed personally for many years; women who could not pray at all before were in agony. The next day, prayer was made for a girls' school, and before the end of the week, the Lord graciously sent the amount prayed for, and a building as well as a woman teacher was at hand.

An interesting incident occurred at this time. A beggar and his wife were greatly blessed, and as a consequence a few weeks later, when two childless brothers offered to make him their heir, if he would only sever his connection with the church until their death, the penniless man was enabled by the Holy Spirit's power to overcome the temptation, replying to their offer, "I might die first, however, and then I should lose my soul."

Then came the four days' meetings at the village of Yuen Tswang, where Elder Chiao and his wife received a great blessing. They began to pray for their son, who was a gambler and opium-smoker, and after twenty-one days he returned home desiring to reform. He has had a hard struggle all these months, but is overcoming his faults through the power of Christ.

Here also a man who had been put out of the Tai Tsi Tswang Church many years ago came with the avowed intention of making trouble with the pastor and breaking up the meetings, but broke down completely the first evening and with deep emotion told why he had come, asking the forgiveness of God as well as that of the pastor and Christians.

Some time later a conference was held at the town of Wang Kia Kwan Tswang in the district of Kao Mi. Great power was in all the meetings, especially the last two days when even the children prayed and testified.

Following close on this, while the tent was still standing, three days were given to meetings for outsiders and quite a number of inquirers was the result.

At Yang Kia Ku, a village visited by Miss Vaughan and the Bible woman, after two days' meetings, ten inquirers were added. For many years, there had been only one Christian in that village.

Meetings were also held at other places with the same results. In one village, five relatives of church members were prayed for and all became inquirers while the meetings were in session.

At the end of January, a large conference was held at Shin Tan in the Kiao Chou District. There the elder, Mr. Ting Li Swei, received a great blessing, and not he alone but also all the members of the church. The debt on the church was cleared, money was given for the current year, and the expenses of the meetings gladly met.

After an address on the giving of alms, together with an appeal for help for a poor widow, a very poor woman, who had walked from her home to the meetings, a distance of about ten miles, brought a silver ring to one of the preachers privately, asking him to sell it and give the money to the pastor who had made the appeal. The story was told and the ring shown. Rarely does any one see an audience so affected. Offers were made to buy the ring and return it, and it was sold many times over, bringing almost $7 that evening. Many were added as inquirers, including one whole family.

The Tai Tsi Tswang conference was held in April. The money for this conference, as well as for the others, was all procured in answer to prayer. A serious case of persecution was settled, as Pastor Chao afterwards declared, just at the time prayer was being offered to God for intervention. Large numbers of Christian men and women reconsecrated themselves to God in a newer and fuller sense than ever before. It was here that Mr. Lung Shu Kien came, after seeing and talking with Dr. Mateer in Wei Hsein. He had just been released from prison where he had spent three and a half years, man's punishment to him for his misdeeds; and it was here that he bowed before God and owned the punishment a deserved one, accepting Christ's salvation from the far juster punishment of God. This man and Mr. Seng Hwoa Ling have truly brought forth the fruits of repentance, both of them going in person and asking forgiveness from those whom they had wronged.

Following in a short time were the Pa Li Tswang meetings, where Pastor Han of Tsing Tau was deeply convicted of lack of faith and a new era in his spiritual life was begun.

In June, came the conference at Tsing-tau. Special prayer for God's blessing on these meetings had been going up for weeks beforehand. Many Christians were led into a higher life. Invitations to Christians from other parts of the field were given and quite a number responded.

During the four days, the Holy Spirit was indeed poured out, and then was inaugurated the "Repentance Society," with thirty-two members. This is a society in which the members all promise to pray for one another every day, and if any member falls into sin, the others are to go to his home or place of business and pray with him. If any member is known to have gone to an opium den, or any other place where he should not go, two or three members are to be sent to bring him away. The society meets every week for prayer, confession and fellowship. The members on one occasion made a raid on the opium dens in Tsing-tau to seek for Christians whom they knew had gone astray.

The expenses of these meetings, amounting to over $100, was borne by a young man who had been deeply convicted of living a sinful life at the earlier meetings.

A woman received such a blessing at this time that she left a position as nurse in a high German official's family, where she was earning $10 a month, and went to help Miss Vaughan, trusting to the Lord to supply her needs, which He has truly done.

Needless to say, the native helpers, pastors and elders have all received a great spiritual quickening, each one of these experiences deepening their faith and broadening their spiritual outlook. Especially has this been the case with Pastors Ding Li Mei and Swin Hi Shing. Both these men are truly filled with God's Holy Spirit and are both being greatly used of God.

Many are the Bible-reading circles which have been formed; also prayer circles and societies, every member promising to lead one person to Christ. Others have promised to pray for and speak to more than one, trusting God to bring them in before the year closes.

Before closing this report, a prayer circle should be mentioned which was started in January, 1906, to pray for several specified objects which God has already granted.

Property has been given for two boys' high schools and a school for the blind. Many societies have been formed for the study of the Bible. Pastors and helpers, both men and women, have been raised up for needy places and a considerable number of persons have dedicated their lives to Christian work. One of the Chinese pastors writes:

"This year I have been with Miss Vaughan to ten revival conferences and have received much benefit, and can truly perceive the work of the Holy Spirit. Those who formerly prayed not, now pray; those who formerly were not happy, when they subscribed money, now gladly give; those who covered their sins, now confess them, and those who in times past did not love the Lord, now love Him.

The church I serve is divided into three sections, with ten chapels and 230 Christians. In past years the people of this section were exceedingly cold-hearted, but this year the Christians have become very warm-hearted, and the church is now prosperous. Recently thirty-three members have been added to the church and six children baptized. There are six boys' schools and three girls' schools.

All the Christians pray every day for an outpouring of God's Holy Spirit upon every church and village, and cause those who do not believe to quickly turn to Jesus.

I entreat all my brethren and sisters who read this letter to pray that I may be filled with the Holy Spirit and have faith, power and love to work for the Father and to serve His church and lead many to repentance and eternal life; and also for the Christians that they may be so filled with the Holy Spirit and their conduct may influence the heathen to believe in Jesus."

There are now eight organized churches in the Tsing-tau field, all self-supporting, with 882 communicants, 163 having been added during the year, 135 on confession and 28 by letter. The Sunday-school membership is 1,039. The native contributions for church and congregational expenses have amounted to $350.

Pastor Swin was called to the three churches in the Ping Tu District and is doing a splendid work. Since the revival meetings, he has started a prayer circle with ninety-eight members. There is also an "Anti-foot-binding Society" with ninety-nine members.

Three new churches have been organized in what was the "unorganized" district which Dr. Bergen turned over in 1902. Pastor Chao has been called to these three churches and he also is a man of great power. He has held several classes for helpers, teachers and Christians.

EDUCATIONAL.—There are six self-supporting schools in the Station field, one being a Girls' High School with thirty-five pupils. A Chinese Christian gentleman, Mr. Ting Li Swei, is giving his services as principal without remuneration, although he could obtain a salary of $100 a month at any time in a government school. The total number of pupils in the schools is 361, and the amount contributed for education is over $200. Almost $490 have also been contributed towards building and repairs.

The work of the day-schools has been much improved by the efforts of Mr. Li, the school superintendent.

A mere outline of the work done is all that is possible in this report and not a hundredth part of God's goodness and blessing can be told. He has answered the prayers of His servants in a wonderful way and their hearts are full of gratitude to Him. It is a great incentive to more earnest prayer and effort to all who have seen or heard of the miracles He has wrought on the hearts of men.

The following statistics will give some idea of the growth of self-support in the Tsing-tau field:

| | Received on Confession. | Total Number of Christians. | Total of Contributions. |
|-----------|----------------------------|--------------------------------|----------------------------|
| 1904..... | 93 | 643 | $651.60 |
| 1905..... | 168 | 778 | 717.20 |
| 1906..... | 135 | 882 | 1,284.27 |

TSINAN-FU STATION.

The familiar "Chinan-fu" looks oddly as "Tsinan-fu," but the government has adopted the latter as the official spelling for the post-office department, so that we should use it in our reports. It is the capital of the great province of Shantung, and is a city of 300,000 inhabitants. Until recently it was noted for its conservatism. It was with utmost difficulty that missionary work was established there in the first place. But now a great change is being wrought. It is one of the most interesting cities in China to-day, because of the way it is being thrown open to Western influences. For two and a half years it has been connected with the German port of Tsing-tau by railway, and its foreign community is gradually enlarging. Great government schools for teaching western learning are being established, in which are employed numbers of earnest young men from the west. Surely this large and important city, and the surrounding region with its teeming population offer a most promising and ample field for the two denominations represented here.

The Station in October, 1905, was reinforced by the arrival of Dr. Caroline S. Merwin. We regret that her stay in China thus far has been marked by ill-health. In February the Station welcomed back from furlough Mr. Murray, senior member of the Station.

EVANGELISTIC.—The notable features of the work under the care of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton were:

First.—The organization of a church at Chei Chiachwang in Southern Chang Ching.

The work began about twenty years ago under Rev. Gilbert Reid, the nucleus being a man and his adopted mother, who had been baptized by the Anglican Mission in Peking. He still lives to be one of two elders. There are two deacons and thirty-five members.

Second.—The rapid growth of a new out-station on the banks of the Yellow River, twenty miles northwest of Tsinan-fu.

Within two years, eleven have been baptized and over thirty enrolled as inquirers, while a flourishing boys' school has been opened. As a mark of the high esteem in which the missionaries are now held, it is worthy of mention that during a ten days' class, held there last Spring, the village elders invited the missionary to take tea and refreshments with them and one of them gave the use of a large room for the class.

Third.—Another forward step has been the occupation of the district city of Chang Ching. One of the best helpers available has been placed there. The magistrate has shown himself very friendly, going so far as to appoint a man to put up a mat tent for our use as a preaching booth during a large fair.

Mr. Murray reports that the outlook in his field is good, even quite promising in some places. Peace prevails. Many, who formerly hindered our work, are now open to the Gospel message, while not a few have come out as inquirers.

The church is spreading and bearing fruit. The membership is loyal, though it must be confessed that many of them are but children in knowledge and faith; but they are holding their own against many odds and even growing.

Mr. Dodd reports an unusual number of inquirers in his field.

In one village especially, where the work seemed dead, there are now distinct signs of renewed interest. In the district city of Chi He on the Yellow River, where hitherto no work has been done by foreigners, a few have shown a desire to accept Christianity, the result of the influence and personal work of the postmaster of a neighboring city.

The usual country classes have been held with considerable increased numbers in attendance.

City Work.—The past year shows the most encouraging advance yet recorded. Ten have been admitted during the year to church membership, and at the last two communion seasons at least forty different persons have shown a desire to unite with us. Of particular interest is the advent as inquirers of eight men from the immediate vicinity of the Mission Compound.

We are profoundly thankful that after thirteen years of residence among them, some of our non-Christian neighbors are showing their confidence in us as religious teachers. During the summer Mr. Hamilton did considerable open-air preaching in the immediate vicinity of his home and in all cases he was treated with courtesy. The contributions of the local church amounted to $282 Mexican. Last year's contributions were $258.

One feature of prominence is the large number of graduates of our Christian schools, who are now enjoying lucrative positions as government teachers, physicians, and post-office employes. More than a score are now in Tsinan-fu or vicinity. In general they retain a close connection with the Christian community.

During the New Year season there was daily preaching in the city chapel, with such unusually encouraging results that plans are being formed to make this a regular feature of the city work.

Another interesting advance is in reference to the regular Sunday services in English, which are now held in connection with the Museum of the English Baptist Mission. Not only have several of the foreigners outside of the Mission availed themselves of this service, but a number of English-speaking Chinese are frequently present. Among these Chinese are two earnest Christians, who are making their influence felt among the higher circles.

Woman's Work.—During the Fall and Spring, the country Stations of the Tsinan-fu field were visited by the ladies and classes taught in different places.

The number of women enrolled in these classes was 236. Biblical instruction was also given in the girls' school, where one of the classes was held in the east suburb under the care of Mrs. Neal, when twenty-three of the most advanced women from different country fields were given about a month's instruction in the Gospels, Acts and Old Testament history. Two of the Wei-hsien Bible women did most of the teaching in this class, and did it well, giving a practical and inspiring example to those taught of what a Bible women should be and do.

Two of the missionaries and two of the Chinese women attended the Woman's Conference at Wei-hsien in April, and received much profit. Mrs. Neal testified to feeling as much strengthened and inspired as any of the Chinese women for whom the conference was primarily intended. Since that time a number of women have unbound their feet.

The Wednesday prayer meeting has been kept up with greater interest than ever before. Especially since Dr. Johnston's visit in the Spring, have the women's prayers seemed more definite and earnest.

MEDICAL.—This work for both men and women has been again cared for by Dr. Neal, at the McIlvaine Hospital. The Louisa Y. Boyd Hospital for Women is still closed, as Dr. Caroline Merwin is not yet equipped with the language sufficiently to open it, and has beside suffered much from ill-health.

For the first time since the opening of the Government hospital in the West Suburb some years ago, we seem to have experienced the effects of this rival institution; our out-patient department for men showing a considerable decrease over the past two years. Our hospital patients, however, have numbered over forty more, and the number of women and children has slightly increased. The attendance has been, including branch dispensary inside the south gate, 12,503, of which 8,196 were seen at the men's hospital, 3,104 at the women's, and 1,167 at the branch dispensary.

The work continues self-supporting, the receipts for the year totaling over $1,700 Mexican, about $900 of which came from contributions and the rest from sales and fees.

Medical Teaching has been carried on regularly through the year. The class consisted of twelve young men at the beginning of the year. The number is now ten, all of them promising young men of from nineteen to thirty-six.

Within the next three years or less we hope to be settled in the new quarters of the Union Medical College, for which a grant has been made of between four and five thousand pounds sterling, from the great Arthington Fund in London.

Dr. Neal has also had to give a considerable amount of time to correspondence and editorial work connected with the chairmanship of the Publication Committee of the China Medical Association, which is engaged in getting out a series of medical text books for the use of Chinese medical students.

EDUCATIONAL.—Country Schools.—In Mr. Murray's field there have been seven schools for boys and two for girls. In Mr. Hamilton's, there are three for boys.

Owing to lack of suitable teachers, work is, in some cases, by no means as satisfactory as we could wish. We are looking hopefully to the training-school at Ching Chou-fu for well-equipped teachers for our future work. One of the most encouraging features is the great number of parents, who are realizing the importance of an education for their girls.

City Schools.—The number of girls in the West Suburb school has increased to twenty. Nearly all have unbound their feet, and five of the older girls have applied for baptism. At the opening of the next Chinese year, Miss Merwin hopes to open a small school in the East Suburb.

The Boys' Academy has been under the charge of Mrs. Neal during the year, but will hereafter be under the care of Mr. Dodd. Since last Spring, he has had charge of the business part of the school, and has been teaching two classes a day in the Bible.

It has been especially gratifying that the two Christian Chinese teachers have seemed to take a keener interest in the spiritual welfare of the boys than formerly. The Y. M. C. A. has been a real benefit in training the students to do personal work for each other and for young men outside the school.

The visit of Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston was of much good to the boys, to whom he gave two inspiring talks.

Six scholars were received into the church during the year. There were thirty-seven pupils in attendance the first term, and fifty-three the second, this being the largest number the school has ever reached. Fees were increased at the beginning of the year, the total now received being $463.41 Mexican, as against $390.90 last year.

WEI-HSIEN STATION.

The points of interest in the work of the year group themselves about certain outstanding events, of which the year has been particularly full. Especially during the Spring there occurred one thing after another to show the marked blessing of God upon this Station, and to call forth special thanksgiving from us all.

It is a matter of regret that so many of our number were away on furlough at such a time.

Mr. and Mrs. Chalfant, Mr. and Mrs. Luce and Mrs. Fitch, absent all the year, have been much missed. Other inroads on our work were the departure of Mr. Fitch in June for the home-land and the marriage in July of Miss Mary Moore to Mr. Myron Peck, of Tien Tsin.

The removal of Mr. and Mrs. Couling, of the English Baptist Mission, has been a loss severely felt, both socially and in the work. While the arrival of Miss Hawes has been a great addition to our community and also to the work for women in the country.

The Fall and Winter work went on much as usual. On account of Mr. Chalfant's absence, Mr. Mateer and Mr. Fitch had to cover all the field, and were therefore obliged to give most of their time to the established work, little being left for striking out into new fields. However, a few new stations were started during the year. Mr. Mateer writes:

This extra number of stations has taken up time that would otherwise have been spent with helpers among heathen villages. It is my hope that existing work may be turned over to native pastors with helpers under them, as has long ago been done in the justly noted work at Amoy and Sivatou. This would leave missionaries free to break new territory and to hold revival meetings in large centers over the country. We expect to make a start along this line the coming year.

One of the pastors has this year been employing men and women to work with him in addition to the voluntary work of the Christians.

He is receiving this year about 100 new members and opening three new places of worship.

Mr. Mateer expected to receive more than the 200 new members by the meeting of Presbytery.

From the stations visited by Mr. Fitch during the last ten months on the field, 149 were baptized and about 300 inquirers examined.

Since New Year revival services have been held at six centers. The success of these meetings varying at different places.

Those conducting these meetings have themselves received a blessing, as was evidenced by their very effective talks given during the ten days' conference held later at Wei-Hsien for women.

Some of these meetings were held in a tent holding over 300 and in the evening this was often filled to the walls with those outside the church.

So satisfactory are the results that many similar meetings are being planned for the future.

Early in May, Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston arrived. The result of the days we spent together were felt by native and foreigner alike.

Dr. Johnston was able in a remarkable manner to reach the hearts of his student audiences. The spontaneous confessions of sin, the making up of old quarrels and the evident change for the better of the whole student life in college and academies, were evidence of the practical helpfulness of these meetings.

As a result of the personal work done by the students themselves and their teachers, nearly every man in the college, not yet a Christian applied for admission into the church. Nearly 200 students expressed a desire to give a part of their Summer vacation to preaching in or near their home villages.

The last, but not least, notable event of importance here was the training class of seventy-five men helpers from four of the out-stations conducted by Messrs Mateer, Murray, W. P. Chalfant and Dodd. The early morning meetings were greatly blessed and their united efforts proved very profitable.

The Sunday-school has increased in number by the arrival of about 100 new students in the college at the New Year. This brings the average attendance to about 400.

During the Winter Miss Franz and Miss Hawes were in the country most of the time, looking after the work for women. One event of importance was a training class of twenty-one women, wives of prospective pastors and evangelists who studied four months at the Mission Compound under the leadership of Miss Franz. She writes:

We had a very lively time, with twenty-one women and sixteen children to begin with. Nevertheless we found them all teachable and had a very profitable four months of study.

One old lady who had opposed her grandson attending a Christian school, went to see how he was getting on. She chanced to come while Miss Franz was holding a class and was much pleased to find her grandson well and happy and above all that he had given up swearing and reviling, in which he had formerly excelled. She decided to stay and become a learner in Miss Franz's class.

Many of the reports mention the remarkable conference for women which met last May.

The delegates to this conference poured in from all parts of the Wei-hsien field, and even from Tsinan-fu and Tsing-tau, until they were over 300 strong. They represented over 200 villages and towns. Probably as many Chinese women from so large a territory never before met together for such a purpose. All the relationships of woman from birth to old age as illumined by the teachings of Jesus Christ were presented from the platform and freely discussed from the floor.

The 205 women who promised to unbind their feet are already being multiplied from villages all over the field.

Since the return home of these delegates, a remarkable stirring up among the women has been noticed in many places, and the Church throughout the whole district has received a new impetus. One report says:

A great awakening has come to the women. In every station they led in voluntary prayer in numbers from five to fifteen. I have never heard anything in China that impressed me as the prayers of these women.

Simply from villages from which the high school girls come, eighty-eight women have unbound their feet, and many more are preparing to do so.

Another writes :

In one village when their two delegates returned from the conference, they stood out in the street, and, using the programme, told all they could remember upon each subject discussed, and all who crowded around listened with interest.

The Point Breeze High School for Boys has been under the directions of Mr. Ralph Wells during the past year. The health of the boys has been fairly good. The attendance for the year was fifty-eight, which necessitated putting three students in a room in several of the dormitories.

Thanks to the generosity of the Point Breeze Church of Pittsburg, and to Dr. Mateer, we have just completed twelve new dormitory rooms, which will relieve the congestion, and enable us to take more of the desirable boys from the country schools. We have also to thank the same church for a beautiful new organ which is much enjoyed and is a great help in the singing.

There has been a marked improvement in the religious life of the students since Dr. Johnston's visit in May. Their prayers are more earnest and personal conduct much improved. Six joined the church during the year and several, together with college students, did voluntary preaching during the Summer vacation.

The Girls' High School has increased its numbers to sixty, a gain of 50 per cent in two years. This was made possible by the erection of twelve new dormitory rooms, the funds for which were given by friends.

The increasing amounts Christians are willing to pay for the education of their daughters is a sure index of the rising popularity of female education. It frequently costs them no little self-denial. The last class received paid on the average two-thirds of their board, while well-to-do families paid the full amount. The enlarged fees are making it possible to take more pupils into the schools. This year the custom of pupils paying for all books has been successfully inaugurated.

We certainly see in many ways the Christian growth of these girls during the past year and rejoice more and more over their willingness and desire to do personal work. That they have put in practice what they believed to be their duty is evidenced by the reports they gave of the Summer's work.

The country schools also record another successful year. There were 140 more pupils than last year in boys' schools (a total of 541) and they have advanced the amount paid toward teachers' salaries from paying one-third to paying half. The country girls' schools have made a signal beginning by paying one-half the salaries of the teachers for the first time.

The Women's Dispensary kept up its record of being open every day without a break.

Many of the house patients and their attendants have been willing and anxious to listen to the teachings of Christianity. Many times we have been cheered by patients asking to stay longer, or to return that they might study more.

The men's medical work has been strictly limited to students on the compound to allow time for needful language study.

Dr. Roys writes:

As the report goes out into the country around that the men's hospital will be opened soon, I hear of one and another who have been sick months or years and are just waiting for the doors to open to come for treatment. I had thought after the hospital had been closed so long a time, it would be necessary to do some rather extensive advertising to get patients, but now my fear is that patients will come in before my stock of drugs arrive and before the building can be prepared to receive them.

At the close of the year, we see what we hardly dared hope for at the beginning, namely, land obtained and a Chapel and Dispensary inside of Wei-hsien City.

We expected a long wait for funds and a decided opposition from this most conservative of cities, but we have had neither.

The gifts of friends in the Classon Avenue Church of Brooklyn, N. Y., have made possible the opening of this long desired work in the heart of the great city, under the memorial name of the Clinton A. Wisner Dispensary. Officials and people alike have welcomed it and it promises to be a powerful influence for good.

LITERARY WORK.—Among the multitudinous duties of missionary life, some time is found for literary work. Mrs. Crossette has finished and published a question book on Acts, for use in school work. Mr. R. M. Mateer reports progress on his Mandarin "Commentary on Hebrews." Dr. Bergen is working on his "College Edition of Chinese Classics," and is preparing a text book on "Comparative Religion" in connection with his instruction on that subject in the college. Mrs. Bergen prepared and published (in English) an admirable account of the Women's Conference held in Wei-hsien in April, 1906. Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Mateer have given almost their whole time to literary work. The former has labored assiduously on Bible translation. The Translation Committee, of which he is chairman, met in Chefoo in May, and were to complete the final revision of the New Testament during that session. He hopes the future history of the translation will justify the enormous amount of time and labor put upon it. Mrs. Mateer has nearly completed a first draft of Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston's "Studies for Personal Workers." She has at the same time been preparing a new Arithmetic, which is about half completed.

Altogether, the missionaries feel that they have had a happy and prosperous year.

Our desires and plans have been fulfilled in a far larger degree than we had dared to hope. So does God's goodness outrun our faith and inspires us for work that lies before.

THE SHANTUNG PROTESTANT UNIVERSITY.

This important institution, or group of institutions, has had a very successful year. It will be remembered that the University is conducted jointly by the Presbyterians and English Baptists, the missionaries of both bodies working together in most loving fellowship.

The College on our compound at Wei-hsien continues under the presidency of the Rev. Paul D. Bergen, D.D. The other members of the faculty are the Rev. Henry W. Luce, Presbyterian, and two Baptist missionaries.

The number of students has taxed the capacity of the buildings to the utmost and many young men have had to be turned away. A trying case of discipline arose during the year, as some of the students, imbued with the spirit of independence and impatient of all foreign influences, which is now so characteristic of young China, sought to take the management of certain important matters into their own hands. President Bergen's tact and ability, however, aided by his wise and able faculty, proved to be equal to the occasion and the difficulty was soon happily adjusted.

A notable event of the year was the completion of the Converse Science Hall, the gift of Mr. John H. Converse, of Philadelphia. A cut of this handsome building appears in connection with this report.

The Theological Seminary of the University is located at the Baptist Station of Tsing-chou-fu. The Rev. Dr. Watson M. Hayes is our representative in the faculty, the other member being a Baptist missionary. This work, too, has been very prosperous during the year, a large number of young men having received valuable training for Christian work among their own people.

The Medical College of the University is located at Tsinan-fu, the capital of the province, where both our Mission and the Baptist Mission have stations. The buildings have not yet been erected, but they are to be put up at once by the English Baptists out of a princely gift of approximately $20,000 gold from the Arthington Fund. Dr. James B. Neal will be our representative on the faculty, assisted by Dr. Charles Johnson, who will be transferred to Tsinan-fu after his return from his approaching furlough.

The reports of the University had not arrived when these pages went to press, so that we cannot give further details; but we know from the general correspondence of the year that the institution is flourishing. Prof. Luce, of the College, made earnest efforts during his recent furlough to raise the endowment for the college which the Board has authorized. The total sum now in hand and pledged for this purpose is about $40,000 of the $250,000 which the Board desires to obtain, so that the college may be freed from the uncertainties of the general treasury of the Board and given a suitable support.

ICHOU-FU STATION.

During the past year there have been some changes owing to furloughs, transfers, and new arrivals.

Rev. T. N. Thompson was temporarily transferred to Tsing-tau for six months, and afterwards to Tsining-chou for the remainder of the year. Mrs. Thompson, with Mrs. Johnson and the three children, returned to America in June. Dr. Elva Fleming was absent on furlough during the year.

The Station has been reinforced by the arrival of Rev. Paul Faris and Mrs. Faris, Frederick Fouts, M.D., and Mrs. Fouts.

GENERAL CONDITIONS.—Conditions in this region are much as heretofore, though gradually changing for the better. Ichou-fu is still remote from the railroad and traveling is in the primitive stage.

The district is prosperous, though just now it is on the fringe of the famine district.

The attitude of the people continues friendly. One sign of the opening of the eyes of the populace is the greater readiness with which they purchase books of Western learning, both of a religious and an educational nature, especially in country districts.

EVANGELISTIC.—The field is roughly a circle of 125 miles diameter divided by the two rivers. Over this region the energies of the two clerical missionaries have been more or less scattered and it has been difficult to give individual places adequate attention.

There are six organized churches, three each under the supervision of Mr. Chalfant and Mr. Armstrong.

The three under Mr. Armstrong, though not entirely discouraging, are not especially promising. They are old churches which once had a good start, but now seem to have gotten into a rut. However, credit is due to one of them which has assumed the partial support of an itinerant helper. In these churches two adults and four infants were baptized.

The two country churches under Mr. Chalfant have been visited more frequently and present a more hopeful outlook. Fifteen adults have been baptized.

The largest and most important church in the field is, of course, the one at Ichou-fu under the care of Mr. Chalfant.

The spiritual and financial condition of the church, though far from what we would wish, is not wholly discouraging. The attendance throughout the year has been fairly good and at seasons the seating capacity of the hospital chapel has been too limited.

Fourteen adults were baptized during the year.

In addition to the organized churches, there are seventeen places of regular visitation. In some of these the spiritual tone is more encouraging than in the churches.

Mr. Armstrong writes:

From the standpoint of zeal and perseverance in Biblical and religious study, Lia Chia Chwang is the most encouraging point in my district. The believers in that comparatively new field have contributed liberally of their means for the building of their school, and it is with gratitude that I see four of their number starting to Ching Chou-fu this Autumn to take an evangelistic course.

Of this organized work, Mr. Chalfant's report says:

I held a union revival service at Hsiao T'ai P'ing, thirty-five li north-east of the city. The meetings were good and it was resolved to organize all the out-stations in that region into a church, if Presbytery be willing. It is proposed that the people support the evangelist on that circuit in whole or in part.

From the field as a whole, the Station reports fifty-nine communicants added on examination and 100 new catechumens enrolled. Total catechumens examined during the year, 185. Present church membership, 497.

The Sunday-school at Ichou-fu under the superintendence of Dr. Johnson, has been one of the encouraging features of the work. The attendance has averaged 104 during the year. A large class of women was taught by Mrs. Johnson until her departure. From this class came several additions to the church. During the year four street chapels have been kept open, and in them large numbers of people have heard the Gospel.

In connection with each, save the one at Ichou-fu, there is a boys' school and at Ku-chou a branch dispensary, with a medical graduate in charge, has been carried on about half the year with satisfactory results.

The attendance during the Summer averaged 1,200 per month. The helper in charge, Dr. Cheng, has not only proved himself an efficient man professionally, but also an earnest Christian worker.

The visitation of so scattered a field has entailed a large amount of travel. A total of 273 days was spent in itinerating by the members of the Station. Of work for the non-Christians, one report says:

Returning from Chu-chou in February, I met there by appointment two helpers and we spent the week in a slow progress towards Ichou-fu, preaching in the large towns where there were no Christians. We were received with great enthusiasm by the crowds of New Year holiday makers, especially at the influential town of Ta Tian, where we spent two nights. We were almost overwhelmed by curious crowds of well-dressed people. We sold books to nearly all.

In my itinerating this year I have made an effort to attend as many markets as could be conveniently reached and, with the helpers, to do as much street preaching as possible, embracing this opportunity to sell religious books as well. About forty markets were thus reached.

MEDICAL.—In the medical work under Dr. Johnson, the past year has been a very successful one, both in the magnitude and character of the work done, and the encouragement and help that has come from outside. Important gifts have been made for the enlarging of the work in both hospitals.

We express our heartfelt gratitude to the donors: Mr. Abner Kingman, of Montreal, $250, and the First Church of Pasadena, Cal., $100, for the Men's Hospital, and the Woman's Board of the Southwest, $200, for the Woman's Hospital.

The number of serious operations performed has been larger than usual, and with the exception of one difficult case, the operations were attended with satisfactory results.

The numbers of patients dealt with, both in hospitals and dispensaries, have been exceedingly large, and the pains relieved and diseases healed very numerous. An earnest evangelist has labored among the patients.

Including the branch dispensary at Chu-chou, there has been a total of 27,610 patients treated; 13,940 were first visits and 13,640 were returns.

As Dr. Fleming was absent on furlough, the woman's medical work was also in charge of Dr. Johnson. He kept up the Woman's Dispensary at almost its full attendance, but the absence of the woman physician meant only about one-third as many patients as usual in the Woman's Hospital.

The men's dispensary showed an increase over the previous year of about 1,100.

A medical class of ten, who have been under the instruction of Dr. Neal, of Tsinan-fu, part of their course, and under Dr. Johnson, of Ichou-fu, the remainder, finished their course at the Chinese New Year, and the men are all employed this year, in the hospitals of this or adjoining provinces. Many applications were received after the supply of men was exhausted.

The medical work of the year has been materially lightened and made more pleasant by the presence of Dr. Fouts and Dr. Cunningham, who, while studying the language, have lent willing aid whenever called upon.

EDUCATIONAL.—The educational work is not as highly developed as the missionaries would like to see it.

The schools have been carried on as in former years, and with some measure of success. The instruction has all been by Chinese teachers, with often limited supervision by the missionary.

There are eleven country schools with an enrollment of eighty-eight pupils, mostly boys. There are also the two important schools at the Station, one for boys and one for girls. The former, under the supervision of Mr. Chalfant, is divided into two departments and has two teachers and thirty-four pupils.

✧ The girls' school under Mrs. Johnson had probably more foreign supervision than the others, and with correspondingly satisfactory results. Twenty-one girls were enrolled, two of whom were boarders. Mrs. Fouts has had charge of this school since Mrs. Johnson left on furlough.

From these schools four boys and two girls have gone to the Wei-hsien academies.

Two young men attended the helpers' training school at Ching Chou-fu the past year, while six others have made arrangements to go this Fall.

TSINING-CHOU STATION.

The Imperial Chinese Post-office Department has adopted "tsi" as the official spelling of the character that was formerly spelled "chi" and so our familiar Chining-chou becomes Tsinning-chou.

The working force was depleted in April by the departure on furlough of the Revs. James and Alexander Waite and their families. In July welcome relief was afforded by the arrival of the Rev. T. N. Thompson. In December a great sorrow came to Mr. and Mrs. James Waite when God called to Himself their younger child. Aside from this the general health of the Mission families has been good. Peace of mind, however, was disturbed more or less by repeated and truthful rumors of the depredations of large bands of bandits that abound in the region. The Government has little success in subduing them.

EVANGELISTIC.—The local church was greatly blessed by a series of meetings held in the Fall by Rev. R. M. Mateer, two native preachers and Elder Chang, of Wei-hsien.

At this time a large number of Christians from the nearby villages and from the most distant parts of the field made new resolves, confessed their sins, and promised to give their time to preaching in the surrounding villages. Many have spent weeks and even months in this service, as a contribution to the Lord's work. This church at the Station, under charge of Rev. James Waite until April, since then under Mr. Romig's care, received twenty-nine upon confession of faith, and their contributions have been 136,318 large cash.

The North and West fields, under the charge of Mr. Romig, have had the seed sown for years with little harvest of souls. It has now become more encouraging. There were fifteen baptisms, and there might have been half a dozen more, if a Summer trip had been feasible. A good chapel has been built at Chia Chia Ku Tswei.

The chief Chinese, the donor of the land, much of the money and labor, suffered very severely at the time of the Boxer troubles in 1900. One son lost his life as a result of the experiences of that time. The father also lost considerable money, paid out as ransom for his oldest son who was kidnapped. Now 100 or more earnest seekers of the truth are reported in that immediate vicinity.

The Eastern and Southern fields were under the care of Mr. and Mrs. James Waite. The Teng-hsien district of this region has been the most encouraging in the whole Chining field for the past five years. Seventeen were received during the year and, with the fifty-nine previously received, were turned over to the new I-hsien Station, because it is much nearer there than to Tsining.

The West and South territories have been under the care of Mr. A. Waite. There is a very encouraging work at Feng-hsien, where a large chapel has been built by the Christians. One man gave most of the cost of the building, viz., 250,000 large cash, equivalent to $135 gold.

The Tsao Chou-fu region has been full of banditti all the year, but this has not interfered much with the work, which shows a steady advance, forty-two having been baptized in that field.

Classes for men and women have been held, some for inquirers and others for training leaders for the various localities. In the teaching of women's classes, all the ladies at the Station have taken part.

We have patronized the Ching Chou-fu school this year by sending eight of our men, three from the boys' school and five of our evangelists, there for study. We are grateful for the training classes for evangelists and for country school teachers, and hope to keep a few men constantly there in preparation for the largely increasing work.

One personal report speaks of wishing on every itinerating trip for more time to devote to direct evangelism. One can but realize how inadequate are the foreign workers to reach such masses of people. This emphasizes the great need of largely increased numbers of well-trained native evangelists.

Street Chapel.—Since the Chinese New Year, a new street chapel and bookroom have been opened outside the south gate, with good results.

The Y. M. C. A. connected with the church has been carried on with great interest by the Chinese. Besides a monthly meeting, they have sent members out to preach each Sabbath in the city and surrounding villages.

Woman's Work.—In addition to the classes for women, mentioned above, some of the other efforts on the part of the lady workers are as follows:

There has been a Sunday-school for small children, under the care of Mrs. Romig. It has had varying success. Its somewhat irregular attendance has averaged about thirty. A class for women, held each Sabbath afternoon by Mrs. Lyon, has been fairly well attended. It formerly included hospital in-patients, but it was found too large for advantageous teaching, and the patients are now in a separate class under the instruction of a Bible woman.

Thursday afternoon a prayer meeting for women is held by different leaders. The attendance is generally good. Tuesday there is a class to teach women to read, using the Christian catechism and the New Testament.

To sum up the situation, the evangelistic work has taken a step forward. The native Church is now deeply realizing more its duty to spread the Gospel, both by the active preaching of every unit, and by giving for the advance of the cause. The Lord has indeed blessed this branch of the work.

School Work.—The boys' school, under the care of Mr. Romig, has had a year of qualified prosperity. In numbers the school has advanced from thirty to fifty. They are from a Christian constituency, half of them being baptized Christians. One-half of the newer pupils have applied for admission to the Church. During the year nine have been baptized.

A fair degree of self-support has been reached. There are two methods employed: The first is for those who are able to pay fees. They paid enough to meet the cost of food last year, but this year famine prices have affected the situation. The second method is to find work to cover the fees partly or wholly.

We cannot here give details of method, but results are worth tabulating. The receipts for all kinds of work for the year have amounted to $314,137 large cash, nearly two-thirds of the school fees for the past Mission year. The total sum received for fees was 436,163 large cash, against a total expenditure of a little less than 450,000 large cash. The private capital invested to make the work go is $191.23 Mexican. Over against this there are assets on hand to the amount of about $215.15.

As interest for this sum of $191.23, plus use of an acre of land, plus the work of thirty boys, there is credited to school fees a sum of $380 for this Mission year, plus $47 credited to last year's fees, and thirty boys who would not otherwise have been able to have been in school for one year, and have developed character in themselves. Counting only in dollars and cents, there has been an interest of 200 per cent. Counting the good received by the boys, and what they may be able to do for the Christian development of their country, the interest is not so easily calculated. But surely it is far greater than that calculated in dollars and cents.

There have been several country schools in session and one girls' school is carried on at the Station.

MEDICAL.—This has been a prosperous year for the Rose Bachman and the Hunter Memorial Hospitals. Both are in charge of Dr. Lyon. In the woman's hospital, Mrs. Lyon has rendered her husband much assistance. The workers have had the pleasure of seeing the new Rose Bachman Hospital building erected. The funds for this much needed building ($25,000) were raised through the earnest efforts of the Woman's Board in New York City.

The report for dispensary and hospitals shows an increase over last year. The daily clinic has been along the usual well-beaten paths—boils opened, teeth extracted, diseases, great and small, treated, and friends made. A number of soldiers have been treated, men who have been wounded more or less seriously by the ever-present banditti of the region. A native evangelist preaches daily to the dispensary patients, and daily prayers are held in the wards. Some of the patients attend services in the chapel. In the way of self-support, $593.39 have been raised for the year.

There have been 5,468 first treatments, and 9,180 return treatments, a total of 14,648 in the Rose Bachman Hospital for Men. In the Hunter Memorial Hospital for Women there have been 1,667 first visits and 1,640 return treatments, or a total of 3,317. The number of patients for both hospitals has been 17,960. Of in-patients there have been 180 men and 125 women. Operations were performed, 72 on men and 39 on women.

The year that has passed has been one of blessing in all branches of the work. The religious life of the helpers, and of many of the Christians, has been deepened, and a larger number than ever from the surrounding districts have become inquirers. The increased sales of well-bound copies of the Scriptures, indicate that the Word of God is becoming more highly prized. And lastly, we have attained to a greater degree of self-support all along the line. These things make us glad, and fill our hearts with gratitude to Him who hath blessed us in His service.

I-HSIEN STATION.

This new station has been formally opened, the missionaries, after having prosecuted their language studies at Ichou-fu, having removed to I-hsien and vigorously begun their work. Their first report alludes to the beauty of situation of the new Station.

He who surveys the city of I-hsien from the top of the surrounding heights cannot but remark on the surpassing beauty of the situation. Take your stand on the neighboring coal mountain, and you get an excellent bird's-eye view of the city. As it lies four-square in a setting of the eternal hills, it reminds one of a gem of more than ordinary brilliancy. Closer inspection, however, somewhat dispels the illusion, for I-hsien is a typical Chinese city, with thousands of low houses and many narrow, crowded and dirty streets.

It is a noteworthy fact that some of the finest buildings are found outside the city. There are a number of rich farmers in the region, and, as a rule, they occupy strong, castle-like structures. The natural beauty of the country, with mountain and valley and stream in picturesque confusion, is enhanced by these buildings. At the same time their fortress-like appearance reminds one that thieves and highwaymen abound, and that the rich are safest when behind strong walls.

This Station, which is supported by the East Liberty Church of Pittsburg, begins its history with almost a full quota of workers. It has received during the year three recruits—Mr. and Mrs. Isett and Miss Margaret Faris. Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Faris have also within the year returned from furlough. Three members of the Station, Mr. and Mrs. Isett and Mrs. W. S. Faris, were very near to a tragedy when their ill-starred ship, the "Manchuria," struck the rocks off the Rabbit Islands, near Honolulu. We all thank God that they escaped without disaster and have been spared for a share in the great work in China.

The personal reports show the newer arrivals busied mainly with the acquisition of the language at Ichou-fu, varied by some trips to the new Station and field. Mr. Faris, since his return from furlough, has had his energies largely engrossed with the practical problems incident to the opening of the Station.

The nearest Protestant work to I-hsien is that of the Southern Presbyterians at Hsu Chou-fu Kiang, Su province, forty-six miles to the southwest. Ichou-fu, sixty-five miles to the northeast, is the nearest Shantung neighbor.

As is not unusual in the opening of new Stations, difficulties for some time blocked the attempts to purchase land. Finally, however, twenty Chinese acres (about $3\frac{1}{2}$ American acres) in the south suburb of the city were offered, and the purchase was immediately concluded. The plan is to erect residences, etc., on this as soon as possible. Meanwhile, Chinese buildings have been rented, and are being fitted up for temporary residence.

Hitherto energies have been too fully occupied in other directions to allow much to be done in the way of evangelistic work in the city. There has been a little preaching in the markets and some books have been sold.

In May the Tsining-chou Station transferred to us a very flourishing work in the country, in the region of Kwan Kiao, thirty miles north by west of this Station. This very interesting work, including now about seventy Christians, dates back less than five years. It is largely the development of an interest in Christianity that followed an operation performed by Dr. Johnson in the Ichou-fu Hospital. This work is now in a very flourishing condition, and bears the marks of solidity and promise.

There are some inquirers in the regions nearer I-hsien, but none of them have advanced far enough to receive baptism.

The educational department of the work is represented by one school, of primary grade. It is in the country, and its pupils are few.

Dr. Cunningham plans to open a dispensary as soon as temporary quarters can be fitted up. A regular hospital practice will follow as there is call for it.

Among those to whom I-hsien Station owes a debt of gratitude may be mentioned:

The members of the Tsining-chou Station, who turned over to the newcomers a rapidly developing work; the committee who, until this spring, had charge of the new Station; its chairman, Rev. W. P. Chalfant, was especially indefatigable, and made frequent trips to I-hsien; members of the Ichou-fu Station, who hospitably cared for the homeless I-hsien appointees; and especially the East Liberty Church, of Pittsburg, which is furnishing the means to develop the possibilities of this work. In doing so, it is helping to make tangible a really new China.

The members of the Station feel that a great future lies before I-hsien. Commercially, the place is bound to make rapid progress. Business is developing, new buildings are going up, and there is a general air of prosperity, in spite of the hard times and the high prices which prevail. A railroad is projected to connect the coal mines, ten miles north, with the Grand Canal, twenty miles southeast at Fai Er Chwang. This will bring added business and so be the harbinger of a greater prosperity.

The prospects from a spiritual point of view are, perhaps, even better. Among the nearly 2,000,000 people in the I-hsien field, there will in time be a mighty harvest of souls. Even now we see the beginnings of a great work. The first fruits are already manifest.

A recent arrival giving first impressions says:

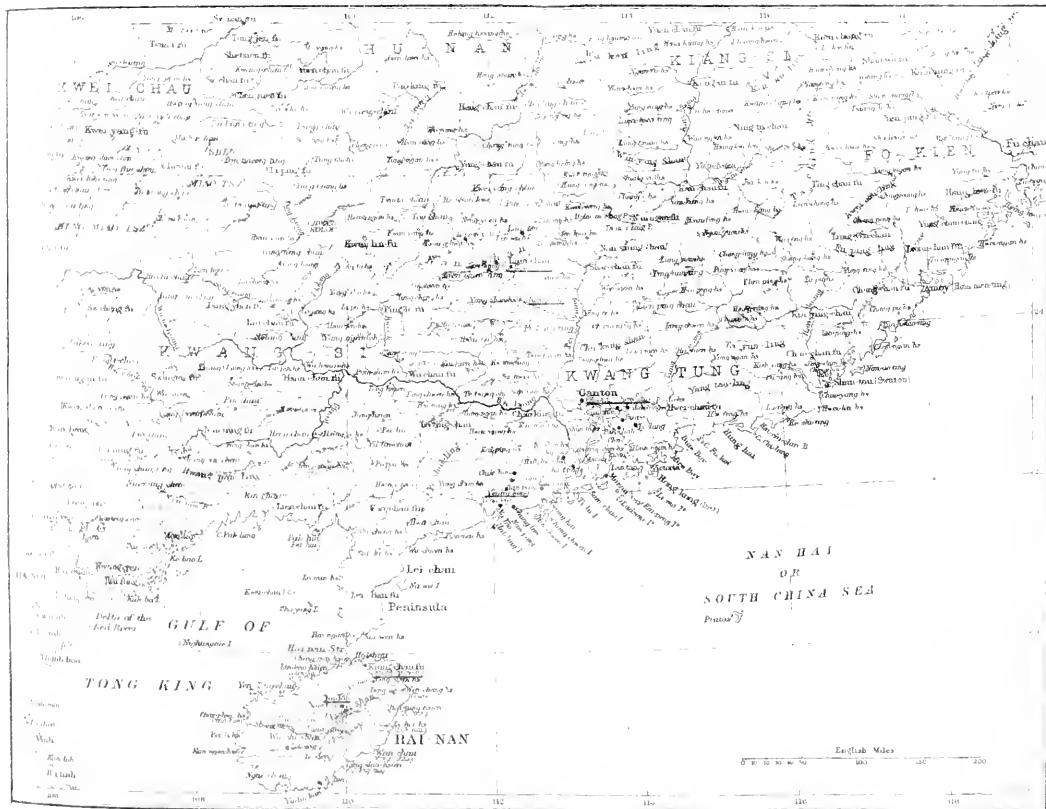

It is not so much the vastness of the field that impresses me. One does not know what it means to say that we men at I-hsien will be placed among several millions of people who have never heard the Gospel. One does not preach to millions. It is rather the opportunities to preach that impress me.

Statistics: Station constituted, 1905; opened by resident missionaries, 1906; population of city, 25,000; population of field, about 2,000,000; size of field, parts of five counties; native helpers, 10; out-stations, 5; baptized during the year, 17; total membership, 70; adherents, 125.

ON FURLOUGH: Miss H. Lewis.

This Mission, so long known as the Canton Mission, is now to be known as the South China Mission. The old name, appropriate enough when the work was chiefly confined to the city and vicinity of Canton, became a misnomer with the growth of other stations. The name "South China" is a more justly descriptive one and it better suggests the vast extent and great importance of the field to be covered.

The year has been a memorable year for the Mission, a year which will stand out prominently in all its future history. The report opens:

The year opened in darkness and mystery. We would fain pass by the painful experiences of this most trying episode in our history as a Mission; but these events coming, as they do, in this year, it seems but fitting that we should briefly refer to them.

Scarcely had we crossed the threshold of the year, and before we knew that our Lien-chou missionaries had reached their Station, when the dread message came that five of their number, Mrs. E. C. Machle and her daughter Amy, Dr. Eleanor Chesnut, Rev. J. R. Peale and Mrs. Peale, had fallen at the hands of an infuriated mob; the two remaining missionaries of the Station, Dr. E. C. Machle and Miss Elda G. Patterson, barely escaping with their lives.

We could not believe it at first. We felt as if we must be under the influence of some awful nightmare, and would awaken to find it all a dream. Alas! the awakening only confirmed us in the knowledge that it was only too true.

The finite eye, viewing the mutilated corpses of our fallen comrades, would inquire, "To what purpose is this waste?" Only the eye of faith can bridge such a mighty chasm, and looking away into the future, can see arising out of the ruins of Lien-chou better buildings and better facilities for extending the kingdom of Christ in China than it has hitherto had. As the Word of the Lord came to the Jewish Prince in olden time, assuring him that the topmost stone of the house of the Lord would certainly be laid, so we believe we have seen only the beginning, not the end, of the work in Lien-chou.

This awful catastrophe, together with the boycotting of all American goods, which caused an agitation throughout the whole Empire, more especially in Southern China, brought itineration in the country stations practically to a standstill. Not knowing what the outcome of these things would be, all missionaries were advised by their respective consuls not to go into the country. This prohibition extended to the Chinese New Year. Shortly after that, violent rains commenced, which continued for two or three months, during which period the whole country was flooded so as to render travelling by land almost an impossibility, while the rivers were so swollen that navigation was practically at a standstill.

With feelings of relief we turn to the side where light begins to shine. Although the work has been broken and hindered in some directions, in others very substantial progress has been made during the year.

Evangelistic work in and about the City of Canton, in connection with churches, day-schools, hospitals and dispensaries, has been very encouraging.

At Yeung Kong the year has been a most successful one, spiritually and financially. The outlook is very bright. More workers are urgently needed.

The total number added on confession during the year is 943.

CANTON STATION.

The work has been interrupted somewhat by the events of the year.

Dr. A. A. Fulton, Dr. Beattie and Mr. W. D. Noyes were obliged to spend the greater part of November and December investigating affairs at Lien-chou. "China in Transition," the boycott disturbances, violent rains, and in some fields raids by bands of robbers and outlaws have all tended to create excitement and unrest, and so have hindered the work. Tranquility is now restored, and the work is going on as usual.

The Station records with profound thankfulness that there has been no loss of any of its members by death during the year, and no case of serious illness except that of Dr. Beattie, who has been obliged, with Mrs. Beattie and children, to return home on account of illness. We are glad to report his complete recovery in the home land.

Miss Lewis left for furlough in May. Dr. Swan and family returned from furlough at the close of the year.

CHURCHES.—Most of the churches of the Station are at present in a prosperous condition, and the outlook is bright for greater expansion in the future.

Eleven churches are under the care of Dr. A. A. Fulton.

First Church, Canton.—This church has now an ordained minister, Rev. Wong Yuk Shing. The church has had a successful year, and prospects are encouraging. It has a well-organized Y. P. S. C. E. The faculty and students of the Medical College render valuable assistance in both church and Sabbath-school. Total number of attendances at Sabbath-school during the year was 6,905. The church is self-supporting. Contributions were made to the famine sufferers in Japan, also to the Chinese church in San Francisco. One hundred dollars was subscribed toward furnishing the room for women's meetings.

San Ning Church.—The church here is not large enough to accommodate its members. A larger building is much needed. The church is self-supporting.

Chung Lau Church.—Here also the building cannot accommodate the people. The church proposes to raise $5,000, $1,000 of which has already been subscribed, and build as soon as possible. Twenty-nine have been received, and the people have subscribed full amount of preacher's salary.

Chik Hom Church.—The work in this place is making steady progress. The opposition of former years has disappeared. A large chapel has been purchased by native Christians. The church is self-supporting. It also supports a school for the children of the boat population, and partly supports a Bible woman.

Kam U Church.—This church is also overcrowded, and the members are planning to buy the adjacent building. It supports a school in a Christian village, three miles distant. The church has a large influence, its converts being found in many villages connected with the market town, two of which are almost entirely Christian. One village gave their ancestral hall for chapel and school purposes.

Ng Foo Church.—The work here has been hindered by the raids of robbers and outlaws, who captured numbers of people in this region. The elder of the church and his mother were kidnapped, but afterwards released. The magistrates have succeeded in capturing many of the offenders. Peace is now restored and the work pushed by native preachers.

Wong Pi Church.—This church is rapidly progressing and has now over 100 members. Twenty were added on confession during the year. The members employ a teacher.

Yan Ping Church.—Owing to the necessity of securing a new building, the work here has been retarded. The new building is almost completed, at a cost of $1,300. Some help will be needed to meet all costs. With the debt all paid the church will soon be entirely self-supporting.

Tsung Shu Church.—In this place there is an excellent site and a good building. A flourishing school is partly supported by the members of this church. Two Bible women work in connection with the church and two neighboring chapels. Thirty were added on confession during the year.

Tong Ha Church.—The members of this church are scattered and it is difficult to keep in close touch with them. Twenty-two were added during the year. The work has extended into Hok Shan district, where recently ten men were baptized.

The work of Dr. A. Beattie during the eight months of the year spent on the field has been largely in Canton City and the Shun Tai district. Dr. Beattie's former field has been divided between him and Mr. Fisher. Mr. Fisher has taken over four of the churches formerly in charge of Dr. Beattie, with fifteen of the chapels connected with them.

Canton Third Church.—This is the principal church under Dr. Beattie's care. The work is very encouraging. The seating capacity of the church (600) is taxed to the utmost; and although the church was newly built only about two years ago, its congregation fairly bids to outgrow it speedily. Enlargement will soon be necessary. Sunday-school, women's meetings, and the English school have done much towards making the work a success. The preacher, Wan Kwok Fu, is earnest and faithful. With concentrated effort the church will soon become self-supporting. Thirty-four have been baptized during the year—twenty-four adults and ten infants.

Tai Leung Church.—The work of this church is very encouraging. The new chapel opened in March seats over 400. The Christians of Tai Leung have raised $5,400, $1,400 of which was raised this year. The church has grown rapidly, it being only seven years since the first members were baptized. This church has a Medical chapel connected with it, where medicine is dispensed daily and the Gospel preached.

The churches in charge of Rev. A. J. Fisher are Shek Lung, Tsan Shing, Liu Po, Yeung Mui and Tai Fan.

Shek Lung Church.—This church has had a prosperous year. About one-third of the 126 baptized during the year were baptized here. Two preachers and one colporteur are working in Shek Lung, one of the preachers working in the adjacent villages. The chapel has been thoroughly renovated during the year. One new elder and one new deacon were elected and ordained. Attendance is good—communion Sundays not room enough to seat all. There are two Sabbath-schools, one for women conducted by Miss Read, and one for men and boys conducted by Mr. Fisher and the native preacher. C. E. meetings are conducted by the members. Weekly prayer meeting is held on Thursdays, when the books of the Bible are studied in succession. In March a seven-days' conference was held for the native helpers, in which Rev. H. T. Burkwall, Rev. J. J. Boggs and Rev. W. D. Noyes kindly assisted.

Tsang Shing Church.—During the year Tsang Shing and Ching Kwoh have been organized into a separate church. Tsang Shing has had a prosperous year. Some who at first opposed are now earnest workers. Two elders were ordained. The membership is widely scattered and so two helpers are kept here. At last communion two came in from Hon Uen, thirty miles distant. Schools are much needed.

Ching Kwoh is steadily growing. Rent has to be paid this year for the building. $380 silver would buy the house and save $17 per year rent.

Liu Po Church.—No progress is made here. The trouble arises out of the expulsion of a colporteur and an elder, who got into trouble and stirred up faction in the church. The helper has been faithful, but has received no support from the members.

Yeung Mui Church.—This church has five preaching places connected with it, three being Hakka and two Cantonese. These chapels are all in villages except Tai Tong.

Tai Fan Church.—Tai Fan still lacks a proper place for worship. About $700 has been raised by the people for a new building. $300 more are needed. A new house would greatly help the work. The present place of meeting is unfit for a chapel.

The most pressing needs are a half dozen Spirit-filled native helpers to occupy new territory, and the means to open temporary chapels.

EVANGELISTIC.—In connection with the different churches are some sixty-nine chapels; of these thirty-nine are under Mr. Fulton's care.

One of the elders in the San Ui Church has given a fine site and built a chapel at his own cost, value of land and chapel $1,000. At Sz Kau a new chapel has been built, which seats about 200, at a cost of $1,200. $150 has been subscribed towards this chapel.

At Ku Tsing, in the San Ui district, a fine site has been secured for a new chapel. About $1,000 has been raised towards the building, one man subscribing $625.

At Chiu King, in San Ning, a new shop has been secured for chapel services.

At No^{*}Kat, in Yan Ping, the people have purchased a hall for women at a cost of about $200.

Petitions have been sent to Presbytery for permission to organize churches at Pak Sha and at Shing Tong. At Pak Sha nearly $200 have been raised towards a new building for a chapel. Forty-five were received on confession at Pak Sha during the year.

At Kong Mun a new chapel is needed. The cost will be about $2,000. The people will raise $500.

The division of Dr. Beattie's field between Dr. Beattie and Mr. Fisher leaves fifteen chapels under Dr. Beattie's care. In many of those chapels the work has been very encouraging. In the Leper Village the work continues to be full of interest. The people welcome the Gospel. Seventeen have been baptized during the year. This important work is supported entirely by contributions from friends. Many of the hungry and helpless have been fed and clothed. The Parsees of Canton and Hongkong are among the most liberal contributors. The Leper Mission, Edinburgh, has again given a liberal contribution. In some places enemies have tried to stop the work, but the Christians have remained true and faithful. In others the work has been hindered by inconsistent assistants, who have received people into the church who entered merely for hope of worldly gain. On the whole, in spite of opposition, many during the year have become Christians.

The chapels under Mr. Fisher's care (fifteen) have had much the same history as those reported above. In some places there has been progress; in others the work has been hindered by opposition. Nearly all lack suitable places for worship. At Cha Uen, notwithstanding years of opposition, a preaching place has at last been opened up, and the people gladly listen to the Word of Life.

Received during the year on Mr. Fulton's field, 462; contributions, $4,200; on Dr. Beattie's field, 186 (twenty-one infants baptized); on Mr. Fisher's field, 126 (eleven infants baptized). Total adults received, 774.

WORK FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN.—Mrs. Noyes has conducted daily morning services for women and children. In addition to studying the Old and New Testaments, portions of Dr. Newton's Sermons, "King's Highway," "Safe Compass," "Bible Wonders," and "Nature's Wonders," have also been read. A weekly prayer meeting and Bible Study Class has also been conducted. Itinerating in the neighboring villages has been carried on. Two sermons for the young have been translated and will be prepared for publication.

Mrs. Fulton has carried on evangelistic work in the Pierson dispensary and the David Gregg Hospital, with the assistance of a Bible woman. A chapel exclusively for women has also been opened by Mrs. Fulton, which is largely attended. She also conducts a weekly service for women in the First Church.

Miss Churchill does evangelistic work in connection with the Third Church. A weekly prayer meeting and a Gospel meeting are held in the chapel. Gospel meetings are also held in school-rooms and in the homes. Miss Churchill has also charge of the Sabbath-school for women and children at the Third Church, which has an average attendance of over 300. Four Bible women assist her in her work. Twenty women and children have become Christians during the year.

Miss Butler has charge of two Bible women doing evangelistic work in the Canton Hospital.

Miss Lewis conducts evangelistic meetings for women in connection with her schools.

Dr. Mary Niles carries on evangelistic work chiefly in the country stations. She has eight Bible women assisting her, two of whom work in the Leper Village. Dr. Niles, during the year, has opened up new Sabbath-schools, visited in the homes, and held meetings in chapels and on boats. Dr. Niles also does evangelistic work in connection with the chapel for lepers.

Miss Durham also works in the country stations. A special feature of her work this year has been the establishing of classes for Bible study in connection with the chapels. She has also conducted regular meetings amongst the boat people. She has five Bible women assisting her. She has also taken the partial superintendence of the Sabbath-school for women and children at the Second Church, which during the year has had an average attendance of about 100.

Mrs. Fisher and Miss Read have had charge of the work for women and children in Shek Lung. Their work had a very successful beginning. Mrs. Fisher has conducted meetings for women which have been very encouraging. Miss Read has had charge of the Sabbath-school, also a day-school. The attendance of women at the Sabbath services in Shek Lung has about trebled during the year.

Mrs. Kerr conducts work amongst women and children in connection with the Refuge for Insane and amongst the boat people; also in the neighborhood of Ha Fong Tsun.

EDUCATIONAL.—Theological Seminary and High School.—This institution, under the management of Rev. H. V. Noyes, D.D., Rev. J. J. Boggs, and Rev. W. D. Noyes, assisted by five Chinese instructors, has had a most successful year.

While the Chinese Government is establishing many schools where western studies take the place of the old regime, and private schools of the same character are becoming numerous, yet the number of applicants to this school is increasing instead of diminishing. The school has been full during the year; the attendance exceptional. Progress has been steady. Enthusiasm has been manifested in all branches, in out-door exercises as well as in text-book exercises.

Additions made to the curriculum of the High School place that department where it can compete fairly with the ordinary college.

Graduates of this institution are in demand in the new Chinese schools. Great inducements are being offered them in the way of salary, so that to retain teachers is a problem. One teacher, receiving $13 per month, left to accept a position where he receives $50 per month for teaching three hours per day. Altogether five graduates have accepted positions in these Chinese schools. They are not required to teach on the Sabbath nor to take part in idolatrous worship. In their new field they have an opportunity of exerting a Christian influence, which we hope they will take advantage of.

One of the graduates is an instructor in the Canton Christian College, and two are instructors in the Anglo-Chinese school of the London Mission, Canton.

In the past twenty years this institution has sent out more than 100 preachers and has given a good education to about

1,000 pupils, largely children of church members. A good force of Chinese teachers and at least one more foreign missionary are necessary in order that the institution may become an increasing power for good in the future.

The Y. M. C. A. (eighty-five) and the C. E. Society (thirty-five members) have carried on their usual work. Companies of students have preached in the neighboring villages on Sabbath afternoons. During vacation a goodly number have been employed as preachers or colporteurs by the Bible societies.

One of the theological students in the latter end of the year received the summons to "come up higher." He went trusting in the Saviour.

Statistics for the first half of 1906 are as follows: Enrolled, 104; attendance, 95 to 100, distributed as follows: Theological students, 25; High School, Middle department, 44; Lower department, 35. Seventy-six are church members, seven of whom joined the church during the year. Three have graduated after taking the full eight years' course, and three have commenced preaching after a shorter course.

Additions added from time to time to the curriculum of the High School place that department now on a college plane.

Chinese continues to be the medium of instruction.

The Memorial Building erected by Rev. William D. Noyes, in co-operation with Dr. and Mrs. Noyes, in memory of his brother, the late Mr. Richard Noyes, has been completed. It is 115 feet in length by 40 feet in depth, and is three stories high. It is well ventilated throughout. It consists of rooms for calisthenics, recitations, and for laboratory work in chemistry and physics, and assembly room and dormitories. It will accommodate eighty students. This commodious building, fitted as it is with all modern equipments, will prove a great factor in the enlargement and improvement of this department of the work.

Our cordial thanks are given to the Presbyterian Church in New Zealand for £20 contributed for payment of Chinese teachers, and for valuable assistance in teaching rendered by its missionaries here.

Truc Light Seminary.—This institution, under the management of Miss H. Noyes, Miss E. M. Butler and Miss H. Lewis, has had a very successful year, all the departments having been filled to overflowing. The enrollment is as follows: Primary department, 54; Intermediate, 68; Advanced, 38; Training School for Women, 68; total, 228. Ten native teachers have been employed. The native assistants are efficient and faithful. One of them has donated a large share of her salary to the work of the school. New studies have been added to the curriculum, and changes made in the line of the new, "up-to-date" requirements.

In December, Dr. Beattie removed to Fa Ti, leaving the whole of the Kuk-fau Compound to the use of the Seminary.

This gave a good deal of additional room for the school, and made it possible to effect some long desired and very necessary changes.

Several weeks of evangelistic meetings held in the Second Church had the effect of deepening the spiritual life of those already Christian and of leading others to Christ. The number of pupils who have joined the Church during the year is thirty-one.

During the year six of the pupils have commenced teaching, two have become Bible women, two are being trained as nurses in the Hongkong Hospital, two are studying dentistry, two are studying medicine, 1 married a teacher in the Fa Ti High School and has gone with him to Honolulu.

During the part of the summer vacation a School for Teachers was carried on in the Seminary Building.

Miss Elda G. Patterson, of Lien-chou, has resided at the Seminary since November and has rendered valuable assistance in teaching, while Dr. M. W. Niles and Dr. P. J. Todd gave needed medical assistance during the year.

Contributions have amounted to $201.60.

The blind Bible woman, Chan Oi, has continued her work in the villages near her home.

Of those supported by the Orphan Fund, one has been in school throughout the year, and another part of the year.

Day-schools.—There are seventeen day-schools for girls in operation, and nine boys.

Of the girls' day-schools, Miss Churchill has charge of seven, Miss Lewis four, Miss Noyes one, Miss Butler one, Dr. Niles one, Mrs. Noyes one, Miss Read one, Miss Durham one.

In the school under Miss Durham's charge eight of the pupils have joined the church during the year.

Of the boys' schools, five are in charge of Mr. Fulton. These are all taught by graduates of the First Degree and of Fa Ti Training School. They are largely supported by the Chinese. Mr. Fisher has charge of the remaining four of these day-schools.

Other Schools.—Other schools in operation are: The School for Blind Girls, in charge of Dr. M. W. Niles; The Boarding School for untainted children of lepers, in charge of Dr. A. Beattie. This school is growing in interest and is doing a splendid work in saving the children from the sad fate of their unfortunate parents. The Canton Hospital School, in charge of Mrs. Kerr. From this school nine have united with the church during the year. It is interesting to note that during the past sixteen years 137 pupils from this school have united with the church. The Pui Kei Boys' School, in charge of Miss Butler. This school has had seventy enrolled during the year, four of whom have joined the church. The Boys' English School, at Sz Pai Lan. This school is taught by Miss Burlingame. Ninety have been enrolled during the year.

MEDICAL WORK.—Canton Hospital.—The Canton Hospital was in charge of Dr. P. J. Todd during the year, Dr. J. M. Swan being absent on furlough.

The general unrest amongst the Chinese has somewhat interfered with the success of the work.

Evangelistic work has been carried on by Mr. Wong, pastor of the Second Church; Mr. Tz, the hospital evangelist, and a colporteur; also by two Bible women under Miss Butler's care. The Hospital School for Girls and Women has been in charge of Mrs. Kerr. Thirteen from the hospital were received into the church during the year.

Statistics are as follows:

|------------------------------------------------|--------|
| Number of in-patients | 1,375 |
| Number of out-patients | 25,665 |
| Number of operations under anesthetics | 1,032 |
| Number of operations without anesthetics | 1,952 |

The Medical College in connection with the hospital has had thirty-six students enrolled. On the teaching staff there have been two foreigners and seven Chinese. Six of the Chinese professors have given their services gratis. Dr. Anton Anderson has been in charge.

The hospital is greatly indebted to Dr. J. M. Wright, of the Reformed Presbyterian Mission; Dr. H. Boyd, of the J. G. Kerr Refuge for Insane, and Dr. J. Ings, of the New Zealand Presbyterian Mission, lately deceased, whose services have added much to the success of the year.

David Gregg Hospital for Women and Children.—This institution is in charge of Dr. Mary Fulton and her colleagues, Dr. Isabella Mack and Miss Margaret Strathie. Dr. Mack has spent six months of the year in Yueng Kong, having charge of the medical work there in the absence of Dr. Dobson on furlough. Miss Strathie has devoted most of the year to the study of the language.

The "Mary H. Perkins Memorial" Building, the Lecture Hall in connection with the E. K. Hackett Medical College for Women, and "The Hannah Lee Bridge," which connects the first mentioned building with the others, have been completed during the year. The latter is the gift of Mrs. J. S. Lee, of Hongkong.

All the main buildings and the grounds are lighted by electricity. For this purpose $100 in gold was donated by Mrs. Edna Sturtevant, of Boston.

The Pierson Dispensary has been removed from the Theodore Cuyler Church and now occupies a house secured adjoining the compound. About 5,000 patients have been treated.

Statistics:

| | |
|---------------------------------|-------|
| Number of in-patients | 201 |
| Number of out-patients | 379 |
| Number of operations | 353 |
| Number of teeth extracted | 1,037 |
| | 1,390 |

Dr. Shi Mui Hing, the most valuable native assistant, died from plague, greatly regretted by all who knew her. She bequeathed $450 (silver) towards a fund for a contagious disease ward.

Religious instruction has been given by two Bible women and by Rev. Mr. Wong, pastor of the First Church. Thirteen in connection with the hospital decided to be Christians during the year.

In the Julia M. Turner Training School for Nurses, eight students have been enrolled. One nurse graduated in February.

For services, room rent, sale of medicines, etc., $3,386.75 has been received. The work is self-supporting.

In the E. A. K. Hackett Medical College for Women, twenty-one students were enrolled during the year. Three graduated after taking the four years' course. Dr. Chesnut's student took the last year only in this college.

Ten instructors teach in the Medical College. Their services are given free, except in one case where chair fare is paid. The work is self-supporting. Seven are now in the graduating class.

Dr. M. Fulton has translated Penrose's "Gynecology" during the year.

Thanks are due to Drs. Scarlett, Remington and McCracken, of Philadelphia, Pa., and to Dr. A. Anderson and Dr. Andrew Woods, for assistance during the year.

Ha Fong Tsun Dispensary.—Dr. Niles reports 817 men and 378 women treated. This work is superintended by Dr. H. Boyd. Religious instruction for the men is given by a native evangelist, and for women by Mrs. Kerr and her Bible women.

Dr. Niles has treated 150 patients at her office. Professional calls in homes 100, twenty of which required operations. Professional visits made to adjacent towns, seven. When not itinerating Dr. Niles has also given lectures twice a week to the students of the E. A. K. Hackett Medical College. She has translated a "Manual of Obstetrics," and is revising Dr. Kerr's work on "Practice of Medicine."

Fa Ti Dispensary.—This is in charge of Mrs. J. J. Boggs, M.D. Patients in the dispensary have been regularly treated by Mrs. Boggs. A blind Bible woman assists in the evangelistic work of the dispensary. Mrs. Boggs also visits patients in the adjoining villages, where the services of a good Bible woman are much needed.

Mrs. Boggs has also finished the translation of a book on nursing, which was begun by Dr. Eleanor Chesnut.

The John G. Kerr Refuge for Insanc.—This institution continues to grow in usefulness, and is becoming more and more a powerful factor in helping suffering humanity, and in bringing a knowledge of the Gospel of Christ to a class of people whose distress must arouse the sympathy of all who love Him to whom suffering humanity never appealed in vain.

Mrs. Kerr reports that during the year 141 new patients have been admitted. Nineteen have been discharged cured, fourteen have improved, one has escaped, and five have died. At the present time there are sixty-four men and forty-four women inmates, representing all classes of society.

The present accommodation in the Refuge has been quite inadequate; and to house such a large number the ingenuity of the Managers has been much taxed. A native house has been secured and is full. Also a one-story building has been erected for the use of the two matrons and a Bible woman. Two temporary pavilions have been erected for those who can live an out-door life. Many thanks are due to Dr. H. Boyd, who is in charge of this work in Dr. Selden's absence, for what he has been able to accomplish for the Refuge during the year.

A branch of the Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip is organized, and does good work both in the Refuge and surrounding neighborhoods. They hope soon to have a new chapel for services. A male evangelist and two Bible women are now employed.

The immense number of visitors, relatives and friends of the inmates, who go to and fro continually, makes this a wide field for usefulness.

One of the out-patients and two women from the Refuge have become Christians during the year.

The evangelistic work for women and children is in charge of Mrs. Kerr, who has also started a Sunday-school for women and children of the boat population, which has now an attendance of from thirty-five to forty.

LIEN-CHOU STATION.

The sorrowful history of this Station for the past year is familiar to the whole Christian Church.

The members of this Station left last Mission meeting with high hopes and enlarged plans for the future. Only one short day after their arrival home when five of their number, Mrs. E. C. Machle and her little daughter Amy, Dr. Eleanor Chesnut, Rev. J. R. Peale and Mrs. Peale, the two latter newly-appointed missionaries, with expectation of a long life service for the Master in China, were called upon to seal their testimony with their blood. They trod the fiery path of persecution to the death, and thus passed on to swell the ranks of the noble army of martyrs gone on before. "Therefore are they before the throne of God and serve Him day and night in His temple." "Their works do follow them." The painful narrative need not be repeated here, as it has been given at length in Dr. Brown's pamphlet entitled "The Lien-chou Martyrdom," copies of which may be obtained free of charge by addressing the Board in New York. We should add, however, the following resolutions which have since been adopted by the Mission, whose next annual meeting did not occur until nearly a year after the massacre, as it will be remembered that the tragedy occurred just after an annual meeting.

Whereas, Since our last meeting much loved associates have been taken from us by a violent death at the hands of a frenzied mob, we wish to place on record:

(1) Our warm sympathy with the relatives and friends who have been thus bereaved, and our own deep sense of loss.

(2) That we regard Mrs. E. C. Machle and Dr. Eleanor Chesnut as rare examples of entire consecration to the service of the Master and earnest zeal in this service continued with untiring energy during many years.

(3) That while Mr. and Mrs. Peale had been on their own field but one day, and in Canton only three weeks, they had endeared themselves to us all, had gained our high appreciation of their qualifications for their work and given us large hopes of future usefulness. Nor do we forget Amy Machle, who at the early age of nine years, went, with her mother, to their heavenly home.

(4) That we desire to follow in the footsteps of these martyrs as they followed Christ—"faithful unto death"—and we give thanks to God for the faith that sustained them through life and did not fail them in the hour of trial.

(5) That it is our hope and prayer that God's richest blessing may rest upon those who hereafter shall succeed them in carrying on the work at Lien-chou.

The remaining members of the Station are Dr. E. C. Machle, Miss Elda G. Patterson, Rev. R. F. Edwards and Mrs. Edwards.

Miss Patterson has been in Canton, in the True Light Seminary since November. Dr. Machle has spent most of the year in the Philippines, in charge of Dr. J. A. Hall's Hospital at Iloilo, while the latter was on furlough. Rev. R. F. and Mrs. Edwards were in America on furlough, but have now returned to the field.

The return of the missionaries to Lien-chou has been delayed beyond expectation. This was due in part to the ill health of Mrs. Edwards, which kept Mr. Edwards in America longer than had been anticipated. It was not practicable to reopen the Station without him, as Dr. Machle was needed elsewhere and the other two men of the Station force, Dr. Ross and Mr. Kunkle, are new missionaries who do not, of course, know the Chinese language. Another reason lay in the American Minister at Peking and the American Consul-General at Canton, who deemed it unwise for the missionaries to return until the Lien-chou officials had complied with the conditions which our Government had insisted upon. These were:

1. That the sum of taels 46,129.65 be paid to Julius G. Lay, American Consul-General at Canton, to be paid to the Rev. Henry V. Noyes, treasurer and representative of the American Presbyterian Mission, as compensation for loss of property at Lien-chou. That the said sum of taels 46,129.65 be paid to the said Julius G. Lay, American Consul-General, on or before the 10th day of July, 1906.

2. That the rewards for those guilty of murder of the missionaries and burning the buildings be increased and continue to be offered until such persons are apprehended.

3. That the strongest assurances be given the American Government that in future adequate, efficient and effective protection be guaranteed to American missionaries in and near Lien-chou.

4. That the small Chinese Temple used for annual "Ta Tsin" celebrations and adjacent to the former men's mission hospital be at once transformed into a schoolhouse.

5. That near this schoolhouse and in a conspicuous position there be erected by the Chinese authorities a stone tablet on which shall be carved the Edict of His Majesty the Emperor of China issued on the 28th of October, 1905.

6. That the said Edict be also conspicuously posted in the City and District of Lien-chou when the missionaries return there.

7. That in addition to the tablet described a memorial tablet be erected also by the Chinese authorities to the memory of those missionaries who lost their lives in the massacre at Lien-chou and that such a tablet shall bear an inscription stating that it is erected by the Chinese authorities.

8. That this tablet be erected near the tree in front of the cave temple where the missionaries were dragged from the cave and tortured and killed before their bodies were thrown into the river.

9. That the above mentioned tablets be erected before the 10th day of October next, and that should they be destroyed or defaced in any way that the Chinese authorities will replace or repair them.

At the time this report goes to press, all these conditions have been complied with except the one relating to the temple, and the missionary party, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Edwards, Dr. and Mrs. Ross, Mr. Kunkle and Miss Patterson, were waiting at Canton all ready to start and in daily expectation of permission from the Consul-General to do so. It is probable that before these pages come from the printer, they will be in Lien-chou and busily at work.

It should be said in passing, that neither the Board nor the missionaries had any part in making or enforcing the conditions referred to nor in obtaining the indemnity that was paid to some of the relatives of the murdered missionaries. Nor did the Board demand that the Chinese should be forced to pay indemnity for the property that was destroyed. The Board simply expressed its readiness to receive the actual cost of replacing the property, provided it was offered and could be collected without injustice to innocent parties. This was done. Aided thus the Board has made the necessary appropriations for rebuilding. The Station can be more adequately equipped than it was before on account of generous gifts for the two hospitals. Mr. Warner Van Norden, of New York, has given money for the Men's Hospital and the Estate of James H. A. Brooks, of Philadelphia, the money for the Woman's Hospital. These institutions will be called the Van Norden Hospital for Men and the James H. A. Brooks Memorial Hospital for Women, respectively.

Although no foreign missionaries have been able to reside at the Station this year, a great deal of the work has been continued by the native workers who have been very faithful. Services have been conducted regularly at all the out-stations, as well as at Lien-chou. Sam Kong being the centre. Both the boys' and the girls' boarding schools have been in operation, the former being temporarily removed to Sam Kong. Both these are as well attended as last year. Two of the day-schools have been continued, and work amongst the women has been carried on by faithful Bible women. Two dispensaries have been carried on by native medical assistants. Twenty-five have been received into the church during the year, twelve of these being from Lien-chou City. With the return of the missionaries, the Station will soon resume its former condition.

The new educational movement has also taken hold of the people there. The Government has established several schools for the teaching of western subjects, and the people generally are manifesting an increased interest in education.

EVANGELISTIC.—The churches at the Station are Lien-chou, Sam-kong and Kang-hau.

Lien-chou Church.—Regular services have been held in the chapel. Twelve have been received on profession. Sunday-school has been conducted; average attendance, thirty-five.

Sam-kong Church.—At Sam-kong eleven have united with the church during the year. The members are earnest and faithful in attendance on Sabbath services. The native preacher has worked faithfully. Sunday-school has been regularly conducted; average attendance, eighty-five.

Kang-hau Church.—This is the smallest church of the Station. It has about 40 communicants. Two have been added during the year.

In connection with these three churches are five chapels, in all of which services have been kept up by the faithful Chinese helpers. Rev. Li Yeung Shan, who has charge of the whole field, has made several trips to each of the out-stations, strengthening the hearts of the Christians and holding communion services.

WORK FOR WOMEN.—Work amongst the women has been carried on by two Bible women. One of these visits in the homes of Lien-chou and vicinity. The other has worked among the women of Sam-kong and taught the Training Class for Women, which formerly met in the Dwight Memorial Hall at Lien-chou. The class at present has but two members.

Another is studying at the True Light Seminary in Canton. It is hoped that all three will soon be ready to take up Christian work.

EDUCATIONAL.—Boys' Boarding School.—This school has been kept open throughout the year at Sam-kong, instead of at Lien-chou as formerly. Number enrolled thirty-three. The teacher has been faithful and conscientious and the pupils have made good progress. Two pupil-teachers have assisted in the primary classes.

Girls' Boarding School.—Enrolled thirty-one. Rev. Li Yeung Shan has given whatever time could be spared from his other duties to teaching the advanced class. Li Cheung So has assisted with the primary classes.

Day-schools.—Two day-schools only have been continued during the year.

MEDICAL.—The hospitals were open for the first two months of the year only, with about the usual number of patients. Since then there has been no medical work at Lien-chou. The two dispensaries at Sam-kong and Shek Kok have been continued by Dr. Machle's assistant, Li Sin Shang. He reports the number of new patients at Sam-kong, 461; at Shek Kok, thirty-one.

YEUNG KONG STATION.

It is a cause for heartfelt thanksgiving that while there has been so much disturbance in other places, the Yeung Kong field has enjoyed the utmost tranquility. No direct effects of the boycott movement have been felt, and all classes have been uniformly courteous and kind. The work has gone on without interruption, save that during the months of November and December it was deemed prudent, in view of the tragedy at Lien-chou, to refrain from extensive itineration.

EVANGELISTIC.—The evangelistic work has been carried on by Mr. Patton and Mr. Marshall largely in common, a recent division of the field assigning to the former Shui Tung Church and territory, to the latter Yeung Kong City and adjacent out-stations.

The necessity of temporarily decreasing the staff of native workers on account of lack of funds has left the out-stations only partially manned, hence the increase in membership has been less than in previous years. Only five points have had a regular supply, Yeung Kong City and the remaining out-stations being worked by the missionaries, the teacher of the Boys' School, and the Theological Class. Two of the out-stations have been practically closed the greater part of the year. Opportunities have in no wise diminished, and the sending out of five new men in July largely remedies this state of affairs, promising to make the work far more effective the coming year. The radical stand taken against interference in official affairs has also tended to discourage the faint-hearted, improving the quality, while increasing the numbers, of inquirers at some points.

In spite of drawbacks, the statistics show 325 candidates examined and 113 baptized, making the total number of communicants 645. Increase of contributions is interesting and significant of the growing movement towards self-support. The average per member for the year is $2.40, making a total of $1,549.85, a net increase of $357.43 over last year. Most of the chapels now pay all current expenses.

Nga Shiu and Shiu Tung have each completed and opened a commodious new chapel, aid from the Loan Fund supplementing in each case the liberal local contributions. Yeung Kong seems on the point of realizing its long cherished hope of a church home, year-long efforts to secure a site being now on the verge of consummation.

In general there has been a healthy growth in both churches, their condition being better to-day than ever before. The newly-awakened sense of independence is becoming a factor in church life, doubtless destined to be more and more felt in the future.

WORK FOR WOMEN.—This was carried on by Mrs. Dobson, who continued to do her full share until her departure on furlough. Since that time, it has been under the direction of Mrs. Marshall and Miss Wilcox. The latter has conducted the Thursday prayer meeting, taught the primary class in Sunday-school, and assisted in teaching the inquirers' class.

Mrs. Marshall has devoted the major portion of time to visiting in the homes. It has been impossible to enter all of the heathen homes now open, but many of these have also been visited, and a number of calls have been received from the better class of women. The Sunday-school for women and children has been merged into the general school, and attendance has been well sustained by both Christians and outsiders. A weekly prayer-meeting has been held in a distant part of the city, where four Christian women form a nucleus.

A special class for women was held at the beginning of the Chinese year with an average attendance of eighteen. Good work was done and the effects have been manifest throughout the year in the increased interest in Bible study, which is one of the most encouraging features of the work. From this class has sprung a weekly Bible class, meeting on Thursday, also a permanent training class in which three women are studying with a view to Christian work.

Visits have been made to four out-stations which offer alluring opportunities for work. At present the work for women is practically confined to Yeung Kong city and five out-stations, as no Bible women are available for the other and more distant points.

Two Bible women have done faithful work, one in the city and surrounding villages, the other visiting in rotation the five nearest out-stations. The latter has instructed all of the inquirers at these points, besides preaching the Gospel to hundreds of outsiders.

The year has been one of unprecedented opportunities, which it has been possible to improve but partially, owing to the limited force, native and foreign. The work has been intensive rather than extensive, aiming at the development of the Christian women, and through them the reaching of the larger numbers. Growth has been apparent in greater unity of spirit, increased ambition, and a higher standard of Christian living. Twenty-two women have been baptized during the year.

EDUCATIONAL (in charge of Rev. C. E. Patton).—The Boys' School, Chinese-English School and Theological Class, all interrelated, show a total enrollment of eighty-nine. Three native teachers have been employed. Two Canton Christian College students also taught English during the summer months. Each member of the Station has assisted in teaching English. This school, involving an expenditure of about $850, is entirely self-supporting.

In addition to the regular Theological Class, taught by Mr. Patton and Mr. Marshall, a supplementary summer class was held for all native workers. Thirty were in attendance—preachers, colporteurs, Bible women, and elders. Nearly three weeks of July were spent in Bible study. Every practical phase of the work pertinent to the day was also taken up and discussed. The spirit was good and the work most helpful.

The Theological Class will be sent temporarily to the Fa Ti High School and Theological Seminary. In all there will be ten students in preparation for future work. Five students were graduated in July and have been assigned to chapels in various parts of the field.

MEDICAL.—The hospital was in full operation for five months under the care of Dr. Dobson, since which time the medical work has been in charge of Mr. Marshall. Dr. Dobson's departure on furlough necessitated the closing of the wards at the end of the Chinese year. The clinics were carried on by a native assistant until his resignation, June 1.

Dr. Isabella Mack has acted as resident physician for six months. As her first object has been the study of the language, her medical work has been limited, but she has treated many patients, chiefly in Christian families, averaging about ten a day during the summer months.

The Gospel was faithfully preached to in-patients and out-patients, and none have gone away without an opportunity of hearing the truth. Several inquirers have been enrolled among the hospital patients.

The statistics show a total of 108 in-patients in five months, and 2,256 out-patients during the time the clinics were open.

MISSION IN GUATEMALA.

GUATEMALA CITY: 60 miles from the seaport of San Jose; occupied 1882. Missionaries—Rev. and Mrs. William B. Allison, Dr. Mary E. Gregg. Out-station: San Augustin.

QUEZALTENANGO: 125 miles northwest from Guatemala City; occupied 1898. Missionaries—Rev. Walker E. McBath and Mrs. McBath.

Dr. Mary E. Gregg was added to the Mission during the year, in view of the large opportunities which it was believed a medical missionary woman would find in Guatemala City. Mr. and Mrs. Allison have been able to locate themselves nearer the church.

The work has called for close supervision in both Stations, and the missionaries have been hampered by the inadequacy of the support which it has been possible for the Board to give the work. Mr. Allison reports:

We should be enabled to put several additional native workers in the field. A great work can be done by capable men going from village to village, and from city to city, as evangelists, distributing literature and holding meetings as they have opportunity. There are many communities asking for such services. We would soon have many regular preaching points if we were able to push this part of our work. Apparently nothing has been done through native Bible women. This work offers a great deal in Guatemala City, especially. We should have at least two Bible women at work for us. We have one woman at present who should be in our employ. They can go from home to home and teach and enlighten the people, and constantly look after the Sunday-school children. The women of this land are most ignorant of spiritual things, and most under the power of superstition and darkness. We should not have to delay another year before starting this important branch of our work.

We have done a great deal of the work of cleaning the church, etc., ourselves, and have depended on native believers, but the church has not been properly taken care of. The street must be constantly swept. We have had great difficulty in being able to meet the requirements of the law, owing to lack of funds for this. We are sure that the keeping of the church within and without in excellent order will have a most wholesome and helpful influence. Such a man as is needed for this work could be a great help to us also on our itinerating trips.

We have done a good deal of itinerating, but only a small amount as compared with what we should be doing. Heretofore we have not had sufficient command of language and enough money to enable us to branch out as we would have liked to do. This branch of our work should be pushed as never before. It is certainly real missionary work to go from village to village, and city to city, preaching the Gospel and establishing churches. There is a great opportunity for such work.

We hope that adequate financial provision can be made for this. Personally, I have borne a large part of my own itinerating expenses, but I do not feel that I can continue to do that.

We have had fifty boys in this school under a good master and the work has been very encouraging. Mrs. Allison has conducted a class in singing the Gospel songs among the boys and the master has faithfully instructed. We should have an additional teacher and more equipment, for we have been running the school in a building very much out of repair and in an unsanitary condition and with almost no suitable appliances. Were the building in suitable repair, the number of scholars could be greatly increased and better work be done.

Dr. Gregg is here and at work, both learning the language and healing the sick. As yet she has not been able to secure official permission to practice, but this is under way and we hope it will be granted in a short time. She has already had as many calls as she could attend to among our believers and others interested in our work. We know that there is a great opportunity for her, because of the great need that we face among our own believers and others. We feel that she should soon have a home of her own, where she can conduct hospital work on a small scale, and while caring for the sick be training nurses, and especially reaching and helping the girls and young women, both physically, morally and spiritually. The immoral condition of hosts of girls and young women here is simply appalling and indescribable.

Mr. McBath writes from Quezaltenango:

Our report this year will not show any advance in numbers over previous reports, but, on the contrary, a decrease. At this date last year we had a membership of twenty-five, but two have moved from the city, and four have been indefinitely suspended, and it is probable that four more may have to be similarly dealt with in the near future; while on the other hand, only one new member has been received. If we were dependent upon the congratulations of friends for our encouragement, we would be discouraged, indeed. However, we have this encouragement, that our Father knows that we have tried to do the best we could, and have worked even beyond our strength against a multitude of obstacles.

What has to us seemed the greatest hindrance in a physical way is that we have not been able to have the chapel located near our house. The house in which we live is the property of the Mission, but since the location is not good for meetings, it has not been used for a chapel for seven or eight years, and when I came to Quezaltenango it was rented out for a central telephone station. Since the earthquake of 1902 there are few good houses that can be rented, and the only thing to do was to fix up a part of this house as a residence and live there, while renting a room in a better location for the meetings. Having to go nearly a mile almost every night, and leave a practically unguarded house, is quite a different thing here from what it is at home, because the walking is not easy at this altitude, nearly 8,000 feet, especially with two steep hills to climb; and our house is only half finished, the front part on the street being only a temporary structure that has already stood for ten years, but is anything but burglar proof, and our yard is fenced on three sides with a wire fence and open on the other side; whereas, almost every other house in the town is surrounded by high stone or adobe walls.

Another great obstacle is the water problem. We are without a water supply, except a small cistern we built last spring, which holds water for about half the dry season. There are public fountains scattered through the town, but these are frequently dry, and our being Protestants makes it almost impossible to secure service at any price. Many a time before we got our cistern built I have had to take a pitcher and go to a hydrant, seven squares distant, to get the water to wash our hands and faces with in the morning; and after breakfast go after more. More often I would make several trips after night, as the work of carrying water is beneath even the ordinary servant class of people.

These hindrances, as I said, are physical. The great obstacle is the same as in all lands, and that is the Devil. Incarnate in many different types, according to the characteristics of the races, he here works among the few who are trying to serve God by presenting the attractions of their favorite sins of adultery and fornication. To us who have been trained to look with abhorrence upon such sins, it is difficult to understand why they fall into them so easily; but the fact is they inherit it, and there is no public sentiment against it. With the greater part of the people whom we would seek to reach the trouble is indifference.

With much of the dark side always visible, we have nevertheless been privileged to see the hand of God put forth on our behalf during the last year in many times of distress, and He has comforted us and given us a constant hope that our labor here will not be in vain.

INDIA

MISSIONS IN INDIA.

During the past year there have been further evidences of the great changes taking place in India. There is increasing restlessness, agitation, fermentation everywhere, and this we take to be a hopeful sign. The people seem to be awaking to new activities and aspirations. A marvelous revolution is being wrought out, and the emancipation of thought and life has become inevitable. This is the natural outcome of English education and especially of the widespread influence of Christian schools and colleges. Besides the earnest longing for improvement in material, political and social matters, we believe that these yearnings and strivings are in the minds of many after a deeper and purer, a more vital and real religious life and experience, such as they see in Christians. We believe that among the people of the land, whose genius and instincts are peculiarly religious, there is stirring deep heart-hunger for spiritual revival. Now is the critical time for the Christian Church to press forward, and to present more persistently and powerfully than ever the light, life and liberty which will surely come from acceptance of the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

Dr. F. J. Newton writes:

There has been a sad growth of racial hostility in our day. This is more evident now than at any period since we came to India, which was in 1870. It is in part, no doubt, what might be expected as a consequence of the spread of education, yet this only in view of what human nature is; education does not of course create race hatred or any other kind of hatred. But other elements in that nature being what they are, apart from conditions in this country, this racial feeling is, I say, about what might have been foreseen. Not that it was foreseen, nor thought of. I do not suppose it was, but we can see it now. All we can say is, the pity of it. If the amenities of life were only more observed, that at least would go far towards softening the anger and turning away the wrath. Many instances one might recall where these have not been observed: Every slight and insult offered helps to widen the breach.

Our experience with the people of our province is that they are most amenable to kindness. Meet them half way, treat them with that same civility we demand of one another, and there are none in the wide world more ready than they to appreciate it.

That is not the whole story, of course. That there should be an upheaval of oldtime thought and expressions of discontent in private and public and in newspaper utterances; that there should be complaints and criticisms and protests against some of the doings of the Hukkam, the rulers, and comparisons drawn between the present and an imaginary golden age of long ago—all this is not surprising. The schools have been training the people to think, and new ambitions, ambitions their fathers did not dream of, have been kindled. It has indeed been the aim of Government to train them to independence of thought and self-reliance. They have sought to give the citizens lessons in self-government in the system of elective municipal control, introduced some years ago, while many occupy positions of high trust and responsibility. Never, in short, did the people, irrespective of class or caste, under the Rajas and Emperors of old, share as largely as they do even now in the Government of their own country.

It is true there are, in the criticisms referred to, some extravagances. The perspective is not yet rightly adjusted; mistakes are made, and there are, as it seems to us, some unreasonable demands made. But mistakes are not always confined to one side.

We have long complained of the apathy of the people. We need not grieve at this revival of thought and activity, even though the expression given to it is, in some instances, wrong. Undoubtedly it is sometimes based on ignorance. Take, for instance, the charge now so often heard, namely, that the country is being impoverished, because England is draining its wealth. This notion is based largely on the fact that provisions are dearer than once they were, and wages higher. See the quantity of wheat too, they say, that is being exported, so that not only has it become dearer, but in qahtsali—that is, in seasons of famine or scarcity—there is not wheat enough in the country to feed the poor.

There is another fact triumphantly pointed to by the learned, and that is that the exports of India exceed the imports, which proves again that wealth is going out of the country.

The answer to all this is obvious enough, and may be appreciated by any one capable of thinking and open to conviction. The trouble is, the masses do not think, and some who do, I fear, are not open to conviction. That which is adverse to the Sarkar (Government) or to the English is only too readily believed and repeated, often with exaggeration.

Apart from the fact that signs of growing prosperity on every hand, in town and village, are apparent enough, whatever popular sentiments may be toward us as a race, our personal relations with our people are the most friendly in the world. While it is a common notion that it is unpatriotic to become a Christian, Christianity being the professed religion of the West, a hearing is readily enough accorded to its missionaries. Exchange of views, at least among Hindus, is, as a rule, welcome. They have not that same shyness characteristic of ourselves in regard to talking about religion.

Suppose you are in an argument with a Hindu on this subject, however, you stand at this disadvantage, that your antagonist has no definite foundation of belief, or what we call usul, i.e., essentials. You want to know at least what your opponent does believe, if he believes anything. His creed assumes so many shapes, according to the exigencies of the moment, that it is hard to pin him down to anything.

Ask what the Hindu creed is, it is everything or whatever suits at the time, or a great variety. It is not a definite creed, but a matter of caste observance. There is one thing though after all that nearly all agree in, that is the chaurasi, the eighty-four, and that means the 84 lacs, or 8,400,000 transmigrations of the soul.

The changes which are coming and coming rapidly, however, are coming by normal development and not by revolution. The Rev. E. P. Newton speaks of this, as well as of the certain ultimate triumph of Christianity, in discussing the religious conditions in the Khanna District, especially the spiritual destitution of the multitudes.

There are living beyond the reach of these out-stations and beyond the limits of our ordinary itineration tens of thousands to whom no Gospel message is ever brought. They grow up from childhood to old age in ignorance of the way of life. Those of them who are Hindus, if they have any thought for the future, hope only that after death they may be reborn into this world in circumstances a little better than those they now enjoy or suffer. For the Hindus are believers in transmigration, and that means that the soul is destined, under ordinary conditions, to undergo 8,400,000 reincarnations, and then to be absorbed into the divine essence and lose its individuality, as a drop of water does when it falls into the ocean. Of salvation in the Christian sense they have no conception, or if directly or indirectly it has been brought to their notice it has awakened no response in their minds. If they are Mohammedans they have indeed a vague hope that if it is God's will they shall at last reach Paradise, but of this they have no well-grounded assurance. All depends upon what their appointed fate may be, and they say, Allah jane, "God knows." A few of them repeat five times a day, without understanding what they are saying, their Arabic form of prayer, go through the prescribed genuflexions, and abstain from food, drink and tobacco from sunrise to sunset during the month of Ramzan, in the hope that these acts of piety may influence the Almighty to deal mercifully with them. The majority, however, are ignorant of the namaz (prayer liturgy), or are too indolent or too busy to recite it at the appointed hours, and so are content to take this chance, relying simply on the repetition of the creed, La ilaha ill Allah, wa Muhammad rasul Allah, "God is one God, and Mohammed is the apostle of God."

One would think that Mohammedans and Hindus alike would welcome eagerly a Gospel of salvation from sin, and of eternal life and blessedness; but it is not so. With comparatively few exceptions they do not want to be saved from sin. The fact that they are sinners does not give them any serious concern, and for the rest they are satisfied to walk in the steps of their fathers and share their lot, whatever that may be. Is this a reason why we should let them alone and suffer them to go their own way? Shall we not rather regard it as a reason for making more strenuous efforts to arouse them? That the people of this country will awake, that they are awaking, no one can doubt who is watching the signs of the times. In this connection the following paragraph, written by an educated Hindu gentleman, and published last June in the Pioneer, one of the leading secular newspapers of India, is instructive. He says: "The Bengalees have raised a general cry to obtain something by means of what they call the Swadeshi movement, and it is not to be denied that all educated India is echoing behind them; but if we truly try to get an inner sight of the state of things in existence with them, we must silently ask ourselves, 'What are these men crying for?' My answer is that they are crying for Christianity. My countrymen will probably laugh at this rather premature idea, but no amount of laughing can alter the rapid progress of the world, and truth cannot be concealed any longer. Young India is growing more and more Christian and progressing rapidly toward complete Christianity, although imperceptibly and unknowingly. But, speaking frankly, there are yet many Christian elements wanting in them, and their obtaining Christian rights and privileges depends upon the completeness of those elements in Indian life. Let our countrymen remember that the teachings of Jesus Christ, who was an Asiatic himself, not only prescribed attending churches, preaching gospels and reading prayers, but courage, self-help, civilization, power and similar virtues which Christians have acquired by no other source than by their faith. The educated Hindu has already abandoned all orthodox and prejudicial ideas. It is only the want of moral courage to cut off the deep-rooted social customs of many centuries that has still kept him under the shadow of Hinduism. Christianity may be false and Hinduism may be true, but India is rapidly moving on to the path of Christianity, and no human power can resist fate."

The above testimony is by a Hindu, and the paper from which I have quoted it is one by no means prejudiced in favor of the missionary propaganda, rather the reverse. The writer doubtless is one of those who, as he says, have hitherto lacked moral courage 'to cut off the deep-rooted social customs of many centuries,' but this state of things cannot last indefinitely, and the movement toward Christianity of which he speaks must inevitably acquire momentum as it increases in volume.

There are two important lessons to be derived from these facts. The first is, that as India is undoubtedly awaking the Church has every reason to take courage and spare itself no sacrifice that is necessary to hasten the process and reap the full fruits of opportunity, so to influence it that the movement shall be in the right direction. The second is that missionaries and the Church at home should guard against impatience, which can only lead to disappointment, and that in its turn to a relaxation of effort.

The Swadeshi movement referred to by Mr. Newton is a movement to boycott foreign goods, and to promote the use of home-made articles. It has, however, more a political than a commercial significance, having originated in a strong feeling of resentment at the action of Government in what is known as the partition of Bengal, i.e., its division into two distinct provinces, each with its separate civil administration.

In the midst of all the changes that are taking place, the one most certain and powerful factor is the influence of the missionary. Dr. Charles Cuthbert Hall referred to this in the letter which he addressed to the missionaries on leaving India:

Among the privileges of my Indian visit, I esteem highly the opportunity to renew my contact with the various forms of missionary work. I have received a fresh impression of the debt of gratitude that India owes to Christian missionaries. Possibly I appreciate this even more justly than the local missionary is able to do, because in the discharge of my duty as Barrows Lecturer I have visited many parts of India, from Bengal to Cochin, from Punjab to Madras, and have obtained a comprehensive view of institutions and influences that have sprung from present and past efforts of missionaries. The direct effects of these efforts are obvious; but I believe that the indirect effects are even more extensive than some have dared to hope and that the beneficence of these efforts is admitted by multitudes of cultured Indians whose estimate of the value of missionary work is not unmingled with criticism.

LAHORE STATION.

Forman Christian College.—The enrollment of the year has been the largest in the history of the college, 394, of whom 198 are Hindus; 130 Mohammedans; 33 Christians, and 33 Sikhs.

The receipts from tuition fees have been rupees 25,327. Dr. Ewing says:

We believe that the influence being exerted by the college is very great. It constitutes a centre of Christian activity, not only by its own distinctive work in the form of Scripture teaching, but also by furnishing a vantage ground for Christian workers who find within our halls or connected with the institution a splendid opportunity for reaching a multitude.

Evidences of genuine interest in the study of religious subjects have been many. In order that the great opportunity be adequately utilized I feel that it is essential that the number of Christian teachers be at least maintained, if not increased. These are days of intense activity in matters educational. The Arya Somaj, the Government and the Mohammedans are strengthening their colleges and planning for great things. The slightest relaxation of effort on our part would inevitably result in a loss of popularity, and that would at once be followed by a corresponding diminution of moral and spiritual influence.

Dr. Griswold writes:

As heretofore I have taught the Christian students' Bible class in college. The most encouraging thing to report concerning this class of students is that the Evangelistic Committee formed by them one year ago for the purpose of preaching to non-Christians has maintained a fair degree of activity during the whole year. A volunteer band of students has gone to the Forman Chapel on Friday evening of each week, as a rule, and has borne faithful testimony there.

The Rang Mahal School.—Mr. Clark has had charge of the school and reports:

While the total enrollment of the school on September 30, 1906, was ten less than last year, being 645 in the main school and 336 in the four branches, the number is still so great in the main school as to tax the capacity of the present building. This school is not losing in popularity, though competition in this large city is keen, and while there have been trials and discouragements during the year, yet considering the critical nature of this period we have no occasion for discouragement.

Girls' Schools.—There has been an average of fifty on the roll of the Mohammedan Girls' School, and 175 on the roll of the Mission School for Hindu Girls.

Evangelistic Work.—The customary chapel and zenana work have been carried on in Lahore, and the Rev. G. L. Thakur Dass, in addition to work in nine Muhallas or sections of the city, has looked after work in the district, especially in the four villages where there are Christians. There have been 136 accessions to the Church by baptism, 100 adults; three boys' schools with an average attendance of thirty five have been kept up during the year among the low-caste people.

Delhi Gate Dispensary.—The work has been carried on under an Indian doctor during Dr. Marston's absence.

The whole number of attendances during the year has been 10,565, of whom 4,671 have been new patients. The daily average has been forty-two.

Christian Girls' High School.—This school has suffered through the death of Miss Keay, long its Principal. There are at present 187 names on the roll, and of these seventy-four are boarders. Of the 187 it is interesting to note that nine are Mohammedans, thirteen are Parsees, and nine are Hindus.

Wagah Out-station.—Miss Thiede has continued her work at Wagah; the work has had its light and shade. Miss Thiede writes:

The children of the Sunday-school I need not now to collect myself. All come of their own accord. We have fifty girls and eighty-two boys on the roll. They give nice answers and learn the Bible verses and Commandments. We have two services on Sundays beside the Sunday-school, and every weekday morning and evening prayer meetings. In the dispensary we had 5,350 patients, some from far-off villages. All hear the Gospel; some buy books.

One fakir came as an inquirer. He was able to read Gurmukhi and had a Gurmukhi New Testament. We called him Patras and he was with us for about two months. I do not like to see anybody without work and did not know what work to give him, besides I had a feeling that he was not sincere; the answers to letters which I wrote were much delayed. One day he told me that he had been in a Mission hospital, and had learned a little compounding. I was going to send him to the hospital he professed to have come from; but the evening before he was to go he pleaded not being well, refused dinner and begged me to give him some medicine. Next morning we found his bed untouched, my watch gone, Benji's box broken open, three suits of Benji's clothes a pair of boots and six rupees stolen. Patras had left his fakir clothes and Testament and was gone.

I gave his Testament to Baboo Attoo who, though badly paralyzed, preaches the gospel faithfully. The fakir's scarf I made into two little skirts for poor Christian girls.

JULLUNDUR STATION.

In the city, preaching in the open is carried on daily, Sundays excepted. Religious instruction is given systematically in the Boys' High School and two branches, in five girls' schools and in thirty-seven private houses or zenanas.

The number thus taught are as follows:

| | Pupils. | |
|----------------------------------------------------------|---------|-----|
| Main Boys' School | 274 | |
| City Branch School | 70 | |
| Basti Branch School | 114 | |
| | — | 458 |
| The five girls' schools | 210 | |
| Women in the thirty-seven zenanas | 44 | |
| | — | 254 |
| Girls in the schools at Kapurthala out-station | | 30 |
| | | — |
| | | 742 |

Bazaar Preaching.—

The "bazaar preaching" has been carried on chiefly outside the city, and therefore not in the bazaars.

The streets of the city are so cramped and narrow that it is very difficult to find room for preaching in any of the thoroughfares. Hence we have selected a place and regularly occupied a position on the broad grand trunk road just outside the city and opposite the entrance to the courts. In this place we have several advantages. First, there is plenty of room for a crowd; and second, there is almost unfailingly a crowd greater or less for the room. Thirdly, there is the grateful shade of a peepal tree, an important item in the scorching heat; and finally, and we think most important of all, in this situation we preach to the whole Jullundur district. The people of the Punjab and probably of India generally are passionately addicted to litigation, and the courts here draw the village people as a garden of flowers draws bees. There is probably hardly a single village among the thousands in the district that is not represented at one time or another among our daily audiences, and in this way in one year the gospel is preached to more villages than we could reach in twenty years of itineration. Many of these people, who have come as principals or witnesses in court cases, lodge in a serai opening directly on our preaching place, and as the courts do not open until 10 A.M., they have abundant leisure for attendance on the preaching, which takes place in the morning hours from about 7 to 10.

But it is not only the preaching on a subject and in regard to a divine person and saviour they have many of them never heard of before, but it is the books they buy and take home with them which serves to disseminate the truth.

Girls' Schools.—The past year has been an eventful one for our girls' schools in Jullundur. The heathen have not raged against them as they so often did formerly, nor have we been obliged to close them again on account of plague. The total number enrolled in them has been 210.

Louisa Stephens spends two hours a day with the widows. It is pleasant to see her with these women clustered about her and all trying to learn. Some are bright. The good teacher just spoken of was in the widows' school once. She learned there all she knows.

Some are very stupid, and after years of effort have learned to read but little and write less.

Arithmetic is quite beyond them; but these very stupidest of all are the women who can repeat correctly the most Scripture, and who seem to understand the Bible lessons the best. We have often been surprised in Sunday-school at the intelligent answers of one of these women, a poor half blind creature, who used to say to us, "Oh! you can't teach me anything; I'm a stone."

Boys' High School.—The total enrollment in the two main schools and four branch schools was 456.

The Story of Rullia has some features of unusual interest. He was a Mohammedan (a weaver by trade) living in the midst of a community of bigoted Mohammedans. One feature of special interest is the persistence of his faith through storms of persecution from neighbors who were determined at first to recover their lost sheep by violence, and when this failed to drive him away.

Some of these neighbors are butchers, and they threatened to cut him to pieces with the implements of their trade. Others threatened to burn his house at night. This kept him awake many nights, for he makes fire-works as well as cloth, and had a store of fire-works and powder inside, and the threat of fire, which he thought it very likely would be carried out, had a very alarming significance for his family. Under the pressure he did actually recant by repeating the kalma, or Mohammedan creed, when he was seized and dragged to the mosque near by the day after his baptism. On learning this the day following, one of the missionaries went to that mosque and being refused admittance to the sacred precincts, had an audience of two mullahs and two maulvis outside the entrance. Of course the whole population of the mahalla, more or less, gathered around.

On being questioned as to Rullia's recantation and the violence which had extorted it, the chief maulvi, being constituted spokesman for the rest, after cordially admitting, as the missionary quoted it, that the quran denounces a curse on all liars ("Lanat ullah ul Qazibin"), proceeded to assert solemnly that there had been no threats, no violence, no compulsion, not even persuasion, and that Rullia had returned to the fold of the true religion entirely of his own accord! The venerable maulvi was so sure of their hold on Rullia's fears that he offered to have him called to corroborate the assertion. Assent being given he was sent for, and the missionary, asking him to be seated within the circle formed by the crowd, put the question to him quietly, "Rullia, why did you repeat the kalma?" He replied, "Sahib, diqqat ke sabab se." ("Sir, on account of the trouble.")

Missionary: "And is your faith in Christ still firm in your heart?"

Rullia: "Yes, Sahib; it is."

It soon came to be understood throughout the city that Rullia was a Christian, and efforts were made to drive him away.

Attempts were made to induce his wife to desert him with the children, accompanied by liberal offers of support. But she firmly rejected all blandishments. They tried to get some Hindu cloth merchants who had been employing him to weave for them to withdraw their patronage, and with partial success, but one merchant promised to give him all the work he could do, and this scheme was checkmated. His water supply was cut off. The bihishtis (water carriers) refused to carry water to his house, and the weather had become scorchingly hot by this time.

He and his sons came to our Mission well and carried the precious liquid about three-quarters of a mile. This difficulty was finally overcome by the permission obtained by us from the Civil Surgeon, Major H. Smith, for Rullia to draw water from the hospital well, about a quarter of a mile distant. There was another means of persecution available, and no time was lost in resorting to it.

Rullia's house is a very small one, a mere hut, and the whole family are obliged in the hot weather to sleep in a small walled enclosure out of doors, in front of their house. Now when the hot season was fairly on, nightly showers of brick-bats made it impossible for them to sleep in this enclosure. The family were in constant danger outside, and Rullia's wife was struck just above the eye by a brick. They huddled in the little house and Rullia fanned the little one till midnight, when the fusillade generally ceased. Then they went out and got some sleep.

This thing began to be monotonous, and we reported the matter to the English District Superintendent of Police, Mr. Broadway.

He tried by admonitions to stop the brick throwing, but without any permanent effect. Finally he had four of the chief offenders put into court, Rullia having found out who they were.

No sooner were they summoned than they adopted tactics very common in this country. They brought a counter case against Rullia, accusing him of attempting to murder one of his neighbors with an axe!

A Hindu judge tried both cases and they were both decided in favor of Rullia. This was due in large measure, we think, to the kind offices of Mr. Edwin Mitter, a Christian barrister, who conducted Rullia's case for him gratuitously.

His cross-examination of the opposition's witnesses soon involved them in a tissue of mutual contradictions and revealed their falseness.

Two of the leading brick-bat assailants were bound over at a penalty of Rs. 100 each, and this inspired the community with such a wholesome awe that there has been no more of that kind of persecution since.

One kind still continues. The vilest epithets are hurled at the members of the devoted family whenever they appear in the streets. But this they endure patiently. The great thing accomplished is this. There is a Christian family living in their own house, independent of the Mission, in the midst of a heathen community, the banner of the cross firmly planted in the citadel of the arch-enemy.

There have been forty-one baptisms during the year, five of them adults.

DEHRA STATION.

Mr. Kelso on his return from furlough was stationed in Dehra. The average number on the rolls of the Boys' High School have been 230. There are three girls' schools, one for Mohammedans and two for Hindus.

Girls' High School.—The average number of pupils remains nearly the same, nor can it be allowed to increase beyond the limit of 150 unless additional accommodations are provided. An encouraging feature is the yearly increase of pupils for whom full boarding fees are paid by parents. The number so supported ten years ago can now be multiplied by eight, and in several cases former pupils, who were themselves wards for the school, are now paying full fees for their daughters. These facts show the increasing prosperity of Indian Christians and point to the possibility of a self-supporting school in one or two more decades.

Medical Work.—Dr. Vrooman reports:

Of in-patients at least a dozen have been cared for at Harvest View (the cottage) and at the dispensary; over 250 visits have been paid to patients in their homes and there have been above 3,500 attendances in the school and out-patient dispensaries—old and new patients included. The attempt to maintain the principle of fees or contributions perhaps limits the number of those who come, but this seems providential when the amount of work in hand, missionary and medical, makes heavy demands upon our time and strength. The cases have been much the same in kind, the general run of medical and surgical diseases and gynecological disorders, with the exception of two cases of smallpox.

This year again opportunity has been given for entrance to Tehri Garhwal State, the reason being professional work, but by the kindness of H. H. Maharaja Kirti Shah the Gospel also has been received in the palace and by the villagers.

SABATHU STATION.

Dr. Carleton reports:

The membership of the Sunday-schools amounted to 194, and this represents several schools which have been conducted throughout the year in five or six places in the district.

Our Sunday-schools are composed of all the members of our Church congregation, and young and old are expected to attend. Several members sat for the All-India Sunday-school examination, consisting of questions on the first six months' lessons, and all passed. One member received the silver medal for passing the best examination in the Senior Division in the Urdu language for the whole of India.

The evangelistic work was conducted on much the same lines as last year—house-to-house visitation, personal talks, itinerations and magic-lantern lectures. There were baptisms of 16 adults and 14 children.

Education.—The educational work consists of four schools, one for boys, of whom about thirty attend; a school for women, another for men and a fourth for a few small children.

In the medical work the number of out-door patients was over 3,000, with visits over 6,000. In-door patients 227, and operations 183.

The number of inmates of the asylum during the year was 107, five of whom are Europeans or Eurasians, three young women, a man and a boy, none of them related. Of the number forty-eight are Christians. The usual morning prayers were conducted during the entire year and attended by as many of the lepers as were able to walk. On Sundays more attended, as then some were carried to the chapel. Another year a good number of the lepers came forward for the All-India Sunday-school examination, which consisted of questions on the first six months' lessons, and all passed, several receiving perfect marks.

Year by year there is a greater interest taken by the people in the education of the women, and the zenana teacher has easy access to the houses of the people about her.

This district needs a large increase of workers. Solon is one of the most important places, and is without a preacher or teacher. Several more very important places should be occupied with preachers and other workers. A few places have been visited, but most of the district has never heard the Gospel message. Within a radius of twenty-five miles there are very nearly 200,000 people, and nine-tenths of them have never heard the way of salvation.

LODIANA STATION.

Small-pox raged in the city during December and January, but the ordinary work was continued uninterruptedly.

There has been an increase in attendance in the Christian Boys' High School and the capacity of the boarding-house has been almost reached. It has been a hard year in the Mission High School, the educational policy of the Punjab Government having caused demands for increased equipments which the school has been unable to meet.

There are three little schools for girls in Lodiana.

In the Mohammedan school we have two Christian teachers and one Mohammedan woman with about twenty-eight pupils. Our great regret in both of these schools is that the early marriages of this country take the girls away before we have time to teach them all that they ought to know. But we know that in many cases the little they get stays with them through life and many times helps to decide questions of right and wrong. If we had the money to do it we could open schools for girls all over the city, and have them full of little girls who would not be allowed to go to a school out of their own neighborhood. There is no form of work for women in which I believe more than this work before they become women. The girls have open minds for these things of the Spirit. The minds of the women are usually filled with other things.

Medical Work.—Dr. Noble has continued her service in connection with the North India Medical School. She writes:

It is very pleasant to be able to report that the past year at Memorial Hospital and the Medical School has been a record-breaking year in a great many respects. At Memorial the number of patients of both the in- and out-departments showed a big increase over any previous year.

Last year we had 605 in-patients.

This year we had 818.

Last year we had 25,582 out-patients' visits.

This year we had 43,626 out-patients' visits

The number of new patients 13,197 against 8,345 last year.

The buildings for which Government gave us a grant long ago are at last up, and we hope to be able to move into them for work this coming month. It will give us an opportunity to cope with the number who besiege us and to work under far more satisfactory conditions in every respect. The X-ray apparatus is up and in working order. Dr. Condict has charge of it and has a number of cases under treatment.

The Medical School may count this a memorable year also. Our students number thirty-two, including hospital assistants, compounders and nurses. We have eleven dais in training. We continue to draw young women from all parts of India, one this year coming from far-away Calcut.

Jagraon Out-station.—Miss Wherry, Miss Morris, Miss Jenks and Miss Helm have continued their work over Jagraon. They report:

The Mohammedans manifested great interest this year, more so than any other class of people. One Mohammedan village, which drove out the ladies several years ago, received us very kindly and listened quite attentively to the reading of the Gospel. We were rather amused one day in one of the villages to hear a very familiar objection from an old Hindu, which one so often hears in America from the lips of those who do not believe in Foreign Missions: First convert your own people before you go to the heathen. He had evidently suffered some injury, or thought that he had, at the hands of the English, and insisted that we should go and preach to the King, and when we had converted him from the error of his ways, then we might come and preach to the people of this country. He insisted that sin had increased greatly in this country since the English came, and was full of the glories of the old days before the Mohammedan invasion.

At New Year's we had a very interesting jalsa for the district Christians, lasting three days; there were thirteen Americans present, and a good many Hindustanis. Very interesting and helpful meetings were held, both at the church in the city and in our compound. New Year's Day we all formed a procession and marched through the main streets of the city to the church, carrying banners and singing songs; which evidently made a great impression on the people of the city. The Aryas had announced a jalsa a few days previous to ours, but on hearing of the Christian jalsa they changed their date so as to coincide with ours, in the hope that they might create a disturbance and break up our jalsa. but God overruled the evil devices of man. On the first day of their meeting they fell into a quarrel and made such a disturbance that the police forbade their appearing on the streets in a body. Sunday night Padri Ahmed Shah and other workers held a long discussion with them, and after the meeting of New Year's morning a crowd of them gathered in the church and Mr. Hyde talked with them several hours, and as a result many of them came daily and read the Bible with Padri Ahmed Shah for months afterward.

The meetings were supposed to close on Tuesday morning, but at that closing meeting some of the villagers brought their children forward for baptism, when the worker in charge accused them of various sins, gambling, drinking, etc., and denied their fitness; whereupon they denied the charges, which all knew to be true, and the meeting resolved itself into a prayer-meeting, which lasted for seven hours without any interruption. Some of those village men remained for hours with their faces on the ground. The Holy Spirit seemed to hold every one there. A Mohammedan durzi working in our veranda was wonderfully impressed with the scene, and remarked that if Christians would only pray like that always they could get anything for which they asked, even if they asked for rain. In the evening meeting these men broke down, confessed their sins and asked for forgiveness from God, and help to overcome. Nine adults, one girl of twelve, and five children were baptized at this time, most of them being Brahman converts who had been brought in by Maghi, the Brahman faqir.

The school in Morinda for workers' wives and children and village Christians was held as usual at the end of the itineration season, lasting seven weeks. The school was smaller than usual, twenty-two being the highest number of pupils enrolled.

RUPAR STATION.

Mr. Uppal has charge of the thirteen out-stations in the Rupar field. He writes:

All the centres have their villages varying in number from fifteen to four, where we have Christians sorely needing Christian help in teaching and preaching and visitation and counsel and guidance in spiritual and worldly matters, and we are sorry to confess that little has been done to our expectation and satisfaction.

Of all the centres, six have churches, one regular at Morinda and five imperfectly organized churches at Sill, Manela, Chamkaur, Mianpur, and Ghannauli. Sunday services have been conducted in all our centres.

The number of baptisms during the year was fifty-five, which, being added to the already baptized adherents during the past fifteen years, makes the community of Christians in all the centres and their villages more than 1,000.

KHANNA STATION.

The church which has its centre here numbers at the present time forty-eight communicants, ten having been added since January. There were also eight children baptized. The entire Christian community numbers 133.

Eighteen pupils attended the little boarding school for village Christian children in which an industrial element was introduced, the boys weaving 732 yards of cloth. Mr. Newton writes, in addition to what has been already quoted from him in the introduction to the India report:

The villages situated to the north, east and west of Khanna have frequently been visited by the brethren located at the out-stations. They have tried to instruct the scattered Christian families and have read to them the Scriptures and prayed with them as they had opportunity. Of the villages to the south a few only have been reached. At Bassi a Sunday-school has been conducted at the house of the licentiate, which has been attended more or less irregularly by the boys in the town. At Samrala, where there is a Government school, many of the pupils have, in the evenings, visited the Mission House and been instructed, though no attempt has yet been made to organize a regular Sunday-school. The acquaintance of Government officials and other leading men has also been cultivated by Rev. Jati Ram, and books such as the "Imitation of Christ," the "Pilgrim's Progress," "With Christ in the School of Prayer," and others have been lent them to read, with encouraging results. At this Station after having for a long time tried in vain to hire a house, and having finally secured, at an exorbitant rate, part of a very unsanitary mud hut, we are happy to say that this year we have been enabled to build on one of the best sites in the town a well-planned house capable of accommodating the two families stationed here.

PHILLOUR STATION.

Mr. Golaknath is in charge and writes that the four lads converted in Phagwara went through a sore trial during the year, their parents antagonizing their Christian profession, the boys standing firm.

Of the bazaar preaching Mr. Golaknath writes:

This has been kept up as usual and personal visits have been paid to people in the town. We joined a debating club in the town, and many interesting and friendly discussions we had on the subjects of transmi-gration and salvation. These discussions were most profitable to us, inasmuch as we came to know our opponents' views on matters of vital importance.

FEROZEPORE STATION.

A good part of the work of the Ferozepore Station is among the Jats. Dr. Newton writes:

These Jats are zamindars, or farmers. Jat is the tribal name, and the learned say the Jats are the same as the ancient Geti, who again were Skuthoi, or Scythians. Centuries ago they invaded and settled in this country. The Jats of the present time are, the bulk of them, Sikhs, or followers of Guru Nanak, who lived about four centuries ago. There was a succession of ten Gurus, the last of whom was Guru Gobind Singh, in the eighteenth century. He it was that, under pressure of persecution from the Mogul Emperor Aurangzeb, organized the Sikhs into a distinct sect, and their distinguishing mark is long hair worn like a woman's, tied up in a bunch on the top of the head. It is a sin to touch hair or beard with scissors or razor. There are also Jat Mussulmans.

The Mohammedan Jat is, as a rule, listless and self-satisfied, convinced he is the favorite of Allah and heir of Paradise, while he regards all outside his creed as munafiqs and kafirs, doomed to perdition. The Christian preacher that ventures into his village is apt to be treated and received with coolness, if indeed not reviled as a kafir and an enemy of mankind. His Sikh confrere is all politeness and hospitality. He offers you a seat and asks you to sunao, i.e., tell him something, something about your religion, anything you like. His own means of information are limited. His world is his village, or the nearest kachehri or court, where he goes with his litigations, and where he lounges about in the company of other Jats from the surrounding district, there on the same business as himself. His subjects of conversation are crops, family affairs and muqadmas, or lawsuits.

He listens and assents good-naturedly to all one says, and repeats sat-bachan,—that's true, every word is true. One says to his neighbor, "Oh, the patri sahib is a good man; he tells us not to lie and steal and swear and quarrel." I press it on them as a personal matter and urge repentance. They will assent to this readily enough, but remind one that five fingers are not equal; they are not all sinners, though they are quite ready to repent of their neighbors' sins, if not of their own. Personally they are in no need of it. Then they lie and steal and quarrel as before.

Good-natured as these Sikh Jats are, one cannot help liking them, but they take nothing seriously. They have no definite creed, there is no base to them, there is no fulcrum for your lever. They believe everything or nothing both at the same time. The worst of it all is that they are not truthful.

The Sikh Jat, however, is apparently not bigoted, even as might be supposed, not having a definite creed to defend. But if it should chance that one of their number, more seriously inclined than the rest, should show a serious interest in Christianity, why then a tempest of wrath and indignation is aroused. No swerving from the established order of religious custom is tolerated. Such a man is thrust forth from the community.

I turn back to the Mussulman after all with more hope of a serious hearing. He at least has a definite belief, and many articles of his creed he holds in common with the Christian. He has an unshaken belief in God; he believes in the prophets and in a revelation, in future reward and retribution, the resurrection of the dead, the judgment and the life to come. Many among the followers of Islam are turning with aversion from the degenerate Islam in which they have been born and lived. Some are searching the Christian Scriptures for that which they have failed to discover in their own, and in the traditions of their fathers.

The following is an illustration of the kind of absurdities solemnly believed in. A young man, who wishes to be a Christian, told me he had a dispute with his father on the very weighty question of tooth-brushes. The father seriously maintained that the use of a tooth-brush made out of a certain kind of wood was so meritorious in God's sight that it would insure one's entrance into Paradise. "Oh, well," he replied, "if you can believe in such wahiyat (trifles) I have no more to say." "Besides," he said to me, "he was my father. I did not wish to argue with him."

The instance of M., or Mohammed Yaqub, I told in last year's report. He has stood his ground in the face of determined opposition. Denounced and boycotted and his life threatened, he has lived quietly on as though nothing had happened, till the people, wearied with abusing him, let him alone. The neighbors and relations tried to persuade his wife to leave him, promising her another and an orthodox husband. She, poor thing, was thrown into grievous doubt and perplexity. He, they told her, would undoubtedly marry again; he would marry a Mem, an English lady; and he would don coat and pantaloons and hat; then where would she be? However she wisely waited to see what he would do, and finding after all that his clothes remained the same as before, and that his shape and color and habits of life had not changed, unless it was that he treated her rather more gently than before, she decided to stand by him and share his fate.

Others might be named, some of them men of English education and culture, who, like Nicodemus, come at night, or in secret, to inquire concerning Christianity, who profess faith in Christ, and with every evidence of sincerity. Open profession in baptism is followed by persecution few have the courage to face. Ostracism and the loss of livelihood also often follow. "Well, then, why insist on baptism?" asked a friend in England, to whom I had written some account of these matters. Referring to a certain individual who had suffered thus consequently on his baptism, could he not, he asked, by living a quiet Christian life, without being baptized, not only have evaded the persecution, but have maintained an influence lost through that break with his co-religionists which is the inevitable result of baptism?

Quite apart from the authority we think we have for this rite in Christ and His Apostles, the fact is, we are convinced by experience that there is no short cut, nor easy, to a sincere Christian life. "Come out, and be ye separate," is a prescription founded on a real knowledge of human nature, and not a mere formal command. No verbal confession is sufficient. Experience teaches us that with this alone men are under the temptation of playing fast and loose with their profession of Christianity. Nothing but a complete break with the associations and traditions of the past, furnished by the crucial test of baptism, will answer.

By the way, we have been told that the oldtime appeal to the Christian public in America in behalf of the "poor heathen" is not acceptable now. It does not move their "bowels of compassion," as once it did; they know better now. These same "heathen," it has been found out, are an educated, thoughtful, sincere and philosophic folk. They stand in no need of the Evangel of Jesus Christ. Any attempt on our part to enlighten them is needless, to say the least, if not sheer impertinence. The Suami is abroad: he has visited America; he has enlightened the public of that country, and shown them the true state of things in India.

It is true the word heathen conveys an idea of degraded idolatry, and is offensive. It is not fair to apply it indiscriminately. Education and progress in knowledge are everywhere in evidence in this country. Apart from the spread of Christianity, and beyond its pale, it is clear that the Hindus are awakening to new ideas and to new activity. Social and religious reform is being agitated. New sects within the pale of Hinduism are coming into being. These have rejected idolatry, and adopted, generally speaking, a theistic creed. The only exception to this, as far as I know, is the somaj known as the Dev Somaj, in the Punjab, whose principles are atheistic. It is nevertheless one of the most progressive among the new sects. The founder, Pundit Agni Hotri, of Lahore, who still lives, is said to be a man of extraordinary magnetism and untiring energy. His followers speak of him as "our Founder," and in their enthusiastic devotion to him pay him honors almost Divine. Some of the prominent members are conspicuous for their apparently unselfish devotion to the interests of their somaj, as well as for the morality of their lives. They have established several boarding schools for boys and girls. The girls' boarding school at Ferozepore, and one for boys at Moga in this district, are model institutions. They have given up some of those unhappy social customs that have grown up in Hinduism, a check and hindrance to progress. Among these is child marriage. Caste, however, in common with the rest, they still maintain.

The Sikhs too have a flourishing girls' and boys' boarding school here. The Aryas have a large and well-conducted orphanage for boys and girls. How can we do other than rejoice in the success of such institutions? Herein is the saying true, "He that is not against us is for us," Luke iv. 50.

These facts are marked signs of the times. Nothing can contribute more materially to social progress than this new awakening to the importance of female education.

Yet when all is said it has to be admitted that the masses are untouched by these same reforms. The "heathen" are still with us in numbers untold. The idolatry that prevails is appalling, with its accompanying superstition and immorality. Our friends the reformers I doubt would hardly take exception to the term thus applied. The Mohammedans even are idolatrous to a degree, in direct contravention to the fundamental teaching of the Quran. Worshiping at shrines of departed saints and of the Hindu goddess Mata, as well as reverence paid to relics and trust in charms and amulets, are all but universal.

I was astonished a few years ago at a crude outbreak of idolatry that occurred here and in other towns of the Punjab. The Devi was said to have suddenly appeared. Her presence was manifested in the way of possession. She entered into the persons of little girls. These little things, ten or twelve years of age, got or pretended to get epileptic fits. Men carried them around seated on their shoulders and paraded them about the streets. They were then carried to a temple, where multitudes assembled to see them and the wonder-working power of the Devi. The miracle was performed by the priest. It consisted in cutting out people's tongues and putting them in again. This was a sleight-of-hand trick, the victims operated on being previously instructed as to the part they were to play in the miracle. There were a few poor fools, we heard, who insisted on having their tongues cut out, in confident expectation of their growing in again.

All this was literally believed in by thousands, of whom some were men we thought had outgrown such superstitions.

Christianity represents righteousness, and it alone is the remedy for India's distempers. A Hindu gentleman, sometime president of our local Arya Somaj, once remarked to me that, in his opinion, nothing after all but Christianity could save this country.

There are some, even of our countrymen, who have small sympathy with our Missions. At best we are misguided enthusiasts, while many are of opinion that Missions to the Hindus are sheer impertinence. The sublime teaching of their sacred books, their inoffensive lives—these are a challenge to Christian nations, and to Christianity itself. In truth, no man familiar with society in this country could think thus. The attempt to reclaim it, however, with the means, apparently so incommensurate, at our command does sometimes seem hopeless. Yet is the case more desperate than when those impertinent Apostles of Christ started out to “turn the world upside down”?

To come back to our own immediate work, there is the medical part of it, not yet referred to. The City Dispensary has been the same, as always. Our numbers are the same, or nearly the same, year after year; that is, the number of visits is over 9,000, while that of new visits is just about half that number.

There is one great disadvantage a doctor labors under in this country, namely, that the sick, or their friends, will insist on trying every remedy suggested by neighbors and old wives before consulting a doctor. A Mussulman came to the dispensary some days ago to say that his wife had been laid up for three months with a serious ailment; would I be pleased to come and see her? I asked why he had not come sooner. Oh, it was their qismet (fate), that was all. I went with the man to his house, and it would have melted a nether millstone to see her condition. He was a masdoor, or day laborer, and poor. The room the wife was in had no windows, and was almost bare of furniture. A broken panjali or yoke for oxen, thrown into a corner, a heap of straw, some pathis (cakes of cowdung, used for fuel), a few earthen vessels and a broken charpoy, or bed, was all it contained. The place was unswept, and smoky cobwebs hung from the rafters and about the corners. The woman, who was not over 20 years old or so, sat on the broken charpoy, the image of misery and neglect, weak, wasted, and in the last stages of a long and weary illness. She had a continued low fever, and was thirsty, thirsty all the time. Beside her, on the floor (the floor was the bare ground), stood an earthen vessel of water from which she drank and drank all the day. Of nourishment she had none to speak of. She said she was not hungry, and only nibbled occasionally at a bit of phulka which lay on the bed beside her. Her husband said he occasionally gave her a little sago. And here she sat all the day long, and all the night. She could not lie down, the cough would not let her. And in the daytime it was dark, as well as in the nighttime, for in the morning the man shut the door and locked her in till his return from his work in the evening. “But do none of her relations or neighbors come to see her when you are away at your work?” I asked. “Neighbors and relations! no,” he said, “they used to come and see her when she was well, but not now.” They were afraid of her, she was possessed by a bhoot, an evil spirit. Why had he not brought his wife to the Woman’s Hospital long ago, I asked, where she would have been cared for? No reason at all. It was in truth because he did not care.

This is not a solitary case. It illustrates many. Very often when a woman is seriously ill she is supposed to be possessed, and instead of rational treatment she is treated to a drubbing with an old shoe. Juta marna, or beating one with a shoe, is an ignominious form of chastisement and thus the bhoot is exorcised. Jhar phook is a common method of treatment also, the repetition of incantations and blowing on the patient. When all this and every other suggestion of superstition and ignorance has been tried and failed, they bethink them, as a last resort, of a doctor. If one doctor does not succeed in his cure in a day or two, they are apt to wander off to try another.

I close with the following quotation taken from a weekly newspaper. The incident described occurred at Fazilka, one of our sub-stations.

“On Sunday last, the 30th of September a remarkable event took place in our city. The wife of our Sub-divisional Officer was seen early in the morning on her way to the Civil Hospital, a sight which aroused the curiosity of the general public. In order to find out the reason, many people went to the hospital, where to their surprise it was told them that she had only come to see a poor village woman who was expecting to be put under chloroform to undergo an operation of a most serious and complicated sort. Shortly after this, when everything was ready and the patient had been gently laid down on the operating table, the lady took her stand beside the patient, and comforted her with the most loving and gentle words. Then for an hour and a half she assisted the surgeon in his work. The operation, which was the removing of an immense tumor, proved successful and the patient is now doing very well; but the lady visits her almost every day and gives assistance in the matter of special diet, etc. That very evening when this event was uppermost in the thoughts of the educated circle of our city, and this benevolent deed was a common topic for conversation, a cultured, thoughtful Hindu gentlemen said something which it is not out of place to repeat here. ‘No sane man can deny that Christianity is working in India not through its philosophy, but by love and only by love shown in works of charity, and we may rest assured that in the long run the banner of Christianity will wave over the whole land.’ But if we ask when that blessed time will come, we can only say in answer, ‘The day when the sons and daughters of the Indian Church realize at large the secret of the love of our Saviour, who left his heavenly abode in order to be a link of love between this sin-stricken world and God.’”

The women’s medical work has been in Dr. Allen’s care, and Mrs. Forman has looked after the school and zenana work.

AMBALA STATION.

City Church.—Another year has passed without a pastor being obtained for this church. Although the membership is composed almost entirely of those in the service of the Mission and are consequently daily engaged in some form of Christian activity, nevertheless a pastor’s presence in the community is greatly needed, to stimulate the members into a freer and more spontaneous spiritual life and to clearly differentiate the church, with its own officers and own activities, as an organization intended to be separate from, but working in harmony with, the Mission.

City Boys’ High School.—There were 388 pupils in the main school and 156 in the three branch schools (located in as many different quarters of the city), or a total of 544.

Lepers Asylum.—

During the first half of the year the number of lepers was over fifty, but in October a small rebellion broke out against the strict rule forbidding the inmates to go out of the asylum grounds to beg money, etc., from passers-by. About twenty of the malcontents departed and peace has reigned since.

The funds for the upkeep of the institution are contributed by the Governmental authorities of the province and district and municipality. The “Mission to Lepers” makes an annual grant of about $330.

Evangelistic Work in the District.—Mr. McCuskey writes:

The best part of three months of the last cold season was spent by Mrs. McCuskey and myself in itineration among the villages in the northeastern part of the district.

Leaving our camp early in the morning we would all, ladies as well as men, walk to some village, three, four or five miles distant, where we men would take our station in some bazaar or at a well, while Mrs. McCuskey and Miss Wherry found entrance into some house where all the women from that section of the village would collect.

In this way from one to three villages were visited each day. Where we found members of our scattered Christian community we would spend a greater part of the day in conversation, prayer services and Bible reading and instruction.

At Lalru, the first out-station where we camped, we found the small Christian community in trouble caused by a quarrel.

Our Scripture reader, Basanta, had reproved one of the men for bad conduct. This man had at once seized a club and assaulted Basanta, inflicting several wounds on the latter's face and head. Basanta's relatives urged him to carry the matter to a magistrate, but he sturdily refused on the ground that the matter could be settled privately and a case in court was unworthy of sincere Christians. The relatives, disgruntled because they had to forego the delights of a long drawn out wrangle in the court, refused to join in any services which Hari Mohan, the catechist, and Basanta endeavored to carry on.

Our visit accomplished something towards reconciliation between the quarreling factions, but it was not until a month or more afterwards that the man who assaulted Basanta asked forgiveness and the other causes of trouble were removed.

In a village named Mankon we held a very long conversation with fifteen or twenty Sikh farmers who, when we arrived, were engaged in repairing ox-carts, but ceased their work and were extremely friendly during our stay of several hours. One old white-bearded gentleman led in asking questions and giving replies. He maintained that we were all sons of God as much as Christ could possibly be. His oft-repeated statement was to this effect: "Sahib, many autars (incarnations) have come to mankind from the great Supreme One, and to those who put their trust in any of these autars salvation comes—Mohammed for the Mussulmen, Buddha for the Buddhists, Christ for the Angrez (English) and Sri Baba Nanak for the great Sikh race. Let us not quarrel over our different gurus. It is of chief importance to be kind-hearted, to give alms, to be honest."

As we journeyed toward our camp we ran across three men near a well in the middle of a large patch of radishes, onions, carrots and red peppers. These men were very surly, they didn't want to hear anything about God: "He created men and they did both evil and good—it is all a matter of Karma—no use discussing."

The Christian communities in villages distant from the central station and out-stations make very little progress because the children grow up to be almost as ignorant as their parents. The latter refuse to send the boys and girls to distant schools, and the excellent scheme of establishing small village schools in the Christian communities cannot at present be introduced for lack of teachers and of money.

No less than six large Hindu and Mohammedan melas (fairs) were held in different localities during the year and at each of these our workers were present.

Hospital Work.—Dr. Carleton speaks in her report of the great need of good nursing.

The question of nurses for India grows more imperative yearly. The loss of many English lives from the lack of good nursing has aroused the Europeans to special effort, and through the influence of the Countess of Minto and others, English nurses can now be secured for Europeans from several Nursing Associations.

But the millions of India practically know nothing of what good nursing means. If your practice is among their homes, it is on the members of the family that you must depend for what nursing is possible.

In Western lands the ministering angel is supposed to be feminine, but here the women are so superstitious and full of fears at any innovation that one longs to sweep them out of the way, and depend entirely on the men for carrying out of orders. I am glad to pay a tribute to the fine qualities of the men brought out by illness in their families.

How many scenes one recalls in illustration! The sturdy villager who forcibly held a frantic mother while a simple and obvious thing was done to save an only son, and who faithfully carried out all the directions for subsequent treatment, regardless of the terrified women predicting certain death for the child.

The highly educated gentleman who gave up his profession to nurse a wife through a long illness of two years, keeping as good diet and temperature charts as any nurse and having the utmost patience with all her moods during these weary days and nights.

That upper room in a city house, where the head of the house declared he would have only Western methods used in the treatment of a son. The dismayed women fled with their precious utensils lest they be defiled, while relays of the finest young men in the city offered to take their places, and spent many days and nights, following directions which must often have seemed strange and alarming, but which were finally crowned with success.

The statistics for the year 1906 are as follows:

|---------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------|
| New patients..... | 12,683 |
| Dispensary attendance..... | 22,600 |
| In-patients..... | 305 |
| Surgical cases (including five laparotomies by the civil surgeon)..... | 183 |

Cantonment Boys' School.—The total number on the roll is now 216; the school is popular and the people wish its status to be raised to that of a Boys' School.

Dr. Thackwall has had general oversight of the Ambala Cantonment section of the Station.

SAHARANPUR STATION.

The Indian congregation has eighty-four communicants on the roll, sixteen having been added during the year.

Theological Seminary.—

The number of students enrolled during the year was twenty-one.

Early in November a committee appointed by the North India Mission conferred with the Punjab Mission at their Annual Meeting in Ludhiana, regarding the status and control of the Seminary. It was decided to arrange for the appointment of a new Board of Directors, consisting (a) of two members from each of our Missions in Northern India, (b) one member from each of the four Presbyteries within the bounds of these Missions, and (c) one member of the Faculty. (d)

Other Presbyteries may also be represented by one member each when sending students.

It was also decided to close the present Normal School Department in the Seminary, as soon as suitable provision can be made for the students elsewhere in high grade Training Schools, it being desirable to have one such school in each Mission.

Lastly, in the matter of financial support, the principle of entirely supporting students from foreign funds was given us. Hereafter students are to receive only assistance, allowances from the Seminary to be called scholarships, and Churches, Presbyteries and relatives of the students are to be encouraged to supplement these scholarships wherever necessary. We want the Church to realize that before long she must take charge of such institutions, and when given a share in their control, she ought also to assume some responsibility in supporting the work.

The wives of the men in the Seminary have been taught in the Women's School.

Industrial School and Orphanage.—

Three boys have gone out as shoemakers, two of whom have secured employment in the Punjab, and one has opened a shop in Saharanpur, where he is doing well. One has gone out as a carpenter on rupees fifteen per mensem.

A few boys have run away, but others have come in and filled their places. The average has been 140, a little less than that of last year.

Twelve boys have been baptized and united with the church. Each boy is assigned work according to his ability, and the responsibility of the work rests upon him. The teachers only explain and show how the work ought to be done, and each boy must do his own work. This arrangement demands more supervision, but it is worth the trouble, as the boys have nobly responded to the responsibility laid upon them, and greater progress has been made than ever before. There are always more orders for work than can be filled.

Work in the District.—

Our Mission has seven Stations in the western portion of the Saharanpur District, with probably one-third of the district nominally "ours." We might, however, double the number of Stations, and yet in no proper sense "occupy" the field. From these centres the work has been carried on along the usual lines. Each preacher is expected, as far as possible, to visit the villages in the neighborhood of his Station. As a man cannot, as a rule, walk more than three or four miles and back again the same day, and leave enough time and strength for effective work, it means that only the villages within this radius are visited frequently.

In all the larger towns a weekly market day is held, and the preacher then remains at home and preaches to the crowds that assemble from the neighboring villages. This should be the best day of the week.

About thirty-five persons have been baptized during the year.

The medical and evangelistic work has been carried on as usual. The dispensary is a never-failing source of attraction to rich and poor alike. When the character of some of our competitors is borne in mind, this is hardly to be wondered at. Opposite the house which Dr. Forman was temporarily occupying in the town of Ambahta is the grave of a once famous hakim, or doctor, who has long since gone to his reward. His strong point was that he always made use of a single remedy—never more. The virtue seemed to be in the man, and not in the means that he used, as buttermilk (one of his favorite remedies) in his hands would cure all manner of incurable diseases. During the epidemic of fever that followed the rainy season this year, many visited his grave and taking the earth thereof bound it in a cloth around their necks and were cured! Notwithstanding the almost incredible credulity that such stories show, those same people are never tired of demanding the proofs for the great facts of Christianity; and a German philosopher is simply nowhere when it comes to rationalizing about such questions as inspiration or the atonement.

Innumerable expressions of appreciation gladden the heart of the medical missionary. Some simple operation will call forth expressions of wonder at the wisdom with which God has endowed some of his creatures.

The use of the magic lantern has occasionally been the means of bringing us into touch with large audiences in the evenings.

Girls' School and Work among Women.—At one time in the year there were about forty Mohammedan girls on the roll and forty-five Hindu girls. A Mohammedan agitation, however, caused a temporary falling off among the Mohammedan girls, from forty to ten.

In the Leper Asylum we now have six women, two having died during the year. Our work among them consists of ministering to their bodies in clothing, food and medicines, literally "serving tables." We are sorry to record that during this whole year these women have been most unthankful, and have shown a clamoring ungrateful spirit. They are well housed, well fed, and well enough clothed, but still unsatisfied.

The work among the low caste has been confined to a few, and very recently to two families who have been baptized. There are three women and four children. The children are learning to read, and with the children the women are learning hymns and Bible stories. These people can only be had late in the afternoon, and it is not much that can be taught in such a short time, hence their progress is slow. But it is putting our shoulder to the wheel of depraved humanity and lifting them from a slough of degradation to a place of liberty and civilization unknown to them as yet, and through Christ to God's riches in glory. One woman, when told that God had much light to reveal to her, said, "Oh, I have light in my heart now I never knew before."

HOSHYARPUR STATION.

Dr. Chatterjee and his family continue their most efficient and fruitful work. Sixty-three girls were on the roll of the girls' orphanage, of whom thirty-three were full orphans and twenty-five half orphans.

The medical work was under Dr. Dora Chatterjee's charge.

The work has steadily increased. Five years ago the average daily attendance at the dispensary was forty. This year it is 120. Showing an increase of eighty.

The number of patients treated in the dispensary this year is 12,790. The number of visits is 29,569. The number of indoor patients is eighty-four.

Two hundred and eighteen minor operations were performed in the hospital this year and thirty-two major.

Of the village work Dr. Chatterjee reports:

We have baptized this year 515 souls, including men, women and children; 274 of these were adults, and the rest children under twelve years of age.

There are now four organized churches in the Hoshiarpur District.

The whole Christian community of the Hoshiarpur District number 2,409 souls. For the education of this large body, scattered over forty villages, there are seven places of regular meeting where services and Sunday-schools are held on Sundays and in some of them day-schools on weekdays. The latter have not been very successful thus far. There are five such schools and the number of pupils in them amount to only fifty-three.

To teach the people the duty of self-support collections are made on Sundays for congregational expenses and an annual subscription is taken for Home Mission work. These amounted to Rs. 370 this year, the largest part of it being paid by the Hoshiarpur Church. A tax of one pice a month for pastor's support was imposed by the Sessions on each communicant, but thus far it has not been successfully levied.

LANDOUR STATION.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews returned to Woodstock to resume charge of the school.

During the year thus far the average attendance has been 103, made up of eighty-seven girls and sixteen boys. There has been an average of seventy boarders.

Generous gifts from Mr. and Mrs. John S. Kennedy and Mrs. C. P. Turner made possible a great improvement in the school equipment.

PRESBYTERIAL HOME MISSIONS.

The Lahore and Lodiana Presbyteries carried on extensive Home Mission work. In the Lahore Presbyteries' Home Mission fields there are now 620 Christians, thirteen workers.

THE O'NEIL MEMORIAL HOSPITAL, SHUNTE-FU, CHINA.

NORTH INDIA MISSION.

ALLAHABAD: at the junction of the Ganges and the Jumna, 506 miles northwest of Calcutta; Station begun 1836. Missionaries—Rev. J. J. Lucas, D.D., and Mrs. Lucas, Rev. Arthur H. No new missionaries were added to the force this year, but Miss Louise Atherton, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., spent the year with her aunt, Miss Fullerton, working at Fatehgarh. On account of her health, Miss Rogers was advised by the Board's examining physician not to return to India. Dr. and Mrs.

Symington resigned during the year, remaining in India, however, where Dr. Symington is engaged in private medical practice.

The North India Mission is the second in point of time organized by our Church. First to be organized was the Ludhiana Mission, now known as the Punjab Mission. This was occupied in 1834, and there are sixty-four Europeans and 249 Indians at work there. And they are responsible in a special sense for 9,000,000 souls living in that region east and south of Lahore. There are twenty organized churches, some of which are entirely self-supporting and others partly so. There are fifty-eight congregations of worshippers and quite a large number of scattered families; a Christian community of about 9,000 souls. A strong movement of the low caste has set in towards Christianity.

The Western India Mission was occupied in 1852. It is located to the south and southeast of Bombay in that region which is roughly indicated on the map by another open space. The field extends from latitude 15° N. to $17^{\circ} 30'$ N. and includes an area of 12,000 square miles and a population of about 3,233,000. It lies along the shore of the Arabian Sea and is cut in two by the Sahyadri Range ("Western Ghats"). In the inland portion, commonly designated the Dakhan field, are the four Stations, Kolhapur, Sangli, Miraj and Kodoli, grouped comparatively close together; and in the maritime, or Konkan portion, are the two remote Stations, Ratnagiri and Vengurle. Protestant missionary work has been going on in this field over fifty years, and under its present connection with the Board thirty-four years. There are eight churches, of which four are partly or entirely self-supporting; over 1,100 communicants, and a total Christian community of 2,950 souls, whose gifts last year amounted to Rs. 1,418. By far the most of the field is still in need of primitive itinerating work, but the main problems at present are the development of the Christian community, and the securing of preachers and teachers.

The Furrukhabad Mission, now known as the North India Mission, was occupied in 1836. Its location is very near the geographical heart of India, with Delhi to the north, Lucknow to the east, Allahabad in the south, and Jhansi in the west. This is not only the geographical, but, in a peculiar sense, the religious and political heart of India. Within and upon our boundaries are sacred Benares and Allahabad, historic Lucknow and Cawnpore, Jhansi and Agra. In this heart of the nation the awful mutiny passions flamed most fiercely. Hither also come the people from all over India. The Punjabi from the north, the Bengali from the east, and the Marthi from the west, all mingle here as perhaps nowhere else in India.

Our work in this most interesting field may be said to have begun at the sacred confluence of the Jamna and Ganges rivers at Allahabad and to have spread up along these rivers for 300 miles, and through all the densely populated territory between. It has also crossed both of these rivers in scores of places and extended its work to the west as far as the great native State of Gwalior.

The Mission is made up of ten central Stations in the order in which they appear in the following pages. Connected with these Stations are out-stations manned by Indian helpers. Each of these out-stations has a little group of villages about it where preaching and teaching is carried on regularly. The itinerating and preaching of the missionaries and Indian helpers, together with work in Melas and Bazars, spreads the news still more widely, but not nearly widely enough, as must be manifest to any one who ponders for a moment upon the fact that here are 7,500,000 souls who must, humanly speaking, receive the Gospel from us. And for this work there are forty foreign missionaries in the field. And the actual number of those who can give a considerable portion of their time to reaching out into these vast districts is just one-fourth of this number. For those who have the many Christian schools, training classes, colleges and seminary to look after, together with the physicians in their hospitals; and the mothers who are busy with their families and the Christian women; these find little or no opportunity or strength to get into these thousands of villages.

The fair comparison would be ten pastors in all of Massachusetts, New York and Connecticut; or in all Pennsylvania, Ohio and Rhode Island; or in all of Texas, Missouri, Iowa and Kansas; or in all of New England, New Jersey, Kentucky and California. And even this comparison is very inadequate, because there few can read, and centuries of degrading superstitions have made them slow to hear and still more slow to understand. It seems a fair question to ask many who might make it possible to come, and who might in this day of the Spirit's special power and blessing find their hearts more eager for a part of the great battle, "Do you think ten evangelists sufficient for these 7,500,000 souls who have the capacity to hear only slowly?" You may or may not be specially fitted for an evangelist, but your coming might free from other duties some one else, both qualified and prepared for this very work.

ALLAHABAD STATION.

Allahabad is a name evidently given by Mohammedan conquerors. The ancient Hindu name is Prayag. The city is located at the junction of two sacred rivers, the Ganges and the Jamna. Hindus believe that a third river from heaven also unites here—a trinity of sacred rivers—making the spot one of the holies in India. Each year in the month Magh a great festival is held to which come tens of thousands of Hindus. The Presbyterian Mission is responsible for work, both on the south and northeast of the city, and is the only Mission at work in a vast district across the Jamna River to the south.

EVANGELISTIC.—Jamna Church.—

The members of the church have decided by a practically unanimous vote to increase their subscriptions to the Pastor's Salary Fund, and in addition to this, to raise at least Rs. 29 per mensem to carry on regular and systematic work in neighboring villages. Better still, many have offered themselves for the work as they may find opportunity.

The Katra Church has received several new members, and the Women's Missionary Society of the church has contributed funds to help build a house for our preacher in Daranagar. During the Dasehra holidays a large tent was erected on the church grounds and the meetings there attended by large numbers of young men. It was good to see how the Christian community had lost interest in the Ram Lila, so much so that some said, "We had almost forgotten that there was a Ram Lila, and much prefer these earnest, helpful meetings to the noise and nonsense of the old Ram Lila."

EDUCATIONAL.—The College.—

Good, substantial progress has been made in the college. There are now 104 students enrolled, more than half of whom are in the second-year class. Such a class is too large for us to handle, with our present accommodations, and we are feeling the need of that main college building, towards which all our building operations have thus far looked.

The Princeton building is being erected. Every institution needs, in addition to classrooms and laboratories, a student centre, and a college like ours requires separate rooms for Christian students. Moreover, every student centre requires a missionary professor to be in residence. The Princeton building meets these three needs. It is to contain a suite of rooms for a missionary professor, rooms for Christian students and a common room with reading-room and library for students. The Rev. C. A. Janvier is getting gifts for this building from Princeton men.

The Hostels are in charge of Prof. Edwards, who lives in the building set apart for Christian students. There are, altogether Christians, Hindus, Mussulmans, thirty-one students in residence, every room being occupied.

We are congratulating ourselves upon the changed atmosphere among the Christian students. This season we have put into practical working the plan of requiring definite daily work in return for financial aid given by the college, and we find that the students have more respect for the college and for themselves, are more faithful in study and more prompt in paying their bills, than at any time heretofore.

Mary Wanamaker School.—Miss Forman reports:

We have at present eighty names on the roll. The girls did well in their examinations. Of the five sent up for the entrance examination, four passed; one in the first division. All four who tried the Girls' Middle passed, and all took Government scholarships. We feel there has been a decided improvement in the girls during the past year in their desire to be independent. The girls meet in three bands every Sunday morning to pray for the conversion of India. They have given during the year, including the contributions of the Hindustani teachers, 43 Rs. for the society.

MEDICAL.—Sarah Seward Hospital.—

After the marriage of Dr. Norris, Dr. Binford took charge of the hospital.

Daily, from 70 to 150 patients are treated at the hospital dispensary. We endeavor to have all those who come to the hospital, both as in- and out-patients, learn the story of the life of Christ and the plan of salvation. Though many are indifferent, many are eager to hear, and after receiving their medicine will go again to hear more from the Bible woman.

One high-caste Hindu widow who has been coming to the hospital for some time has refused to worship idols and to bathe in the Ganges. She comes to my home and takes tea with me (thus, has broken caste), and says she believes in Christ, and openly confesses Him in her home. I believe she is a Christian at heart. Her mother who is very bitter against Christianity, about two weeks ago consented to allow a Bible woman to come to the house to teach her daughter. A bright little niece of eight years is also to study with her.

The morning's work is made up of treatment of fevers, infectious diseases, lancing of abscesses, extracting of teeth, treatment of eyes and ears, skin diseases innumerable, diseases due to filth and vice, buboes to lance, often fractures of several weeks' standing, and after the application of Hindustani medicine and the working of charms having failed to set the broken bone or reduce the pain, they come to get the English medicine. Many of the cases requiring minor operations go home the same day, waiting only until the effect of the chloroform has passed off, and coming each day for dressings. Four hundred and thirty-one operations have been performed during the year. I find the giving of opium to children and to the sick an almost universal habit.

The out-practice in the city is one of the most important lines of work. From January 1 to November 1, I made 626 calls at the homes of patients, usually finding several patients instead of one.

ETAWAH STATION.

Some years ago a missionary baptized several people in a village near Etawah. The other members of their caste brought so much pressure to bear upon them that they denied at last, and even threatened to beat the missionary if he should return. Recently, however, they sent of their own accord for some one to come to them, and now they welcome our coming.

Dhalpura and vicinity are now opening up very hopefully. Here is a small community of Christians from the sweeper caste. They were visited regularly each month during the year, and ten days of special effort were given to them. Two adults have been baptized and a number of others are being prepared for baptism. Fourteen baptisms are reported from two villages not far distant. It is hoped that a church may be established here quite soon.

Jaswantnagar is the centre of a populous region where much work has been done during the past year, but it has not as yet yielded to our efforts. The opium weighments gave a fine chance to reach people from every part of the district, and 300 hundred portions of Scripture were sold. The city and nearby villages were the field of daily efforts, morning and evening, during the hot season. But no immediate fruits of this work have yet appeared. The work in the zenanas and little schools in the city has reached over 100 hundred homes directly. There are upwards of 250 pupils in these schools. The people are generally friendly and eager to read.

The church is self-supporting under the Grant-in-aid plan, and the contributions for church expenses are entirely from the Indian brethren. Miss Emily Forman writes:

We have also tried to make a point of going down to the Jamna for all the special bathing days, not that we consider it much of an opportunity for speaking or preaching, for there is usually too much confusion and noise for this; but this is one of the few ways one can show one's interest and friendship for the people, and we have been told by more than one person (woman) that their hearts are knit to one's when we meet at this place of pleasure.

In answer to the oft-repeated question, "Do you, too, come to the Jamna Ji to bathe?" one has many an opportunity of comparing these filthy waters to the pure River of Water of Life, clear as crystal, and the Teka or Bindi, being put on their foreheads by the Brahman, to the time when His Name shall be put on all foreheads—that Name, which is above every name.

FATEHGARH STATION.

The Furrukhabad district has 860,000 population; Furrukhabad City about 80,000, while the European Station Fatehgarh, situated close to the city of Furrukhabad, has about 20,000. Between these two cities is the Bahrapur Mission Compound, and a little outside of Fatehgarh is the Rakha Mission Compound.

About five years ago we baptized in the city of Furrukhabad a family in which there were three brothers, all nearly fifty years of age. Two of these men were blind, and the third suffered much with rheumatism. The eldest daughter had been married to a dead beat, and was returned at last to her father's house.

After baptism a great change took place in that family. The blind men were examined by Dr. Caldwell; the eyesight of one of them was completely restored, and the other was sufficiently restored to enable him to do his work; the third, Khundan, was entirely freed from his rheumatism. As these men tell their experiences, memory flashes back to the days long gone in Galilee. They love to tell again and again the story of the wonderful cures from stone blindness and the racking pains of rheumatism. And old Khundan tells, "I'm going to God's house, some day, and there I'll be a king in glory, forever. Just think of it! Old Khundan in Heaven, surrounded by light and joy and angels, and all because I have worshipped and tried to obey the Lord Jesus Christ, and have turned my back upon false gods and idols."

EDUCATIONAL.—Boys' High School.—

This school stands for (1) "plain living;" (2) good lessons, as preparatory to "high thinking," and (3) the earliest possible recognition on the part of the boys of their responsibility to God and man.

In accordance with (1) the boys eat, sleep and study on the floor. As to (2) in the annual examinations there were but four Christian boys failed. And again, there were Christian boys in eight of the classes in the school, and in seven of the classes it was a Christian boy who stood first, and in the other class a Christian stood second. As to (3), thirty-three of the boys united with the Church this year.

Miss Mary Fullerton reports of the Girls' School:

We were unusually unfortunate this year in having three babies added to our teaching staff at just about the same time. The absence of their mothers and, following that, their own presence in school caused no little hindrance to our work. The teacher problem is one of the most difficult with which we have to deal. Three of our women are the unfortunate wives of unsatisfactory men, and their children are not a few. We have finally arranged with one of these women to take care of the children of all the others in her own home, while her daughter, recently left a widow, takes her place in the school.

The attendance at the school averaged seventy-five, which is a gain of fifteen over last year. The average on the roll has been 125.

Mr. Ullman's Catechism, the "Guru Gyan," has been used in most of the classes. Its plain teachings with regard to idolatry have driven away a few of our pupils, but others have been helped by them. In one class a little girl announced the fact that she had not worshipped idols for three months. When asked why, she said, "I was reciting the 'Guru Gyan' at home one day, and when I came to the part about idols having eyes and seeing not, ears and hearing not, my father, who was sitting nearby said, 'Then why do you worship them?' I replied, 'I thought you wanted me to do so.' 'No, I do not,' was his answer, so from that time the whole family decided to give up idolatry."

An Arya Somaj School has been opened near ours, within the last few weeks. Those interested in it have gone to the homes of our pupils and have tried to influence them to leave us. Some of our girls have gone to them and have afterwards returned to us. Others are still with them.

Educational work has not been attempted in the zenanas, although the women have urged me to teach them. I have confined myself to Bible reading, singing and prayer. It has been encouraging to find that some of our girls have carried home the lessons taught them. In one house which I had never before visited I was interrupted in telling the story of our Saviour's birth with the words, "Gomti has told us that. She repeats to us each day the lessons that she has learned at school." The same thing has been told me in other homes.

We have been much impressed with the growth of the Arya Somaj influence during the past few years. Shall we not pray that those who are dissatisfied with idolatry may not lull their conscience to rest in this substitution for Christianity?

Miss Morrow has had charge of the orphans and the girls in Rakha School, some of whom have worked very faithfully to help Mission work in India. She writes:

They pray for India's conversion and would gladly do some work to increase their contributions. The C. E. Societies have earned most of their money by crochet work, pulling punkha, extra sewing and extra turns at the daily routine of work, such as cooking, drawing water, etc. The girls do all the punkha pulling for the house, it being their own request to be allowed so to do. And it is made possible by our sleeping out at night, thus doing away with the night work. We could not have granted their request had it meant night pulling. Many of the girls have started little accounts. In most cases I am their banker for these earnings, and it takes no little time to keep their accounts entered up, more than fifty of them. While the sums are not large, it takes so much time to enter annas as if they were rupees; yet I do not feel this is lost, because of the opportunity of directing and encouraging the girls in a right use of money. It is in many cases a lesson to me in liberality. The little bank accounts, so dear to many of them, that they will not break upon them for sweets or luxuries, yet an appeal for some needy cause seldom fails to draw from these hard-earned annas, and willingly, cheerfully they give; while the requests for work by which they can increase their contributions are beyond my ability to fill.

The Bible instruction was carried on without interruption during the vacation. Sixty-three girls tried the All-India examinations in the Bible and forty-four passed. During the year they gave out of their earnings Rs. 50, for various forms of evangelistic work.

We have twenty-nine schools for the Christians in the villages. These have been in session for from a few months to a full year. The average attendance shows a marked improvement over the previous year.

In the Bahrpur Industrial School during the past year forty boys and young men have received training in tailoring, carpentry, shoemaking and blacksmithing. It is our intention to take up bicycle repairing also.

In the tailoring department we have made all the clothing that nearly 150 boys can wear out, besides doing most of the sewing for the missionaries of the compound and a good deal for the Indian Christian community.

The shoemakers have made 553 pairs of shoes, besides doing a large amount of repairs. The carpenters have prepared all the wood-work for Miss Fullerton's house, about completed a carriage, built a bookcase, dresser and beds and many smaller articles.

That this industrial training is imperative no one who has seen the boys can doubt. They are fast growing to manhood. Simple as is the life of the school, still the boys have formed ideals and standards of living which make them unwilling to be ordinary coolies. We are glad that it is so. Yet this very situation makes it imperative that they learn a trade. For it is neither possible nor desirable that all should become mission employes. Many of them have not the minds to take a high school course and thus fit themselves for office work. The only alternative is for them to learn a trade, and we must teach them. For unless they are taught some useful trade, much of our effort in their behalf will have been wasted. To meet the needs of our young men here we should increase our industrial work by at least one-half this year.

DISTRICT WORK.—

In the vicinity of some of the worst opposition, we have been able to bring to bear another plan, which even though novel has proved of great value in quieting opposition and also encouraging our Christians. We have had large parades, headed off with a brass band, and leading right into some crowded market where were gathered crowds of people from all the surrounding villages. Try to picture the scene and its effect. First, there strikes upon their astonished ears the stirring strains of "Black-Eyed Beauty," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," or something else equally classic. Then there appears a great company with the brilliant banners and streamers of their Sunday-schools, Endeavor and Temperance Societies, singing with a vim that fully compensates for any lack of harmony. On they come, and all other business is at a standstill. Here and there, where the crowd is most dense, there is a short halt to sing and speak the Message, and then the Crusaders are off to other fields of conquest. And let no one think this is all noise and nonsense. It is an expression which these people can understand, and the effect is tremendous and salutary. Opposers conclude that Christianity is alive and a force in the land, and that it may be well to get out of the way or make friends while there is time, and Christians are filled with hope and confidence. Weak Christians also are brought out squarely in their confession before the world, and new disciples come from unexpected quarters. But it does not stop with this outward display. There follows quiet, persistent instruction, and these people, who first come to us with mixed motives, perhaps, are led on, step by step, from the elementary to the deeper truths and life. In our entire district there has not been this year a single case of persistent denial of faith.

FATEHPUR STATION.

Mr. Mattison writes:

The use of the stereopticon convinced us anew of the great power of the paintings of the old masters. The people would flock to our tent by hundreds and sit for hours gazing upon those beautiful portrayals and scenes in the life of the Great Master. And as they gazed in complete silence we found a priceless opportunity to tell the wonderful story of Love. The usual attempts to interrupt by irrelevant questions and specious argument were all forgotten, and night after night we could tell, with a fullness that is utterly impossible in the Bazaar or ordinary preaching, the story of the sinless, loving, crucified, risen and mighty Saviour. And as we scattered through the villages the following day we found that they remembered and were telling others the wonderful things they had seen and heard.

Calls are now coming to us to go here and there and show the pictures and tell the story. One zamindar sent a gari to bring our things, made a feast for us, and then he and all his friends, numbering over 300 men, women and children, listened for hours. And the presence of the women put into our hearts a new hope. They have little or no opportunity of hearing, but under circumstances like those of that night nearly 100 could peep out from behind curtains and listen to the story. Since then we have often left the big screen behind at the tent, and taken the ten-foot screen to some place in the village, where it could be seen from four or five verandas, hoping that one or two of those verandas would be occupied by women. And we have never been disappointed. The last time there were not less than 200 women looking and listening. It rained pretty hard just after we began, but as soon as the stars came out again the verandas filled with eager listeners.

JHANSI STATION.

Rev. Henry Forman reports:

During the year there were 112 persons baptized, of whom eighty were adults and thirty-two under twelve years of age. But these people were almost entirely from among those who had come into Jhansi from more or less distant places, because of the famine. Many more were taught the Gospel as they worked on the relief works that Dr. Wilkie and we had opened. Those who became Christians were carefully taught. With the abundant rain that came in the monsoon season, they returned to their homes, and we do not have any further information concerning them.

In the girls' school there were between thirty and forty girls. The girls are for the most part between the ages of three and seven. Very few come after they are seven years of age, as they are then considered too old to be seen on the streets. In visiting the homes of the girls, I found that some of the mothers had been in Mission schools when children, and that they remembered the teaching received there, and wanted their daughters to have the same teaching.

Miss Williamson has had thirty-one pupils in her zenana work. She says:

Two houses have been closed during the year. In one the pupil was not very bright, but seemed to be taking in the truth. But the head of the house, a lawyer, told me frankly that he considered it better to stop while she was only "partly a Christian," than to let her go on, with the danger of her becoming entirely a Christian.

Four young men have finished the four years' course in the training class. Mr. Forman writes:

During the year these four young men and two others have organized and kept up a society, which they named the Prem Sabha, or Society of Love, the object of which was to gather men of the servant class, of whom there is a great number in Jhansi, together in a social way, and besides having tea and light refreshments, give some hours to religious conversation and Bible teaching, and to the singing of Christian songs and hymns. The Sabha has been quite popular and has done good work.

One thing I must tell to the credit of this band of young men.

During the Winter there was an exceptionally severe epidemic of small-pox in Jhansi and the surrounding towns. One of the victims was a Eurasian lad, whose father, a poor man, lived in the house of an Irish-woman, who lives an odd, semi-native sort of life on the edge of the city. This woman had at times shown interest in and kindness to this band of young men in their preaching and teaching. When they heard of the death of the lad, they went to her house, and found that the father could not get any of his friends to come near to help him, as the boy had died of virulent confluent smallpox. With quiet courage, though they did not seem to think it courageous, though fully knowing that they faced death in doing so, they voluntarily prepared the body for burial, and carried it themselves to the grave and buried it. The body had been too long neglected and was in a shocking state. Realizing their danger they took the precaution of going and washing their clothes (for they had no second suit to change to) before returning to their homes. When I spoke in warm appreciation of their act, they only expressed surprise that the man's friends had acted as they did, saying, "Do not Christians count it a duty to help at such a time?"

I believe the Jesuit priest stationed at Jhansi was right when he said recently, in talking of mission work, "We make a great mistake in making the large cities our chief centres of work. We should get out to the villages, live in the villages, work in the villages." He himself has been a missionary, though now a chaplain, and he told of a district in Central India, where he had been engaged in village work, where ten years ago there were 5,000 Christians in connection with the Roman Catholic communion, and to-day there are 35,000.

In Ranipur sixty-five persons have been baptized during the year, making the total number of those who have received baptism there 125. But the Christian community of Ranipur is not so large as this, owing to the scattering caused by the famine.

It will be remembered that in baptizing these weavers we have not required them to break caste rules by eating and drinking with other Christians. We have been content with pointing out that those rules, though for those who have been baptized they take the place of social requirements only, are not good, and that they are to be given up when the way is open. At present to disregard them would cost these people the possibility of making their living by the old occupation in the old community. There is no question that the bonds of caste sit more lightly on many of those who have been baptized than they formerly did. Several of them have eaten and drunk with other Christians, and three or four have during the year partaken of the Communion. They all recognize that caste has no religious significance, that it is a bad social institution, and that it is to be got rid of as soon as practicable. There are now forty-eight in the Christian community of Mau, thirty-five of these having been baptized during the year. The weaver community of Mau is a very large one. The total population of the city is 19,000. It is a field in which we ought to have a strong work.

MAINPURIE STATION.

The western section of the field has been under Dr. Johnson's charge, his daughter looking after the three Bible women and the women's training class. Of the district work, Dr. Johnson writes:

The most interesting part of the year's work to me personally was an itineration of seventy-six days made in the western part of the district last Winter, with my daughter and my cousin. During this itineration I baptized in all 147 adults and children. The bulk of them were within the six-mile radius above spoken of.

Mr. Enders has had charge of the work in the eastern half of the field. He reports:

There were in the eastern half of the Mainpurie district during the year 840 baptisms. This number includes about eighty baptized in Etah district, and now cared for by the missionaries there. In my section we now enroll 1,400 Christians. Two churches were formed during the year, and we are authorized by the Presbytery to form six more at important centres. There is enough in the story to keep from despair, and sufficient to keep one humble. The evangelistic work is organized so as to group about fifteen towns, in nearly every case a bazaar village, where the Christians have generally given a house free for the teacher, except some repair. This grouping is not accidental, but admirably covers the whole territory so far opened. In all but three of the groups I kept a teacher for the greater part of the year. The vacant groups were systematically visited by men who spent a few weeks with them at a time, giving them a feeling that they were not neglected, and securing some progress among them. From about December 1 to May 1, I was generally in camp in some part of the field. The effort was to give a week or two to every group, visiting them all in turn with several workers, who went with me. In the latter part of April, on a return trip made to revisit every village before the hot weather made it impracticable, in ten days I baptized over 200 outside the older baptized communities. Inviting new territory was not entered, where undoubtedly the number of baptized might have been increased by hundreds, through fear that sufficient teachers might not be forthcoming.

Without appropriations for the work, I carried village schools at Kuraoli, Rhongoan, Bhanwat and at Mainpurie Bichwan. These have done reasonably good work for over 100 boys and girls. The schools have been under the care of Mrs. Enders, whose prizes given to the teacher when a scholar passes a grade, have had not a little to do with progress and good teaching. The Sweeper communities and people have lost none of their charm. Nowhere among them are great strides of improvement noticeable. They have no impelling enthusiasm for truth or its propagation; no clear vision of the beauty and power of the Christian life has yet mastered them as a people; they are still in the grasp of ignorance, superstition and prejudice, although with an increasing sense of the need of something better. What makes it so grandly worth while to serve them is their patience, their teachableness, their undoubted faith that somehow the Padri Sahib and the Munshi are working out their destiny. It is a picture of careless childhood blindly, yet tenaciously, clinging to those it has learned to trust and love. If this attitude on the part of grown men at times becomes very trying, on the other hand, it has in it all the promise of the growing child and the strength of the coming man. And again there is every evidence that here and there are those who have truly grasped the meaning of the Cross and are, through a new birth, worthy members of the Kingdom.

The heat of an unfamiliar sun, the difficulty in covering unfriendly distances, the matter of proper food when away from home, the problems of lifting the hundreds, fast becoming thousands, to a true standard of Christian living, combine at times to perplex one not a little.

On a hot May day I made a horseback ride of many weary miles. Towards the last I was taken with a throbbing headache, and was sick, and tired, and petulant. It was in this spirit, I fear, I looked up and Peter's old question fell from my lips: "For all this, what wilt Thou give me, Lord?"

Straightway, as if He were at my very side, He replied: "What is it you want?"

"I came to India for souls."

Promptly and unmistakably came His answer: "Ask of Me and I will give the heathen for thine inheritance."

"How many, Lord?" I eagerly asked Him.

"Look and listen," He admonished me in answer.

On that desolate spot, that hot afternoon, I saw as in a moment India's millions. Slowly and deliberately they filed past me, I looking at them, they looking at me. I saw the high-caste, the low-caste and all between; the rich and poor I saw; the strong walked contentedly along, but the sick and helpless and children went, but haltingly, as if they did not understand. And the cry of anguish that came from the suffering children, the wailing widow, and helpless poor and afflicted, I may never forget.

With love in His voice as I looked, He said to me: "There are many and their needs are great."

"Yes, Master, but how many wilt Thou give me?" and then something dawned upon me, and I added, "to help and to save?"

And clear and straight and strong came the Lord's final word: "According to your faith be it unto you."

In spite of the inadequate supervision, of ridicule and persecution and loss of position among Hindu neighbors, not a single community among the 115 that comprise our Christian population, and, so far as I can learn, not a single individual among the over 1,400 in my district have in any way denied their confession made in baptism. This is due to the grace of God, for naught else could hold so simple, so scattered, so neglected, so antagonized a people.

ETAH STATION.

During the year fifty-five have been added to the church on confession of faith. The spiritual life and activity have, on the whole, been better than the year before. Financial obligations, although heavy, have been practically all met. Sabbath-school, prayer meetings and Christian Endeavor have been regularly maintained. A number of the teachers and older scholars of the Sunday-school entered and were successful in the All-India Sunday-school six-monthly examination. Last winter a very enthusiastic preaching service, wholly voluntary, was conducted by the teachers of the day-school aided by the older boys. Decision day in the Sunday-school resulted in twenty-seven decisions. These were put under the care of the session to prepare for full communion, and some of them have been received.

Boys' School.—

The boys now do their own sewing, split their wood, grind most of the grain, help cook, and have raised part of their own vegetables. There are now fifty-one boarders. In the school seventy are enrolled.

Girls' School.—

The school has nearly doubled in size this past year. The new building is fine, and now we may expect to accomplish more. The girls have five hours of school and do all their own work.

District Work.—That part of the district lying to the north and east is in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence. Mr. Lawrence says of it:

"There are now 1,150 baptized Christians. In two places there are churches with thirty members. Many others are being prepared in other places for membership. For the care of these there are ten teachers and three preachers. The greater part of these have been faithful in their work. One or two have been discharged for inefficiency. In several respects there has been great progress among the older Christians, especially in the matter of following Christian customs. Also a good start has been made in giving. Considerable new territory has been occupied and more is lying ready to be entered.

Of the work in the western end of the district, Mr. McGaw writes:

Four new churches have been organized with total communicant roll of sixty-five, of whom all but twelve were received on examination by Committee of Presbytery. Ten were added to the Basundra Church on examination. Out of 412 baptized adherents in these five church communities, eighty-four, or a little more than one-fifth, are now communicants. The five churches have come up to the standard set for them by the Presbytery for giving. It can now be raised. There are being conducted thirty-three Sunday-schools, with a membership of 469, of whom most are Christians. In some, twenty-five or thirty candidates for baptism are awaiting the coming of the missionary.

In his personal report of the revival meetings and the evangelistic work, Mr. McGaw writes:

Old Jai Ram, blind though he is, saw new sights. At the next meeting, after having received in greater fullness the Spirit, he stood up before the leader had a chance to pray, and asked if his pastor was present; and learning that he was, asked that he come to his side. When the pastor came and spoke to him, he threw his arms about him, broke out crying and asked the pastor to forgive him for having harbored hard feelings toward him. This was not at all difficult, for neither the pastor nor the rest of us knew of the hard feelings. This brother was so stirred by the meetings, or rather by the Spirit, that he requested permission to give up his teaching work for a time, and go about among the village Christians. This meant living with outcasts, being led by the hand from village to village, through fields and over paths not always easy for one having eyes. He did go, and he and his message were a blessing everywhere. The Basundra Church organized last year has prospered. Ten have been added during the year. The community has been severely tested, and most of them have gained a victory and are stronger. The crisis of testing came with an invitation to a "maut ka khana," which means a feast in the name of and for the benefit of one dead. Mul Chand Wilson, the supply of the church, called together the little company of communicants, and reminded them that this feast was a recognition of the doctrine of transmigration of souls, and that offerings to some god was one of the features. They agreed to stand together in refusing to join, although it meant insulting life-long friends and neighbors. The opponents were marshaled, too, in such numbers and of such character as to enable them to hold a "panchayat" (the brotherhood court). It was voted that for those Christians who refused to join in this feast, the brotherhood pipe and the drinking of water with the old-style member be forbidden; in other words, it means excommunication from the caste brotherhood. This, in the case of high-caste converts, takes place, of course, at the time of baptism. With two exceptions this company remained firm, and the example has strengthened the purpose of those in other villages. It has resulted in strengthening the people themselves, and in revealing to them more clearly the possibilities within themselves. Once last year, and again this, the gifts of the Women's Presbyterian Society have been given to Etah, to assist such communities to build modest little churches with mud walls for themselves. Each community has to give in labor, or money or material, what is considered their proper proportion of the entire cost. These little chapels, if erected in advance of the church organizations, would be a help in developing the organizations.

The Paphotu people are now hard at work building their house of worship with their own hands on their own land. The room will be 9 x 22 feet inside. It has five openings, but no doors are to be put in. This will secure, to a reasonable degree, fresh air to you when you visit them. I called on them suddenly last week and found eight men hard at work and the walls about ten feet high.

Last March I conducted the first Lord's Supper ever conducted in Paphotu.

Mr. Lawrence reports :

One of my preachers is a young man who was formerly in the police. While stationed as guard over some property he and a friend had stolen and buried Rs. 200 worth of gold and silver ornaments. Soon after they were transferred and no opportunity was found for disposing of the things. While we were stationed in Etawah he came to me and I was very much impressed. Soon after we came to Etah he came over, having resigned from the police. He was afterward baptized and did good work. During the meetings he was very much affected, and confessed to this robbery. After the meetings were over he went to Ajmere, expecting to receive punishment for his crime. While on the way to where the Raja lives (it was the Raja's property), he learned that he was also on the train. He went before him and confessed it all. The Raja was very much astonished, and went along to the place where the treasure was buried. It was found. The Raja then took him to his home and entertained him two days and inquired all about Christianity. He forgave him the theft, and said if Christianity could change thieves he would be glad to have a preacher in his town.

During the year I baptized 281 persons, making about 1,200 Christians in my part of the district. These were from the Sweeper caste, but there are signs of encouragement among other castes.

In her personal report Mrs. Lawrence writes of the girls' school:

The girls' school has nearly doubled in size during this past year. The new building is fine. The girls do all their own work, and do some, but not all, of their own grinding, as many of the girls are too small to grind. I have charge of the boys' sewing class. We dismissed the tailor we had to teach them, he being unsatisfactory. There are from five to six boys in the class. They do all the sewing for the fifty-one boys, and do some for outsiders. They are now making blankets and warm coats; neither they nor I had ever cut a boy's coat, but we managed to get some cut that are hard to surpass.

GWALIOR STATION.

After Dr. Symington resigned Rev. Henry Forman took charge of the Station. He writes:

The burden of Gwalior may well rest upon us as a duty we must meet; a cry of need that goes up to God, which at present, in His Providence, we, and we alone, are in a position to meet. I went through the broad streets of the Cantonment Bazaar of Morar, a city of 25,000 inhabitants, and one that is growing. About it are the barracks once occupied by English troops, but now filled with the Maharaja's forces. Four miles away, across a broad plain, over which the mile-long citadel lying along the ridge of an unique hill, always looks on the other side of the railway and of the palace grounds, lies the city of Lashkar, a city of 100,000 people. Here are as fine streets as one will see in North India, in comparison with which the streets of Allahabad and Cawnpore are squalid and mean looking. There are well built houses on both sides, and at night the streets are lit by electric arc lights. Soon electric tram-cars are to be running on them. All is clean, with a look of prosperity. Opposite the Hall of Justice is the handsome market, built of brownstone, large and airy and with graceful ornamentations. When one leaves these main streets, however, he is at once in the midst of an ordinary Indian town, poor and dirty. I visited the temple-tombs of the Maharajas, where their ashes are deposited. These have been built at a great cost. They serve as temple as well as tomb. Here is worshipped the picture of the deceased Maharaja, as well as the Mahadeo idol. At every point one feels that not only the people, but the government is Hindu. On the other side of the city is the college building, built of brownstone, a beautiful piece of architecture, that was built by the Maharaja. There is another college in the city for the sons of chiefs of the Gwalior State. There are also in the city many high schools and vernacular schools.

And yet in all this great city, in which centres and through which passes the life of a great State, ours is the only Mission that has or can secure a foothold.

CAWNPORE STATION.

During Mr. Gillam's absence on furlough, the Rev. Henry Forman had supervision of the work of the Station, which was carried on by the Rev. M. C. David.

WESTERN INDIA MISSION.

KOLHAPUR: 200 miles southeast of Bombay; 45,000 inhabitants; station begun 1853; taken under care of the Board 1870. Missionaries—Rev. Joseph M. Goheen and Mrs. Goheen, Rev. A. W. IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. J. M. Goheen and Mrs. Goheen, Dr. A. S. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, Rev. A. W. Marshall and Mrs. Marshall, Miss Alice Giles.

The only new missionary added to the Mission during the year was borrowed from one of the American Board Missions, Miss Sarah Judson, who came into the Mission during the year through her marriage with Mr. Kernen. Mr. and Mrs. Tedford have been unable to return to India. The death of Mr. Jolly while at home on furlough has deprived the Mission of the great help which he and Mrs. Jolly were in the work in Sangli. Another great loss to the Mission was the death of Mrs. Wanless of cholera on August 12, 1906. During the year Mr. Graham was married to Miss Scheurman of the Village Settlement. After the close of the Mission year the Village Settlement was reinforced by the appointment of Miss M. C. Rebentisch. Among those who returned to United States on furlough were the Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Goheen, leaving for their third furlough after thirty-one years of service. Many besides the Christian community and the English residents were at the station to bid them farewell. It was impressive to hear the remark of the heathen ticket agent: "They have lived beautifully here for many years."

KOLHAPUR STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—The Rev. Shivaram Masoji reports for the Kolhapur Church:

Bhimabai Thakur, who was known as Amah, the oldest surviving member of our church, died in July last. She was baptized forty-one years ago by the Rev. R. G. Wilder in the year 1865. Since that time she has been a faithful and consistent Christian woman. She was of a humble disposition and was loved and trusted by all who knew her. She was about eighty years old at the time of her death.

The Lord granted her three chief requests which she used to repeat frequently while she was waiting for her call.

The first was that she be taken away suddenly and not made to suffer a lingering sickness.

The second was that she be allowed to die in the midst of her loving children and Christian friends and not among strangers.

The third was that she should be laid in the cemetery at Kolhapur beside the grave of her husband who died in 1872.

Her last illness was short. She was calm and knew that her end was fast approaching. She sent for her eldest daughter, her son-in-law and a grandson, all of different families, and taking their hands into her own, said in a feeble voice, "Love one another." When she was asked how she felt, she replied, "All is well with me. I go in peace."

A considerable number of the people of Kolhapur who have been hearing the Gospel for many years openly confess the superiority of the Christian religion and their faith in it, but owing to social and civil difficulties they are unwilling to give up all for Christ and take up their cross and follow Him openly.

A Hindu man from Halcondi came to our Sunday-school the other day and most solemnly handed me a rupee as a thank offering to the Lord Jesus. In answer to my questions, he told me that he believed in Jesus and prayed to Him daily. That he had given up idol worship long ago and had the experience that the Lord had blessed him.

The following table will show the numerical state of the Church:

|------------------------------------------|-----|
| Communicants added | 103 |
| Adults baptized | 11 |
| Children baptized | 7 |
| Received by letter | 2 |
| Dismissed by letter | 4 |
| Died | 7 |
| Disciplined | 5 |
| Whole number of communicants | 250 |
| Whole number of baptized adherents | 20 |
| Total number of baptized children | 91 |

The church is in good financial condition, having raised 716 rupees during the year, paying its pastor's salary, and closing the year with a balance of sixty-four rupees in the treasury.

Wadgav Church.—The church has been assisted in paying the pastor's salary by the Home Mission Committee of Kolhapur Presbytery. Deficient rains and lack of profitable employment led the congregation to report that it would not pay as much as heretofore and to request that Presbytery increase its help. This was not considered wise, so the response was a severing of the pastoral relation on September 29 and the pastor sent elsewhere. This leaves the little flock mourning the loss of its shepherd.

Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston's visit was a great benefit to the Mission.

Parlor meetings were held for the missionaries and English-speaking Christians; also meetings for the people, the pastor acting as translator. Dr. Johnston's addresses were most helpful, stimulating and inspiring. In this land, where such opportunities are few, they proved a great treat and spiritual uplift to the missionaries.

There are five Sunday-schools in the Kolhapur field, the largest being the school in Kolhapur City with 300 scholars, and divided into twenty classes. The two Bible women had at the beginning of the year seventy homes opened to them, and during the year forty-eight new houses were made accessible. Weekly women's meetings, the Dorcas Society, and the Women's Missionary Society have all been carried on by the India Christian women, and in the Young Men's Christian Association the average daily attendance has been about forty.

Itineration.—Mr. Simpson reports a number of itinerating trips among the villages.

Near Devarashta, in a cluster of forty-two temples, hidden in a beautiful little cove of the mountains, we were served with tea and spiced boiled milk by one of the many Brahmans, refugees from plague, occupying the temples. Educated in a Government college in Poona, contact with Europeans had liberalized his views, and a very pleasant half hour we spent with him.

On December 18, the Kolhapur outfit started into the district between the Panchaganga river and the summit of the mountain range to the north. The Gospel was preached in nine towns with their outlying divisions, Scripture portions were sold, and tracts distributed. The entire number who heard the message was 353, and in the main good attention had been paid.

Mrs. Simpson and I rode in an ox-cart, January 15, some twelve miles over cross-country roads of our Tasgav Road Station to our fourth camping place, passing Dr. Wanless's tent on the way. A drove of monkeys by day and a flock of wild pea fowl by night shared with us a grove on the outskirts of the town of Bagni. Much difficulty was experienced in getting water until the chief village officer befriended us.

Our first trip out was to Dhanli, where some public performance was being held in the open. The streets of the town were deserted, but fully a thousand people from that and neighboring villages were gathered. The town clerk took us into the midst of the crowd and had the music stopped. Fancy a circus at home being stopped that a Gospel talk might be made to the crowd gathered. Yet these people listened respectfully and attentively while two of us preached Christ. Thanking them for their attention, I offered to give a magic lantern exhibition there the same night, provided they desired it and would send two men to carry the outfit. This they readily agreed upon, but as on several other occasions no one was sent and hence no exhibition.

The sixth camp was near Amp, whither the plague had preceded us. The village officer, a Jain, was most obliging. Like most other well-to-do people of the village, he had moved out into the fields to escape the plague. It was with much sorrow that I heard of his death from plague a few weeks later. Two nights in different parts of the village the magic lantern and Scripture views drew audiences of seventy-five and eighty. Five towns had been visited when Mrs. Simpson and I had to suspend touring and return to Kolhapur.

During the touring season over 165 towns were visited, twenty-two lantern exhibitions were given, and 11,439 hearers were counted, no record having been kept for a short time.

Of one of her evangelistic experiences in the villages, Miss Johnson writes:

In one of the villages we were holding a meeting and a crowd of about 200 gathered. One of the native Christian men was speaking and the people began to ask questions, and before long he had entered into quite a discussion and many of the people began to laugh. It was almost dark, so I said we had not come to enter into any discussion with them; we had come to tell them the glad news of salvation, and if they had any questions to ask they might come to the schoolhouse where we were stopping and talk as much as they wished.

We went home, and just after dark I heard a great noise from the direction where we had been and down the street came a whole host of people minus most of their clothes, carrying torches. They were dancing and yelling at the top of their voices. About 200 of these people came along and danced for about an hour in front of the schoolhouse where I could not help but see them. It seemed as though a lot of demons had been let loose. I did not feel very comfortable to be miles away from any other white person, nor did I know at first whether there was cause for alarm or not. However, the Christian helpers said, "No, they will not hurt you," so I felt better, but I must confess that it was a relief to see the last one of them leave the place.

EDUCATIONAL.—Christian Girls' Boarding School.—

The number on the roll at the beginning of the year was 280 in all departments. During the year, ten have died, three graduated, ten sent to other schools, and nine left school to be married or for other reasons.

Of the girls graduated, one is employed as teacher in the Kodoli field and two are teaching in Kolhapur.

The industrial classes have been the same as formerly; the large and middle-sized girls serving in six classes, working from one to three hours daily, and doing all the work in the homes.

There has been more serious sickness among the girls the past year than in many years. Indeed more than there has ever been. Eight girls and one matron died during the year.

The older girls have for years had what was called the Prayer Company—chiefly to pray for themselves, the school, church and homes. Last year they enlarged their borders and became a home and foreign missionary society and prayercircle. They have some money collected and want to use it to send the Gospel to those who have not yet received it. One day a girl prayed very earnestly for the "missionaries when they are going over the mountains alone." The girl had remembered a talk on Persia given by the principal a long time before when she told them of Mr. Labaree's death. The prayer went to the heart of the principal because there are mountains that must be crossed alone by every missionary.

At one of the meetings held just after last vacation one of the girls asked if she might tell her experience. Consent was given and she told them how when she went to her people (non-Christian) she was called to the town hall and asked to answer questions as to her faith and religion. At first she said she was afraid, for there were so many people; but she said she asked Jesus to help her to answer wisely and an old man said to her, "Daughter, do not fear; answer our questions if you can," and so she answered them as well as she could, and then asked them to think more about it and return to God and He would forgive and receive them. She asked us to pray especially for the man who had seemed most earnest and had spoken kindly to her.

We heard that a man had gone to Kodoli to learn more of this religion of which the girl had told them.

Girls' day schools were maintained at Aiditvar, with an enrollment of twenty-six and an average attendance of seventeen; at Somvar, with an enrollment of sixty-two and an average attendance of twenty-one; at Porle, with an enrollment of ten and an average attendance of eight; boys' day schools at Shukrawar, with an enrollment of seventy; at Porle, with an average attendance of seventeen; at Harlundi, with an average attendance of eight.

The reading school for the village girls was attended by twelve at Wadgaon, and a similar school for boys at Minchi with an average attendance of six. Reading schools at Panhala provided for thirty more.

MEDICAL WORK.—Mrs. Marshall did all that she could during the cholera epidemic and other times during the year until she and Mr. Marshall were obliged to leave hurriedly for America after the death of one of their little children, and in view of the grave ailments of the other.

Fifteen women have been in the Alice Home during the year.

The women are learning to be quiet, clean, orderly, good women. They are able to earn part of their support by washing, grinding, weeding, sewing and going out as "helps" in times of sickness or busy days. They also take care of little orphan children.

There are fifteen women in the home. Three of them are young women whom we hope to train as Bible women. They have Bible lessons from our Bible women and daily secular lessons from a Brahman woman. And the widows in the Alice Home have cared for the little waifs and strays brought into the "Nursery."

Many of them are diseased or have been opium-fed, and it is a hard struggle to keep them through teething and other troubles; but most of the foster mothers have been so good and faithful and have tried to save them.

In January ten little boys that had grown strong and healthy were sent from this home to the Sangli Orphanage. There are at present fifteen children in the nursery.

RATNAGIRI STATION.

In addition to the regular staff of the Station, Miss Unsworth, of the Zanana Bible and Medical Mission, has been located in Ratnagiri, having been loaned by her society to the Western India Mission.

EVANGELISTIC.—

The year has been one of progress along all lines. There have been twenty additions by profession and four by letter. With two dismissals by letter, one death, and one name dropped from the roll, there are, September 30, ninety-six members. Twelve children were baptized during the year, making a total of forty-three baptized children on the roll, and a total Christian community of 139. The total native contributions were Rs. 264. Excluding the amounts contributed for building the addition to the church from both years, there is an increase of 80 per cent. over last year. This is due in part to the adoption of the envelope system of giving, and in part to a quickened spiritual life, which led many to increase the pledge given a year ago.

The Sunday-school, consisting of eleven classes with 110 pupils, has studied the International lessons with much interest and profit. Of eighteen teachers in the Bombay Presidency who passed the Indian Sunday-school Union Examination in the highest class, six were from the Ratnagiri Sunday-school.

The revival for which prayer had been made so long came after Mission meeting last year. The results of the revival were deep and lasting. All were "humbled under the mighty hand of God." Sins that had been practiced in secret were brought into the light; dishonest practices which had been suspected, but which inquiry and investigation had failed to uncover, were publicly confessed, under the Spirit's convicting power; quarrels of long standing, which had resisted man's attempts at reconciliation, were made up in presence of all.

One of the abiding results is what might be called a "sensitiveness to sin." It is not claimed that any high state of perfection has been attained. Sin still exists, but the Spirit will not let the Sin continue; it must be confessed and made right. Quarrels may occur, but they cannot continue as before.

Other permanent results are increased interest in the study of God's Word, better apprehension of the truth, greater power in prayer, greater courage to witness to the heathen and more power in giving the message.

A few special cases shall be given: The one case is that of Samuelrao, one of our teachers. Three years ago the Station was in need of some teachers, and a missionary of a neighboring mission, in answer to a letter of inquiry for teachers, sent Samuelrao. This missionary gave very little information concerning him. After Samuelrao had been at work for some time, he went to the missionaries in charge and told them about his past life. Had these things been known before he would not have been employed; but as he expressed a desire to do better he was not dismissed. During the six months preceding the revival, prayer meetings were held daily for a revival of God's work. Samuelrao came into much blessing at this time. When others were discouraged at the lack of interest in the meetings and in the subject of revival, manifested by many, and it was thought best to close the meetings, he alone urged that the meetings be continued. During the revival he came into greater blessing. Three weeks after the revival began, he went as a delegate to the meeting of the General Assembly at Nagpur. Before leaving he asked for a few days additional leave to attend to some personal affairs. What these personal affairs were no one knew until six months later. Last July over in Kashmir, a young lady of the Canadian Presbyterian Mission of Indore told what these personal affairs were. She told some missionaries from Ratnagiri that she had heard about the revival at Ratnagiri, and had heard it criticised very much, but that all these criticisms were more than answered by the case of Samuelrao. He had formerly worked as a teacher for the Canadian Mission and had been discharged. This young lady said that of all the people she had ever known Samuelrao was the worst, that he was guilty of all kinds of sin, had broken every commandment, had led others astray, and there did not seem to be anything good about him. Last December Samuelrao went from Nagpur to Indore. He did not go to the missionaries to tell them that he had reformed, but he went to the people whom he had wronged and had led into sin, and spent whole nights in prayer with and for them. In one place a real revival broke out as a result of his prayer and work. He went into the bazar and confessed to shopkeepers that he had stolen goods of certain values from him, and made restitution in every case. This young lady knew nothing of this until after Samuelrao had left, when the people came and told her. They could scarcely believe it was he, and they wondered what had happened to him. There was nothing had happened to him. The Lord had met him, and he was walking with his Lord. He was bound to walk where the Lord led. The young lady closed the recital of this story in the words with which she began, that if the change in Samuelrao's life were the only result of the revival in Ratnagiri, it was sufficient to answer every criticism that had been made against it.

The church is abundantly able to support its own pastor, and steps are being taken to that end.

The ladies of the Station, in addition to local evangelistic work, have been busy in itineration also. The women of the leper hospital and the men of the leper asylum have been visited regularly and "there has been a wonderful softening of the hearts of the women, and a readiness to listen as never before."

EDUCATIONAL.—In the boarding school there are 132 boys and two girls in the English Vernacular department.

Four girls have also completed the work required by the Mission for Bible women of the lowest grade. The average attendance has been the highest in the history of the school. Three little Mahar boys attend regularly, and are doing all the Scripture with the Christian children. The father of two of these boys was much distressed when school was closed for a month's vacation in April. He came and asked if his boys could not be taught during vacation, as he was afraid they would forget what they had learned.

There are six Christian teachers in the school, and our Brahman pundit is now employed as a regular teacher. The interesting class is the one composed of those who were brought to the Orphanage as little babies.

Two day schools are being maintained in Patawane and Ratnagiri Town. Seven women are in the Widows' Home. The Hon. Gertrude Kinnaird and Miss Agnes Hill organized a Young Women's Christian Association among the women and girls in May.

The Orphanage.—Eleven children have been received into the church from the Orphanage.

The boys and girls are for the most part self-governing. The girls are divided into four groups, and an "Aka" (elder sister) is in charge of each group. She looks after the clothing, washing and bathing of her little flock. The groups take cooking in turns. They conduct prayers in turn, and in church each Aka has her own by her side. The boys are also divided into two groups, and two boys have charge of each group. They look after those in their care in the same manner as the girls.

In January there was an epidemic of smallpox in the home. For a time it seemed that all would be taken down with the disease. The civil surgeon came daily and Mr. Wiley attended to all their medicines, and it is with thankful hearts that we write that all recovered and are very well.

The doctor said that all the children should be taken out of the home, and the house thoroughly aired and disinfected; so in April, during the school vacation, teachers, boys, girls and babies were all packed off to Pali, fifteen miles from Ratnagiri, for a vacation. It was hard to tell who enjoyed it most, missionaries, teachers or children. It was such pleasure to hear their songs in the evening. One evening when all were supposed to be asleep, some little girls were found sitting out in the moonlight. When asked what they were doing, "Only telling stories" was the reply.

Many of the children are from villages within a few miles of Pali; and one of the treats was to hear these children tell their experiences when they returned from a day's visit to their old homes. From one town three of our older children came, one brother and two sisters. They wanted so much to visit their old home, so one day the masters and their wives went with them. Can any one who saw it ever forget the joy of that party when it returned? When it told of how the people of the village had listened to the Gospel and how glad the people were to see the children? The father and mother are both dead, but uncles, aunts and cousins are still there. Arjun, being the eldest grandson, they wanted him to come back to keep up the family name. Arjun told them that he was not yet through school, but just as soon as he was ready for work he was coming back to be a Christian worker in the village. They said, "When you are ready to come, we will provide the school and all for you."

The people who came to see the children never went away without hearing the Gospel. Groups of children would gather around and sing for them, and then the way of salvation would be told.

The work is being carried on at the two out-stations, Pali, where there is a school with fifteen boys, and at Ambashet.

KODOLI STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—

From the beginning there was a serious division in the church which increased as the days went by. The occasion of it was that one of the elders was accused of a gross offense against morality. The real cause was jealousy and personal animosity. The charge was taken before the Kolhapur Presbytery by a document giving the names of some twenty persons as witnesses of the alleged offense. A commission appointed by the Presbytery to try the case consisted of two foreign missionaries and two Indian pastors. After a thorough investigation made at a protracted session held at Kodoli, they brought in a verdict that the charge was not proven and they believed the elder to be innocent. The witnesses, whose testimony consisted mainly of mere strenuous assertions that the man was guilty, headed by two of the elders in the church, raised a great outcry that the commission had convicted the whole church of falsehood. They acted in defiance of the judgment given and attempted by rioting and mob law to force the accused man, not only to retire from the office of elder and from membership in the church, but also to give up all employment in the Mission and even his Government service. In this effort they were joined by a number of persons who had been excommunicated from the church for flagrant offenses, and by others who were notorious criminals. By incendiarism the elder lost his house in the town, a temporary building he had erected outside the village from which to watch his fields and live in during the prevalence of plague, and three valuable stacks of fodder built in as many different localities. A building in the fields owned by his father was burned down and one of the cattle found in it badly injured before it could be released from the stall, and the father's house in the town was set on fire; but the flames were discovered and extinguished by the neighbors before much damage was done. These things were going on for several months; at a time, too, when special evangelistic services were being held and the people were meeting two and three times a day to pray for a revival. Undoubtedly there were persons who received a blessing at these special services, but the spiritual condition of the people as a whole was not improved, and the division in the church at the end was more pronounced than at the beginning.

The missionary in charge was much troubled and perplexed over the state of the church. After much thought and prayer he took a decided stand and told the people that when the church had hundreds of names on its roll they should not look to the missionary as their pastor, that he would not hereafter act as the Moderator of the church Session, nor baptize any more adults in the Kodoli Church. It was their duty to lay aside their partisan feeling, unite in calling an Indian pastor who was not in any way identified with either faction in the church, select elders who would uphold his hands, and then altogether seek after and labor for the welfare of the whole Church. If they would endeavor to do so, they would not only receive a blessing for themselves but they would become a blessing to those about them.

The church members are so accustomed to receive and not to give that under existing conditions any increase in the membership of the church makes a corresponding increase in financial embarrassment. Even when the elders and prosperous members of the church come begging for help for the poor of the congregation, and were separately told that the missionary would give double the amount that any one, or all of them together, would give to relieve the needy, thus enabling them to distribute three times the amount they would subscribe, they could not be induced to give a single rupee. This problem of giving threatens to wreck the new Presbyterian Church of India, or at least the connections with it of the churches in the Western India Mission field. Already the native members of the Kolhapur Presbytery decline or reluctantly accept appointment as delegates to Synod and General Assembly unless some missionary assumes the responsibility of bearing their traveling expenses to the place of meeting. A remedy for this difficulty is so urgent that the Kolhapur Presbytery at its last meeting took an action to the effect that members of churches within its bounds who do not contribute regularly for the work of the church, should not be allowed to hold office in the church or have a right to vote or speak in any of the deliberative assemblies of the church. This may work a change for the better, but a more effective measure would be an agreement among the missionaries to absolutely refuse any financial aid whatever to a member of the church unless the native Christians contributed an amount bearing some definite proportion to it.

There were rays of light in the prevailing darkness. One of the most interesting services is the little children's meeting on Sabbath afternoon, when one is surprised to see how the minds of most of them are stored with Bible passages and Bible stories.

At noon on Sabbath day a service has been held for Hindu people in town. A little group of good caste children has occupied one corner of the town schoolroom, carefully holding their clothes from the polluting touch of the low caste. A large group of women has come to listen most eagerly to the stories of Christ's life, while the largest group was of Maha and Mang children, so that we often had eighty or ninety pairs of eyes scanning the picture roll. Luke the compounder has been the enthusiastic superintendent of this Sunday-school.

Miss A. A. Browne and Dr. McArthur made a short tour from November 21, 1905, to January 6, 1906, twenty villages being reached. Dr. McArthur dispensed medicine at the tent.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Brownie Orphanage consists of two main departments, the boys' school and dormitory and the girls'. A number of the more advanced children are in our Mission boarding schools at Sangli and Kolhapur, and those too little to come to school are domiciled in the homes of the Christian people. The work in the boys' school has been encouraging. Gradually our boys are creeping upward in their studies, so that we have during the year had fourteen boys pass into the fourth standard, of whom all but one are Brownies.

Until August we had two Brahman teachers who were interested in their scholars and were doing good work. After they had been teaching more than a year and the boys were showing the fruits of their instruction, the Brahmans of Kodoli held a meeting and ordered the teachers to resign their positions in the Mission school. The teachers, one of whom had himself received a good education in a Mission school, reluctantly gave up their work. They had not the courage to brave the ostracism which they would incur by remaining in the school. The Brahmans took action to the effect that any member of their community who should continue to teach Christian boys in Kodoli should be put out of caste.

Of the Industrial work for the orphans, Miss S. G. Brown writes:

On my return from Mission meeting last year, forty boys began work on the new Sloyd room, and continued until the opening of the revival meetings in the middle of January. Before the close of these meetings in March, I was taken seriously ill, and as I had no assistant in the wood-working department, the school necessarily came to a standstill and has remained so until the present time.

The Kindergarten classes of the vernacular schools have been carried on by an assistant a large part of the year.

Schools.—Beside the Station schools at Kodoli, there are eight village schools in the Station field.

To this work there has been opposition on the part of the people of the higher castes, who look upon efforts to educate the children of those lower in the social scale as an insult and injury to themselves. All the Mahars of a neighboring village sent a written petition begging for a Christian school-master to teach their children, promising to provide a place for the school to be held. Things went on smoothly for three months, then came a letter from the fathers of the school-boys, expressing their appreciation of the kindness of the missionary in granting their request, but declaring their purpose not to send their boys to the school any more. They wrote that they had nothing against the master, that he was a man of exemplary conduct and had faithfully taught their children. They then explained their apparent inconsistency thus: "Because of the predominating influence of the Jains (a caste more intolerant than the Brahmans even) our town has decided to punish the Mahars for bringing a Christian master, by refusing to give them the share of the village grain which they would otherwise receive. Therefore we do not want the master; so give him work in some other place, wherever you may wish." Such are some of the things that make it so difficult to start and carry on Christian education among Indian villagers.

MEDICAL WORK.—The medical work has gone on much as usual this year, not quite so many patients as in former years; either there has been less sickness, or the people have been too busy to come for medicine. As there have been good rains, there has been much work to keep them in their fields. Another thing to be thankful for is that there has been no plague in Kodoli since the new year, although it has been very severe in some of the surrounding villages.

During the year, 3,940 new patients and 3,469 returning patients, making a total of 7,409, were treated in the dispensary. There were only forty-one patients in the hospital. In addition to these a number were treated at the tent when the missionaries were on tour.

PROPERTY.—

There has been much trouble in connection with the Mission property at Kodoli. Many years ago the late Rev. Mr. Ferris secured a site for a dispensary, a part of the ground being granted by the Kolhapur State. A large room in the building was intended, as is generally the case in Mission dispensaries, for religious services and was so used from the time of its erection. Some months ago the chief revenue officer of the Kolhapur State notified the missionary in charge that he had learned that the building was lately being used in a different way from that for which it was intended. He requested to be informed what reason there was that the Mission should not be required to pay rent on the land, and intimated that an answer must be given within eight days, or nothing that would be said afterwards would be taken into consideration. It transpired in connection with this matter that the town officers had reported to the State that the medicines in the building were contained in a few bottles on a shelf and the dispensary was "a mere pretext for carrying on other work, a statement that was entirely and wilfully incorrect. The chief revenue officer also imposed fines on buildings erected by Mr. Ferris with the sanction of the State fourteen years ago; he also imposed fines on buildings for the erection of which permission had been granted to Dr. Wilson and Mr. Tedford in famine times, the buildings being built at that time with the object of giving employment to persons suffering for want of food; he also imposed fines for building on land on which no buildings have been erected. It is one of the strange laws of India that one is liable to fine for building on his own land, and that, too, even when he has received permission from the State to build. No complaint is made, therefore, because of the simple fact that fines are imposed; but in this case the fines are exceedingly excessive, far beyond what is right or reasonable. A fine of Rs. 18,000 is put on land the purchase price of which was no less than Rs. 100, and the total amount of fines and increased assessment for using lands for building which are entered in Government Revenue Survey Records as reserved for agricultural purposes is upwards of Rs. 31,000, when of that land more is available for cultivation, and actually under cultivation, than was the case before the Mission owned the property. The Maharaja of Kolhapur has graciously stopped proceedings in the matter until an appeal has been disposed of; but the difficulty is the more serious as there is every reason to believe that the course of the local officials has been inspired by influences from outside of the native States.

SANGLI STATION.

Almost an entire absence of plague this year; an exceptionally good rainfall, and consequent good crops, give us much in this respect to be thankful for in the past months, and hopeful for the future, since the threatening cloud of famine no longer hovers over us.

Twenty-two members have been added to the church during the year, twelve on confession of faith. There has been noticeable growth in the lives of some of the boys. A Christian Endeavor Society has been made up of thirty-two boys, some of whom have given much help in bazar preaching. The Sunday-school is organized according to the standing in the day school, with classes for men and for women added.

July 14th last the Indian Sunday-school examination was held, and some 134 sat for it, of whom about 69 have passed.

Town Sunday-schools.—Miss Enright has carried on two Sunday-schools in the town during the year. One, an open-air Sunday-school, is held in the Marle wadely. Missionary and children gather in a little native veranda, for which Miss Enright offered to pay a small rent, but the Hindu woman said, "You are welcome to come; we don't want your money." There is a convenient ledge from which the large picture roll is hung; the missionary sits on a low stool, and the children, twenty or thirty in number, gather around and for about an hour listen to the story of the picture, learn hymns and Catechism questions. Then the stool, conveniently hollow inside, is turned upside down, books placed inside for carriage, and a chorus of salaams indicate that Sunday-school is over for another week.

The Boys' High School.—The boys have had to do housework, each one of them, every day, and so working out their fees, besides taking military drill. They have also been encouraged to play in their free hours, and lately have gone into cricket with more than the usual enthusiasm. This doubtless accounts for much of their good health. They have also been kept very busy with their studies, and on this account, doubtless, they have kept us less busy with discipline.

The High School has always had grave difficulty in Sangli (but especially this year) with its teaching staff. It is impossible to have a good school without good teachers, and the difficulty is threefold: 1st, They have no funds to provide proper salaries for good teachers. 2d, Sangli cannot, as an educational market, furnish more than a few good High School teachers; the best they have now are from Kolhapur. 3d, It seems almost impossible to secure good Christian teachers for the High School. Recently two Christian teachers suddenly left without notice. It is difficult to bring either class to any code of honor as to their engagements.

An effort was made to get the boys to take up the Indian Sunday-school Union's International Bible Reading Association Scheme, and it was an agreeable surprise to find about half the students already pursuing the course.

All the forty regular and irregular students of the High School are now Christians except two in the lower standards.

Thirty-one young men have been installed in the Normal department and eight in the Theological department.

Industrial School.—The school will feel greatly the loss of Mr. Jolly, who has been with it from the beginning.

In carpentry most of the boys are still working at the course of lessons. Those who have completed the course have been given other work to do. Tables, chairs, desks, doors, windows, cupboards, and repairs of all kinds have furnished employment.

Much of the time of the boys engaged in blacksmithing has been used in making and repairing tools for the other trades. Two more large tanks have been made and sent to Kodoli. The boys are just now busy making pocket knives.

The metal workers have hammered steadily through the year, and are now able to turn out an aluminum vessel "while you wait," if you are not in too much of a hurry. Copper, brass and aluminum vessels for both European and native use and a variety of repairs have made up the bulk of the year's work. Three of the boys who have been the longest at the business are now collecting tools preparatory to leaving school and setting up for themselves in partnership.

The sewing class has been made up of four boys from the school, one former student who is now supporting himself, and one young man who recently turned from Mohammedanism to Christianity. They have made good progress. Their work has included all the school clothes needed for the Industrial School during the year and for about thirty boys of the Station School.

The one aim which has been kept steadily in view has been that of fitting the boys to earn their own livelihood here in our own field. At the close of the year the number in the different trades are as follows:

|-------------------------|----|
| Carpentry | 20 |
| Blacksmithing | 5 |
| Masonry | 8 |
| Metal Work | 7 |
| Sewing | 6 |
| Cane Work | 1 |
| Total | 47 |

Station Boarding Schools.—The Station School which was created at the last Mission meeting is composed of the former orphan boys and the Boarding School boys who were under the fourth vernacular standard. The Mission appointed Mr. Kernan to take charge of this school, with the understanding that the small boys, thirty in number, should be domiciled at the Industrial School dormitory; the large boys, about seventy-five in number, to be boarded with the High School boys.

Day Schools.—A small day school with an attendance of sixteen, both boys and girls, and a night school for young men with an attendance of about eight, has recently been started in Sangli waddy by one of our church members living there. This is entirely a voluntary work on the part of the man in question, who chooses to give a couple of hours a day and his evenings to this work.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Dr. Irwin has held preaching services on the veranda of the church in the Bazaar Saturday and Sunday evenings.

Sangli Bazaar is on Saturday and many can then be reached from outlying villages. They have usually had a small crowd of thirty or fifty listeners, and in general good order and attention. They have used the Sunday-school roll pictures to add to the interest.

Miss Enright has had charge of the evangelistic work among the women, and has gone out to some of the nearby villages.

In some of the villages Gospels have been sold and tracts have been distributed in all. The village people always listen with interest, if we except one very religious village of Haripur, where the party was followed from one end of the village to the other by a crowd of men and boys, throwing small stones and refusing to allow the Gospel to be preached.

In one village a man, weaver by occupation and caste, gave the missionary and her friends a cordial welcome and said he had given up worshipping his gods several years before, because they would not answer his prayers, and had since been praying toward the Sun, and taking the name of Jesus, of whom he seemed to have very vague ideas. This man eagerly bought a Gospel for himself and one also for a neighbor.

The tonga driver on these trips is an important member of the party. Although a Hindu he takes a lively interest in the expeditions, generally selects the village for the day from his knowledge of the country roads, and is always anxious that invitations from the people should be responded to. It was a joyful surprise to the missionary one day on the way to a village, when this man told her that a few days before he had given up his idols and begun to worship the true God.

MIRAJ STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—The Church, with the exception of some internal dissensions which were largely allayed by the influence of a native pastor from Bombay, has flourished, the membership and attendance have increased, the spiritual life has been somewhat deepened, the contributions have almost doubled, and the organization of a choir has added to the interest and attractiveness of the service.

In the town, homes hitherto closed to the Christian worker have been opened and the visits have been attended with considerable encouragement. On one occasion, while in the dhobie district, a noble-looking white-haired old man asked why the people of the missionary's land listened to and accepted the teaching of Hindu swamis. He was a well-read temple priest.

One woman whose conscience had been touched wondered how she could become a Christian, when it involved such stupendous sacrifices as giving up lying, stealing and vituperation. But she has been a regular attendant upon the women's prayer meetings, and in time will learn to live without the virtues mentioned.

Mr. Richardson spent some time touring in the Deccan and in the Konkan north of Vengurle in company with Mr. Hannum. His experiences were varied and interesting, ranging from persecutions by Brahmans with threats of ejection from their camping place, to life in a one-time Maharajah's palace built on the high bank of a beautiful river. In the former case passive resistance won the day, and even brought the pleader and subjudge—whose professional aid the Brahmans had sought—over to the enemy in so far that they asked for Bibles and conversed freely on religious topics.

The people generally listened to the preaching of the Gospel quietly and attentively, sometimes asking very intelligent questions and many saying they had never heard the message before. Women would burst out crying as they heard, and in one case a leader among the people cast himself headlong at the feet of the preachers asking what he should do to be saved.

EDUCATIONAL.—In the Girls' School there has been an average daily attendance of seventeen. The boys' school has numbered some eighteen or twenty half-fed and half-clad urchins, whose ignorant parents rejoice in the progress of their children and permit them to pray Christian prayers in the home and to ask God's blessing on their meals.

LEPER ASYLUM.—There have been more lepers in the asylum this year than ever before, there having been an average daily attendance of more than thirty-eight.

The whole support comes from the "Mission to Lepers in India and the East," although two or three gifts have been received from private individuals.

THE HOSPITAL.—The Medical Staff and Acting Faculty of the Medical School—Drs. Wanless and Heston—were glad to welcome Dr. Goheen to their ranks in January. His work in the laboratory especially, where he has reduced order out of chaos by classifying and labeling pathological specimens, has been of inestimable value. The medical work of the year just closed is the largest ever known in Miraj. In the out-door dispensary the records show a total attendance of 13,643, of whom 5,899 were new patients and 7,734 returning. In the hospital 1,417 patients were treated, and in the hospital and dispensary together 2,083 operations were performed, comprising a wide range of surgery—the maimed, halt, blind, and nearly every surgical disease that flesh is heir to. Patients have come from every principal district in the Bombay Presidency, and many from regions far beyond in other parts of India.

The medical school has been carried on with seven in the hospital assistant's class and three student compounders for a whole or a part of the year. The medical school is now in its fourth and last year, and its members give promise of becoming efficient helpers in the mission work of coming days.

Medical touring has been engaged in at rare intervals, at which times sites for two new medical out-stations have been selected at Vita and Palus in the Satara district. These towns are forty-five and sixty miles respectively from Miraj, and satisfactory negotiations are now in progress for securing land for building purposes.

The Nursing department has been under the direction of Miss Patterson. During the year one nurse has been graduated, and is now occupying a responsible position in the hospital at Nagpur. We expect her to be a credit to her training. The present class consists of five young women who have shown much interest in their work and steady improvement in neatness and efficiency. They have had regular instruction in Anatomy, Physiology and Nursing, which has been supplemented by classes in English, Music and Physical Culture.

VENGURLE STATION.

Miss Thompson and Miss Ferguson, of the Zenana Bible and M. Mission, joined the Station in April and gave their great help to Mr. and Mrs. Hannum. The Station reports:

Our field consists of not only Vengurle Town with its 11,000 inhabitants but hundreds of villages, making a total population of 800,000 Hindus, Mohammedans and Roman Catholics.

Young ministers at home longing for larger parishes could find them here in this field where we now have a ratio of one Christian worker to about 100,000 people; and, as proved by experience, a medical missionary would find an unexcelled opportunity for service to thousands of grateful sick folk.

We praise God for the open doors that have enabled us to carry the Gospel into scores of homes; to the crowds on the streets and in the market; to the passengers on the coast steamers from many parts of India and speaking many languages; and for the long prayed-for schools now open in the town and vicinity.

Thousands of people have heard the Gospel preached in and about Vengurle; 6,000 tracts have been distributed, nearly 1,000 Gospels have been sold, besides small religious books and several whole Bibles and Testaments; 150 children have come under Christian influence in the schools, and our hearts are full of praise for the wonderful opportunities that have been ours.

EVANGELISTIC.—There have been no additions on confession of faith during the year. Sunday-schools, preaching services, men's and women's classes, and all the work of the Station has been carried forward energetically.

Most of the church members attended Dr. H. A. Johnston's meetings in Ratnagiri, and some of them sold Gospels to the passengers on the cargo boats out in the harbor. Often the passengers would be glad to get the books and sometimes a young man would show a preference for one Gospel over another, and Kesav would learn that the New Testament was a familiar book to many who had been students in Mission schools; while others would tear up the books and tell Kesav to come and get the pieces.

Throughout the year street preaching has been carried on. Tukaramyi had some heated discussions with the people on the streets, and since the most violent opponent to the Gospel has died of plague, the people have seemed a little subdued, and, while not yet willing to accept Christ, have given more attention to the preaching. Most strenuous efforts have been made to appease the gods and have plague removed. This being said to be the first epidemic of any kind for a century, the people were panic-stricken. Day after day the gods were carried about the streets, with much dancing and music. The difficulty in getting plague stopped, as explained by an educated man, was that the gods were not yet all of one mind. Finally a special priest was called and, though the people are poor, an offering of 1,000 rupees was made, with the singular consequence that plague increased and all who could afford to go left town. All this was used to good effect in the street preaching. Some of the people were sorely disappointed that after all the offerings and sacrifices the pest was not stayed; and expressing condemnation of the leaders of the worship and of those who danced under the influence of the deity, they seized one of the gods, locked it in a room where it is yet, and beat the dancers. May God have mercy on these blind people! Tukaramyi tells of another case where a man was wading out in a stream to immerse his god Ganpati. The water rose and both god and worshipper were drowned. When Tukaramyi spoke of this a man replied, "Whatever the one Creator God chooses to do, He will do."

Many young men have come to the Mission bungalow for personal conversation.

The leading young lawyer of Vengurle said one night in the bungalow, "Perhaps there are not many willing to take so difficult a stand, but I for one am leading a better life because of the influence of the missionaries in this place, and many of us are Christians at heart."

Of some of the village touring the report states:

At Kudal, the party lodged in the State bungalow, a converted mosque. The local judge and magistrate most politely received the missionaries, the magistrate showing them through the crowded street with the liveried peon going ahead to make room, for it was market day and thousands of buyers and sellers crowded the way. The magistrate, though a Brahman, stood beside the missionaries while they preached to the throng. Such courtesies are a welcome encouragement.

At a village near Acare, a group of Brahmans after listening to a statement of the claims of Christ disputed warmly. The leading man of the group arose and spoke with great dignity and eloquence as well as with fluency and warmth in defense of Hinduism. A few minutes later when about to take leave the Christian preacher said to him, "If you yourself do not become a Christian, your children will, or if they do not, at least their children will." He replied simply, "I know it."

At Naringra there were some gratifying little audiences, but the juvenile element proved troublesome. The boys would buy a Gospel at one pice (half a cent) and then, with shouts and dancing, burn it up before the tent.

There are four day schools with 150 children enrolled. Some difficulty was experienced with the girls' school in the Parabha Vada.

One morning a noisy opponent stopped at the school. After some angry words about the people allowing themselves to be deceived into opening the school, he passed on and school quieted down. He said he knew that the whole meaning of such plans was to Christianize the children and thereby pollute them. In the afternoon not a pupil appeared. The teacher sat down and waited developments. An hour and a half passed by and then the Phanjador (or local magistrate) appeared. "Why are you sitting there idle?" he exclaimed. Tukaramji smilingly replied, "I am just waiting for the children to come; they have forgotten the time perhaps." The magistrate's angry voice could be heard calling to the children and soon ten much frightened little girls came hurrying into school. "What does this mean? Are you to be offered free education and then sit at home? What a trouble you all are!" With this he left and school has gone on ever since.

Mr. Hannum has acted as a member of the Vengurle Municipal Council, and has both done useful service to the community in this way and helped with missionary influence.

VILLAGE SETTLEMENT.

Miss Scheurman, married to Mr. Graham, and Miss Giles returned home on furlough, left only Miss Wilder and Mrs. Havens as members of the settlement. Mrs. Havens has been in Kolhapur during the year.

Miss Wilder has been most of the time in the districts, first in a chief's bungalow at Kini and later in a Government bungalow at Kasegaon. During the cool season she endeavored to help the Christian community of Wadgaon and Kini.

Land has at last been acquired at Islampuhr, but no bungalow has yet been built.

At Kasegaon, during the rains, Miss Wilder's Christian servants were her only helpers.

In that region, where white faces are seldom seen, many people come to the bungalow, mainly out of curiosity, but go away having heard of the true God "which taketh away the sin of the world." The people are specially invited to attend the Sabbath afternoon services, and sometimes as many as seventy-five men, women and children attend.

A few are earnestly desiring to know more of God and are talking of becoming Christians. One of the Christian men has conducted a little school for Mahar and Mang boys who wished to learn to read.

A teacher is needed in this place who can, in addition to the school work, preach in Kasegaon and surrounding villages.

MISSIONS IN JAPAN.

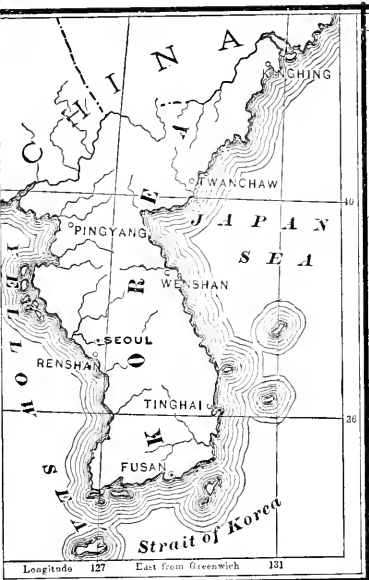

The year of work covered by this report began in Japan under the new conditions following the establishment of peace between Japan and Russia. The first feelings of discontent among the people, expressing themselves in resentment against the United States for its part in bringing about peace, soon gave way to the higher feelings of gratitude and good will; and the consciousness on the part of the nation of its position of honor and responsibility among the nations of the earth, produced a more favorable atmosphere for missionary work than had existed for some time.

As Dr. D. C. Greene, of the Congregational Mission, writes in the excellent annual survey of the Mission work in Japan, entitled "The Christian Movement in Japan":

The good sense of the nation quickly reasserted itself and affairs in the capitol resumed their usual course; indeed, the promptness of the reaction may well be regarded as possessing more real significance than the short-lived disorder. It is true that the Ministry felt compelled to resign, but their resignation was brought about by proper methods and strengthened rather than otherwise the hands of the friends of constitutional government. It became more and more evident as time went on that the people welcomed peace with glad hearts. No doubt there were some who were thoughtless enough to clamor for the continuance of the war, but they were few and exerted little or no influence upon the sentiment of the nation.

Looking back after nearly a year of peace, it is difficult to understand how any friend of Japan could have been willing to face the loss of life and treasure involved in a prolongation of the strife, in the hope of better terms. The terms secured by the treaty were in every way honorable to Japan and reveal a wise and far-seeing statesmanship on the part of the Japanese Commissioners themselves and of the Government whose agents they were.

With the close of the war there has come to all classes of the people a strong desire to apply to commerce and industry the same intelligence and energy which characterized the army and navy so conspicuously during war. The growth of the export trade especially, which will be noticed in another section, will plainly illustrate the increasing efficiency of the nation. In the fields of education and religion a similar advance is hardly less evident! The nation is as never before conscious of its power, and under the stimulus of this consciousness we may expect a more rapid growth in every department of life. One accustomed to the conditions of life in Japan can hardly fail to be struck by the signs of a new energy. In conversation with men of affairs it is at once made clear that they are thinking in larger numbers, and are forming plans on a larger scale than ever before. All classes face the future with a spirit of expectancy.

The war gave Japan entire control over Korea and the leading position in China. The consequences in Korea are referred to in the report of that field. The consequences with reference to China are seen in the influence of Japan in the new education in China, and in the presence of 15,000 students from China in the educational institutions of Tokyo, where many of them are imbibing the wildest political theories, but where also they are open in a unique way to Christian influence.

The dissatisfaction of the people with the terms of peace led to the resignation of Count Katsura, who had held office for nearly five years. The new Ministry under Marquis Saionji is the first Ministry thus far under the presidency of the leader of a political party. Some have taken the view that this is a substantial advance toward party government in the English sense of that term. Dr. Greene says:

There is a large body of young men, graduates of the universities and "higher schools" (institutions ranking, theoretically at least, with the upper years of the German gymnasia), who stand strongly in favor of the non-partisan theory of the Ministry. While sufficiently progressive in other things, on this question they support the old-time conservatives and they have checked to a considerable extent the tide which a few years ago set so powerfully toward the British system of Parliamentary government. The ebb and flow of public sentiment on this subject possesses interest for all students of constitutional government.

The number possessing the right of suffrage in the national election of 1903 was 1,073,943; in that of 1904 it was 893,383. The whole number of votes cast at the latter election was 533,659.

Among the important political measures of the year was the passage of the bill for the nationalization of railways. A strong effort to decentralize the police system, so that the police might be subject to the respective municipalities, was unsuccessful. The struggle against centralization is less accentuated than it was ten years ago, although this tendency may be due to the preoccupation of the people in other matters.

The last census returns available give the population of the country as 46,732,138. There are only twenty-four cities of more than 50,000 inhabitants, and only one, Tokyo, with more than a million.

During the year there was a severe famine in the Miyagi, Fukushima and Iwate Prefectures, leading to great suffering. Generous contributions poured in from without, especially from the United States. As the famine relief was largely secured by and administered through the Christian agencies, it went far to dispose the people favorably toward Christianity, as the practical sympathy of the West shown to wounded soldiers during the war had done. All over the country where the soldiers have gone, a better knowledge and larger appreciation of Christianity have been carried.

There are 7,551,445 children of school age between six and fourteen in Japan. Of these 5,565,496 are enrolled in the schools. The cost of the Government system of education per capita of population is ninety-two sen. Regarding the teaching of morality and religion in the schools, the Rev. A. Pieters, of the Dutch Reformed Mission, writes in a careful paper:

There is one subject prominent in the Japanese schools to which nothing corresponds in the American. This is morals, which appears in the curriculum of nearly every school below the university. However crowded the course of study may be, one or two periods a week are always set apart for this branch, and even when the regulations allow the hours devoted to other subjects to be cut down, this is usually excepted.

The authoritative standard of morality in Japanese education is the Imperial Edict issued in the year 1890. This is regarded with the highest reverence as an epitome of all human duty. It is read at all commencement exercises and on other occasions of high ceremony. During the reading all present stand with bowed and uncovered heads. The official copy of each school is kept in a special box, and is taken out and unrolled before the reading and replaced after it with the greatest ceremony. The text of this important paper is as follows:

"Our ancestors founded the State on a vast basis, while their virtues were deeply implanted, and Our subjects, by their unanimity in their great loyalty and filial affection, have in all ages shown them in perfection. Such is the essential beauty of Our national polity, and such, too, is the true spring of Our educational system. You, Our beloved subjects, be filial to your parents, affectionate to your brothers, be loving husbands and wives, and truthful to your friends. Conduct yourselves with modesty, and be benevolent to all. Develop your intellectual faculties and perfect your moral powers by gaining knowledge and by acquiring a profession. Further, promote the public interests and advance the public affairs; ever respect the national constitution and obey the laws of the country; and in case of emergency courageously sacrifice yourselves to the public good. Thus offer every support to our Imperial dynasty, which shall be as lasting as the universe. You will then not only be Our most loyal subjects, but will be enabled to exhibit the noble character of your ancestors.

"Such are the testaments left us by Our ancestors, which must be observed alike by their descendants and subjects. These precepts are perfect throughout all ages and of universal application. It is Our desire to bear them in Our heart in common with you, Our subjects, to the end that we may constantly possess these virtues."

On the basis of the moral teaching contained in this Edict, regular text-books are prepared for all grades. The Rev. H. V. S. Peeke, of Saga, Japan, some time ago made a careful examination of these text-books in the lower grades. He found little to criticise and much to praise. The virtues of loyalty, patriotism, obedience to parents, benevolence, honesty, punctuality, truthfulness, etc., are all well inculcated, and enforced by the sayings and doings of famous men.

No doubt this teaching is interesting and effective in the lower grades. It is often said, however, by both teachers and pupils that as the latter grow older the moral teaching loses both interest and power. A student of the Koto Gakko once said to the writer: "Of all our studies, ethics is the most tedious. Our teachers tell us we must be honest, truthful, virtuous—all of which we know very well, but they impart to us no moral power to do these things." This is exactly what we should expect. The modern student needs something more than a mere reiteration of moral maxims to make his morality pure and strong. He needs the sense of responsibility to God, of an immortal destiny, of a coming judgment, and of personal fellowship with Jesus Christ. In other words, he needs precisely those religious forces which the Government education can never give him, from which it rather causes him to turn aside.

For it is undeniable that the educated men of Japan do turn away from religion. It is not that they are particularly bitter against it. They regard the whole thing as simply an outworn superstition about which they apparently trouble themselves as little as educated men in the West do about ghosts and witches. When they do think about it, they utter words like these, which are fairly representative of a great deal that appears in the press:

"It is the superstitious that need religion—with no God to worship and no immortal soul to think about, educated people can pass their lives very pleasantly in the enjoyment of all that nature and art have bestowed upon them . . . of what use to them is the religion which satisfies the uncultured mind?"

It is no wonder that this is so. Drunk with the new wine of intellectual development, what can the educated Japanese do but turn away from the crass idolatry and empty ceremony which pass in his country for religion? So long as he has not yet learned that Christianity rests on firmer ground, he must reject it too.

The result is that an attitude of hostility towards Christianity is very common among educators in Japan. Those not yet emancipated from the influence of ancestor worship look upon Christianity with genuine apprehension as likely to undermine the foundations of social morality, while the more enlightened look down upon it with contempt. There is more hope for the former than for the latter, but both deserve our sympathy rather than our condemnation. Neither is to be regarded as by any means hopeless.

Indeed, this hostility is rapidly passing away. The progress made in the last ten years, even in the last five or six, is remarkable. Early in the nineties, the directors of prominent schools openly warned their pupils against Christianity, and forbade them to accept it. Downright hostility among common-school teachers was then all but universal, and they did not hesitate to punish or deride children who went to Sunday-school. The Normal Schools especially were locked and barred against all Christian influence. Even the Department of Education itself was pervaded with the same spirit. In the year 1899 this department issued a rescript, in which it was declared essential that religion and education be kept apart, and in which all schools that had any connection with the department were forbidden to teach any religious doctrines or perform any religious ceremonies. This for a time brought the Christian schools into great difficulties, as some of them had received licenses from the department, which they now had to return or eliminate all religious teaching.

Although Christianity was not mentioned, there is good ground for the belief that the rescript was really issued for no other reason than that high officials looked upon this religion with alarm and desired to prevent its being taught in any private schools having government privileges. This matter was, however, adjusted within a comparatively short time, so that, although the rescript has not been withdrawn, its provisions are not applicable to private schools of a certain class. Not only has the department thus adopted a more liberal attitude, but the prevailing spirit has become much more friendly. Here and there no little hostility remains, but many signs show how great is the improvement. For instance, missionaries are now often asked to lecture in Middle Schools, and directors gladly avail themselves of the assistance of the International Y. M. C. A. Committee in securing foreign teachers. Even in the Normal Schools colporteurs are welcome and do a thriving business. Not a few elementary school-teachers are Christians, and in the Middle Schools they are common. The writer does not know whether there are any Christian professors in the universities, but he is acquainted with several in the Koto Gakko. There is probably not a school of high grade that has not some Christian students, and in most of them there are organizations of the Y. M. C. A. In general it may be said that the situation is most encouraging. In spite of the almost universal infidelity of the present, we may be sure that it is only a question of time, labor and prayer when Christianity will be as respected and powerful in the educational institutions of Japan as it is now in those of England and America.

The missionary statistics of the year give the number of Protestant communicants as 48,087. Of the general religious conditions Dr. Greene writes:

No true Christian can look unmoved on the decay of religious faith, however strong his conviction may be that the faith is misdirected. Misguided faith is better than no faith at all. Quite apart, therefore, from any hoped-for gain to Christianity, thoughtful observers have been deeply interested in what they gladly accept as the sincere utterances of prominent men during and since the war, in which they have given expression to their faith in a divine power whose instruments they confess themselves to be and to which they reverently ascribe the success of themselves and others.

There is a widespread belief that the soul-stirring experiences of the war have revived religious faith in many hearts, and have checked in many others a decline of faith which threatened to end in a night of unbelief. There is no good ground for claiming that this revived faith could rightly be called Christian in the case of any large number of prominent men; but a few high officers in the army and navy and in the civil service are members of Christian Churches; a few others are closely allied to the Christian community and give liberally for distinctively Christian objects. Such men are understood by their countrymen to stand as representatives of Christian sentiment. Their number increases every year and their influence upon the sentiment of the nation is very strong.

Buddhist writers show a growing appreciation of Christian thought, and a great familiarity with the Christian Scriptures. It would not be fair to claim that this necessarily means an acceptance of Christian theology on the part of this or that writer or speaker, but it is worth noting as indicating a trend of thought which in the end must, one would think, prove favorable to Christianity, and possibly a more efficient factor in its progress than the direct preaching of the Christians themselves.

In the course of the past year, Dr. Anezaki, a prominent Buddhist scholar and Professor of the Imperial University, has provided for a course of lectures under the auspices of the University on the development of Christian thought, by a well-known Roman Catholic layman, while Dr. Anezaki himself has several times addressed most acceptably companies of Christian scholars and preachers. Such interchanges of thought and opinion between Christians and Buddhists are believed to have been more conspicuous than ever before. They are deserving of special mention.

Excepting for a short period following the announcement of the Treaty of Peace, and then only among the less intelligent classes, there has been no exhibition of unfriendliness towards Christianity which the representatives of the different Missions have counted worthy of report; while such special efforts as those of the Kumi-ai Churches during the first six months of the current year already mentioned have met a most unusual response, which may be taken to mean that the trend of thought represented by men like Dr. Anezaki is not restricted to any one class of society, but is truly national and indicates a general spirit of friendliness to Christian truth which, while it excites hope and stimulates courage, should awaken a keen sense of responsibility on the part of all Christian workers.

The movement toward Church Union has made progress. The Rev. G. W. Fulton read a strong paper in advocacy of the establishment of one Evangelical Church in Japan, before the Standing Committee on Co-operation of Christian Missions, on January 17, 1906.

All the Episcopal bodies have united in one church, and the Methodist bodies are soon to be united. Two Baptist bodies are practically united, and the Methodist Protestant and the United Brethren will soon unite with the Congregational Church. This will leave practically five bodies of Evangelical Christians in Japan.

The movement toward a more real independence on the part of the different branches of the Church in Japan has made gratifying progress during the year. The discussions of this matter in the Synod of 1904 were fully reported in the Board's report of last year. At the meeting of the Synod of the Church of Christ in Japan, in October, 1905, the following resolutions were adopted:

"1. The Synod, in the year 1897, clearly recognized the fact that no co-operation, in the proper sense of the word, existed between the Missions and the Church of Christ in Japan. Since that time no change has taken place; nor is there any prospect of such a change.

"2. A committee of three shall therefore be appointed to prepare a clear historical account of the matter, which shall be signed by the Moderator and sent to all the churches of the Church of Christ in Japan, and also to the several Missions and Boards of Foreign Missions related to it."

The historical account of the matter thus prepared was prefaced with a letter addressed to the related Boards of Foreign Missions setting forth the position of the Synod, as follows:

It is now more than thirty years since the Church was first founded, and already it has a history that may rightly be described as eventful. It extends from one end of Japan to the other, and carries on its work through a Synod, Presbyteries and congregations. It has a Board of Missions actively engaged in the work of evangelization and the establishment of churches. Therefore it seems to be reasonable to claim that it has a right to a voice in all work carried on within its organization or closely connected with it. That is the principle for which the Synod stands, and for which it believes that Churches in other lands, under like circumstances, would stand.

The question of co-operation has agitated the Church and the Missions from time to time for nearly fifteen years; and there are those who think the agitation uncalled for, since co-operation is already a matter of fact. Whether it is a matter of fact or not depends upon the sense in which the word co-operation is used. The fact that the Missions employ evangelists, aid in the support of pastors, establish and maintain preaching places, while at the same time they also in fact practically retain such matters solely within their own control, does not in itself constitute co-operation, if by co-operation is meant a co-working which recognizes the principle for which the Synod stands. Even though the work done extends to the Church, the system as a system is that of an imperium in imperio.

The co-operation which the Church seeks is a co-operation of the Missions as Missions with the Church as a Church. The Missions and the Church acting as independent organizations should make clear and definite arrangements with each other under the principle set forth; and the work of the Missions as Missions carried on within or in close connection with the organization of the Church should be controlled by such arrangements. Co-operation should find a partial analogy in the alliance between England and Japan; not in the relations between Japan and Korea.

The Church of Christ in Japan owes much to the missionaries of the Presbyterian and Reformed Churches. Some of them will be remembered as among its founders and early guides; and to the Churches from which they come, and the Boards of Foreign Missions which they represent, it will always be a debtor. The future—the wonderful future which now perhaps lies before it—may bring many changes. But no change of the future can change the past; and the past with your sympathy and kindness is a pledge for the future.

The Board replied at length to this communication from the Synod, expressing its entire sympathy with the aspirations of the Church, discouraging the idea that a plan of co-operation mutually satisfactory to the Missions and the Church of Christ was impossible. The Church received this communication and replies from the Dutch Reformed Board and the Executive Committee of the Southern Presbyterian Church in time for the meeting of the Synod. It had before it also a statement signed by Dr. Ibuka, Mr. Uemura, Dr. Imbrie and others proposing a constructive course of action.

The Synod met in Tokyo in October, and addressed itself to its work with great ability, and a grave and large-minded realization of the importance of the problems to be settled. It reaffirmed and enforced the action of the presiding Synod with reference to the financial independence of the Churches. The great discussion, however, was over the question of co-operation, especially over the definition of what constitutes a co-operating Mission.

The following was the main resolution before the Synod:

"A co-operating Mission is one which recognizes the right of the Church of Christ in Japan to the general care of all evangelistic work done by the Mission as a Mission within the Church or in connection with it; and which carries on such under an arrangement based on the foregoing principle, and concurred in by the Synod acting with the Board of Missions. The several Missions hitherto known as the Mission co-operating with the Church of Christ in Japan are cordially invited to formulate plans for co-operation in accord with the foregoing resolution and approved by their respective home Churches and Boards of Foreign Missions, and to confer with the Board of Missions (Dendo Kyoku) regarding them."

To this Mr. Nagai offered the following as an amendment:

"A co-operating Mission is one which recognizes the right of the Church of Christ in Japan to the general care of evangelistic work done by the Mission as a Mission within the Church or in connection with it; and which carries on such work under an arrangement concurred in by the Daikwai (Synod) or a committee appointed by the Synod. In accordance with this definition, together with the definition adopted in 1897, the Synod adopts the following:

"1. The Synod authorizes its Standing Committee to negotiate with such Missions as desire to co-operate with the Church of Christ in Japan; and also to unify and have a general care of such co-operative work.

"2. All co-operative work within the bounds of a Presbytery shall be carried on by the Presbytery; work outside of the bounds of the Presbytery by the Board of Missions (Dendo Kyoku). But the arrangements under which the work is to be carried on shall be decided upon in consultation with the Standing Committee of the Synod.

"3. Ministers in the employ of a Mission and members of Dendo Kyokwai (the name of organized bodies of believers receiving help from a Mission or the Home Mission Board) committees may not serve on committees for co-operative work.

"4. Each Presbytery at a fixed time during every year shall prepare for the Synod a report of the work carried on within its bounds; and the reports shall include the records of the Committee on Co-operation. The Board of Missions shall report directly to the Synod.

"5. The Standing Committee shall prepare a report of the co-operative work in all the Presbyteries, and shall present the same to the Synod.

"6. The Standing Committee shall call a meeting of all the Committees on Co-operation during the sessions of Synod, and shall discuss all matters connected with the work."

Regarding the original resolutions, the following may be said in the way of explanation:

1. According to the Constitution, the Synod is the representative and counselor of the Church, and to it belongs the general care of all its work and interests. Therefore the parties to arrangements for co-operation should be the Synod and the several Missions.

2. The Synod being a large body meeting only once a year and not well fitted to deal with details, it should appoint a committee to negotiate arrangements, and inasmuch as the Board of Missions is the Evangelistic Committee of the Church, that is the natural committee to appoint.

Suppose that in the earlier days, when the Church at home was weak, the Church of Scotland had been in a position to co-operate in home or foreign Mission work, the question of such co-operation would naturally have been taken up by our General Assembly, as the body representing the Church, and the negotiation of arrangements might naturally have been referred to the Board of Home or Foreign Missions, as the committee having general care of the Mission work of the Church. That would have been analogous to what was proposed. The Committee of the Synod to negotiate arrangements for co-operative Mission work was to be its Board of Missions—the Dendo Kyoku.

3. As some favored Dendo Kyoku Mission arrangements and others favored Presbytery Mission arrangements, either method is made permissible, or, as stated in the communication, "the arrangements agreed upon may be arrangements to be carried out by the Board of Missions itself together with one or more of the Missions; but other arrangements also may be agreed upon." By "other arrangements" of course is meant Presbytery Mission arrangements.

4. Inasmuch as the conditions to be met by the several Missions are not all alike, and as each Mission therefore has its own particular circumstances to consider, the following resolution was presented for adoption:

"The several Missions hitherto known as the Missions co-operating with the Church of Christ in Japan are cordially invited to formulate plans for co-operation in accord with the foregoing resolution, and to confer with the Board of Missions regarding them."

As it is frequently said by some that the real purpose in the minds of the Japanese is to get control of the funds in the hands of the Missions, perhaps attention should be called to the fact that that is not what the resolution proposed provides for. What it says is not the general care of the funds of the Mission, but the "general care of the evangelistic work done within the Church or in connection with it." Of course any joint committee would be free to talk over everything and endeavor to have all available funds expended to the best advantage; but the "general care" is the care of the work rather than of the funds, excepting as to the maximum limit in any particular case.

Comparing now the original resolution and the amendment proposed by Mr. Nagai:

(a) Points of resemblance: 1. Any arrangements made require the concurrence of the Synod. 2. All arrangements to be negotiated by a committee of the Synod.

(b) Points of difference: 1. In the original resolution the negotiating committee to be the Board of Missions; in the Nagai amendment, the Standing Committee of the Synod. The Standing Committee is composed of five members, all of whom belong to the Tokyo Presbytery. 2. In the original resolutions the arrangement negotiated might be either Dendo Kyoku Mission arrangement or a Chukwai Mission one. In Mr. Nagai's amendment all co-operation done within the bounds of the Presbytery must be carried on under a Presbytery Mission arrangement. 3. In the original resolutions each Mission is invited to formulate a plan which it regards as suited to its own conditions, and all details are open to consideration by the Mission and the Board of Missions in conference. By Mr. Nagai's amendment important matters of detail are fixed, and it is especially to be noted that the Standing Committee of the Synod is given a general care over the arrangements when put in operation.

The arguments in favor of Mr. Nagai's amendment may be summed up as follows:

1. Any arrangement for co-operation should be one concurred in by Synod; but the negotiating committee should be the Standing Committee rather than the Board of Missions.

2. All co-operative evangelistic work done within the bounds of a Presbytery should be carried on under the Presbytery. Not only because that is the natural arrangement, but also because the Dendo Kyoku has given evidence of arbitrariness and favoritism.

The arguments in reply may be summed up as follows:

1. The Dendo Kyoku is the Evangelistic Committee of the Church, and therefore the natural committee to negotiate arrangements for evangelistic work in co-operation with the Missions.

2. If the Dendo Kyoku does not in fact represent the Church and cannot be depended upon to carry out the mind of the Church, it should be differently constituted. It has already been agreed that its membership shall be increased from eight to twelve, and the Synod has now an opportunity to elect a new and larger Board.

3. There is no objection to Presbytery Mission arrangements, but neither is there sufficient reason for excluding Dendo Kyoku Mission arrangements altogether. The conditions in different places are different; and if a Dendo Kyoku-Board-Mission arrangement be thought preferable it should be possible to have it. While the Nagai amendment was under discussion Mr. Uemura proposed the following amendment:

1. Co-operation is co-operation with the Mission of a foreign Church, based upon negotiations between the Dendo Kyoku and the foreign Church or its Board of Missions.

2. Co-operation recognizes the right of the Church of Christ in Japan to the general care of all evangelistic work carried on within the Church or in connection with it.

3. Methods of co-operation are to be arranged by the Mission and the Synod acting through the Dendo Kyoku.

The main point in this amendment is that co-operation is essentially an arrangement between the Boards of the two Churches; and as missionaries are only agents of the Boards at home, it is better to make some definite and direct arrangement with the Boards themselves. This amendment had only eight or nine supporters. The vote on the Nagai amendment then followed. The amendment was lost by a vote of 21 to 26, and the original resolutions adopted by a vote of 31 to 16.

The tabulated results of last year's work are most gratifying. The Church reports 1,441 baptisms, an increase over the previous year of 379. During the year five churches assumed self-support, making a total number of thirty-five self-supporting churches. The Board of Church Erection, which was established in 1905, reports the expenditure of yen 500. Besides churches and regular preaching places there are 151 places where the Gospel is preached occasionally. As one reviews the work of the year one is convinced that the Church of Christ in Japan is founded and is carrying on a work which is receiving the Father's blessing.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—To one acquainted only with the English report of the Department of Education the maintenance of Mission schools might appear as a work of supererogation. In that report the percentage of the school population under instruction is given as 94.43 per cent. This is indeed a large percentage, but we must consider that the Japanese term of compulsory education covers a period of four years, the time required to complete the lower department of the elementary school. When we pass from the elementary schools to the middle schools the inadequacy of the school system is apparent. Only 60 per cent. of all applicants can be admitted into the middle schools. The High Schools (Koto Gakko) are so few that they offer accommodations to only 36 per cent. of the applicants. The same lack of provision obtains in the sphere of woman's education. Were the provisions of the Japanese system of education sufficient to accommodate the students, the woful lack of moral instruction would be a sufficient argument for the maintenance of Mission schools.

The Mission aims to develop manhood and womanhood. It provides sound moral instruction and envelops the student with a religious atmosphere. Whether the student embraces Christianity in the school or not, he can never be the same kind of a person that he was before entering the Mission school. Plus his instruction he carries with him a moral entity of which he was formerly ignorant. Wherever a mission-trained man or woman goes that person is a moral factor in that community. Outside of the Christian schools it is safe to say that no book worthy the name of a treatise on moral science is taught.

In the Meiji Gakuin Theological Department two new professors are to be installed and seven men are to be graduated in the Spring. At present the institution enrolls twenty-one students, five of whom are in the regular course and sixteen are pursuing studies in the special course. The students have charge of Sunday-schools in the city, while some of the older students have charge of preaching places in neighboring towns and villages. The formation of a Theological School Alliance is now under consideration, the purpose being to hold a convention annually and in every way possible to further the interests of theological education.

Miss West and Mrs. MacNair have maintained the Bible School in Tokyo as in former years. The school has about the same number of students as were in attendance last year. Mr. MacNair also aids in the instruction.

The Academic Department of Meiji Gakuin is in a flourishing condition. The school enrolls 262 students. Last year the school refused admittance to twenty students who desired to enter the higher classes, the class accommodations not admitting of any increase. About 60 per cent. of the students are Christians. These boys hold early morning prayer meetings in the dormitory and conduct Sunday-schools in the city. Seven boys were baptized during the year. It is encouraging to report a tendency among the students of better grade to enter the Christian ministry.

Joshi Gakuin is without a superior among the private schools for girls. The school is known throughout the empire as an institution offering peculiar advantages to girls seeking higher education. During the year the school has suffered the loss of one foreign teacher, Miss Wyckoff, who is now in America seeking recovery from a nervous strain due to overwork, and two Japanese teachers, one of whom has faithfully served the institution twenty-two years. Early in December the dormitory of Graham Cottage was destroyed by fire, and the part occupied by the ladies very seriously damaged. No lives were lost, though the teachers and students lost nearly all their possessions. The cause of the fire is unknown. The higher department of the institution has been removed to Tsunohazu, where it occupies the building hitherto known as the sanitarium.

The new building made possible by the generous grant of the ladies of the Washington Presbyterial Society is nearing completion. The building has been so planned as to give more space for recreation, while at the same time it accommodates ten more students than the old Sakurai home. This building, with the new Graham dormitory, will give the school greater effectiveness, in that it will accommodate more students and provide a wider area for recreation. The school now has an average attendance of 225 and enrolls eighteen teachers.

The evangelistic arm of the educational work is well illustrated by the following words of Miss Campbell: Many of the girls are engaged in Sunday-school work throughout the city. Among the girls at Tsunohazu ten separate Sunday-schools are represented, and at the Sunday evening C. E. meetings reports are heard about the various schools. At Bancho this Fall the work of the C. E. has been carried on by the girls alone; and special effort has been made to interest those who, although not nominally Christian, are really desirous of helping. There have been seven baptisms during the year and a real spirit of prayer and interest seems to be prevalent. Last Spring our registration was 270. This Fall it was somewhat smaller owing to changes in our dormitory plans. The average attendance has been 225; the number of teachers eighteen. Three new teachers have been added in the upper department.

Miss Rose writes enthusiastically of her work in the Seisho Jo Gakko. The school is located in Otaru, the "Seattle of Japan," as Mr. Vaughn is wont to say, and aims to help poor and needy girls. The kindergarten has an enrollment of 120. The day-school enrolls fifty-five, twenty of whom, working for their board and tuition, are enrolled as boarding pupils. The school has graduated twenty-three young girls, all except two being Christians.

The Hokusei Jo Gakko at Sapporo has had a very prosperous year, enrolling 150 pupils, sixty of whom are in the boarding department. The school is happily located in Sapporo, the civic and educational centre of the island. The school has been wonderfully blessed during the year. Nineteen of the present and two former pupils received baptism in 1906.

Miss Monk, who has charge of the Senior Christian Endeavor Society, writes of the quickened spiritual life as follows: "Both here and in the weekly school prayer meeting there is a spirit of deepening earnestness, which is further manifested by the gathering week by week of groups of Christian girls to pray for their classmates—mates who are not yet Christians. This is the burden of nearly every prayer, 'that they may soon become Christians' or 'that their parents may soon be willing to allow them to receive baptism.'

"This school sustains a very vital relationship to the educational life of Hokkaido. The Government High School for Girls is so crowded that only residents of Sapporo may hope to enter. Were it possible for non-residents to enter the Government school, the great danger to which the young girls are exposed is sufficient to deter the parents from sending their daughters to the school unless the parents have relatives living here. The Government school has no boarding department. The reputation of the Hokusei Jo Gakko is known throughout the island. From the cities and from remote interior regions, from Christian homes and from non-Christian homes, these girls come and are benefited. Parents bitterly opposed to Christianity gladly send their daughters to the school as boarding pupils. Many of the daughters of such parents receive the Christian instruction with avidity."

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—

Hokkaido.—The Hokkaido, or northernmost island of Japan, is largely populated by farmers, divided into the simon-pure immigrant, who receives about thirteen acres of land on condition of clearing the same within three years, and the soldier colonist, who is a reserve soldier and owns his land under a tenure of thirty years, during which time he is liable to service with the colors in case of war. Many a Hokkaido home bears evidence of the slaughter to which these soldier colonists in the late war, loyally went. The Hokkaido was first opened by fishermen settling its long coast line, and then by farmers pushing up its river plains, and, contemporary with each class, miners of coal who have developed one of the great industries of the island to its present considerable magnitude. Hardly anything has been done for the fishermen, as is the case indeed, I think, through all Japan. Only a little has been done for the miners, comparatively nothing. But much of our effort has—providentially, it seems—been directed toward the farmer class. Christian landholders and Christian settlers have come up from other islands and have let their light shine. The dreariness of snow and stumps, burnt mountains and awful roads, the loneliness and danger, not infrequently want and sickness, have called out the religious nature and made men instinctively turn to something for help. This has been and is our opportunity. It is fair to say, I believe, that our country churches are the most living churches we have.

For purposes of administration the Hokkaido has been divided into two sections; Mr. Pierson taking the northern half, and Mr. Johnson the southern. Last Fall we welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn to a share in our Hokkaido work. That Mr. Vaughn might have some definite work other than his language study, Mr. Johnson turned over to Mr. Vaughn the work in Otaru and that along the Hakodate-Otaru Railway. Our work in general is carried on in the cities and in the farming communities. The churches in the three largest cities (Hakodate, Otaru and Sapporo) are now self-supporting. The life in the other city churches is healthy and encouraging.

To reach the interior communities one has recourse to many and various means of transportation. Mr. Vaughn writes of itineration in Hokkaido: Following the instruction of the Mission at annual meeting we removed in September to the Hokkaido, and, in company with Messrs. Pierson and Johnson, I at once made a tour of the island, visiting most of the fields now occupied. The travel was accomplished by train, in dirt carts, rickety coaches, two-wheeled two-horse coaches, by rowboat and on horseback and afoot over mountain passes, and the food obtainable usually results in a very short time in some digestive disorder, even though one be rather accustomed to its use.

Mr. Pierson maintains a "Soldiers' Club" on the edge of the town (Asahigawa). Here he keeps on file various religious books, papers and magazines. At three o'clock on Sunday he has a preaching service for the soldiers. Many, many young men, weary of the daily grind at the barracks and yearning for a place to spend a few quiet hours, drop into the "Club" and receive a spiritual uplift. A wonderful work is being developed in the large prison at Obihiro. Mr. Pierson describes it as follows: Last year I was not able to visit the most distant stations, but on one memorable occasion Mr. Johnson, Mr. Vaughn, and Mr. Lampe (German Reformed, Sendai) and I went over to the east coast to Obihiro and Kushiro. We have no regular work in Obihiro, but Mr. Sakamoto, our Asahigawa pastor, made a visit to the penitentiary in that city in January and was instrumental in leading several of the prisoners to Christ. He worked hard there for several days holding meetings for the prisoners, officials and for the women's society, and visiting a number of convicts in their cells.

The chief of the penitentiary is one of the two or three Christian chiefs in Japan—former army captain and a fine Christian. There are two or three Christians among the officials, too. The convicts are most of them in for long terms. Mr. Sakamoto visited them. One man who was never known to smile and who could hardly sleep was converted, and hope and joy sprang up in his heart. Others at that time expressed faith, and since then letters have been received by Mr. Sakamoto and myself telling of their faith and peace. After Mr. Sakamoto's visit in January, we four missionaries in September visited the prison. I went by myself on Sunday (while the others were in Kushiro) and had one of the privileges of my life in addressing about one thousand convicts, attentive and in need. Work seems to have been opened in that place for our Church specially.

Tokyo.—The evangelistic work here has been continued as in former years. Dr. Thompson and Mr. MacNair give their time and attention to this work.

In addition to his evangelistic work, Mr. MacNair has continued his valuable service to all Missions in Japan, in connection with the preparation of Interdenominational Hymn Books.

Dr. Thompson continues his work in the same hopeful and kindly spirit. One of the churches under his supervision, the Kiriu, has become self-supporting during the year. He has given much time and labor to the Meisei Church, one of the Tokyo churches destroyed during the riots which occurred shortly after the news of the Portsmouth Treaty was received.

There is much work carried on by the Station which it is not easy to report, such as the evangelistic work of Miss West in influential homes; all are agreed that the door is widely open for Christian work. Mr. Johnson, who writes the general Mission report, says in closing:

The opportunities for work in new districts are many, but our ability to appropriate these is limited by lack of funds. Never before has it been so easy to gain an audience; never before have the calls for workers been more urgent; and never before have the new fields appeared more inviting than now. Not only do we feel our inability to take up new work, but the funds available at present are not commensurate with the needs arising out of our present work. Pastors and evangelists are living on salaries woefully inadequate. To open up new work without granting some of these men an increase in salary is uncharitable, to say the least. In Hokkaido alone we could locate five, and should have—the need is imperative—at least three new evangelists.

In the great north country, far removed from the life of this island, is a company of believers that is ministered unto at intervals of once a month during the Spring, Summer and Fall, but in the Winter the meetings are more or less irregular. This Hokkosha company of believers is so situated that an evangelist located there would have not only the thirty Christians of the farming community to minister unto, but he would have a large farmer colony close at hand in one direction (many of these men heard the Gospel preached in the Y. M. C. A. tent in Manchuria and want to hear more about the way of salvation), and in the other he would have a fine work in a growing town. The writer recalls a meeting held in that town three years ago. A borrowed house was filled with earnest listeners. There were eighty present. Gratified because of the large audience that through three long hours eagerly heard the message, he was nevertheless inexpressibly sad as he thought of that community, so impressionable, so teachable, yet without a man of God to lead them.

The only addition to the force of the Mission during the year is Miss Julia K. Winn, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. T. C. Winn, who has been located at Kanazawa. Miss Sherman, of the East Japan Mission, however, has been transferred to West Japan, so that the Mission has really received two new workers. Miss Mayo, after a heroic effort to remain in the work in spite of ill health, has been obliged to return home, and Miss Haworth, who was at home on furlough on account of ill health, has resigned.

KANAZAWA STATION.

The evangelistic work of the Kanazawa region has gone on as usual. The out-station work has been maintained at Toyama and Kosugi, where the evangelist's wife wielded a great influence, and where a Christian farmer has been most diligent and earnest in his aid, and at Tokaoka, where the station master has been among the earnest inquirers. Two chapels have been maintained in Kanazawa, and the two Kanazawa churches have had an ordinary year with extraordinary troubles in each church. Evangelistic visits have been made also to Daishoji and to Kamatsu. Of the latter point, and of Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston's visit and of the Bible Correspondence Magazine, Mr. Fulton writes:

I have been going to this latter place every two weeks, and sometimes every week, for work among the students. I go first to the Middle school and give a Bible lesson in English, then I repair to the chapel with the evangelist, and we have a class of ten to twenty usually. From among these students a few at least are really interested in the teaching itself, and they tell me they often read the Bible. The director of the school is a Christian and he cordially approves of our work.

The people were deeply impressed by Dr. Johnston's earnest words. The emphasis which he put upon prayer, right living, manhood, witnessing for Christ, etc., I believe, struck deep into the hearts of his auditors, and we hope will prove effective toward the object for which Dr. Johnston has been sent around the world. These common facts and truths are after all the heart of Christianity, and we need to learn to make more of them in our daily life and work.

I have kept up the correspondence Bible study work this year as before, the number of copies of Yako published now being 1,250. It continues to be self-multiplying, and no effort is put forth to increase the number of readers. We receive interesting letters from members of the class quite frequently, assuring us of the benefit received.

Kindergarten.—Mrs. Fulton reports of the Kindergarten with its sixty-one children:

These children are nearly all from good families, their parents being teachers, merchants, or doctors, or from the military class. The only difficulty about having soldiers' children is that they move frequently.

Many of the children are very much afraid of the foreigner when they first come to the Kindergarten, but as my daughter Marion helped there for a while this year she soon overcame their fears. One little girl could not be convinced that we were harmless, however, until Marion went to the Kindergarten one day in Japanese dress. That settled it and she became her fast friend from that time. The children accepted me as a friend when told that I was Marion's mother.

Cooking classes, W. C. T. U., Sunday-schools, have also been part of Mrs. Fulton's work. A gathering of all the Sunday-schools in Kanazawa to celebrate Children's Day was an interesting feature. About 300 children from the ten different schools were present.

Hokuriko Girls' School.—Miss Luther having left on furlough, Miss Johnston and Miss Gibbons took charge of the school with the aid of Miss Sherman, transferred from Hokaido, where the climatic conditions were not favorable. Miss Johnston reports:

There have been 168 girls enrolled. This is seven less than last year. But when we remember that the girls' high school here—the Government school—was enlarged to take in 150 more girls and that a new school was opened to take in 300 girls, we are not surprised that we have seven girls less, but are very thankful we received so many. Among our new girls were seven graduates of the girls' high school who have come into our school for English and Music.

There are so many of our former students who are living in the city or in the neighboring towns who would heartily welcome a visit from one of our Christian teachers. We feel that the school might be much more of a power if this work could only be done.

There have been eight girls baptized this year, and there are at least four more who are waiting for baptism. All of our graduates this year were Christians, but three of them had not been baptized. There are twenty baptized Christians in the school.

Earnest evangelistic work is carried on in connection with the school, and of this Miss Gibbons writes:

Another home—a very poor one—we found the whole family were intensely interested, and the daughter in the school conducted evening prayer every night for the family, and taught them as much as she could remember of what she had learned in school that day.

As I look at this work and see what a large field is open to us just in our girls' homes, I long more and more to have the time just to go and visit these people. We have just begun to touch the fringe of this work. The Government officials, in asking what we were doing to look after our girls, and on finding we were calling in their homes, asked us to please continue this work; but of course they did not care for the Christian part of the work. It was simply to let the people know we were watching over our girls as carefully as we could.

Just before the school year closed in March, there were some very touching cases of girls who were going to be taken out of the school because of their having become Christians. The girls of the class were all very deeply touched and a deep spirit of prayer prevailed among them. Several times they slipped off when it was quiet, all alone or in small groups of three or four, and had prayer together. One afternoon they slipped around the corner of our side of the house and we heard them praying there together—praying that one of these girls might be kept faithful. Could you have kept your eyes from filling with tears? The girl is at home now, trying to live the patient drudgery of life every day amid the persecution.

OSAKA STATION.

The work in the country fields has been maintained, Mr. and Mrs. Winn and Miss Garvin having in charge the Sakai and Haze regions until the transfer of Mr. and Mrs. Winn to Manchuria. Among the other points reached have been Tamba, Sasayama, Fukuzumi, Kaibara, Narimatsu, Kuroi, Tozaka and Fukuchiyama, and of the work in Osaka including the evangelists' training school, Dr. Murray reports:

The work in Osaka has been especially encouraging this year. As heretofore, every night meetings have been carried on throughout the year at four preaching places. Our plan now is to have a good worker living at each of the preaching places. We now have married students living in three of them, and in the fourth there is a man who was two years in the school, and is now doing self-supporting dendo work. In one of these places there have been twenty-four baptisms the past year, and in another ten. One of the men in the first-mentioned place was a Sake seller. After he was converted he gave up his Sake business and went into other business. The student who is living in this place is a man who was educated for a Buddhist priest. He is a very earnest and tactful worker. After almost every meeting there are a number that stay and go upstairs for a private personal talk. The man who is living in the other place is an interesting character. After leaving the school he worked in a spinning factory and then began with a cart peddling oil around the streets. He now has quite a large business in oil and rice, both retail and wholesale, besides giving much of his time and energy to our work. We rent the building, he paying part of the rent and conducting his business there, while at night he joins with our students in the preaching and personal work. We this summer moved to a large house near one of the largest spinning factories, and he has begun to conduct a Christian lodging-house for workmen in the large upstairs rooms. His family, who are well-to-do, once turned him off because he became a Christian, but now his mother is living with him and is an earnest inquirer, and his elder brother has sent two of his boys to live with him, to be under Christian influences while attending school.

The school work has kept up well during the year. The numbers are as great and a little larger than last year, there being a little over twenty in attendance. Dr. A. D. Hail has continued his work in the school, taking the department of Systematic Theology.

As heretofore, each student spends three or four nights every week preaching and working at the various preaching places, besides Sabbath-schools at each of these places and other work. All of them spent two months of the Summer in work in the field.

Miss Garvin reports:

Again much of my year has been given to work for the soldiers in the military hospitals. During the Spring the patients decreased rapidly in number, and one by one the wards were closed and used for other purposes. By June the Osaka military hospitals were no more. The place of suffering had been converted into a scene of gayety, with the bright flags and streamers of the Osaka Exposition decking the grounds.

Among a number of souvenirs expressing appreciation of work done with the soldiers is a red lacquer bowl presented by Governor Takasaki of Osaka Fu.

Miss Garvin has carried on also classes for young men, superintended the work of Bible women and looked after women's meetings both in Osaka and in the country. She writes of these:

At a town in Tanuba, after vain attempts for three successive months, we succeeded in March in getting started a quiet woman's meeting, so called—at least that is what we aimed at, but it might with equal propriety have been called a mixed meeting or a children's meeting. It was the good old-fashioned kind, with men smoking round the hi-bachi, the women sitting stiffly in lowly places where they were begged not to sit, and crying children monopolizing the attention of the whole room, while elder sisters succeeded in quieting some of the babies on their backs by jogging about in and out of the open doors where the Winter wind had course. Under such circumstances I always wonder how any one can receive and remember any of the Bible truth, but yet I know they sometimes do.

To speak further of women's meetings. The most disheartening attempt in this line has been at Kaibara in Tanuba. I incidentally learned that one of the Christians, a somewhat aristocratic school-teacher from Tokyo, had been deliberately using her influence to keep ordinary people away from the meetings, lest the name of Christianity should be lowered by the common associations. Once, when by the help of a visiting Bible woman a fairly large number of attendants was secured so that the rooms were filled, she condemned the proceeding, and made some of those present so uncomfortable that they have never been seen at any meeting since.

The Wilmina, as the united girls' school of our own and the Cumberland Missions is called, has been overflowing and not able to accommodate the students who have applied. We have furnished the building and the Cumberland Mission the staff of teachers. The Cumberland Women's Board at home have also provided a generous sum of money for the enlargement of the buildings.

HIROSHIMA STATION.

As now constituted, the Hiroshima field has an area of 544.23 square ri, or 1,360.58 miles, and a population of 1,032,718, and there are many towns and villages where the Word of God has not been preached simply because we do not have the money, time and strength to do all that lies before us.

In the Hiroshima field is the Hiroshima Church, one outstation at Iwakuni in Yamaguchi Ken, which is in a very promising condition, and a chapel in Hiroshima. This last was opened about a year and half ago in a very difficult part of the city far removed from all other evangelistic work. Dr. Langsdorf reports:

Much of my time is also given to keeping up the "Correspondence Evangelism Plan," which was adopted some years ago, together with the publication of the "Fukuin Geppo" ("Gospel Message," a monthly). Although there was great falling off in the demand for our library books, due to the war, in the last few months a noticeable change has taken place for the better, while the "Geppo" has a larger circulation than ever, having reached 1,450 copies. It is used in the Kure, Yamaguchi, Matsuyama and Osaka fields as well as in our own. The correspondence shows that many are reached in this way who otherwise would not hear of Christ.

Last February the Hiroshima Church became self-supporting. In this we greatly rejoice. For two years or more it was under the Dendo Kyoko (Japanese Home Mission Board), but a post-office official from Yokohama, who had been temporarily put in charge of the office at Ujina, offered to pay all outstanding bills if the church would become self-supporting. After making a thorough canvass, including the promise of a monthly contribution of three yen for one year from the same gentleman, the church declared itself to be independent and self-supporting, and we earnestly hope and pray that it may be successful.

The total membership of the Hiroshima Church is 104, while that of the two chapels is 69. The total enrollment of the Church Sabbath-school, including teachers, is 87, and the average attendance is about 38, while the total enrollment of the two chapel Sabbath-schools is 210; average attendance about 155. During the year there were four baptisms in the Hiroshima Church (two of these were members of one of my Bible classes) and seventeen in the chapels.

There is also a young men's organization in connection with our Hiroshima chapel work. The name which the young men chose for themselves is "The Immanuel Society," and it is clearly stated in the rules which govern them that the purpose for which they have banded themselves together is to win souls for Christ. What is especially pleasing to me is that the name and the expression of the purpose came entirely from them. The organization was effected this Fall, and no one can become a member who will not promise to do Dendo (evangelistic) work. At the first public meeting, held October 17, inspiring addresses were given by Mr. William T. Ellis, of Philadelphia, and Rev. David Stanton Tappan, Jr., who is on his way to Hainan. Other addresses were made. About forty-three or forty-four were present.

Every week we had two knitting classes, from which there have been two baptisms, and nineteen hours of Bible class work taught by my mother, Mrs. Langsdorf, a Bible woman and myself. These classes are composed of Higher Normal, Normal, Government Middle, Private Middle and Commercial School students, young girls and women who are members of officers' families. During the past year we have been coming into touch with more of this latter class than ever before.

Last Spring I received two requests from six officers, four captains and two lieutenants of the Hiroshima Division. One was to teach them English once a week in my home, and the other that I visit the Military Club hall once a week and teach sixty officers English conversation. The latter I was unable to do on account of other work, but I very gladly took them for English in my home, which very soon led from a little English to a great deal of English Bible. Unfortunately, however, they were required to be absent from the city so much on account of military duties that I felt that not much had been accomplished. But it was a genuine pleasure to have these same men make the same requests a few weeks ago, and to be able to arrange for both classes.

Dr. Johnston's visit to Hiroshima, though brief, was very effective. Dr. Langsdorf writes:

The first evening almost 400 were present. The next morning Dr. Johnston gave an address at the Methodist girls' school at 8.30 o'clock, and at 10 o'clock was at the church again and spoke to an audience composed of the Christians of the city. About fifty were present. I must confess that when we first arrived at the church and saw how few were there, I felt somewhat disappointed. And yet if ever the Holy Spirit was present in a meeting, He was that day. Such a manifestation I have never witnessed before in Japan, if in any country. Men and women, all the pastors and evangelists, in deepest humility with confession of sin, amidst their sobbing and crying, apparently without reservation, poured out their hearts to God, with promises to serve Him more faithfully in the future. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock Dr. Johnston delivered an address on "The Making of Manhood" in the large Assembly Hall of the Khoto Shihan Gakko (Higher Normal College). All the classes had been dismissed and were present, about 400, and it was understood that he was there as the President's guest. This arrangement was not easy to effect, as the authorities are more rigid than ever about shutting out anything of a religious character, and have refused to allow others to speak to the young men. Only recently a Buddhist priest was stopped in the midst of his address because he was on forbidden ground. One of the foreign professors of English pronounced this address of Dr. Johnston as the finest thing he had ever heard. It certainly was fine and exceedingly tactful. At 4 o'clock we were at the church again and another address was given to young men of the other schools. About 350 to 400 were present. As at the meeting the night before all could not get into the building. The last meeting and the fifth for the day was held in the evening in the large new assembly hall of the girls' school, at which more than 700 were present. We all feel that we have been richly blessed by this visit of Dr. Johnston.

KYOTO STATION.

After the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Ayres, the work fell wholly upon Mr. and Mrs. Gorbold and Miss Cooper. Mr. Gorbold writes:

The opportunity for helping students is more wonderful than ever. Since the Summer a number have come, saying that they wish to study that they may become Christians; and not simply that they may become Christians, but they are also anxious for others to know. I always make it a rule to urge upon them the necessity of bringing others to Christ.

Mrs. Gorbold writes:

These are weekly classes. One other afternoon of each week was given to the graduates of one of the kindergartens. A Japanese girl taught the girls knitting and crocheting, and I taught the boys a little English and then we had a meeting. First we organized a "Cold-water Band" and had the children tell at each meeting what they had done in the way of kindnesses during the week. Some of them responded very nicely. We finally organized into a Band of Mercy, because there is more literature to help in that society. Forty children signed the Band of Mercy pledge, and during the whole Spring there was an average attendance of thirty-five at the weekly meetings. On Thursday afternoons I had what was usually to me a most blessed hour, devoted to Bible study with the Christian women. Two Friday afternoons of the month were given up to mothers' meetings in the two kindergartens. These meetings were well attended and the ladies gave quiet attention each time to the Bible lesson and to the talks made by the kindergarten teacher, which talks were always very practical and sensible.

The last meeting before the Summer we again had as a joint meeting and invited Dr. Saiki, the head of a private hospital and a fine Christian man, to address the women upon the care of children during the Summer—how to guard against Summer diseases and how to care for those who are not sufficiently guarded and get sick.

Another opportunity that came to us this past year was the privilege of speaking as often as possible to a company of women and one or two men who met every day at a house provided by the W. C. T. U. and sewed underwear for the Osaka soldiers. These women were all from families whose men had gone to the war and who needed help. The W. C. T. U. provided work and machines for them and also rented the house in which they worked. Any time I went they always seemed willing to stop their work and listen to whatever message I had for them, although time was money to them. This was one thing I could do in the forenoons, and I went as often as I could and prepare properly for other work; but not as often as I wished I had, when in March the work was stopped and the opportunity no longer existed. However, I went often enough to be sure that all of the thirty or more women gathered there heard of the God who is love, and of Jesus who wept when his friends suffered as all of these women were suffering. They were told of the one only way of salvation and some of them seemed to respond intelligently as I talked, and I can but believe that some of these women will be saved. At Christmas time we used some money that had been sent to Mr. Ayres and some that was sent to us and some of our own and sent out 100 bags of rice and oranges. In each bag we put a copy of one of the Gospels and a tract. We secured the names of the poorest families left by soldiers from the city office. Six of the young men from two of Mr. Gorbold's Bible classes volunteered to distribute the bags and all came back rejoicing. Some of them spent nearly the whole of Christmas day walking over the city hunting these homes, presenting the bags and adding a word of comfort.

The kindergarten and associated Sunday-schools have been under Miss Cooper's care. Fifty-five children were enrolled in the Margaret Ayres Kindergarten and forty-five in the Nishijin. Miss Cooper reports:

Thirty of the older ones at the end of March passed on to the public schools, proud to join the big army of children, who if boys wear foreign dress from caps to shoes and a satchel for books swinging from the shoulder, and if girls put on the hakama, a kilt skirt of dark red, the school uniform for all girls, big and little. It is a grand promotion, a proud period to arrive at, which our little folks look forward to as the last year in the kindergarten nears its close. Their little hearts swell in anticipation and ours from the sadness of parting.

The average attendance at the Nishijin Sabbath-school during the year was between seventy and eighty. The largest attendance during the year was 117, and the smallest twenty-eight.

The children in the Nishijin Sabbath-school, although for the most part from poor families, brought pennies, quarter- and half-pennies, counting up last year to something over ten yen.

A servant girl was present the day the children were told about the need in the famine section of the country. Being greatly impressed with what she heard, she went home and told the story to the workers in a large weaving establishment where she was employed. As a result they sent $2.60 (two yen and sixty sen) to the kindergarten, to be sent with the amount the children contributed.

YAMAGUCHI STATION.

The following outline shows the extent of the work of the year in the Yamaguchi field:

(a) In the town of Yamaguchi—

Aiding the local church.

Conducting two street Sabbath-schools.

Maintaining semi-weekly preaching services at the preaching place.

Conducting five Bible classes weekly.

(b) Evangelists, four.

(c) Bible women, one.

(d) Out-stations, eight, four of which are not on the railroad; all of which have been visited regularly.

Baptized in this circuit during the year, twenty-three adults.

- Admitted to communion, having been baptized in infancy, four.

Of the village of Yadomi and its evangelist, Mr. Erdman writes:

The evangelist gets about his wide field by means of a small donkey. Since such animals are very scarce and seldom seen in that part of the country, he attracts considerable attention as he rides along by the rice fields. The farmers stop work and gather about the donkey for closer inspection, which gives the evangelist an opportunity and an audience. He tells them the Gospel story and gives out tracts, thus reaching people whom it would be impossible to gather into a preaching place.

The evangelist has such a hold upon the community that he has organized a young men's club of about fifteen, only one of whom is a Christian, and they have formed a musical band for the purpose of aiding the evangelist when he goes about preaching. The music is no doubt a fearful and wonderful article.

Of Yanai he reports:

An encouraging feature here is the opening for work afforded by an inquirer who owns a weaving factory. He has invited the evangelist several times to come to the factory and speak to the fifty odd operators. This invitation has been gladly accepted of course, and there is prospect of its becoming a regular feature of his weekly visits to the town. The owner is about ready for baptism, also his nephew, who is a partner in the concern.

Kojo ō Gakuin.—Miss Bigelow has continued in charge of the girls' boarding school and also of the Morning Star Kindergarten. Of the former she writes:

Ninety-three pupils have been enrolled. Four were graduated in March, two in the entire course, two in Japanese only. The two who graduated in the entire course were supported girls. One is now teaching for us and the other is being educated as a kindergartner.

Three pupils died of tuberculosis. Seven left on account of ill health. At present there are fifty in attendance.

The teachers and pupils work in four Sunday-schools. They have King's Daughters Society on Friday afternoon. Nearly the whole school belong.

In summing up the work of the year, I notice that the great eagerness for female education manifested during the war seems to be somewhat subsiding; that sickness and weakness of body are increasing; tuberculosis especially is spreading most alarmingly, and I am convinced that the system of education which we are obliged to pursue in conforming to Government regulations is entirely too severe and complicated. These Japanese girls are not strong enough for it, and unfortunately they are not growing stronger. We never had so much sickness, and never a death before.

Sixty-five children have been enrolled in the kindergarten. Eleven women have attended the woman's class for cooking and Bible study. Miss Bigelow says:

The meetings rotated between our kitchen and sitting-room. The ladies asked me to desist serving cake; they really seemed to come for something else.

FUKUI STATION.

On his return from his most effective work in Manchuria in behalf of the Japanese soldiers during the war, Mr. Dunlop took up again the work in Fukui, which had fallen on Mrs. Dunlop's shoulders alone during his absence. He writes:

I have continued to teach English, both in the chapel and at home. The little that I have done for the Normal School students is much appreciated by them and by their principal and other teachers. On their Field Sports day this Spring I was surprised and delighted to find the high place among their fellow-students held by our three Christian boys and several other members of my Bible and English class. Two (first and third) out of the three prizes given in the great race of the day were won by two of our Christian boys, and one of these same boys won second prize in another of the most important contests. The sergeant-major who put the students through their drill turned out to be one of the boys of our Bible class. It was a delight to find that we have been in contact with the cream of the school.

In April I had an illustration of the value of this work. Three graduates of the school, teaching in the province of Wakasa, wrote to ask me to visit their part of the country. It was the time of their Spring vacation, and they gave themselves for several days to entertaining me and arranging meetings. We had three of these, two in villages between Tsuruja and Obawa, and the third in the large town of Abawa. The last was a gathering of school-teachers. A teacher's association was in session and about 100 of the teachers accepted an invitation to our meeting—such an audience as I never before had in Japan and few others have had. One of my school-teacher friends took me to his own village, secured the schoolhouse for our meeting, and the whole village, men, women and children, attended. This tour was a revelation to me of the value of work among Normal School students.

The Chief of Police and the Principal of the city schools constitute another English and Bible class. I have spent two evenings a week with them for some months and have often groaned over giving so much time to such an indirect way of working, but much of the best-paying work in Japan has to be done in that way. Mrs. Dunlop's cooking class work has been of the same indirect sort, but it has made us and our evangelist and his wife many friends, has opened to us many of the best homes in the city, and has brought children from such homes into our Sunday-school. The extreme friendliness of these people, the many gifts we received from all classes, from the Marquis and Marchioness Motsulavia and the Governor and his wife downwards, and the fine send-off they gave us at our departure, made me wonder whether some of them at least were not laboring under a misconception and thought we were going away for good and they were seeing the last of us. Their kindness certainly warmed our hearts and made us feel that, with all its drawbacks, Fukui would be a delightful place to return to after furlough.

During the month immediately preceding furlough, I was privileged to be able to make a tour of our Korean Mission Stations and the Y. M. C. A. post in Manchuria. Mr. Bryan was my companion on this journey, and the Mission at least will not need to be told how good a companion he was. At each stopping place, with a few exceptions, we were able to preach and visit among Japanese Christians and inquirers. We thus did some work at Fusan, Taiku, and Ping Yang in Korea, and at Liao Yang, Dairen and Port Arthur in China. At Liao Yang I baptized two men, at Port Arthur four men and two women, and at each place we had a number of impressive services.

MATSUYAMA STATION.

The work of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan has been the simplest kind of evangelistic work, without machinery or institutions, consisting of personal dealing with individuals, work with little groups in co-operation with the Japanese. Of the women's work Mrs. Bryan writes:

The work at Kamibun is, humanly speaking, discouraging, as there is a good deal of persecution and I, though a foreigner, came near getting a pounding with a bamboo pole. But the result was that apologies were made, and we were able to get an audience of 300 at a house in that village, though we were told it was useless to try and hold any meetings there. This petty persecution makes the work around Kamibun a little hard for the evangelist and for the Christians. In the Ozu field, however, the conditions seem to be the exact opposite. Almost every Christian there is a worker and helps in various ways the plans of the evangelist. I always meet with a welcome in the houses of the non-Christian women, many of whom have Bibles. There seems to be no limit in the Ozu field for opportunities to do Christian work, and the last time I was there we had a meeting in a silk factory and 200 of the female operatives there attended this meeting. The manager of the factory told me that if I could wait over another night they could hold a similar meeting in a larger factory across the river.

Mr. Bryan reports fifteen baptisms during the year in Matsuyama and a specially good work among the students of the Normal School and the Middle School. Miss Wells has worked in the Sunday-schools and the military hospitals and in Bible classes for young men and young women. Of the Christian Endeavor Society she writes that seven were baptized during the year.

The one baptized in July is the only one of her family who is a Christian, but she is striving earnestly to get her father and mother and brother to become Christians also. Her parents are not opposed to Christianity; in fact, she says that frequently before she decided for Christ her father said to her, "Why don't you become a Christian? I don't object at all to your being a Christian, only you must be a faithful one."

SHIMONOSEKI STATION.

The work in the region of the Shimonoseki Straits, which had been supervised by Mr. Ayres from Moji, has during the past year been under the care of Dr. and Mrs. Jones, with headquarters in Shimonoseki. Within about ten miles of the Straits there are five church organizations having no financial connection with the Mission.

Of the five, Moji clearly takes the lead. Its pastor, Rev. Taketomo Hirayama, is a good preacher and wide-awake seeker for souls, and he is supported by an efficient session. The membership numbers fifty and last year raised for all purposes more than 700 yen. The Bible study hours for adults on Wednesday night is well attended, and the weekly prayer meeting on Friday night had during last year an average attendance equal to half the adult membership of the church. A live women's meeting is maintained by the pastor.

Near Wakamatsu, at a town called Edamissu, are located the Imperial Iron and Steel Works, where several thousand men are employed and among them are a few Nippon Kirisuto Kyokwai members. Mr. Watanabe makes bi-weekly visits, holding first a children's meeting and later one for adults. The alternate weeks he visits Naogata, one of the most important coal-mining towns in Kyushu. Christians who needed nurture was the first reason for visiting this place, but they have been keen to have public meetings and we have held them since before the Summer.

Dr. Jones has found the attitude of the churches in Shimonoseki and Moji entirely cordial, and says:

I have been using the "Yako" (published by Mr. Fulton) and am sending out eighty or ninety to persons who have requested them.

On the whole I would say that it is not difficult to get a hearing for Christianity in the region of Shimonoseki Straits, especially of the Kyushu side in the smaller towns.

KURE STATION.

This is the new Station, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Brokaw after their return from furlough, supported by the First Presbyterian Church of Williamsport, Pa. It is a naval station which has grown rapidly since the war. The city has a population of over 100,000, and the country field nearly a million. Mrs. Brokaw reports:

Kure is peculiarly a city suitable for house-to-house work. Many of the naval class of people, coming here from other places, are ashamed to identify themselves with the work of the Church, for the reason that the people of this city seem so provincial. The city, too, is in its beginning stage so far as culture is concerned.

In my work in the naval hospital, the officers have been most kind and courteous, giving instructions to the patients as to the purpose of my visits, and actually assisting in the tract distribution—yes, even requesting me to give Christian talks to the men.

Six or more classes per week have been carried on regularly. No requests of any kind have been turned away. All have not kept coming, however. The English students, after realizing that they were getting Christianity thoroughly pressed upon them, and that Christian literature was saturating them, decided in some cases to halt before it was too late. Thus I have dropped some and taken on others, as the requests came. Two persons from these classes have become Christians. Others are still studying. So this branch of the work is encouraging also.

At the next baptismal service there will be at least four women baptized. Altogether the outlook is encouraging. And even though we do live in a leaky, crooked, inadequate Japanese house, and stone throwing is of daily occurrence by neighborhood children, yet we have no desire to exchange fields for any other in the Mission.

Mr. Brokaw reports three baptisms at Mihara and twelve at Kure, where there were also thirty inquirers. He writes:

It is needless to say, since we are the only foreigners in Kure, and that there are 30,000 or more young men here, that we have a monopoly of the teaching of English. Moreover, no one has yet discovered an anti-English serum for Japan. The bacilli have been especially thrifty since we moved here. However, we came back from furlough feeling that we must not throw away this opportunity. We must make use of it some way. We decided to give the matter a thorough trial. I made up my mind to teach English while I was doing that, and the Bible while I was doing that. Right at the start I told all that I was here to teach Christianity and not English, and that if I taught a little English conversation, I expected them to study a lot of Christianity. I set about to find a good way to teach conversation. That my classes are well attended may or may not be proof of success. The following effusion, however, will be proof positive, even to the most, skeptical, that I have succeeded beyond all my hopes.

"MY DEAR MR. BROKAW:

"My heart vibrates with unspeakable joy, due to your kind invitation to dinner and loving kindness of you all. Those kind acts are more powerful for driving out any evil part within me than 10,000 mere dead lessons."

I have seen to it that all were taught the Bible in some form. I have two large Bible classes and some smaller ones for those who cannot attend the others. I see that each student gets a copy of the "Fukuin Geppo" each month. Each applicant is given a number of tracts when he makes his request. Each one is urged to attend services and is handed a little announcement sheet. Many of them now attend. Moreover, for these classes and the "Fukuin Geppo" readers I have a loan library of sixty choice Christian books. Although I hand all a list of these books, I find the most effective way is to say to a young man, "Here is a good book. Have you read it? Would you like to do so?" He always takes the book; he can't very well help it. When he brings it back, I say, "Here is another I wish you would read." A translation of "What a Young Man Ought to Know" is asked for more than any other book. It is written in such a moral and Christian spirit that it generally leads to higher things. One sailor said, "I can't live an immoral life now that I have read that book." I wish every boy in Japan might read it.

On October 17 the church celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of its organization. Elder Matsui, deeply moved, told of the time, four or five years ago, when disbandment stared them in the face. There was no pastor or evangelist. The Dendo Kyaku had rejected theirs and the Mission's proposals. He and Elder Marita were the only attendants upon meetings. He began writing his own name in the Bible alongside of some of the promises. He told the Lord to take his own worthless life, but to keep the church from disbanding. Is it any wonder, with such faith, that we can report so hopefully this year?

TAIREN STATION.

Just as they were settling in the work in the Osaka field, after their return from furlough, Mr. and Mrs. Winn received a call from the Japanese Church in Tairen, Manchuria, formerly known as Dalny. As a result of the war, a large Japanese element have come into the city, and, needing a pastor in the active Christian church which has been established, turned to Mr. Winn. It is interesting to think of this call of a missionary by a purely Japanese church at the time when the very question of co-operation between missionaries and Japanese was in an acute stage in Japan. Mr. Winn was seriously ill for some time, but has happily recovered.

Mrs. Winn reports of the work:

We seem to have arrived at a transition period in the work here. At first there seemed a strange magic at work, and its wonderful progress surprised and encouraged Christians all over Japan. But now a second stage has been reached. Col. Hibiki has been called away and we feel the loss of this ardent determined spirit, as well as several others who were most earnest and faithful, yet we know the growth of the Church does not depend upon the efforts of those who were instrumental in getting it started, and we believe it will grow still in strength and numbers, even if it be in a less conspicuous way. As you all know, I suppose, the Russian church which was first given to the Christians by the Japanese Government has been recalled, and it is now used for a school building, for which it is much better adapted. The Government has, however, through the Hibiki San's efforts given a fine site in the best part of the city to build on and several thousand yen to assist in the building.

The head of the city government has been most cordial in welcoming us, and insists upon doing all he can for our comfort. I happened one day to incidentally inquire if he could get trees to grow in our yard—there seems to be nothing but rock in it—and before I knew it the Government sent us seven nice locust trees which they planted free of expense.

The Christians are crowded into a small room for preaching services, but it is astonishing to see how well they come to such an unattractive place. We hope next Spring to get into our new church and will then undoubtedly have much larger audiences.

This year, like each preceding one, has been the best year in our Korea Mission. The political unrest incident to the

KOREA MISSION

Mission stations are underlined thus Fŭ-san.

John Bartholomew & Co. Ltd.

Japanese declaration of a "protectorate" threatened at one time to cause serious disturbances, and for a while it unsettled the minds of some of the Christians, whose patriotism caused them to feel most keenly the humiliation to which the Government was subjected. A political move under the guise of a Korean Y. M. C. A. gave the Church considerable anxiety until its leaders were discredited and it became clear to all that the Christian Church in Korea was in no way responsible for the move and was not in sympathy with it.

The incoming of many Japanese has made the commercial and industrial situation a trying one to the Koreans, who do not as yet understand their legal relations and do not know what steps to take to protect themselves and to secure justice in the courts.

Relations of the missionaries with the Korean people and officials have been most friendly, and the former attitude of the official class, which was largely one of suspicion or indifference, has changed to one of most cordial friendship and confidence, and on the part of many to an earnest desire for the spread of Christianity throughout the empire. Not a few officials and some of the Royal family have professed faith in Christ.

The relation of the missionaries to the Japanese officials also has been one of friendship and co-operation, the Japanese recognizing the missionaries and the Church as constituting one of the greatest factors in cultivating good feeling between the two races and in maintaining order and confidence.

The religious freedom which Japanese ascendancy perpetuates is appreciated by the Christian Church, and great patience has been exercised in bearing with the inevitable hardships and unjust exactions incident to the transition from military to civil rule and to the inauguration of new conditions of government which are affecting the political, commercial, industrial and social relations of the whole people. Our missionaries sympathize deeply with the Koreans, but have shown most commendable discretion in co-operating with the Japanese authorities in allaying distrust and opposition on the part of the discontented Koreans.

From a political point of view, the Korean may feel depressed and be somewhat pessimistic; but from a religious point of view, he is enthusiastically optimistic and buoyant with an inspiring hope. The year's report from the Mission reads:

To say that 30,000 slaves of superstition in Korea during the past year have flung away their fetishes and admitted Jesus to rule their hearts is using large figures, but the claim is within the truth. And 30,000 minds enlightened, aspiring for knowledge, hungering absolutely with an avid hunger for knowledge of Him whose call they have begun to hear—this means the change of whole communities in almost every relation of life, it means the leaven working to completely overturn all the social structure of the land.

The evangelistic fervor and zeal of the Korean Church means still larger ingatherings, and the missionary force is more and more giving its strength to the training of the Church and to the educational work which is demanded by the large constituency already gathered.

The safety of the Church lies in its control by a body of educated laymen and by an enlightened ministry. Consequently theological instruction and the education of the Christian converts has necessitated plans for a larger educational equipment for the Mission.

The churches throughout the country, spurred partly by the events of the recent war, began to clamor for schools, for teachers, for every form of instruction, and the murmur has grown so loud it is become like a deafening roar. They will gain Western learning, they will have it Christian in its mold, they will do anything to make it possible, and they will gladly bear all the costs, even to erection of buildings and payment of foreign salaries in some localities. It is a mighty problem of the day. To meet this situation the Mission presents a great plea for buildings and endowment for its educational plants.

Then there is the demand for literature—simply overwhelming in its immensity—the call of a reading nation for food to supply its intellectual craving, of a Christian Church for nourishment suited to its use and that of its children. Hundreds of thousands of volumes have been sent out, but the call still grows louder. It is for millions, and it is a problem as important and closely akin to that of education. Like education, it involves the assigning of workers and the raising of funds in large amounts.

The "open door" to the Gospel messenger is now wide open to the utmost limit, and those of all classes and ranks are flocking in larger and larger numbers to the Church. It is the day of opportunity, the day of the Holy Spirit's manifest power. Korea, the last nation to be occupied, bids fair to be the first to be evangelized.

The greatest loss to the Mission, and that one most keenly felt, was the death in December of Rev. S. F. Moore. Mr. Moore had been in Korea fourteen years. He was one of the most fluent of the missionaries in the use of the language, and had done valiant service in evangelistic work. For the past year or two he had shown himself so well qualified for teaching in the theological classes and in the Wells Training School that at the last meeting of the Mission he had been placed at the head of the Wells School in Seoul, where he gave every promise of great usefulness. Few men have shown greater devotion than he and none had a more tender heart or a greater love for the Koreans. The return home of Mrs. Barrett and a little later of Mr. Barrett, both on account of ill health, with the uncertainty as to whether they will be able to go back to the field, comes as a great blow to the Taiku Station, where the work is now going forward with such leaps and bounds as to make the loss of workers one very greatly felt.

Dr. Underwood's enforced absence in France on sick leave because of a severe attack of laryngitis, that of his wife who is with him, the return to America of Mrs. McFarland on account of illness, and the interruption to Dr. Null's work from several severe attacks of sickness have withdrawn valued workers greatly needed in this time of abundant opportunities.

The only additions to the force of the Korea Mission during the year were those of Rev. Walter C. Erdman, who reached Taiku in October, and Mrs. William B. Hunt (nee Miss Anna Lloyd, of Orange, N. J.), who with Mr. Hunt on his return from furlough reached the field in November for the new Station at Chai Ryeng.

The marriage of Rev. C. F. Bernheisel and Miss Helen B. Kirkwood in September was happily celebrated.

The co-operation of our Mission and the M. E. Mission in schoolwork in both Seoul and Pyeng Yang has been continued, to the advantage of the cause and with an economy of missionary energy and resources. Union in the publishing of periodicals and Sunday-school literature was accomplished, and a General Council of Evangelical Missions was formed.

The presence of large numbers of Japanese in Korea, where they are building up Japanese cities, has made the question of Christian work for them an urgent one. A Japanese evangelist has been located in Fusan, but more are needed. The Presbyterian Council in Korea has requested our West Japan Mission "to send one of its members to work among the Japanese in Korea, said missionary to remain a member of the West Japan Mission, but to live in Korea if possible."

SEOUL STATION.

This report sets forth briefly the main features of the work of Seoul Station, including that of Chung-ju, which is situated some fifty miles southeast of the capital. It has been one of the best years in the history of the Station. The union movement, which began in June, 1905, has resulted in the uniting of forces of the Presbyterian and Methodist Missions along two important lines, namely, the intermediate school for boys and the issuing of publications. During the Winter evangelistic season united meetings were held; those of the Methodist churches were under charge of a Presbyterian, and those of Presbyterian churches under charge of a Methodist. It has been unusual to see a thousand people meet for prayer in Seoul, but that occurred several times in the Chong Dong Church, while at the same time hundreds were gathered at Yun Mot Kol and in the Central Church. Several hundred professed a change of heart and a determination to follow Christ. The rule, however, that they be retained for one year as catechumens and given a chance to study before baptism accounts for the small number added during the year. Next year, we trust, will show a much larger addition.

The union principle, we hope, will be extended so that the unevangelized territory may all be occupied without the different denominations overlapping.

Frequent clashing between Japanese and Korean interests has kept the people's minds in a state of anxiety; and our inability to give definite help has often interpreted itself to the Korean mind as a lack of interest in them, or feebleness of love, causing many to split off at times and seek other affiliations.

The marked success of the Y. M. C. A. (unaffiliated) has caused attempts to be made to use it politically. These attempts, however, have been suppressed, and the Association and churches stand out more clearly than ever as Christian institutions without political bias.

The City Church.—Meeting places, 16; baptized members, 517; members added during the year, 17; total adherents, 1,519; offerings, 1,314.59 yen.

The real growth is manifest in the size of the congregations and the great increase that has had to be made in the seating capacity of the churches.

When the Central Church (pastor, Rev. C. A. Clark; Rev. A. A. Pieters, associate) moved from its old position to the north middle part of the city, it had in the new quarters about 400 square feet more of floor space than it formerly had, but within a few months more space was called for, and although the building is now twice the size it was before, it is all required.

The Yun Mot Kol Church (pastor, Rev. J. S. Gale, D.D., absent; Rev. E. H. Miller and Rev. W. D. Reynolds, in charge) building was again enlarged during this year, but the congregation outgrew its accommodations and a few months ago it was found necessary to divide the meetings, the women and men worshipping separately.

The members have subscribed money and purchased a site for a new church, and they already have a considerable sum toward the erection of their building.

A notable fact in the growth of this congregation is the large proportion of higher class people that is coming in, many of them near relatives of the Emperor, who take their places on the floor, very often next to those of the lowest social rank, a fact which argues strongly for their sincerity.

The Sai Moon An Church (pastor, Rev. H. G. Underwood, D.D., absent; Rev. E. F. Hall, in charge) also feels the need of enlarging its bounds. Sites are difficult to obtain in that part of the city, but one has been chosen, and it is hoped that a new and large enough building will be erected before long.

West Kyeng-Keui District (under care of Rev. E. F. Hall).—Meeting places, 16; baptized members, 550; adherents, 1,043; offerings, 201.50 yen.

Dr. Underwood's illness and absence has prevented giving much time to this district. Mr. Clark reports:

We visited eight villages, examined 163 candidates for baptism, baptizing forty and enrolling sixty-three as catechumens. This was a most enjoyable trip, especially the time spent in Cho-Kang, where we examined eighty-three and baptized thirty-eight in one day. . . . Sam Chuk Dong was also interesting. In that place for six years they have never missed a night in meeting for prayer and Bible study.

South Kyeng-Keui and Chung Chong Districts (under care of Rev. F. S. Miller).—Meeting places, 26; baptized members, 46; adherents, 1,000; offerings, 264.11 yen.

Mr. Miller reports a great forward movement in and around Chong-ju, there being now twenty-six regular meeting places and the congregations averaging 926. The ground is comparatively new and these figures mean much in one of the most aristocratic provinces of the nation. On some days as many as 300 women have visited Mrs. Miller at her home. Forty-six communicants and sixty-eight catechumens are reported who have supported a colporteur at a cost of $82.50.

The City Church has a congregation of 160, and it has contributed for its own support and other church objects $135, besides keeping up a school of sixty-six boys with three teachers at a cost of $129.50.

Pai Chun District (under care of the late Rev. S. F. Moore).—Meeting places, 29; baptized members, 334; adherents, 1,010; offerings, $517.80.

Until shortly before his death Mr. Moore's life and earnest efforts were given for the people of Korea and his fellow-workers, and will remain a beautiful heritage to those who knew him and worked at his side. His sweet trustful spirit was something the world rarely sees. His last year was one of his busiest and his report is thrilling in its details of revival in all parts of his field.

The work in the river villages three miles to the south and west of Seoul shows a marked advance. Through this district and beyond Pai Chun and off in Western Whang-hai Province, where Mr. Moore was so well known and loved, they will long mourn his loss—a tender-hearted, faithful, Christ-like teacher.

Kang-won District (under care of Rev. A. G. Welbon).—Meeting places, 18; baptized members, 87; adherents, 400; offerings, 151.12 yen.

Speaking of his district Mr. Welbon says:

Kang won Province, a part of which has been assigned me, is said by Koreans to be the most illiterate in the country. Whether this be true or not, it certainly has the fewest Christians. . . . But a marked change has come over the people, the missionary is welcomed almost everywhere he goes, and several hundreds have signified their desire to become Christians.

Southwest Whang-hai District (under care of Rev. C. E. Sharp).—Meeting places, 28; baptized members, 640; adherents, 1,300; offerings, $648.50.

Mr. Sharp speaks very encouragingly of the work in the Province of Whang-hai, mentioning the spirit of revival, which has been manifest in the increased attendance at church, a more earnest study of the Bible, the return of many backsliders, an increase in gifts for the support of evangelists, and the spreading more widely and more rapidly of an interest in Christianity among outsiders. He baptized seventy-nine adults and received 113 catechumens, and would have greatly increased this number had he not been prevented from visiting his district, where he had planned to do so shortly before the close of the year.

Southwest Kyeng-Keui (under care of Rev. A. A. Pieters).—Statistics included under South Kyeng-Keui and Chung Chong Districts.

This has long remained a difficult and unresponsive section of the country; but during the past year a definite wave of interest followed the efforts of Messrs. Clark and Pieters, and a permanent hold has been obtained on this important part of the country. Last year eighty-four representatives, paying their own way, came up to Seoul to attend the New Year's class for Bible study.

Mr. Pieters says:

Five groups grown into more than twenty-five; five new churches built, one of which cost $175, and three more about to be built; a small group of only a few catechumens supporting a teacher at a cost of $6 a month, another church ready to support a teacher when he is found; large and enthusiastic attendance at Bible classes for both men and women; the constant calls for the missionary to visit them, and the eagerness with which he is received—all these show that the years of hard labor and seed sowing of my predecessors have not been in vain.

Training Classes.—These continue to be held on a larger scale than ever, those recently held in Seoul showing a desire for self-sacrifice and an interest unequalled before. Eighty-four were present from simply one district of the country, and that heretofore considered the most hopeless. Many hundreds have taken part in study at these classes during the past year.

Woman's Evangelistic Work.—This work has been carried on faithfully by Miss Wambold and the married ladies as they could give the time. A great work yet remains to be done in teaching the women.

EDUCATIONAL.—John D. Wells' Training School for Christian Workers.—This school building has now been completed, and it has become the union educational institution of the city, where the Methodists and Presbyterian young men sit side by side and take the same courses together. Rev. E. H. Miller is our principal, and he reports that the total enrollment is 150, of which sixty are Presbyterian boys.

The curriculum embraced the following subjects: Bible, Mathematics (Arithmetic and Algebra), Geography of Korea and General Geography, English, Japanese, Physics, Physiology, Music, Drawing, History, and the most advanced pupils have already covered three years out of the five necessary.

In order to hold our own against Japanese non-Christian schools, which are being established everywhere, it will require the best of teachers, equipment, and the greatest possible interest and care.

Girls' Boarding School (Miss M. B. Barrett, principal).—Twenty-three girls have been enrolled. Miss Barrett has had the help of Mrs. E. H. Miller, Miss Wambold and Mrs. Shin.

An onward step has been the use of two of the advanced pupils as teachers of the lower classes. This proved a success and will greatly add to the powers of the school.

The closing exercises, held during two afternoons, one attended by foreign and the other by Korean ladies, showed an encouraging development in the girls, and a degree of ability to learn not at all inferior to that of their brothers.

Mrs. E. H. Miller has begun a night school for young married women. The effort thus far has been encouraging and successful, and we hope for further efforts along this line in future, wherein the neglected girls who have been married off as children may yet have a chance to learn to read at least.

MEDICAL WORK.—Physicians, Dr. O. R. Avison and Dr. J. W. Hirst.

The medical statistics show a marked increase over former years. The two physicians have been kept busy, having not only the hospital to look after, but the native Church and the whole foreign community, with frequent calls from Chemulpo, Song-Do and other out-stations. Dr. Avison reports:

The wideness of the outreach of the medical work is seen by the statistics, which show a total of 11,295 dispensary patients, 437 in-patients, 1,086 private office patients, and 664 home visits, a grand total of 13,045, including both Dr. Avison's work and that of Dr. Hirst. This includes 126 visits to His Majesty the Emperor, and attendance all down the scale to the lowest outcasts. The effectiveness of the work cannot be set forth in specific terms, and we must depend upon general report and the good-will of the public to show this.

Mrs. Avison during the year made 297 visits to homes; met and talked with 1,652 women at the hospital and gave away 452 tracts and 95 books. About forty women were converted in the hospital or through her during the year. She has visited separately homes and washing places by the mountain streams, often talking with fifty at a time there or after a church service on Sunday.

One matter of special note is His Imperial Majesty's interest in the work. At Christmas time he sent a gift of $500 and later $1,500 for the current expenses of the hospital. Very kindly and thoughtfully he asked that all jinriksha men employed by the doctors be paid for from the palace. He conferred upon Dr. Avison and also upon Rev. Dr. Underwood the fourth grade decoration, called Tai Kcuk, carrying with it a rank just below that of Cabinet Minister.

On one occasion His Majesty graciously received copies of the Bible and our hymn book. They were presented by Rev. Dr. Underwood, Dr. Avison, and Mr. Hugh Miller, representing the Bible Societies. The New Testament he received was the recently published. Mixed Script Version, combining a simplicity of style with the dignity of the Chinese character, and so being in a language proper for the Emperor to read.

His Majesty also employed Dr. Avison to forward for him $2,500 for the relief of Korean sufferers in the San Francisco disaster.

Religious work has gone on daily in the hospital and among the in-patients.

LITERARY WORK.—Text-books are being gradually prepared, but lack of opportunity to publish them leaves nothing definite to report.

"The Christian News," in Korean native character (editors, Dr. Gale and Mr. Moore), is now a Methodist and Presbyterian union publication, and is issued weekly.

"The Korea Mission Field" (editor, Dr. Vinton), printed in English, is issued at various intervals, giving reports of the work throughout the country.

FUSAN STATION.

An era of greater prosperity has come to this Station as is shown by these opening sentences of the report:

We have had a record-breaking year. More new churches, more people baptized, more catechumens admitted, more new believers counted, more money raised for self-support, more complete organization, more new counties entered, more enthusiasm, more hope and more real character than ever before. Not a backward step anywhere.

EVANGELISTIC.—Kimhai Church.—The Kimhai City Church has forged to the front and is now our largest society.

It had struggled hard last year to get a building seating 120, but the Autumn bringing a strong forward movement, in which some of the best people of the city joined, the church building had to be enlarged. With some help from former Kimhai members now living in Hawaii and from the University Place Church, New York, they now have a house seating 280, already too small. Eighty catechumens were added during the year.

Masampo Church.—Near here is the new naval station begun by the Russians, now held by the Japanese. Of this church Mr. Smith writes:

The question of securing a suitable church building, a vital, perplexing and to a certain extent disorganizing question ever since the Japanese military authorities seized the former church property, was discussed without very cheerful outlook. Largely as a result of Elder Chu's stimulating addresses upon a later visit, the people have at great sacrifice built a substantial and commodious structure at a cost of 1,725 nyang. Individuals have grown in grace and the congregation is larger and more united.

Milyang Church.—The Milyang Church has become the most striking power for good in that county, while three new church buildings have been erected by the Christians in other villages near by.

The Chang Yung Church is the first of all the country churches to elect an elder, Mr. Pang, a lovable, hard-working, spirit-filled man.

Chogei County.—But the most startling movement of divine grace was in Chogei county, where there was not a known believer until October, 1905. In nine months there have arisen two church buildings, four meeting places, believers in twelve villages, 146 professing Christians. The first were brought to the Saviour through the efforts of Messrs. Chang and Yi, our colporteurs, and the work was nourished by them until it had a healthy start.

Fusan Church.—The church in Fusan has grown, too, and has improved in spirit and zeal.

Our elder-elect, Mr. Su, has been approved by the Presbyterial Committee, and his ordination awaits only the completion of his studies. The Christmas exercises of the girls, trained by Mrs. Irvin, were very cheerful, and showed how much the future mothers of the Church had progressed beyond their sisters in darkness.

Growth.—Everywhere we turn we find that the movement has been onward and upward. Christians have sprung up in four new counties, leaving only three assigned to us without work as yet begun.

We have established twelve groups of Christians this year, built thirteen new church buildings, baptized 124 adults and thirty-six children, admitted 272 catechumens, and we now count 1,497 adher-ents, which is an increase of 554 over last year. We have increased 50 per cent. over our last year's figures, and the native contributions have increased fourfold. The Koreans are doing something towards helpers' support now and are supporting a preacher to the heathen entirely with their own funds.

Preaching by Native Christians.—This happy growth, humanly speaking, has been almost entirely through the preaching of the Korean Christians, who without salary or emolument have given willingly and generously days and weeks, and in some cases months, a total of not less than four years, to the proclamation of the truth where Christ has not been named. Though the colporteurs have gone everywhere, and the helpers and pastors have followed along the lines of growth, the great credit is due to the unpaid Christian who loves the Christ and loves to tell of His love.

Bible Training Classes.—Officers' Class.—The officers' class at Chil Wun was a stirring one and it influenced the church deeply. Nine hundred and thirty-nine days of free preaching during the year were pledged by thirty-five people, which figures have been much swelled in the various churches later; delegates were elected to the Presbyterian Council; a preacher to the heathen was elected and his salary guaranteed. Great enthusiasm was manifested during the whole eight days of the class, and each man went back with a new vision, a new hope, a new determination.

Woman's Class.—After Christmas we joined forces with the Australian ladies of Old-Fusan in holding a woman's class in the Old-Fusan Church, the Australian ladies doing the greater part of the teaching. Though only a few of our women attended, a strong spiritual impulse was obtained there.

Men's Class.—The men's class at the Korean New Year's was again a union one, our missionaries uniting with the Australians in the conduct of the class in Mr. Engel's church at Old-Fusan. Our men poured in as never before; out of a total of 130 we have over 100, the farthest churches being as well represented as the nearer ones. For ten days the building was a busy hive of studying men. In addition to the three men of our station, Rev. G. Engel of the Australian Mission, Elder Sim of Old-Fusan, and Elder Chu of Pyeng Yang took prominent places in the teaching.

Country Classes.—Eight smaller classes were held during the year in the country places, all except one presided over by one of the pastors, and having an average attendance of thirty. Much good has come from these smaller classes, for here we find the people in their own environment and get in close touch with their spiritual lives.

Helpers' Class.—The helpers' class was a union project, the Australian Mission uniting with Taiku and Fusan Stations of our Mission in conducting a two weeks' class for helpers and colporteurs every year. The helpers and colporteurs under our care did well in their examinations.

Elder Chu of Pyeng Yang.—In addition to the work of our own force of helpers and colporteurs, we have had this year four months of strong effort on the part of Elder Chu of Pyeng Yang, who has won the love and esteem of all our people. We appreciate his sacrifice in coming to help us, and the sacrifice of Pyeng Yang Station who sent us a man whose services they could not spare without pain.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Irvin's report of the Junkin Memorial Hospital and Mary Collins Whiting Dispensary is a happy record of faithful service. The results of another year testify to the value of the hospital.

Aside from financial problems, everything has moved along in perfect order and to our full satisfaction. With the exception of the staff, patients, and food, which compared with the regular Korean food is very much modified, everything about the hospital is Western. Through the special gifts of kind friends for specific purposes, we have been able to equip our wards in a way that equals the best private hospitals at home. There is no lack of appreciation on the part of the patient, and if he makes any mistake it is in overestimating the value of the surroundings in working out a cure. One man was admitted who had passed through twenty-six years of suffering, during which time he had not had a bath. While in the waiting room of the dispensary he heard for the first time the story of Jesus and heaven. After passing through the bath, clothed in clean linen and laid on a spotless bed in a cheerful room, the afflicted limb propped up with downy pillows to break the strain, he asked, "Is this heaven?" On being told it was not, for if it were he would not be ill, he replied, "Well, if this is not heaven, it is the next place to it."

Dispensary.—In the dispensary daily a stream of suffering beings pour in seeking relief, representing all conditions and characters of men, likewise all conditions and characters of affliction, a large number of which arise from the expertness of the Korean physician in blocking the reconstructive powers of Nature. During this year 8,547 patients have been treated, including 128 in the hospital, 121 of which were major surgical cases.

Financial.—Financially, we are glad to report that the receipts this year from the patients exceed those of any previous year, the total amount being $651.92.

Evangelistic Work in Hospital.—While the physical side of our work demands much of our time and strength, we in no way neglect the spiritual side. In the hospital and dispensary alike evangelistic work is carried on regularly and systematically and in a way which we believe results in great good. Through the dispensary every year thousands for the first time hear the Gospel, which gives us that wide-cast seed-sowing we so much desire, and which is necessary for the more thorough evangelistic work.

A small plot of land immediately behind the medical plant has been added to the hospital site this Spring, the gift of Rev. J. B. Devins, D.D., of New York, whose kindness we thankfully acknowledge.

EDUCATIONAL.—This is as yet very small, but the Church is now beginning to establish primary schools, the Chil Wun and Milyang Churches having schools well under way. The Station unites with the Taiku Station in the plans for an Academy at Taiku to serve the needs of both Stations. Four young men from Fusan territory attended this Academy, and Mr. Sidebotham gave one month to instruction in the same. Mr. Smith gave the month of June to assisting in the theological, normal and helpers' classes in Pyeng Yang.

Girls' Night School.—In Fusan, Mrs. Irvin conducted the girls' school three nights a week until Christmas, the school closing with a fine Christmas entertainment.

LITERARY.—Mr. Sidebotham has finished a "Life of David Brainerd" and has prepared "Grammatical Notes on the Korean Editor of Mark's Gospel." He was elected a member of the Board of Translators of the Scriptures, but the Mission did not see its way clear to release him from the growing work already under his care.

STATISTICS.—Work is now established in thirteen counties with a total of forty meeting places, twenty-two of these having church buildings. There are 380 communicants enrolled, of whom 130 were added this year. The catechumens number 366, of whom 272 were enrolled this year, by far the largest number Fusan has ever received. There were fifty-one pupils in the schools and the total native contributions amounted to $555.72.

The report closes as follows:

Never has the Lord poured out His blessing so richly and never have people flocked to the kingdom as during the year whose records we now close. "The best yet" is the word ever on our lips. And we long and hope and work for a year still better, and we have faith to believe it is already begun.

PYENG YANG STATION.

The message from Pyeng Yang this year is one of unbounded prosperity and opportunity; of enlarged work, evangelistic, educational and medical; of a Church of great spiritual power making its influence felt in all parts of Korea, and of a mighty outpouring of the Spirit of God.

The problems are those connected with the instruction and training of the tens of thousands of believers, old and new, and with the securing of an adequate educational equipment for conserving present results and for reaping the ever-increasing fruitage of a Church all on fire with evangelistic zeal.

EVANGELISTIC.—Local.—The work in the city and environs has been characterized by remarkable progress. The Central Church had long been crowded, and it was found to be necessary to establish two new churches in the city. In December, the believers in the northern part of the city were formed into a church under the pastoral charge of Mr. Blair. In January, the Christians in the southeastern portion of the city were set aside to form a new church under the pastoral charge of Mr. Bernheisel. Thus there are now four Presbyterian churches in the city. The great ingathering of the year is largely the result of the evangelistic services held at the Korean New Year, when services were held in the four churches and the city thoroughly canvassed, leading many hundreds of persons to make a public confession of faith in Christ. As one traverses the streets of the city on the Sabbath and sees the number of closed shops, one is more and more impressed with the fact that Christianity is making itself mightily felt in this place. On the average Sabbath there are about 3,000 persons in attendance on the services of our four churches.

Central Church.—Of this church, whose regular weekly prayer meeting, now numbering 1,200 Christians, has been such an inspiration to the missionaries and to the home Church, the report this year says:

Despite the fact that two new churches were set off from this "mother of churches," there is no diminution in the size of her congregation, for at almost every service the church is crowded, and plans are under way to enlarge the building. The grounds about the church have been enlarged and much improved by new walls and entrances and approaches. Trees and shrubbery have been planted and ere long the top of the hill will be a place of great beauty.

There were 137 added by baptism and 167 catechumens received, giving an enrollment of 914 communicants and 334 catechumens after the setting off of two new churches.

One feature of the year's work was the sending of some of our best men to assist in the work of other stations. Elder Kil was sent to help the Seoul brethren for two months; Elder Chu spent four months at Fusan; Elder An spent two months at Kangkai, and Elder Chung some time at Anju. Glowing reports come of the good work of these brethren. We rejoice that we can thus send our best men to help out in other places. We are not impoverished but enriched by doing so.

South Gate.—This church has had a prosperous year, despite the drawback of having many of the Christians and other Koreans move away, owing to the Japanese occupation of the neighborhood. The Christians rejoice at the completion of their church building at a further cost of $500, without any foreign help. The church now comfortably seats about 600.

Twenty-three adults have been baptized and 117 catechumens received. Three elders were ordained and the church is now fully organized. Mr. Swallen writes of their plans to build a bookroom and reading-room on the street in front of the church.

Sa Chang Kol.—This church met for the first time the last Sabbath in December. There was an attendance at first of less than one hundred. As the result of the winter evangelistic services and aggressive work on the part of all the congregation has greatly increased. There are now enrolled 127 baptized and ninety-seven catechumens. The main strength of the congregation has been expended in getting a home of its own. With some assistance from the Central and East Gate Churches, they now have a new building on a fine site contributed by a deacon of Central Church.

East Gate.—This church met for the first time on the last Sabbath in January. Members and catechumens to the number of 137 were received by transfer from the Central and South Gate Churches. There are now on the roll 105 members and eighty-two catechumens, with an average attendance of more than 200. The services are held in the old East Gate Church, but this is at the extreme corner of the district, so that it is planned to build as soon as possible on a fine site which has been already partly secured near the center of the district.

These four churches are closely associated in many forms of Christian activity, holding a quarterly joint meeting of their officers. They have together 1,283 communicants, of whom 244 were added this year; 708 catechumens, of whom 382 were received this year, and their contributions amounted to yen 7,229.80.

The Christmas entertainment arranged and conducted by Mr. and Mrs. McCune brought about 3,000 people to church, necessitating a two days' entertainment, one for the men and one for the women.

The "sowun" or library was opened the first of January. This is an institution of the church which has met a great need in the work of the city churches. Study classes and officers' meetings have found a most convenient meeting place here. Various lectures and entertainments have been given during the year. A bathhouse is run in connection with it, and its bookstore is headquarters for Christian literature.

The Blind school, managed almost entirely by Koreans, has had a successful year. Six pupils were in attendance. One pupil has completed the hymn book in the point system, and progress has been made in copying the New Testament. One hundred dollars were added to the endowment. The school now has fields to the value of $500.

Country Work.—Nearly everywhere throughout the country districts there is the sound of abundance of rain.

The organization of counterfeit Y. M. C. As. by ostensibly Christian men for political purposes has been a disturbing factor during the year. But they are now dead. Those who were carried away by these things have mostly come back into the fold and are the stronger and purer for the trial, as gold is purified by the fire. Everywhere the spirit of evangelism is rife in the churches, and in some villages the heathen are moving out because they cannot stand the persecution, as they call it, of being constantly urged to believe. Their sins are being visited upon their own heads. As a result nearly all the old groups have grown in size and many new groups have originated.

More perfect church organization is being effected, and the body of men able to carry on the work of the churches is growing constantly larger.

In many groups elders have been elected and ordained. Many of these groups now have congregations numbering well into the hundreds, and will be ready to call and support pastors when men are ordained to that office. Their delight in the support of the Gospel is evidenced in the generosity with which they contribute to the salaries of the helpers and evangelists. Quite a number of new helpers have been added this year, notwithstanding the fact that salaries have had to be materially raised.

In one circuit the people offered to raise the money, and wanted to put on so many new helpers that the missionary was astonished and remarked that the people of that circuit were going crazy on the matter of helpers. That is the kind of craze that we want to see spread abroad. The enlarged activities of the Church are constantly calling new men into the work, and there is therefore a large body of earnest, intelligent, and devoted men being trained for positions of leadership in the Church. It is a pleasure to see the masterly manner in which they take hold of and solve all the questions that naturally arise in the administration of the already established work, and plan for the enlargement of effort along many lines.

Mr. Lee writes:

In one district there are six new groups, four of which I have never visited. As has always been the case in our work, the Koreans break up more ground than the missionary can till. The anti-tobacco smoking society still flourishes and one of the three evangelists is supported entirely by funds which formerly went for tobacco.

Since then Mr. McCune has written that the society now supports two evangelists, and he tells of finding a group of Christians in a mountain village gathered and taught by a man whom Dr. Moffett baptized in Pyeng Yang years ago and who was supposed to be dead, as he had not been heard from for years. He was in a far-off mountain village teaching the Gospel and gathering a church.

Committee of Missions.—This society is composed of the missionaries of Pyeng Yang and Syen Chun Stations, together with twenty or more Koreans, and has oversight of the missionary work of the Church. All the churches are urged to make an annual offering to send evangelists to the unevangelized regions. Five such evangelists have been maintained during the year and much good has resulted from the earnest and aggressive preaching of these men.

Bible Training Classes.—This characteristic feature of the work has been extended more widely than ever. The Central class for men enrolled 800 and that for women over 500. The New Year class for city merchants enrolled 200 and that for city women 250.

In some districts classes for Bible study and conference have been held in every group. In many circuits general classes have been held attended by as many as 500 persons. The contagion of enthusiasm developed in such classes is a great help in the work of the circuits. Miss Best, Miss Snook, and Miss Kirkwood have each held classes in various parts of the country, in some of which classes for women were never held before, while several of the married ladies got away for one or more classes.

The total number of such classes held by the missionaries was twenty-two, and by the Koreans 213, with a total attendance of 9,873.

The following from Miss Best's personal report gives an idea of what these classes mean to the women and of their unsurpassed value in the work of the Station:

In April, Pak Si, my Bible woman, and I started for Koksan. We traveled 213 miles by chair and horse and were absent from Pyeng Yang twenty-two days. No foreign woman had ever visited this mountain region, and the first one was such a curiosity that one little girl, on beholding the strange being, clutched her mother's skirts and exclaimed, "Mother! look at this thing!" Though cut off from Pyeng Yang by mountain ranges, Christianity seems to have penetrated into the mountains and Christians may be met all along the road.

We held a class at Tu-chi-tu, a beautiful little village nestling in a peaceful valley so secure in mountain fastness that no alarm of war and turmoil reached it at the time, not long past, when Korea's destiny hung in the balance of war. Fifty-two women and girls from eight different places, some of them twenty miles distant, attended the class. About half of the number could read. They studied John's Gospel and Mark, while those who could not read were taught from Mark's Gospel, the Catechism, and the First Reader. Eleven of the women from this class walked with us to Tori-Kol, a distance of thirty miles, to attend the second class. This time there were thirty-nine women in attendance. The Christians of the church in the county seat begged us to hold a class there, but we had to come away, telling them that perhaps some other time it might be possible to hold a class in their city.

These mountain people were interesting. Their efforts to live as Christians so shut off from intercourse with others of like belief, are commendable. The tales that some of the women told of their blind groping after truth and their attempts to "do the doctrine," about which they knew so little at first, were pathetic.

Nearer Pyeng Yang at one evening meeting 100 women, most of them heathen, gathered in the courtyard and quietly listened while we talked.

EDUCATIONAL.—The year shows that the Christian Church in Korea is making great strides along educational lines, that a Christian constituency will provide educational facilities for its children, and that it is willing to make sacrifices for them. To-day the plea from the Station is for buildings and endowment for the educational plant so greatly needed.

Academy.—The Academy has had a prosperous year. There were 120 new applicants, not all of whom could be received. The total enrollment was 160, of whom 104 continued in school till the close of the year. The lower classes were at first too large to be accommodated in the building. Once when the principal entered a recitation room he found the room densely packed with pupils, and the space about the windows on the roof outside occupied with the overflow.

One of the most notable features of the year has been the tentative union with the Methodists. Each Mission put into the school the force and means at its disposal. The Methodists assigned Mr. Becker to the work, and he has served with great satisfaction throughout the year. They also furnished one Korean tutor. At first they were hindered by the desire on the part of their local constituency to form a denominational school of their own, to which they had subscribed liberally. The missionaries, taking a broader view, and believing that co-operation in educational work is essential in order to efficiency and economy of the working force and in order to the establishing of that grade of schools which will be necessary for the work here, decided to commence the union work. At first there were no Methodist pupils, but gradually they came in to the number of fifteen. The tentative arrangement has proven highly satisfactory and permanent union seems assured.

Beside the regular work of Dr. Baird and Mr. Becker, Mrs. Baird taught for one hour and sometimes for two hours a day throughout the year. Her constant presence in the school has been a great influence for good which has reached far beyond the classes she has taught. Various other members of the station gave such time as they were able, some of them as much as six weeks' daily work.

The Academy met with a great loss in the death of Prof. Pak Cha Choong, who had been the head teacher of Chinese literature since the founding of the Academy in 1898, when he with several of his pupils came from the Primary school out of which the Academy grew.

In June a class of four was graduated. One was asked to go to Wiju at a large salary to start an Academy similar to this one. One will return in the Fall as a tutor, while the other two will enter the college.

The manual labor department has continued to assist about half the pupils to support themselves. Work has been developed in the carpenter and blacksmith shops, where several students are being trained to useful trades.

For this department a recent gift of $5,000 has been received through Mr. Lee from Mr. Samuel Davis, of Rock Island, Ill., and in addition to his other duties Mr. Lee has been given charge of the "Anna Davis" Industrial Department of the Academy.

Another notable feature has been the increased gifts from the native churches. Last year $60.75 was given. This year the total amount received from eighty-seven country and city churches and five individuals was $209.30. One old lady who dropped into the Academy prayer meeting one night was so pleased with what she saw and heard that she gave $25 to the school.

The report, made out before the opening of the new term, reads:

Our accommodations, which were crowded this year, will be utterly insufficient the coming year, as all indications point to a large increase of applicants. The buildings asked for last year are imperatively demanded.

Since then the new term opened with applications from 300 students. The opportunity presented for molding the lives of these hundreds calls loudly to some one to provide the buildings needed.

The College.—College work was begun last Fall. The demand is urgent. For the best interests of the whole work, the Academy graduates and others who are demanding higher education should receive it here rather than go abroad, as many already have done, or look to the Japanese. That the Koreans are interested in providing higher Christian education for their children found remarkable demonstration at a meeting held in Central Church on June 26. After presenting the needs of and plans for a college a collection was taken. It was the most enthusiastic offering ever witnessed in this city. Deeds of lands and houses, offerings of money and rings, and promises to pay specified sums each year for a period or for life all followed each other in rapid succession for three hours, resulting in a total offering of more than $2,000. It is hoped that the sum already secured may be duplicated by the Koreans, and that this money may be used as a permanent endowment to meet the current expenses of college work.

Theological Seminary.—During the three months of April, May, and June theological instruction was carried on in Pyeng Yang in accordance with the appointment of Council. This institution may now well be called a Theological Seminary as there were fifty students in attendance, divided into three classes and representing the four Presbyterian Missions at work in Korea. Seven men were in the fourth year of the five years' course, fourteen in the second, and twenty-nine in the first. The men stood the work very well, only two returning to their homes before the end of the course, one of whom died. The instruction was given by the missionaries of this Station, with the assistance of Mr. Moore of Seoul and Mr. Smith of Fusan of our Mission, and Messrs. Reynolds and Junkin of the Southern Presbyterian Mission and Mr. Engel of the Australian Mission. This work is bound to command more time and attention, and adequate provision must be made for it. Next year another large class will enter, and this means a corresponding increase in the amount of time necessary to teach all the classes. The Council has every reason to be encouraged over the result of this work. The students are a fine body of able and devoted men and give great promise of making an able ministry for the Korean Church.

A "Friend of Missions" has given $5,000 for a building for this Seminary. An endowment of $15,000 is hoped for, that the running expenses may not be a yearly charge upon the gifts of the Church.

Advanced School for Girls and Women.—There was an enrollment for the year of fifty-three, twenty-six of whom were from the city and the rest from the country. The school was in session three and a half months, from the middle of October to the end of January. During the first part of the session the school was held in the men's sarang, but after the completion of the new hospital the school was moved into the old hospital building, where it is expected to find a permanent home. The property is badly in need of alterations to fit it for suitable use as a school. The hope that the money needed may be secured before the opening of another session has been fulfilled.

Fourteen girls were enrolled in the boarding department, and eleven young married women and widows looked after their own housekeeping in rooms provided for them. There were four classes. Nearly all the ladies of the Station assisted in the work of instruction.

For this school in Miss Snook's charge and for classrooms for the Bible Training Classes under Miss Best's direction, funds for a new building have been generously pledged by Mrs. Susan C. Crowell and Mrs. Mary Borden, of Chicago, who also paid for the alterations referred to above.

Woman's School.—This is a work which has been conducted by Mrs. Wells for a number of years. It is composed of women of all ages who cannot leave their homes for regular school work. It meets twice a week and studies hygiene, the Gospels, reading and writing of the native character. The sessions commenced in October and closed the latter part of April. The total enrollment was fifty, with an average attendance of twenty. It is conducted without any expense to the Mission.

Primary Schools.—The number of primary schools in connection with the work of the Station is constantly on the increase. Locally there are four schools for boys and three for girls, with a total attendance of 494. Those in the country number, for boys sixty-two, and for girls eight, with a total attendance of 1,266. These schools all pursue a graded course and are beginning to graduate pupils. It is from this source that the Academy gets the most of its pupils, single schools now sending ten and fifteen graduates. There are a few mixed schools in the country, but ordinarily the boys and girls meet separately.

One of the biggest events of the year was the Field Day given by the local boys' schools the day before the Academy Field Day. Many of the country schools sent in representatives, and one school of twenty-five pupils marched in a distance of twenty-five miles with their teacher at their head to witness the event. A crowd, conservatively estimated at 15,000, including the Governor of the Province, the local Magistrate, and other Korean and Japanese officials, witnessed the event and attested their interest by all coming back the second day to witness the Academy Field Day exercises. This served to advertise the Christian schools far and wide and caused many heathen to say that they were going to send their children to Christian schools.

Normal Class.—The Normal Class held in June was a joint class between the Presbyterians and Methodists.

In many ways it was an epoch-maker, it being the first union class between the two Missions and the first to which women were invited and special instruction given by the missionary ladies. One hundred and twenty men and forty-four women were in attendance. The demand for primary school teachers is now without precedent in the whole history of Korea. In order the better to meet this need we feel that this class should be held for a month instead of the ten days as heretofore. We also hope that it may be possible in the not distant future to set aside one man as superintendent of public instruction. Should any equipped worker occupy such a position here now for one year, we believe that his energies would be legitimately so fully occupied that we could never conscientiously declare his position vacant again.

MEDICAL.—New Hospital.—The past year has seen the erection and occupation of the long-planned-for new hospital. By the generosity of Mrs. Caroline A. Ladd, of Portland, Oregon, the new hospital has been completed. The Station can now point to its hospital with pride. It occupies a fine site on a public highway, and is laid out and built in such a way as to be of commanding appearance. Surgical work continues to increase in importance and volume. Some of the wards are fitted up in foreign style, and the rest are purely Korean with the usual hot floor.

Attendance.—The attendance and number of in-patients were not as large as usual, owing to the unsettled condition incident upon moving into the new hospital. There were few in-patients for three months, although the hospital was never closed entirely. The total attendance was 9,378. The new patients numbered 6,454. In-patients accommodated at the hospital were 209, while 215 others would have been admitted to the wards had there been room for them. Three hundred and fifty-five surgical operations were performed. Quite a number of opium users were treated with good results.

Expenses.—The total expenses for the year were $1,143.65. The total receipts were $1,204.61, of which sum $718.88 came from the Koreans in price of drugs and fees. A regular offering from the city churches was inaugurated this year, $25 being contributed.

Students.—A class for medical students was conducted through the year. Of the eleven students admitted eight have continued up to the present.

Evangelistic Work.—The evangelistic phase of the hospital work continues satisfactory. There have been numerous conversions and these have in turn served to sow the seed broadcast. The sublime faith of some of the patients who passed through severe surgical operations proved an inspiration to all. The visits of Christian Korean women to the hospital have been most thoroughly appreciated.

Morphine Habit.—Dr. Wells writes of "interesting experiences with morphine users who, having commenced smoking opium, now use the hypodermic syringe and inject morphine daily."

I was persuaded to take one in April, and instituting an original treatment in which adrenalin was the main medicine used and the habit cut off at once, was so successful that he and three of his relatives were converted. This created quite a furore among the morphine users, so that in April I had some thirty applicants for treatment and cure.

Dr. Whiting's Work.—During occasional absences of Dr. Wells, the hospital was cared for by Dr. Follwell, of the Methodist Mission, and by Dr. Whiting, who have lent much valuable aid to the hospital as they were able.

Dr. Whiting made many itinerating trips to various parts of the country during the year, sometimes alone and sometimes with the itinerating missionaries, at which times he saw many patients and brought the blessing of his skill and presence to many poor invalids, who otherwise would have received no medical aid. He reports a total of 2,276 cases, including forty-three operations in which anesthetics were used.

STATISTICS.—Including the work of that portion of the new Station at Chai Ryong, which was set off from Pyeng

Yang, there are 268 meeting places, with 195 church buildings. Forty of these have been built this year. There are 6,685 communicants and 5,259 catechumens enrolled, of whom 1,063 and 2,456 were received this year. In eighty-two schools there is an enrollment of 2,255 scholars, while the contributions for all purposes amounted to 25,588 yen or $12,794.

TAIKU STATION.

In the history of this Station, last year was the best year yet; each year marking some special developments in our work to which the year before it was impossible to attain. This year in point of numbers our growth has been as great as all other years combined.

We have once more doubled our number of believers, last year reporting 1,967, this year 3,876. This year has also marked the beginning of academical work, a great step of advancement in the development of our work. Never before have the people been so ready to hear the Gospel and to break from their former customs and beliefs. Not only is the field white unto the harvest, but the harvest itself is actually seeking the reapers that it may be garnered in.

EVANGELISTIC.—The missionaries feel that this Station now promises just such a large development as has been witnessed in the Pyeng Yang Station during the last ten years.

Local.—Taiku City Church.—Membership, 50; catechumens, 133; adherents, 500; baptized during the year, 16; catechumens received during year, 77.

During the year the average attendance has increased from 180 to 400. The church building has been enlarged to seat between 400 and 500 when crowded. This improvement was made at a cost of $50 contributed by the Koreans, but the church is again too small and nearly every Sabbath many go away, not being able to gain admittance. The various organizations of the church are in a prosperous condition. The church has developed a far stronger evangelistic spirit than formerly and new believers are constantly coming in. It is probable that during the next fiscal year it will be necessary to build a new church.

Country Circuits.—Mr. Adams for the Eastern Circuit reports: Groups, 17; communicants, 58; catechumens, 240; baptized during the year, 35; catechumens received during the year, 150.

The growth in this section during the year has been excellent. Last year 350 adherents were reported, and this year 1,031, while a number of new groups are not reported in the statistics because as yet having no catechumens. During the year six primary schools supported by the Korean Christians have been established, and six church buildings have been purchased or erected.

Mr. Bruen's report of the Western Circuit sounds like the reports from the north, where for years such large ingatherings and rapid growth have rejoiced us. Groups, 36; communicants, 124; catechumens, 913; adherents, 2,126; baptized during the year, 73; catechumens received during the year, 521; churches built or purchased during the year, 18.

This circuit, which has always been our banner circuit, has this year again made a phenomenal growth. The number of believers last year was 1,215, and now they number 2,126. Mr. Bruen, with the assistance of Mr. McFarland, has through the year made an earnest effort to keep in close touch with the work, and has fairly succeeded. A number of country classes for men and one for women have been held and the circuit was well represented at the general Bible classes held at Taiku. This circuit supports one native helper entirely and aids in the support of two others. Besides this it supports twenty-six primary schools.

The Northern Circuit, under Mr. Barrett's care until his departure, is as yet in the pioneer stage of development, but with most encouraging prospects. It reports: Groups, 2; meeting places, 11; communicants, 3; catechumens, 32; adherents, 219; primary schools, 3; churches purchased or built during the year, 6.

This is the newest one of our circuits and the one that reaches farthest from Taiku. Four years ago it had but one Christian.

An Dong, one of the largest cities of the province, far to the north, is a city to which a large territory is tributary. The Station plans to use it as subsidiary headquarters for the missionary of this circuit.

Bible Training Classes.—Men's Class.—Although an effort was made again this year to keep the attendance upon our men's Winter Bible class within the limits of possible accommodations, it exceeded even that of last year.

No arrangement was made for any one who did not pay in his entire rice price for the period at the beginning of the class, and this regulation resulted in an unprecedented diligence in study and a guaranteed attendance to the end. The attendance reached over 400, and while we had not room for all to assemble, yet it was by far the best class yet held.

Woman's Class.—The woman's Winter Bible class this year more than doubled in attendance that of last year. One hundred and fifty women were present, including city women, and attended the daily sessions.

Yearly at these classes a marked development is noted in the spiritual growth of our women, and this growth is emphasized in the grading of the classes. Women who have attended former classes and have studied well are put in an advanced department, women of less development are graded according to their knowledge. This puts a premium on annual class attendance and diligent study at home during the year. The higher department women are much envied by those of the lower grades. This year red, blue, and white ribbons were introduced, showing the rank of each individual. It added no little to the interest in the class.

Country Classes.—Eleven country classes have been held during the year, all with good attendance and much interest. Three of these classes were for women.

Work among Women.—This year has witnessed a marked spiritual growth among the women and girls of our churches. While at the beginning of the year there was scarcely a woman who was capable of teaching a Bible class, they have gradually developed both in ability to read and to discern Bible truths, until now there are five or six women who are fairly bright and able to teach to the edification of the other women. Some ten groups have been visited by the missionary ladies, and several country classes have been held.

In the city church during the year Mrs. Adams has conducted a Bible class twice a week, besides the regular Sunday classes.

In December, Mrs. Barrett organized a class for the younger women who are usually not seen on the street. It is hoped that a night school may be developed, as these women are very anxious to learn. Work for the young girls which was formerly started has been carried on all the year by Mrs. Bruen, and the girls are earnestly praying that some way may be opened whereby a Korean school-teacher may be provided and a day-school started for them. Innumerable calls have been made in the homes of the people; Mrs. Null and Miss Cameron especially have often visited the sick; want and suffering have been relieved, and a spirit of sympathy and close sisterhood is fast being established. On our compound close by our homes a guest house is provided where a Bible woman is daily in attendance. Here women coming to the market and sightseers gather and are told the story of Life. Every week brings numbers of new converts.

EDUCATIONAL.—In this Station, also, the policy of allowing the educational work to develop out of the church is resulting in a solid foundation in a large Christian constituency desiring a distinctly Christian education. This constituency is providing its own primary schools and is now ready for an Academy, which is demanded by the present great progress in the growth of the Church.

Partly owing to the abrupt extension of the Japanese influence, but still more owing to the preliminary work done by the missionaries, during the past year there has been a great stirring of interest in the line of education. How great this stirring has been is shown by the fact that while last year we reported but 4 primary boys' schools and 47 pupils, this year we are able to report 37 primary boys' schools with 268 pupils, 2 girls' primary schools with 15 pupils, and 1 advanced boys' school with 25 pupils. The amount raised from native sources for these schools has been $140.09. It is our purpose to organize the movement and to start a Normal class for the teachers the coming Winter.

Boys' Academy.—While the primary schools satisfy the needs of the children and an occasional Normal class helps to develop temporary teachers, there is a large class of bright young men who have passed the first stage and who are not engaged in teaching. They are the most promising material in the bounds of the church, the future hope of its strong and enduring establishment. The necessity of laying hold of this material and conserving it for the Master became so evident and urgent that on the 1st of May an Academy was organized. Twenty-seven young men at once put in an appearance. The school was conducted for ten weeks, Mr. Adams teaching one month and Mr. Sidebotham, of Fusan, the rest of the time. The students entirely supported themselves, and there is a good prospect of an enrollment of fifty in the Fall.

MEDICAL.—This year has been a calamitous year for medical work at Taiku.

The illness of the physician, the necessary tearing down of the hospital, the removal of drugs and the building of a temporary drug room, and the prospective removal of our physician to another station in the midst of the year have all combined to make the carrying on of regular medical work arduous.

Dr. Null has been transferred to Seoul for the new Station at Cheng Ju. Dr. Johnson and his family have returned from furlough and again taken up their work at Taiku. Miss Cameron's experience as a trained nurse has enabled her to render greatly appreciated assistance in caring for missionaries and Koreans, while her aid to Dr. Null in his hospital has been invaluable.

MISS ALICE ROOSEVELT'S VISIT.—The Station records as a pleasant incident in the year's experience the visit of Miss Roosevelt (now Mrs. Longworth) and her party, they being the guests of the Station for a night and morning en route from Seoul to Fusan. "All the countryside turned out to do her honor."

STATISTICS.—The Station now reports fifty-nine meeting places, with 235 communicants and 1,318 catechumens, of whom 125 and 761 were received this year. Thirty church buildings have been purchased or built this year, while the contributions amounted to 1,625 yen or $812.

SYEN CHYUN STATION.

“The Acts of God in North Pyeng An Province” might well be the title of the fifth annual report of Syen Chyun Station. Never has our work depended less on human agency or more on the power of God, and that power has been manifested in the almost doubling of our work.

The absence of Mr. Whittemore and Mr. Ross throughout the year has thrown the bulk of the work on Mr. Kearns and made adequate pastoral oversight impossible. Into this breach the Korean helpers have stepped, and it is due largely to their increased efficiency and to the absence of any special disturbing influence that we are able to report the most wonderful year in our history.

Assistance in the training classes from Mr. Adams, Dr. Baird, Mr. Welbon, Mr. E. H. Miller and Mrs. W. N. Blair, and from Mr. Bernheisel for the long Kang Kai trip, enabled the Station to somewhat more adequately care for the great volume of work pressing upon it.

EVANGELISTIC. — Local Church. — Syen Chyun local church now enrolls 1,435 and the congregation averages about 1,000, in spite of the fact that five country groups were set off from the central church in February. Lack of accommodations has interfered with attendance and growth, but the new building is now under way. The laying of the cornerstone and fifth subscription to the building fund which followed were scenes not soon to be forgotten. Besides money subscriptions, men gave their watches and women gave their rings and ornaments, weeping because they had not more to give. Much of the labor is being donated and there is hardly a member that has not made real sacrifice. The total gifts from the Koreans now amount to $1,090, while the total cost of the building will be about $2,500.

As last year, Dr. Sharrocks has been in charge of the men's Sunday-school, now enrolling 885, and Mrs. Kearns of the women's Sunday-school, enrolling 550. The ladies of the Station each conduct several special classes for women per week. The church now takes the whole time of Elder Nyang, another helper having been put on for the country groups.

The Province. — The great evangelistic movement which began about a year and a half ago has only gained strength as the months passed. A wonderful ingathering has been going on all over the province. Not a group but has grown, many have doubled, and eighteen strong new groups have been formed.

The revival has meant a deepened spiritual life for the whole Church. The helpers have been unable to meet the eager demand for Bible study classes; the amount of volunteer personal work cannot be estimated, but it is certain that the 3,000 days reported last year were repeated many fold; salaries of all helpers were increased and gifts for all purposes were spontaneous and abundant.

Kang Kai.—Rev. Herbert E. Blair spent 107 days in visiting this region, and with Mr. Bernheisel visited a section which for a year and a half had seen no missionary and part of which only had ever had but two short visits from missionaries. Mr. Blair's report shows a situation probably unparalleled in the history of missions. He writes this remarkable narrative:

In 1901 a young man from Kang Kai City named Lee went to Pyeng Yang and became a Christian. Returning home he soon became the center of a large group. Though it has been only two years ago, the Kang Kai Church now has between 300 and 400 Christians enrolled. In the meantime in the district round about twenty other groups have started. A thousand Christians now are to be found where in 1901 we had no groups at all. The whole country round about Kang Kai seems ready to believe if the work started is faithfully cared for.

With the exception of Russian soldiers, it is probable that no Westerner had ever seen the most of this region before. None of the groups had ever been visited by a missionary. [Kang Kai City only had had a visit from Mr. Leck, and there Mr. Ross had held one class.] The privilege I enjoyed of going to Cha-Sung Po-tul-kol Church and the Cha-Sung Tung-Kang Church, with thirty new Christians in one and seventy in the other, was one that would be hard to parallel outside of Korea. It is a great witness to the power of the Bible and an encouraging comment upon the effective organization and spirit of the Korean Church that such a thing can be possible.

The first surprise was to find as the valley was approached so many people living there. Then the helper pointed out that the Christians lived in three centers, and that the first stop had better be made at the first of these. That night about twenty-five Christians gathered for worship, none of whom had ever seen a missionary. The next day lunch was taken at the second Christian village, and in the afternoon the third and largest center was reached. Sunday came, and it was evident the examinations for admission to the catechumenate were piling up unexpectedly. Meeting time arrived and, to the utter astonishment of the missionary, there were seventy Christians gathered there, in that most distant corner of all Korea, to worship God. Never before had a missionary been there, nor any other white man. Only three or four out of the seventy had ever seen a missionary, as far as could be found out, and yet there they were, singing Gospel hymns, eagerly studying the Bible, praying and acting in general like old Christians.

They followed far on the way as the missionary left, urging him to be sure to come to Kang Kai to live. Syen Chyun, the nearest Station, is 300 miles from this Tung-Kang valley. Kang Kai is 100 miles away.

Bible Training Classes.—At present seven large training classes in as many centers are supplemented by local classes conducted by the helpers in each group. These classes combine the educational and conference features and train the Korean Christian in spiritual knowledge, church polity, and self-government. The Syen Chyun Winter class, the largest so far ever held in Korea, enrolled 1,140 men in eight divisions. Our second largest class was at Eui Ju, enrolling 500.

Women's Classes.—Like those for men, most of the women's classes are now too large to be handled by one person. Miss Chase and Miss Samuels were together in six of the sixteen country classes. The largest of these enrolled 237. The Syen Chyun class was divided, the class for local women enrolling 214 and that for country women 341. Altogether a total of 2,602 women were under foreign instruction.

EDUCATIONAL.—Primary Schools.—There are now forty-five boys' schools with 919 pupils and eleven girls' schools with 235 pupils in our province. All these are entirely supported by the Koreans.

Academies.—Twenty-four young men from our province were in attendance at the Pyeng Yang Academy. An overwhelming demand for schools near at hand has arisen. In Eui Ju, in response to strong pressure from the women, a four months' session of advanced study for girls and women, enrolling about fifty students, was conducted by the local officers. The movement for a men's academy in Eui Ju has now resulted in the gift of a building suitable for about 100 students, and a present income aside from tuitions of $90 per month. A very competent Pyeng Yang graduate has been secured as native teacher, and a summer session with thirty students is now in progress. A similar movement in Syen Chen has produced pledges amounting to $30 per month. In both places it is the strongly expressed hope of the Koreans that foreign superintendents be appointed by the Mission.

The Eui Ju Christians offer to provide buildings, native teachers, and running expenses of an academy, if we would give them a foreign superintendent, has already been fulfilled and the school is now running, as noted above. They are now hoping and praying most earnestly that the Mission will appoint some one to live in Eui Ju permanently.

The Eui Ju local church now numbers between 700 and 800, and within a twenty-five-mile radius are thirty churches with 5,000 adherents. They form the most intelligent and progressive part of our field, and they are in great earnest. This strong plea from one of the most influential sections of the native church deserves the serious attention of the Mission.

MEDICAL.—A most telling evangelistic agency is our new hospital, of which all are proud. It seems to us to represent the maximum of missionary efficiency with the minimum of expense. As the new building was not opened until November, we are unable to report a full year, the figures given below representing only nine months' work. Since moving into the new quarters, as many as 1,400 patients have been seen in one month and the average income from Koreans per month was $150. The largest number of patients seen in one day was ninety-six. In addition to medical work, Dr. Sharrocks has superintended the building of the hospital, the Kearns house, and finally the new church now being erected.

As the sum received from the Board is less than running expenses, the income from Koreans must perforce suffice for all outlay for drugs, supplies, and partial fuel and light bills. The student assistants all give their services free in return for instruction. One, who has almost completed five years of service, will be given a diploma when Dr. Sharrocks goes on furlough next year.

Medical Statistics.—

| Dispensary cases, new | 4,586 |
| Dispensary cases, return | 3,477 |
| In-patients | 336 |
| Visits in homes | 142 |

Morphine Habit.—Few people know the extent to which the morphine habit has spread in Korea. Dr. Sharrocks writes:

This year fifty-five habituates have come to us. Of the fifty-five only a few acquired the habit through smoking opium and only one had kept to it. It is the hypodermic use of morphine and cocaine that is common. The drug comes from Japan and is sold as freely as if it were salt. A few of the cases were using as high as 120 grains of morphine and fifteen of cocaine daily, and were reduced to walking skeletons. To meet some of them now, as I do on the streets, and look into their well-rounded faces is a great joy. Only about one-half of the number were cured permanently.

STATISTICS.—To sum up the year's growth briefly, the ten circuits have increased to thirteen, our sixty churches to seventy-eight, and the 6,507 adherents reported last year have jumped to 11,943, a gain of eighty-three and one-half per cent. There are 3,121 baptized and 3,020 catechumens on the roll. The number of adult baptisms for the year was 1,164, catechumens received 2,297. Of the fifty-two church buildings reported last year, twenty-seven had to be enlarged and eighteen entirely new buildings were erected. Offerings increased from $3,915.32 to $9,771.23. For every dollar of Board funds used in native work, the Korean Church in this province gave this year $10.62. Pupils in day-schools increased from 620 to 1,154.

This table shows comparative growth since the Station was opened, September, 1901:

| Date of report. | Groups. | Communi- cants. | Baptized during the year. | Cate- chumens. | Received during the year. | Total adherents. |

CHAI RYONG STATION.

Two years ago a committee was appointed by the Mission to locate a new Station in the province. This committee reported in favor of Chai Ryong, a city which is centrally located. At the last annual meeting, Rev. W. B. Hunt, Rev. C. E. Sharp, Rev. E. W. Koons, and Dr. H. C. Whiting were appointed to open the Station. On May 1 of last year, 1906, the Station came into existence.

In addition to the reasons which usually operate in the decision to start new Stations, still more weighty ones existed in this case. New Stations are usually located in unoccupied territory for the purpose of beginning the work, or for the carrying on of work that is yet in its beginnings. One of the main reasons in the present case may be said to be the proper oversight of a work that has already reached large proportions—so large that it is impossible for the missionaries to properly care for it while living at a distance.

EVANGELISTIC.—In this territory there are now in round numbers 100 groups, 2,000 communicants, and a correspondingly large number of catechumens and other adherents, with elders, deacons, leaders, helpers, school teachers, and theological students, all constantly needing advice and help.

Neither should the more distinctly evangelistic aspect of the work be lost sight of. Never were a people more receptive. More than that, many are thirsting for the Gospel.

Go where you will, in remote mountain villages or in the midst of broad rice plains, the field is white—nay more than ripe—to the harvest. One instance will illustrate this. A member of the Station was waiting for a train at Sai Rai Won when he was approached by a stranger, who introduced himself and then went on to say that he had begun to believe about four months previous, that in the village in which he lived fifty souls had recently decided to believe, that they were ignorant, and they would like to have the missionary come and see them and teach them.

Mrs. Koons writes from Chai Ryong, where she is living in a fixed-over Korean house:

In a small village five miles from here there are twenty new believers, where one month ago all were heathen. Last Wednesday evening Mr. Koons and I started there on foot, thinking it was only three miles. Mr. Koons had in his room about forty men and boys, while I had twenty women and children in a room by myself. One woman had that day begun to believe and was already learning to read. The little girls' school started here the day after Christmas and there are nineteen enrolled.

Of the city church Mr. Koons writes:

The congregation now numbers about 400, equally divided between men and women and meeting separately, as what we have built of the new church seats only 250. New believers are coming in constantly, ten last Sunday and four this Sunday.

MEDICAL.—The medical work has been hampered by inadequate quarters. The dispensary comprised two Korean rooms, each about eight feet by six in size, with low ceilings, mud floors, mud walls and thatched roof. Yet in these rooms over 1,500 sick have been treated the past year during Dr. Whiting's visits to the city.

Dr. Whiting plans to build an elastic hospital on the cottage system. As the main building, one to contain a waiting room, a drug room, a dispensary room, operating room and a preparation room. This is to be connected with the surgical cottage by an enclosed corridor. The second and third cottages are to be built with rooms for stewards and two wards each so that the care of patients, food, nursing, etc., will fall upon the helpers. Main building will cost $2,500, and the three cottages $500 each.

Just as Dr. Whiting had finished his plans, a gift of $4,000 from the Madison Avenue Church of New York brought great rejoicing and the new building is now well under way. Meantime Dr. Whiting writes:

I will not be able to do any surgery until I get the building. Have done some surgery at the present cubbyhole, but have found that I run too great a risk of infection.

We already have a fixed-over Korean house, tenantable for a short time, and a new house, the gift of Mr. Nathaniel Tooker, of East Orange, built on a hill at the edge of the city. We have bought a tract of land large enough for our Station for years to come—also the gift of Mr. Tooker. Chai Ryong is about fifty miles from Pyeng Yang and 175 from Seoul.

We have a large work already developed, as mentioned above—a work requiring every particle of strength that the force of workers assigned to this field can bring to bear.

THE MISSION.

Visit from Dr. Howard A. Johnston.—The missionaries write:

Addresses to missionaries were used of the Spirit to quicken the soul life of the hearers, stirring them up to greater love and more earnest prayer. His addresses to the Koreans have also been most helpful and his visit will not soon be forgotten.

A yearly visitation at the time of our annual meetings would be nothing more than the Methodist Missions are accustomed to, and fully believing that great good would result, we respectfully suggest to the Board the advisability of arranging for such visitations. We are not asking for a man with episcopal authority to decide our problems for us, but for a Spirit-filled man through whose ministrations both the missionaries and the native church may be lifted to a higher spiritual life.

STATISTICS.—For the year ending June 30, 1906:

|-------------------------------------|-------------|
| Unordained preachers | 81 |
| Total native helpers. | 373 |
| Places of regular meeting | 628 |
| Communicants | 12,546 |
| Added during the year | 2,811 |
| Catechumens. | 11,025 |
| Students for the ministry | 43 |
| Total pupils in schools | 4,356 |
| Total native contributions. | $27,418.89 |

In addition to this the work of the Southern Presbyterian Church, with 140 meeting places, 1,051 communicants, 315 added this year, and 1,289 catechumens, and the work of the Canadian Presbyterian Church and that of the Australian Presbyterian Church, must be taken into consideration in order to understand what is to constitute the "Korean Presbyterian Church," which is to be fully organized by the formation of a Presbytery this year.

Testimony to Mission Work in Korea.—The war and its effects have brought many visitors to Korea, and striking testimonies have been forthcoming from them as they have come into actual contact with the work being done.

F. A. McKenzie, war correspondent of the "London Daily Mail," writes:

I believe in Foreign Missions because of what I have seen of the lives and the records of the representatives of the Churches in distant lands. In Northern Korea we have to-day one of the most remarkable examples of what the modern missionary movement is succeeding in doing. . . . I have tested the converts of this Church. I had several of them in my employment for months during the testing times of the Japanese War. I had to trust them largely and they could have fleeced me at many points. I found them the most faithful and most enthusiastic and the most daring native servants I have ever known.

Major-General Arthur MacArthur, of the United States Army, wrote to Dr. Brown after his return from Korea:

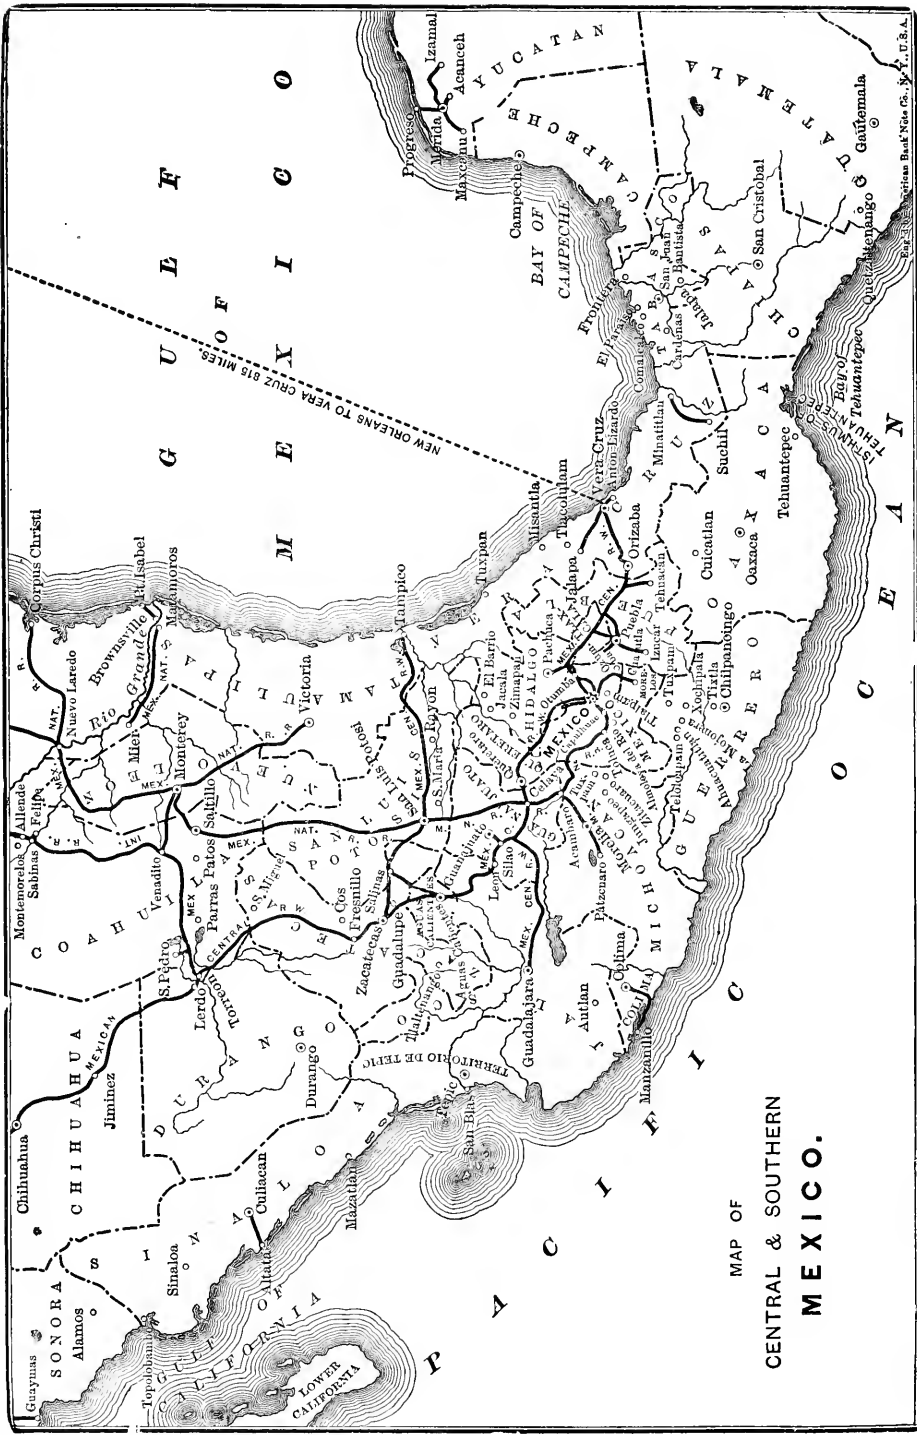

I wish to express in a formal manner the warmest appreciation of the splendid work the missionaries are doing in the hospitals, and the great satisfaction that should accrue to all who are concerned in the creation of such an admirable institution. In a very extended tour of the entire East I found no institution doing more beneficent work than the Severance Hospital in Seoul. I desire further to speak in the highest terms of commendation of the missionary work I saw elsewhere in Korea, especially at Pyeng Yang, where a devoted and intelligent body of Presbyterian missionaries are doing the most admirable work and diffusing a general tone of Christianity and civilization throughout an extensive region. Such work is certainly deserving of the most cordial and generous support.

Mr. William T. Ellis, a correspondent for the "New York Tribune" and the "Philadelphia Press," wrote:

Cannot you say something or do something to make the Church in America realize that here in Korea, just now, is the Christian opportunity of centuries? This situation is extraordinary and amazing. The whole country is fruit ripe for the picking. The Koreans are ready to turn to the Living God. It may not be so two years hence. Conditions of which I dare not write here are changing the character of Korea. If the Christian Church has any conception of strategy and appreciation of an opportunity, and any sense of relative values, she will act at once—not next year, but now!

Mrs. Darwin R. James, President of the Woman's Board of Home Missions, visited the Caroline A. Ladd Hospital and wrote:

Our missionaries in Pyeng Yang have been very wise in constructing their buildings after the style of architecture of the Koreans, and the hospital has the same similarity. I communed with 800 Koreans. I never was so near Heaven as at Pyeng Yang, and nowhere on the mission field could your gift have availed more.

MEXICO CITY.

The evangelistic and day-school work in Mexico City has been entirely under the care of Dr. Morales, pastor of the Divino Salvador Church, and his helpers. In addition to the salaried day-school teachers, there are more than a score of voluntary workers connected with Dr. Morales' church, who carry on Sabbath-school and evangelistic meetings in many points in the city. Dr. Morales has continued also his remarkable work in the prisons.

College and Theological Seminary.—Dr. Millar's absence on a trip to the Holy Land took him away for a large part of the Seminary year, Dr. Boyce aiding the faculty in his absence. There were students in six classes; fifty-seven students were enrolled altogether, and forty-seven were present when the classes closed October 16. Five were graduated. The Seminary closed two months earlier than usual for lack of funds.

Girls' Normal School.—The largest number of pupils in the school was thirty-seven, the smallest twenty-eight, average thirty-four, three being day pupils. For want of funds the Seminary was closed the middle of October.

Merida and Campeche Fields.—Dr. Millar has charge of the work in these fields, so far as it is under the care of the Mission. The work has grown steadily, and is on very substantial foundations. The Merida Church is entirely self-supporting and independent of the Mission, under its very efficient pastor, the Rev. Alfonso Herrera. On the first of January, 1906, the congregation undertook to pay all the pastor's salary. It has fulfilled its promises and done more. It has made improvements on the church building, and also on the house formerly occupied by the pastor, preparing it for a school which is to open February 5, 1907, with two graduates of the Presbyterian Normal School in Saltillo as teachers. All of this work is paid for by the people themselves. Mr. Herrera in his report says: "We have seen the Master's blessings this year, and we can testify that the more a church gives the more blessings it receives." The usual number of members has not been received this year, but Mr. Herrera explains this fact by saying that experience has taught him the desirability of not receiving members till they have attended church for two or three years. The collections for all purposes have been $900 greater than last year, being $3,779 Mex.

At Progreso, though there have been great difficulties owing to a division in the congregation, the church has progressed well. A man offered to give a lot on which to build a church, and the brethren began to build, and put in about $700 in lumber and labor; but as the deed had not been made out and could not be made out till a representative of the Board was present to receive the property, the brethren decided not to give any more till the deed is given in the name of the Board of Foreign Missions.

The congregation in Ticul has been cared for by one of the students who is having his year of practice, Ciriaco Cauich. He is a native of the place and speaks Maya, and this helps him much. The people are building a church on the land bought by themselves several years ago. They pay half of the pastor's salary, and all the rent of the building where the services are held.

Campeche does not grow. Business is dull. Still the congregation has continued to do fairly well. It had raised $20 a month for the salary of the pastor, and $15 a month for part of the rent of the building where the pastor lives and where the services are held, making, with other things, a total of $615 in the year.

In the Yucatan and Campeche fields and Federal District outside of Mexico City the growth has been steady in self-support, as can be seen by looking at the following collections:

| | | |
|-----------------------------------------|---------|------|
| Collections in year 1904 on field | $3,834 | Mex. |
| Collections in year 1905 on field | 4,213 | Mex. |
| Collections in year 1906 on field | 5,894 | Mex. |

This does not include receipts for tuition in the Seminary.

The Federal District.—Dr. Millar has also looked after the work in the district outside of Coyoacan, at Mixcoac, Tacubaya, Tlalpan, San Andres, Tizapan, San Lorenzo, Texouco, of which points Dr. Millar reports:

Some difficulty arose between Catholics and Protestants during the year. Several times the church has been stoned. On one occasion when the elders went to complain the judge fined them each one dollar, though they seem to have had no fault at all. Later, two of the members, standing at the door of the church to watch, saw a young man throw a stone, and they caught him and took him to the same judge. The judge having taken the evidence suppressed the accusations against the thrower of the stone, and instead charged the men who had caught him with stealing a blanket from the other. The brethren were taken along with the stone-thrower to Ixtapalapa to another judge. He sent them back again to the first one to have him continue the trial. At that time the brethren sent for me, and with one of the elders I went to see the Jefe Politico and reported the case to him. He ordered the judge of San Lorenzo to appear before him and gave him a sound scolding for his injustice, and ordered him to place two guards at the door of the church each night when there is service. He was about to send the stone-thrower into the army as a punishment for his fault, but listening to our request for mercy to him, he set the young man at liberty, but at the same time telling him that he was thus put at liberty only because we had interceded for him, asking that this severe penalty be not inflicted on him. Later the stone throwing was continued a little, and Christmas week there was a religious procession in the streets made up of Roman Catholics (though this sort of thing is strictly forbidden by the Federal law), and to aggravate the situation the judge himself headed the procession and carried his candle. As the procession passed our church stones were thrown again; it was a night when services were being held. The brethren at once reported the procession and the part in it taken by the judge, and the Jefe Politico called him to Ixtapalapa. Confronted by the numerous witnesses, the judge confessed that he had been in the procession and what had happened. He was sent to the Superior Court in Mexico City for further trial. There he denied having had part in the procession, till confronted by the confession that he had made in Ixtapalapa he again confessed his fault. The matter is still pending in the court. The fine for such offenses as the judge has committed, I have been informed, is from $200 to $500. We do not know the result of the matter yet. It should be noted that all this work in the Federal District in Mixcoac, Tacubaya, San Lorenzo, San Andres and Tizapan costs the Mission nothing: The congregations pay the expenses, what little there be. Up to April Rev. Navares received a salary, but he is now no longer with the Mission. With the exception of the few dollars taxes paid on the church buildings, we have spent nothing. The congregations have raised $304, and all have had regular preaching services.

The five congregations of Ozumba, Chimal, Ecatingo, Tepecoculco and Tecomaxusco, formerly under Dr. Brown's care, have been looked after by Licentiate Juan Vergara, aided by Seminary students, and supervised by Dr. Millar. He writes:

In all these places Mr. Vergara and I visited, spending two weeks, holding two or three services a day, and with fair audiences except in Ozumba, where twenty-three was the largest number at a service. In the other places, however, there were generally from forty-five to sixty-five present, and at one meeting in Tepecoculco eighty-one. Even after a service of two hours' duration, preaching, singing, teaching new hymns, baptizing babies, receiving new members, etc., etc., the people would linger and some one would say, "Let us sing hymn so and so," and another would want another hymn that was his favorite, and still another would wish to learn a hymn the words of which he liked, but the music of which he had not heard. Twice the pastor had to blow out the lights to get the people to go home. As a result eighteen persons were received on profession of faith in Ecatingo and a similar number in Tepecoculco.

ZACATECAS STATION.

As last year, Mr. Petran has had charge of the Southern Zacatecas field, with headquarters at Aguas Calientes, which he has found much more healthful than Zacatecas, although the city of Aguas Calientes he has found much more conservative and unresponsive than liberal Zacatecas. The field, like many another in Mexico, is one of magnificent distances, with a lot of health-giving pure air in between. The field has three Mexican ministers in it at Zacatecas, Fresnillo, with which Villa de Cos is associated, and at Tlaltenango, and two school-teachers at Villa de Cos and Fresnillo. To get to Presbytery last Fall the Tlaltenango minister had to travel four days on horseback to go as far as Aguas Calientes. Mr. Petran writes:

Missionary work with me is largely a problem of transportation. In casting about for some way of cutting out the eighty-five miles of horseback riding from Jerez to Tlaltenango, so as to be fresh for the work in the hills beyond, I made arrangements, through a friend in Fresnillo, to get a two-wheeled cart and a driver to take me from Fresnillo to Jerez and then down the Tlaltenango Valley. If the cart and mule proved successful I planned to make other trips with it from Fresnillo as a centre. During the celebration of Juarez, in March, I was in Fresnillo, and our day-school was inaugurated with appropriate exercises. On a Friday morning we started on our journey at 4 o'clock in the morning. The driver selected was a member of our congregation, so that it made it pleasant as to companionship. The mule did not make good progress at all, but we thought it was because of the darkness, and hoped by daylight that he would pick up and go when he could see the road ahead of him. We soon discovered, however, that we had a wheel mule; that is, a mule that in the large carts, where they use eight or ten or more, is attached to the pole, and his only business is to hold back. This mule was an expert at holding back, but as it did not have a bunch of mules in front to pull ahead, it was no go. At 7 o'clock we turned back. After three hours spent uselessly in the cold of the morning, the new experiment did not look very promising.

The owner promised to give us another mule to make another trial, so we again sallied forth the next day. This mule was smaller, but used to going it alone, so that we got along fairly well. Out of compassion, however, we got out and walked up the hills. By noon it was evident that this mule would give us trouble. The day was perfect and the scenery new, so that it was not unpleasant meandering through the country. By 6 o'clock in the evening persuasion was of no further use; the mule wanted to stop at every ranch we came to, so that the last ten miles we had to get out and lead the animal.

Sunday we spent with our members there and Monday we went on to Huajuacac. Ordinarily I get to Huajuacac at 1 or 2 o'clock, but our new conveyance did not arrive till 6 P.M. We spent the night in the meson and the next day walked out to Las Penas, and from there I got Don Jose to send in one of his sons with the driver to show him the way out by the road, as we had come across lots. I noticed that there was some discussion as to which of the sons should go, but attached no significance to it. It happened that the one went that the father wanted to stay at home. I did not know it at the time, but they were "limpiando," as it is called, in that district. That is "cleaning out" all the bandits and bad characters. When things get intolerable and it is impossible to bring offenders to justice by due process of law, the soldiers are given orders to "clean out." That means that a man will have to suffer the penalty of being a bad character without the need of any specific proof of crime being brought against him or catching him in the act. There had been a good many robberies, and as the robbers all worked together, it was impossible to secure sufficient evidence. So that the Jefe Politico, on informing the Governor that the situation was getting intolerable, was given orders to "clean out." In Colotlan it was reported that about twenty-five had been shot, and a little later I noticed in one of the Mexico City papers that the Governor of the territory of Tepic had shot about sixty bad characters by the same process. The method pursued might be illustrated by the case of a man who was brought in and buried when I was at Colotlan. The soldiers went to his house and told him that they wanted him to come with them. They took him to a meson for the night, and then early in the morning took him out to the country. The man knew full well what they were going to do with him, for at a ranch where they stopped for something to eat he told the people that he was going to be shot. His body was found later, and then the municipal authorities sent out and had him buried.

If it were not for such processes one could not travel with the security that obtains over the greater part of Mexico. The Mexican Government must be given credit for caring more for the protection of the peaceful than for any rights those may be supposed to have who would prey upon society.

There is considerable interest in a ranch near Tlaltenango, called La Loma. A priest loaned a Catholic Bible to a certain family, who had the boldness to compare it with the Protestant edition. They found that the Roman Church was condemned by its own Scriptures, and they have now been received into our congregation. While at La Loma, Don George told me a story which illustrates the exploitation of the people by the priesthood. Shortly before my visit to the valley, a man that we knew of because he had come to some of our services had been foully murdered. His widow, a devout Catholic, went to the priest and asked him what she could do for his soul. The following is what he required of a sorrowing and afflicted widow. Nine masses at a dollar apiece; the next Friday the neighbors were to fast, and then feast later at the widow's house at her expense, followed by prayers in the church; the following Friday the neighbors' children were to fast, and she was to go out and beg food and so prepare a feast for them; later there were to be prayers in the church; then there were other masses to be paid for, beside a certain amount of money which he assessed as "diesmos" (10 per cent. of all their crops for several years, in this case). After all this process of humiliation and extortion the priest was richer and the woman naturally in a difficult situation, not only because of the loss of her husband, but also of the savings that would have been of much service to her at such a time. It is hard to realize how men can be so heartless.

I found our largest family in Tabasco, a family of "puras Mujeres," as they say, living in one room; as the priest of the place had been doing the gentlemanly thing, by going about and keeping people from renting a suitable house to them. The bishop had been there a short time before and, as at other places, circulated his "letter" advising the people not to read Protestant literature, nor Bibles. These latter they were to deliver to the priests who would know what to do with them.

Epidemics of small-pox and diphtheria have interfered with the work in some of the out-stations.

NORTH ZACATECAS AND LAGUNA.

Dr. Wallace and Mrs. Campbell have continued to look after the field in the North. Of some of the Stations Dr. Wallace writes:

Sombrerete.—This congregation has lost in membership on account of the closing of some of the mines. It has suffered also from the closing of a Mission day-school which had been established there for several years. These things, however, have not discouraged the few faithful ones who remain, but on the contrary have served to stimulate them to undertake what they had not felt equal to when their number was larger, and two of them propose to buy property that can be fitted up for a chapel and have already taken steps in that direction. They have not given up the hope of having a school, which is greatly needed, opened there again.

Santa Clara.—The people here own their chapel, and there as well as in other places Sabbath-school and other services have been kept up.

San Miguel del Mezquital.—The church here is made up of some four families and these not large ones. An old man, formerly a preacher, with his wife has been living here, and has conducted services in the absence of the evangelist, but he expects soon to leave. Business is very dull in the town and growing more so every day, and the population in a great part is made up of very poor and fanatical people.

Laguna Field.—The churches on this field are Torreon, San Pedro, Gomez Palacio, and the unorganized congregations of Lerdo, Viesca and Sierra Mojada, and the preaching points San Antonio and Matamoros. In all these places except the preaching points the congregation owns its chapel. San Pedro, Lerdo, and Gomez Palacio form one pastorate. Since the first of October they have been under the pastorate of Antonio Arellano, and for the rest of the year were looked after by the missionary in charge of the field. During the year Mrs. Campbell gave the whole of her time to Gomez Palacio and Lerdo, and an increase in attendance in the regular services and Sabbath-school in both places, as well as more systematic and liberal giving to self-support, are the encouraging indications of growth, and are the recognized testimony to Mrs. Campbell's faithful and patient labors.

Viesca.—The little congregation here, consisting of ten or twelve members, keeps up one Sabbath service weekly, directed by a former elder of Torreon.

Senor Frausto has done excellent work in the Torreon Church. The Sabbath-school has grown from an attendance of forty to ninety-eight. A new organ has been purchased, and a day-school established in charge of one of the graduates of Saltillo Normal School.

By much tactful and energetic work Mrs. Campbell succeeded in getting the church at Gomez Palacio into good condition, and at the close of the year a pastor was called.

SAN LUIS POTOSI.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams have continued in charge of this field, reaching far to the southeast into the Huasteca. In the local church Mrs. Williams' musical gifts have been of the greatest value.

SALTILLO STATION.

The Rev. William Wallace writes:

The field falls into three natural divisions:

1. Monclova District.—This covers a wide range of country, all under the direction of one ordained minister, the Rev. G. Balderas, evangelist in charge. He plans to cover his field nine times in the year, visiting three congregations, viz., Monclova, Esperanzas and Progreso, and three preaching points, viz., Saucedo, Sabinas and Rosales, the latter a new point. When on my trips I hold my services in English and visit the large colony of American families at Monclova Station, which is a division on the International Railroad, and the headquarters for the majority of the thirty-three train crews as well as the seventy-five Mexican employes of the roundhouse.

2. Monterey-Hot Country District.—Organized Churches: Monterey, with two elders; Hidalgo, with two elders; V. de Allende, with two elders. Congregations: Rodriguez (Cotorra), Durazno. Preaching Points: Cadereita, Mezquital, La Maranita, San Lorenzo, Los Arillos, Colmena.

At Mezquital our day-school did excellent work under the experienced management of Miss A. Rodriguez. The patrons of the school increased the salary from $25 to $30 monthly, paying 60 per cent. of the salary, and the Mission 40 per cent. I had the privilege of attending the closing exercises. On my arrival at noon I was met by a group of fifteen grave fathers of the town who escorted me to the dinner table spread in the boys' Government school near our own. They had already eaten, and I found myself seated with the former pupils, many of them married and present with their husbands. Afterwards the children were fed, and then we adjourned to examinations which were really very brilliant. The walls of the schoolroom were hung with maps, drawings and specimens of plain and fancy sewing, the whole representing by a careful calculation an expenditure of over $200 by the parents. The Mexican coat-of-arms, all sewed in silk and handsomely framed, was especially handsome. Miss Rodriguez has earned a well-deserved promotion, accepting work in the Christian Institute at Monterey at an increase of ten dollars monthly, and one of our 1906 Saltillo girls, a daughter of the Mezquital school, is now in charge.

3. Saltillo or Mountain District.—Churches: Saltillo, Concepcion.

General Cepeda. Congregation: Parras. Preaching Points: Aranzazu, Mazapil, San Eligio.

At Concepcion one of the persons I received was an old woman of eighty-three, bowed down with age and work; as she could not walk to church we received her in her thatched hut on the hillside, the service being attended by her big family, only one of whom is Protestant. It was a most impressive sight.

The congregations of Parras and General Cepeda are neighboring towns on the Coahuila and Pacific Railroad. The work is carried on entirely by unpaid workers.

The Saltillo Church has called as its pastor the Rev. Helio Love Pure, who came to Mexico from Barranquilla, Colombia, and took his theological course at Coyoacan.

Girls' Normal School.—Miss Wheeler reports:

There were seventy-four boarding pupils enrolled, but three on account of illness withdrew before the close of the year. There were fifteen day pupils in the higher grades and thirty-five primary pupils, making a total of 125.

We were justified in feeling proud of the graduating class, for one seldom sees a more interesting class of girls, and certainly seventeen was a goodly number. And to know we had been able to keep so many together for four or five years under strict training certainly gave a feeling of pleasure. The girls were so evenly matched that it was a difficult matter to select a few to take part, so it was decided to let all appear on the program. And while the essays were no more than school-girls' orations, each girl took her part with such dignity and ease that the whole program occupied only an hour and a half. Three of the girls were day pupils and had attended the school from the primary grade.

Positions in Mission schools or Government schools were offered the girls before the close of school and nearly all were settled in places by the first of January. All except one had accepted work, and all showed a great willingness to go wherever the Mission thought best. The principal of the State Normal School would have taken all, but the girls were willing to refer the matter to us. Six are working for our own Mission, one for the Associate Presbytery, one for the Southern Presbytery, one for the Friends, and seven in the public schools.

Perhaps it will be well to say a word in regard to the opinion held by the principal of the State Normal School, also the State Inspectors, about our teachers. Mr. Osuna does not hesitate to say that they give the highest satisfaction, and of one who graduated in 1901 he said that she was the best teacher in the State, and was so considered by the Inspector. To the present graduating class he said, "We take you inexperienced and give you places and salaries equal with the graduates of the State Normal." The girls do not need to attend an examination to enter the public school work. While all may not be equally good teachers, I think I am right in saying no one has yet failed to give satisfaction in the public schools. We have now eighty-eight graduates. Five have died, twenty-six have married, forty-nine are teaching, one studying and eight unemployed at present.

Nine girls united with the Church on profession of faith, forty-eight of the boarders are members of the Church, and four of the day pupils. There were fourteen vacancies made by the graduates, and if we add three or four more, there are probably seventeen. Thirty-five have already applied.

The total amount collected from tuitions and for music lessons was $3,881.67 Mexicans.

ZITACUARO STATION.

The Zitacuaro Station, Michoacan field, has continued under Mr. Vanderbilt's care, and has been visited by him from time to time. The work of the past year has been along the lines of the work of preceding years, admirably reported by Mr. Vanderbilt in previous reports of the Board.

JALAPA STATION.

The Jalapa Station embraces the work of two fields essentially distinct in character and geographically separate. Although each field lies well within the tropics, in climate and in physical conditions they are distinct; and in some particulars they present striking contrasts. Throughout the whole northern part of the State of Tabasco, in which our work lies, the land is low and in good part swampy; the climate is hot and the atmosphere vapor-laden; the vegetation is of rampant, luxuriant tropical growth. Under such conditions the inhabitants are inclined to indolence, and are subject to fevers and malarial troubles.

Parts of the State of Vera Cruz correspond very closely to the northern part of Tabasco in the particulars above mentioned. All the coast region of the State presents the same physical and climatic conditions, is subject to the same diseases and the inhabitants manifest practically the same characteristics. The coast belt of Vera Cruz is, however, quite narrow, and the interior of the State is entirely distinct from the low, hot plains in climate, vegetation, healthfulness and in its inhabitants. In some places the foothills press down to within a few miles of the coast, and a comparatively short distance from the Gulf entirely distinct climatic conditions obtain. The inhabitants also manifest distinct characteristics. Altitude above sea level affects in much more marked degree than distance from the equator both climatic conditions and the inhabitants of a region. The work, therefore, of the Jalapa field falls among two distinct types of people. In the coast region we encounter a people open and frank, emotional and impulsive, and strong in their likes and dislikes. These race characteristics have been in a considerable degree accentuated by a mixture of negro blood among the working classes. In the foothills and mountain country, on the other hand, the inhabitants are reserved and retiring, unemotional and stolid, and slow to meet the advances of strangers. Methods of work among these distinct classes must necessarily be different, and while naturally the response to Mission efforts is more ready and hearty among the coast people, among the hill folk and mountaineers any impression made is more permanent in character.

Dr. Boyce reports of some of the points in the field:

Paraiso.—Mr. Jose Coffin is in charge in this field, and he pushes the work very actively. He is well known all over the country, and has a hearing wherever he travels. Mr. Coffin has opened a school for boys in the town and has raised the money for its entire support.

Cardenas.—Cardenas is practically without any religious feeling. One of the Roman Catholic churches has fallen into ruins, and the remaining church is in very far from a good state of repair. When work was begun in the town under Dr. Greene's administration, it was at request of a number of the leading business men who pledged their financial support. They have not, however, fulfilled their promise. While friendly to us they do not take any interest in religion, and do not attend either Catholic or Protestant services.

The conditions prevailing in Huimanguillo are peculiar, and to be deplored. There has been a split in the town on the question of religion. The priest has been trying to finish a new church building. A part of the inhabitants support him in his effort, but the major part have turned against him, and have set up an independent service under the direction of some young women, members of prominent families of the town. Religious chaos prevails. Some baptisms have been performed, I have been told, by one of these young women. We have one family of members of our church in the town.

Our work in San Juan Bautista is in very satisfactory condition. Mr. Granados has done efficient service in the church, and has made some evangelistic trips to the outside. It was a source of gratification to me that the Synod in its meeting in July last elected him to the Moderatorship. His congregation gave him a royal reception on his return home, and I am satisfied that his election will affect favorably our work in the city and in the State.

In general it may be said that in no State in Mexico is there so great unrest on the subject of religion as in Tabasco. The Roman Catholic Church exercises some influence over the women; but the men, almost as a unit, scoff at her pretensions. A little over a year ago the bishop of the State gave an order to increase the charge for baptisms from $2.50 silver to $5.00. A storm of protest arose from the priests and a number of them left their churches rather than enforce the order, which they considered unjust and oppressive. The people in general protested against the imposition, and quite a number of Catholics asked our ministers to baptize their children. One Indian village on the Gonzales river rose en masse and asked to be received into the Evangelical Church.

In former years Spiritualism made some advances in the State, but it seems to be waning of late. It has done nothing for the people, and they are not only unsatisfied with it but thoroughly dissatisfied with it. The whole field is open for work. There is practically no opposition to us, and had we a sufficient force of men such as Granados and Coffin to properly man our work, we might confidently hope to win the whole State for Christ.

Dr. Boyce feels keenly the importance of the development of the work along the line of the Tehautepec Railroad at Coatzacoalcos, and at Salina Cruz, the western terminal of the Tehautepec National Railroad, a much smaller town than Coatzacoalcos, and by no means of the same importance.

It is, however, important strategically. The church which dominates these two towns will exercise a controlling influence in the evangelization of all the magnificent region lying to the south and southeast of the railroad line. This region naturally belongs to the Presbyterian Church. We have work in Coatzacoalcos and Tuxtla Guterrez, the capital of Chiapas. We have a hold in Salina Cruz. If we could have two or three good men in this general region, they could by the use of the railroads push the work down to the Guatemala line, and meet the Presbyterian work in that Republic, which in the near future will undoubtedly form a part of the Greater Mexico. This region is destined on account of its fertile soil and benign climate to be one of the most densely populated in all Mexico, and certainly should not be neglected.

The Vera Cruz Church is financially independent of the Mission.

In the Misantla region our work has gone on quietly. Mr. Capistran is not as active as could be desired, but withal has done very good work. On my last visit to Misantla we had very interesting services. On Sabbath we had over one hundred persons present at our meeting in El Porvenir, the larger part of whom attend our services with frequency.

The Indians of Misantla are more suspicious of strangers, and on the whole harder to reach than any among whom I have worked; and it must be admitted that they have some reason for being suspicious. About thirty-five years ago an unscrupulous Jefe Politico led the Indians into a plot to massacre all the "gente de razon" (people of reason), and a number of families were slaughtered. Their intent was to kill all who were not of pure Indian blood in the whole district. The Government was obliged to resort to drastic measures to put down the insurrection. General Alatorre was sent against the Indians with Federal troops; the town of Misantla was burned to the ground, and all the male Indians captured were put to death without quarter. As a result the Indians were terrorized and their spirit broken, and even yet they have an instinctive fear of foreigners. Laureano Juan, the father of Miguel Ortega, of Tlacolulan, accompanied General Alatorre on this expedition, and has often spoken to me of the ruthless punishment visited upon the Indians. Contact with foreigners is gradually overcoming their fear, but they are still hard to reach.

These Indians use the Totonaco language among themselves, and the women have a very imperfect knowledge of Spanish. This makes work among them more difficult. Once their confidence is won, however, they are constant and reliable. When we find a consecrated man who can preach with power in their native tongue, we may confidently look for large numbers of them to accept the Gospel.

Progress has been made in the Tabasco and Vera Cruz fields during the year. While the advance is not as great as we could desire, it has been nevertheless solid and satisfactory.

During Dr. Boyce's absence Mrs. Boyce has looked after the work in Jalapa, where the Sabbath-school is well organized with six classes, one in English; an average attendance of fifty-five. Mrs. Boyce writes:

Ten days before Christmas when we were drilling the children for Christmas exercises, one of our brightest little girls, aged ten years; Abelia Rivera, recited her recitation exceptionally well in the chapel.

Thursday night she turned the wick of a lamp the wrong way and it exploded, covering the poor child with burning oil. She was frightfully burned, and died in great agony less than twenty-four hours later. As long as she could speak she kept repeating her recitation which ended with the words, "I give my all to Jesus." Then she would repeat, "What a friend we have in Jesus!" So her life went out and she spent "La Natividad" with Jesus.

GUERRERO STATION.

The field has been unvisited during the year by any of the missionaries with the exception of the brief trip by Mr. R. A. Brown, after the closing of the Seminary.

PERSIA AND KURDISTAN.

MISSIONS IN PERSIA.

The past year has been a year of great changes for Persia, and no one can now foresee what the issue of these changes will be.

Shah Muzaf-r-i-Din died and was succeeded by his son, Mohammed Ali. It was feared there would be wide popular disturbances, but the change was made very quietly. Before the death of Muzaf-r-i-Din the movement toward constitutional government, mentioned in the last annual report of the Board, and which it was supposed was a mere temporary and unimportant disturbance, actually materialized in results. About the middle of July some influential merchants and mollahs began pressing the Sadrazam (Prime Minister) for the institution of financial and political reforms, threatening to cause disturbances should their demands not be granted. The troops, at their head Amir-i-Bahadur-i-Jang, were called out, and on reaching the bazaars they found a big crowd clamoring and threatening. The soldiers were ordered to fire on the mob and, having done so, some sixty or seventy people were killed, the rest dispersing as fast as they could. Next day the chief mollahs and mujtahids left the city on their way to Kum (a holy city), and about 1,000 merchants and sayyids with students rushed into the British Legation, putting themselves in bast (asylum). The following day the people in bast at the Legation had increased to 3,000. They were all well received, tents were given to them, and by the end of the week the number had increased to 10,000, and it kept increasing daily till it reached 18,000. All the gardens, stable yard, etc., were full and all streets touching to the Legation were also overcrowded. The people refused to leave the Legation until the mollahs had been brought back in honor from Kum, and a dast-i-khat (autograph firman) from the Shah given to them granting all their demands. The principal demands were as follows:

1. Dismissal of the Sadrazam.
2. Dismissal of the Amir-i-Bahadur-i-Jang.
3. A representative assembly, to be named by the people, to direct the affairs of State.
4. General financial reforms.

After a week had elapsed and their demands were still ungranted, the people begged the British Minister to go and see the Shah and give him personally a list of their demands. Mr. Grant Duff complied with the request, and immediately the Shah called him to his presence and gave him a dast-i-khat granting all that was demanded. Mr. Grant Duff had only left the palace for an hour when he was officially informed that both the Sadrazam and the Amir-Bahadur had been dismissed, and that an envoy had been appointed to go and bring back the mollahs. When the people at the Legation got the news they became wild with joy and addressed a long telegram to His Majesty King Edward, praying him to always protect them and their country by giving good advice and counsel to their own sovereign, and thanking him for all that had been done by Mr. Grant Duff on their behalf. King Edward sent them a very cordial telegram in reply, assuring them that he loved them all and would do all in his power to increase the welfare of the people of Persia. At this time Mr. Grant Duff requested the people to leave the Legation, but they refused to move until the mollahs had arrived. A few days later the latter made a magnificent entry into the city. The town and bazaars were illuminated, and the people left the Legation, having obtained all they wanted.

The Parliament thus secured convened prior to the Shah's death. It was feared that the new Shah would prove a reactionary and would attempt to dissolve the Parliament. There were several collisions between him and the assembly, but the assembly prevailed and has continued its existence and strengthened its position.

The movement which issued in a representative assembly in Teheran found similar expression in many other cities, where the people demanded some form of representative government. The movement is very crude, as the following statement of the conditions in Urumia indicates: "We have been having our experiences with Persian 'liberty,' and will no doubt have more before we are done. As I have written you, we have been having here a very inefficient and worthless governor. Some weeks ago, in emulation of the people of Tabriz and Teheran, various gatherings were held here, and as the result of them a council or committee of the people, an anjuman, as they call it, was formed. This anjuman consists of seven persons—one prominent mollah, one notorious sayyid, two landlords, and three merchants. The weakness and unpopularity of the governor, together with the hard times and high prices, gave them a good chance to assume authority. The governor was powerless to resist them, and on his being deposed by the higher authorities and his successor being detained in Tabriz on government business, the opportunity became still better for them to exercise authority. So at present, although there is here a deputy governor and the customary kargozar, or representative of the Foreign Office appointed by the regular governmental authorities, the power is practically all in the hands of the anjuman. This authority is being used in a variety of ways, both good and bad. Some near relatives of our mirza were murdered two months ago in a very cold-blooded way. The persons who were the murderers in all probability were arrested. In spite of the direct orders of the governor-designate, these men were taken by the anjuman and released. In other cases, as in refusing to allow the kargozar to collect in advance taxes from the Christians and Jews, the anjuman has served the cause of right. One of the first acts of the anjuman was to draw up a proclamation to the people, stating on the whole in moderate terms what they expected to do—not to supplant the regular governmental officers, but to co-operate with them and strengthen them in order to secure liberty and justice. This was brought to us to print and we did so, requiring that the governor's authorization should be secured before the proclamation should be delivered. At first the governor refused to authorize it, but it did not take long to bring pressure on him to sign a copy. We have had hints at various times from members of the anjuman through others that while they were desirous of helping on the cause of education, they felt that in our school for Moslem boys the teachings and rites of their own religion ought to be taught. In order to carry out this purpose they suggested that we permit a mollah to come into the school every day and teach these. These suggestions we naturally declined to entertain. Finally they came in the form of threats, and so we went directly to members of the anjuman, saying that if they insisted on our doing so, we would close the school; but we should have it known in Urumia and elsewhere that it was closed because of the anjuman. This brought assurances that they wished nothing of the kind and that we should go on. The reasons for this rather contradictory state of things is that the movement is a mixed sort of thing.

Those who really have been at the bottom of things in Persia are men with enlightened views and a real desire for enlarged liberty. But the element that has the most power in it here in Urumia is the very opposite element—mollahs and sayyids who find in it the chance to assert themselves. These last masquerade under the banners of liberty and use the catchwords taught by the others. So we are in a queer situation and one that will require some careful steering till things take definite shape. It is, however, worth something to hear mollahs and sayyids preach the gospel of liberty, whatever their motives are, and even if they understand very little about what they are talking. Mr. Sterrett and I called on the anjuman in their office one day, and the conversation turned a good deal on the representative assemblies of America and the different countries of Europe."

Crude as the movement is, however, it is in the direction of liberty, and a new freedom of speech is already noticed, and the emergence of these frank convictions as to the inadequacy of Islam, which it has long been known would come to expression as soon as the day of free opinion should come. It is twilight of that day as yet, and there may be yet darker hours before the dawn.

As the Mission year closes the outlook is doubtful, as in all cases when old conditions begin to dissolve there is general misgiving as to what the future may bring. There is friction between the assembly and the crude party, and at any time ecclesiastical fanaticism may have dangerous expression. The country is an intelligent country, but lacks men of character, by whom alone popular institutions can be barred. It is reported, however, that England and Russia have reached an agreement with reference to their responsibility in Persia, and the influence of Russia can not be very pernicious now, while the influence of England has been pacific and constructive.

In northwestern Persia, in the Urumia region, there has been great disorder. Turkish troops have made trouble over the boundary question, and many villages have been pillaged between Urumia and the border.

TEHERAN STATION.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The Armenian Church, whose membership is thirty-two, composed largely of women, young men, and girls, continues without a pastor. The movement of the Armenian population to a different section of the city two miles from the present church affects the attendance. In the Persian Church no convert has been baptized during the year, although some have applied.

Confession is the difficult matter. If only they could be Christians in secret and outwardly continue Moslems, as the Bahais, it would be easy to gather a number of such secret believers.

The report of this department tells of a convert, S. M., who held a lucrative position in the shrine at Shah Abdul Azeem near Teheran. The colporteur in charge of the Bible depot at Teheran became acquainted with him, when visiting Shah Abdul Azeem for the sale of Scriptures, and held religious conversations with him. The man became convinced of the truth and professed himself a Christian. In March he came to one of the missionaries with a note of introduction from the colporteur. He had been in detention as a prisoner for twenty-two days and was then released and given a respite until the end of the Persian month, either to quit his foolishness or to leave the country. He told the missionary that there were three others besides himself who are convinced of the truth of Christianity and seeking light in the Word of God. He had some influential friends in high position and seems to have managed somehow to purchase a certain degree of immunity, and thus to have been allowed to escape, though his wife and lands and flocks were taken from him and he himself was obliged to flee. He went first to Resht and then to Russia. He has just returned to Teheran, and it is reported that his wife is willing to join with him in his new faith. He has neither asked nor received any pecuniary help from the Mission.

The Station force has been depleted during the year by furloughs, so that the itinerating work has suffered.

Of some aspects of the woman's work Mrs. Potter reports:

The Bible class at the Sabbath-school is perhaps the place where we meet the women most satisfactorily. This has been in charge of Mrs. Douglas this year. The attendance is to some extent the outcome of the influences exerted by all in the daily contact, and often is the first sign of an interest in our faith—friends of the pupils in the schools, women who in their need have been helped by some of God's servants, or who have had employment in the homes. Quite a number have come regularly during the year, besides the groups who came occasionally by invitation or as their fancy moved them. There is also a real satisfaction in meeting the women in the dispensary and the patients in the hospital. They listen as a rule most intently, showing their interest by questions and remarks, until one feels that at least an impression has been made. The patients often cheer us by their welcome of the Book. "It is the lady who reads to us," is often the cry that greets us, even from those whose eyes are bound, as they recognize the voice.

Too often we meet with no such interest in the social calls, which nevertheless we must depend upon as our only way of reaching many who have no desire to change their creed, and no conscious need of any kind that would bring them to us, yet are quite willing to have a friendly acquaintance.

Not very long ago it was rare to find a Persian woman who wanted to be taught even at home, and the greatest care was exercised to keep the fact from the knowledge of neighbors if a girl was sent to the school. I have been astonished more than once during the last year how openly and how much trouble mothers are willing to take in order to have a daughter under instruction. Social calls are beginning to take their proper place and Bible teaching is taken much more seriously. The schools have become a centre of influence, and therefore there is an advantage to this department in having all the ladies engaged in school work.

EDUCATIONAL.—

The Iran Bethel School.—The Girls' School opened with 57 pupils present the first day and the enrollment during the year reached 110, as follows: 80 Armenians, 24 Moslems, 4 fire worshippers, and 2 of mixed parentage. The tuition collected up to May 1st amounted to krans 2,353. The growing attendance of Moslem girls calls for special notice.

In earlier years even Moslem boys were not allowed to attend our school, and only a dozen years ago, when the late Shah visited the Mission schools, we trembled lest the presence of a little Moslem girl (the child of a servant in the Mission) might cause trouble.

Boys' School.—To understand the strength as well as the cost of this popular esteem our work enjoys, it might be mentioned that our Mission school has to hold its own with two Catholic schools, two Armenian schools (one a new institution, well endowed and equipped, just opposite our premises), a Zoroastrian school, a Jewish school of 700 pupils, maintained by the French anti-Christian propaganda, and some twoscore Moslem schools, many of them with good endowment and support, and among them the Shah's college with a staff of European instructors. Many of these schools offer free tuition and some of them give to their pupils in addition clothing, food and a money present. Is it not remarkable then that parents should pass by schools of their own religion and nation and entrust to this Christian institution the training of their sons; furthermore paying the relatively high fee of fifteen tomans a year.

This is the way that attendance and tuition have stepped upward of late years:

| Year. | Attendance. | Tuition. |
|--------------|--------------------|-----------------|
| 1900 | 66 | 154 tomans. |
| 1901 | 100 | 192 " |
| 1902 | 121 | 222 " |
| 1903 | 146 | 351 " |
| 1904 | 159 | 603 " |
| 1905 | 202 | 792 " |
| 1906 | 220 | 996 " |

^r At the commencement exercises in May four fine young men received diplomas, three Mohammedans and one Zoroastrian. None of the graduates being Armenians, the large audience was made up mostly of Moslems; by them all the orations and address were much commended. The latter was delivered by the aged Zoka of Molk, editor of the Tarbeyat newspaper, head of the "Political School," and perhaps the most famous and learned literary man of the age. After the exercises, a delegation of Zoroastrians called to express their pleasure at the honor done them in graduating one of their number, the first in the history of the school.

The enrollment was made up as follows:

| | |
|--------------------|-----|
| Moslems | 128 |
| Armenians | 83 |
| Zoroastrians | 3 |
| Jews | 6 |
| | 220 |

It is interesting to note that whereas in 1900 the Armenians were just twice the number of Moslem pupils, the Moslems soon bid fair to reverse the table by twice outnumbering the Armenians.

Barriers of prejudice and hostility are breaking down and a wide door of success is opened through this educational work to the Mohammedan population.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Wishard reports:

The medical and surgical work at the hospital have increased not only in quantity but in character as well. Especially is this true in the department for women. Heretofore the work for women in the hospital has been confined to eye cases and minor surgical cases. Except in a few cases, women requiring major surgical operations were not admitted into the hospital, lest a death might produce a severe prejudice against our work. Indeed at the beginning of the work it was not thought wise to admit any women patients into the hospital, and the records for the first five years of the work show that almost none were admitted.

This year, however, one of the high officials from the Shah's court came with one of the major-generals in the Persian army and insisted upon the wife of the former being admitted into the hospital for surgical treatment. The King had full knowledge of the case and daily reports of her condition as the case progressed. The operation, under God's blessing, restored her health fully and opened the way for a larger work than we were prepared to undertake, with Dr. Smith away and no trained nurse. Other women came, sufferers for years, and said, "We know it is within your power to cure us and restore us to our children in health." When I would explain to them that we had no place for women except one simple little room, they would not accept such excuse and some said, "You admitted the wife of a courtier; are you going to turn us away?" It was a very serious situation with which we were confronted, for Dr. Smith was yet away on her well-earned furlough in the homeland and there was no one to look after the cases after operation, except the young physicians. But it came to us that for years we had been praying for an open door in Persia, and here was one that was wide open. If we had had any doubts about the Lord's leading in this important work they would have been dispelled by a little incident that happened early in the winter.

We had accepted several of these cases and were trying to do the best that we could for them, when a poor woman came in with a large tumor that was slowly taking her life. Her husband came with her to care for three little children that were theirs. The case was accepted and I had just finished the operation at the close of a busy day when there came a call to the house of a nobleman who lived nearby. I felt that I could not go and yet I knew that I could not refuse. So I left my surgical cases with the students and went with the servant that had come for me, to see the mother of the nobleman. After prescribing for her she asked me how the hospital was getting on this year. I frankly told her that there was great need for a hospital for women in Teheran, and told her some of our difficulties in caring for women and children in our hospital, intended only for men. She at once said that if it was God's will, she would be glad to furnish the funds for a building for women and children in connection with our hospital. She said, "Send me the plans for such a building, and if I am able I will furnish the funds for a special building." It seemed strange to me that this Moslem woman, reared in seclusion, should have the blessing of giving to the needy ones about us the first hospital for women and children in the Shah's capital.

Did she supply the funds? Well you would have thought so if you had been at our house some time afterwards and had seen her servants coming in with the first thousand dollars, all in small coins. It seemed to me that I would never get it counted as I sat cross-legged on the floor and caught the small coins that were pitched to me by the native banker. Then we all got busy—this is not slang—and the voice of the mason was heard as he called for more material. The walls went higher and higher and to-day we have a neat, modest, modern hospital for women and children. The building has cost about 3,000 toman and we hope to present it to the annual meeting in October, finished and free from debt. There is a cosy little home in connection with it for the trained nurse that our faith tells us that we are going to have.

As our work has increased so have our expenses, and again in this the Lord has been gracious, for He sent us a much better class of patients men who were able to pay for their own treatment and assist in providing for those less fortunate. While our estimates for funds from the Board have not increased, yet we have been able with the increase in fees and with funds largely contributed on the field to meet the growing demands of the work largely.

Mrs. McCormick, of Chicago, has been pleased to continue her substantial and generous gift of funds for the support of the hospital.

| | |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------|
| Total attendance of patients and their friends at the hospital dispensary clinics | 17,200 |
| Total number of in-patients | 201 |
| Total number of surgical operations done in homes, the hospital and in the dispensaries | 540 |
| Professional visits | 302 |
| Cataract cases operated upon | 83 |
| Medical fees | krans 20,897.45 |
| Gifts on the field, including the amounts given for the pavilion for women and children | krans 27,615.10 |
| Total amount raised on the field, krans, 48,512, about $4,100.00 | |

Because we were short of help in the hospital and also because of lack of room, and also because many of the patients were of such serious character that they required long treatment, the number of in-patients was not as large as in some years past. The coming year we hope to be able to care for a large number, but we shall continue to emphasize the outdoor department.

GENERAL.—Dr. Potter's tract on "The Fundamentals of Evangelical Belief and Duty," published in Persian and English two years ago, has been found very useful in stating the case of Christianity to Mohammedans.

The Station report concludes:

The outlook is hopeful. On Sunday, October 7, 1906, with the booming of cannon and the attendance of His Imperial Majesty the Shah and the representatives of the foreign Powers, the new National Assembly of Persia was inaugurated. The peaceful revolution by which this great event has been brought about calls for special notice, and we pray that the new era now dawning may turn out for the furtherance of the Gospel.

RESHT STATION.

Resht has now been made a full Station. Mr. and Mrs. Schuler with Dr. Frame have carried on an energetic work, planning for wide itineration through the great field falling to the care of this Station in the Caspian Basin. Mr. and Mrs. Schuler in their trip found good opportunities in Enzeli, Meshidi Sar and Barforoosh, and on the steamer. In Barforoosh representatives of the Jewish community of 300 or 400 persons pleaded for a school, promising forty boys, a building and fifty tomans the first year. There is hope that this offer can be accepted, and Mr. Schuler is planning to spend several months in Barforoosh next year.

The average attendance at the Persian preaching services has been twenty-three and the Sunday-school twenty-one. There has been one addition to the number of communicants during the year. Mrs. Schuler writes:

Early in 1906 the pitiful case of three little motherless children was brought to our attention by Degeen Mariam. Money was given with which she bought clothing, rice and other things for them. The very night the gifts were made the hut in which the children lived burned down, and everything was lost. The father became a Mohammedan to escape his debts, and the children were left on the street. A poor Russian carriage maker with four children of his own took these worse than orphans into his home. Again material for clothing was bought, and Degeen Mariam and B. Ganlost's wife promised to cut out and make some clothes for the three boys, all of whom are now supported from the church collections and from gifts of private individuals.

In June and July a tour of forty days was made with Mr. Schuler in Mazenderan. We traveled about 500 miles by land and water and had many precious opportunities to witness for Christ. In Barforoosh, in spite of my intention to see no sick people, I was in a sense compelled to do so, and visited a number of Mohammedan and Jewish houses.

EDUCATIONAL.—

The Persian schools have passed away; only the Armenian schools remain. Of the two Persian schools, one school building, built by subscription, was sold in order to apply the proceeds to a fine new structure which was in process of erection and large enough to accommodate the pupils of both schools. Last spring the other school, which was in a rented building, was closed and the equipment sold—we supposed in order to make way for a grand opening in the autumn, with the new building, new equipment and enlarged faculty. The autumn has come. The new building is still incomplete and we hear is for sale and the school permanently closed.

In the Mission school there have been seventeen pupils in attendance—four Persians, eleven Armenians and two Greeks. Mrs. Schuler writes:

The wee Sayid matured so rapidly at one time that I had to nip him in the bud. He appeared one morning with a man's celluloid collar about his little neck, twirling a cane in his hand. On one finger of this hand blazed a very large red stone in a very small silver setting. A seal depended by a string from his bottonhole, and a case full of cigarettes occupied the inside pocket of his long flowing coat! I wouldn't have nipped nearly so hard if all the boys had not eyed him with wistful admiration.

Our great trial this year has been Yeghesa, who could not learn to read fluently. "Oh, Yeghesa, cannot you see the words?" "Yes, lady, my eyes see them perfectly; but when I open my mouth, they won't come out that way." And really if you have ever seen a puppy trying to get a cobweb off its nose, you can easily picture Yeghesa trying to evolve his Armenian words from his inner consciousness.

MEDICAL WORK.—The long negotiations with the local officers with reference to the Government Hospital, of which the Mission has been invited to take charge, did not turn out satisfactorily.

An account of all that was said and done in this connection, the many interviews held with the Persians, the private conferences of the missionaries alone, would make a volume. Probably an account of what was said and done that we know nothing about would make another volume. The negotiations were proceeding fairly well, a thousand tomans for initial expense was paid, and there was good reason to believe a five-year contract embodying conditions apparently fairly satisfactory to the parties concerned would be soon signed and sealed, but some one who was able to bring strong pressure to bear interfered. The Sardar E Mansoor said, "There is a certain reason why I cannot seal the contract." His Royal Highness the Governor made promises of "a day or two" that were unfulfilled after months.

Nevertheless, Dr. Frame opened the hospital the last of December and conducted it till the middle of April, the Sardar agreeing to furnish the expenses monthly in advance until the regular contract could be sealed.

The number of patients agreed upon was a limit of twelve. During these months Dr. Frame resided at the hospital building. He writes: "We received seventy-eight patients, chloroformed several patients for minor surgery and removed a large tumor of the neck. There were two or three deaths, but we seemed to have the confidence and favor of the people."

But in April the contract had no more seals than it had six months before. Without a definite contract, certain financial difficulties arose. Accordingly Dr. Frame gave notice to the Prince-Governor and the Sardar E. Mansoor, dismissed the patients and closed the hospital. Some days later he turned over the keys and accounts to Dr. Sterlini, an Italian physician who was in Resht some years ago but left in 1903. He was therefore not in the country when the Prince-Governor began the negotiations with the Mission and wrote to Dr. Wishard definitely agreeing to put the hospital in the charge of a physician of his choice. But Dr. Sterlini arrived in Resht from Europe as physician to the Russian Consulate shortly previous to Dr. Frame's arrival, and we found out afterward had been consulted by the Persian officials and had furnished them estimates for running the hospital.

Dr. Frame has since carried on medical work in his own dispensary, and the Station is glad on the whole to have him free from the responsibility of the Government hospital.

KASVIN STATION.

The old dispensary building has been overhauled and made clean and sanitary, so that Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence have now a comfortable home and a pleasant place in which to carry on their work. Mrs. Lawrence reports:

The number of weekly meetings, five, seems large, but has been a necessity to meet all the different classes of people who come. First is the general meeting on Sunday morning, when all are welcome, and Sunday-school in the afternoon. During the week, a meeting for women and another for boys and one for girls, and indeed I might add a sixth on Wednesday morning for my patients who come to clinic. Our meetings are best attended during the winter months.

About forty boys, in age from five to fifteen, were enrolled and were more or less regular in attendance for six months. Among the number were at least half a dozen little Sevids, and the Hosseins and Hassans and Alis made my head dizzy trying to remember and distinguish them from one another. The attraction in former years as well as this was the organ and the singing, and some of the easier songs they already knew. Having received a fine lot of picture cards from a lady in Washington interested in our work, I gave them to the boys as Rewards of Merit, and later on paper for making kites was in great demand. No opposition was met with, except one day when a mother appeared and took her three sons out of the meeting. Her entrance without any greeting and her general behavior made it evident she disapproved greatly of their being there. I noticed the children had returned before the meeting was over and that she did not come for them again. Singing, learning of Scripture texts, and a lesson on the Life of Christ was the program I followed with them.

Dr. Lawrence writes:

"Many of the Armenians of Kasvin patronize the dispensary and some of them also have called me to visit the sick in their homes. Quite a few visit us and are very friendly in a social way, but in religious matters they seem to distrust us quite as much as the Moslems do. My out-calls during the year show an increase over previous years. Among the most noteworthy of these was a call to Bakandeh, about twenty-five miles out on the Resht road, to see the superintendent of the road who had been badly wounded in a carriage wreck. The Russian physician was attending him, and I was called to consult with him. I was taken out in the superintendent's automobile and enjoyed very much my first experience traveling in a touring car. At another time the Russian physician asked me to assist him with an operation, which I very gladly did. The Russians have a very large colony here, and in our dealings with them we have found them very clever, and I have often wished for a common language that I might know them better; it would relieve so much our loneliness to be able to visit with them.

Another call came from Leadoon on the Hamadan road. It also is about twenty miles from the city. The sick was a Mussulman. His case shows something of the trials which beset the physician in Persia. When I reached the patient he was just getting over a hard chill; a high fever soon followed, and he was a very sick man. I at once began giving medicine to control his fever, which continued through the night and into the next day, and inasmuch as the medicines did not cure at once, his mother and sister became alarmed at his condition and said it must be due to the medicine I had given him. One of their friends came in and in a very insolent way asked me what I had given to his friend. I replied that his condition was due to the disease rather than to the medicine. I asked to be excused and began preparations to leave for home, but his family insisted that I remain, saying the man who had talked so was not of their house, so I remained another night and was very happy to see the man without fever next morning. So they let me go with many words of praise, whereas the day before they were accusing me of killing the man. As I drove out I was especially glad to hear the customary farewell greeting, "May God keep you!" from the man who had accused me the day before of giving medicine to kill his friend.

HAMADAN STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—This past year the two Hamadan churches have made a little advance on some former years in the matter of additions to their membership—twelve new members having been received by St. Stephen's and seven by Peniel, besides two Jewish converts and a child who were baptized in Kermanshah.

One new meeting of much interest, attended by the prominent members of Peniel church, was begun about six months ago. They are held from house to house on Sabbath afternoons and study the Bible in course, beginning with St. Matthew's Gospel. No regular outline is marked out, but each topic in turn is discussed until some satisfactory consensus of opinion is reached. Matt. v. 17 and following furnished food for thought and discussion for several weeks, since it involved the relation of converts from Judaism to the law of Moses and other Jewish customs, e.g., the circumcision of their children and the keeping of the seventh or first day of the week as the day of rest. The importance of these questions to our church members grows out of their remaining in close contact with Judaism, which is not possible in many communities outside of Persia. Converts are elsewhere immediately ostracized. We desire them to remain among the Jews, while they be not of them. Their lives preach Christ so far as they follow Him faithfully.

Out-stations.—Kermanshah Out-station: Kasha Mooshi opened a school in September and after a few days reported sixteen pupils, but later the Mollahs prevailed on the Moslem parents to withdraw their children, and upon his mentioning tuition, which he had formerly collected, the Jews withdrew their children, and finally the Christian children came down to four and five, so that early in the Spring the school was given up. Kasha Mooshi writes of sickness in his family and of discouragement in the work. Then adds in one chronicle of distress, "But we are very thankful to God for His mercy. On Sunday last after sermon fifteen Jews came to me, and I spoke to them for three hours, as I was very glad of their faith in Christ; but I became weak and felt fever for three days. There have been a good number of converts first and last at Kermanshah, but many have moved away, so that there is still an insufficient number for forming a church."

Lilihan Out-station: Pastor Caspar reports pupils in Lilihan school as 29, at Kandeh 15, at Giapa 8 or 9, at Davudabad 14, and at Chahar-Tag, many friends. A letter of June 24 gives the names of 42 church members at Lilihan, 12 at Kandeh, 11 at Gurchibashi and 13 at Giapa.

At Nahavend the twenty-two members of the prayer meeting are all Jews and all confess Christ.

Itinerating Work.—Mrs. Stead reports for the Station:

Two medical trips by Dr. and Mrs. Funk, two village itineraries by Miss Montgomery, a trip to Kermanshah by Mr. and Mrs. Hawkes and Dr. Field and five journeys by herself and Mr. Stead. Recounting incidents of work among Jews, Armenians, Bahais, Ali Ilahis, Sufis, Gunabadis and Moslems, she says: "At Ravan an Ali Ilahi came again and again, and when Mirza Ibrahim stopped reading, to answer a woman who was making a fuss about some medicine, said, 'Never mind her; give us more of the Book.' A Bahai woman in Nizambad went to much trouble to procure everything we wanted at reasonable prices simply because we were Christians, and arranged a meeting for women in her own home, because they could be more free than in the Moslem house where we were."

Among orthodox Moslems, "At Gizil Ali, Khanum Khan Gizi, who is an exceptional woman, invited Mr. Stead to preach in the 'Anderoon' (women's apartments) both Sundays of our stay there. The women sat with their 'chuddars' partly drawn over their faces and after the service said, 'We have never heard prayers like that before.' He prayed for friends and neighbors and the whole world. One of the daughters spent hours every day asking questions and listening to the stories of the pictures in Dore's Bible Gallery. She said she believed, but what could she do? If she were a man she could flee to a place of liberty and there confess Christ. 'Oh, that I could get to Teheran!' she said. She little knew that far-away Teheran was as bad as Gizil Ali."

In a very full report of the wide-reaching itinerating work carried on by the Hamadan missionaries, Mrs. Stead writes of some of the classes of people and some of the problems met with.

Armenians: Among Armenians, some little work has been done as occasion gave opportunity. At Armenaad we arrived on Good Friday. The people gathered in the church in the afternoon to weep. They knew not for what, except that it was the custom. To-morrow was the great feast; that is, the great fast was ended and they could eat meat again; but they knew not the Lord had lain in the grave that day, and Sunday was the day when the Church rejoices over the bands of death broken and the living present Lord. Except in the difference of dress and the ever-present smell of rotting grapes from the wine making, there was no difference to be seen between this and a Moslem village. The same "Ya Allah" preceded every exertion. The same oaths accompanied every affirmation and negation. The same charms and prayers were bound on the bodies, the same divination used, only using the Bible instead of the Koran.

At Lilihan a change has taken place. Pastor Caspar's wife, Sanum, was as usual mothering the whole village as well as her own seven little folk. Every one who has a pain or sorrow runs to her. She knows well how to use the simple remedies for common troubles and is ready to give her sympathy and help and do for them all. Her home is a beautiful, bright spot in a heathenish Armenian village. Her clean house and clean children are a constant sermon to the dirty people who have a bath but four times during their stay on earth; that is, at birth, at baptism, at marriage, and at death. In the six years of Pastor Caspar's stay among them they have wakened up and made a good long day's journey from the dense ignorance and darkness in which other village Armenians are sitting. They are ready for and appreciate a spiritual conversation. They gather in the pastor's house, or send for him to come to one of their houses, that they may learn from God's Word. And the Light has sent its rays to the other Armenian villages in that region, so that Pastor Caspar not only goes himself whenever opportunity affords, but is called to administer the rites of baptism, marriage and burial. But how far they still are from what they ought to be is evidenced by the dirty houses, dirty bodies, heathenish dress, child marriages, enforced silence and servitude of daughters-in-law, and the use of women for pack animals and drudges. Except in the matter of multiple wives and divorces, the lot of the village Armenian woman is much harder than that of the village Moslem woman. In Armenibad the Armenian priest held the same place as the Moslem priest among his people, providing charms and prayers, telling whether a work or a time is lucky, and such things. But at Lilihan the old priest sat sewing "givas," a sort of shoe woven with a needle from white twine, and in a near village the priest complained that our pastor had taken his bread. The place a really Christian home and family finds for itself, even among the Moslems, is evidenced by the fact that the Moslem owners of the village, after this hard Winter when most of the animals starved to death and the people went hungry, sent fodder for Pastor Caspar's animals and such things as lettuce and spinach for his table.

Bahais: Except when converts from Judaism, the Bahais are an interesting people among whom to work. The liberty from priests and Koran, the greater purity of life, the putting away of the ceremonial uncleanness idea, the higher position of women, the readiness to look into new truths make them more comfortable people to be among than the Moslems. We had dealings with them at Narok, Jushigun, Nizamabad, Khalcheabad, Medshan, Hoseinabad, Bahar and Salhabad. Three cases are specially worthy of mention, viz., a woman at Nizamabad who went to much trouble to procure everything we wanted at reasonable prices simply because we were Christians, and arranged a meeting of women in her own home because they could be more free there than in the Moslem house where we were staying; a man at Khalcheabad who not only gave us his whole house, taking his family to a neighbor's for two days, but also arranged for quiet conferences in another room from that in which the crowds gathered; and of a young woman at Hoseinabad who boasted when she first came in that she had taught all her sisters, seven, to be Bahais, but when she went away, after spending the whole afternoon in listening to the Gospel and discussing Christianity, said, "I have made a mistake. I am now going to teach my sisters to be Christians, and if it should be sin, the sin be on you."

Mollahs: From the Mollahs opposition is to be expected, and yet many times we find them most friendly. At Nian, a Mollah brought three other men and listened interestedly for a long time. At Narak, the school-teacher encouraged the boys to buy tracts and Gospels for use in the school. At Dagdagabad, after listening and arguing, some Mollahs said, "Wait till the day of judgment, when we will see which is right," and some of them came on to Khaneabad for further argument and bought a Testament.

Robbers: As a usual thing the Persian robbers are more dreadful to think about than to come in actual contact with, at least to foreigners, and yet foreigners are sometimes robbed. Over notably dangerous pieces of road, as, e.g., between Khomain and Sadabad, Nion and Dorr, we kept in sight of our loads. As we passed out of the mountains and came in sight of Sadabad, six horsemen, well mounted and armed, came galloping down a valley, meeting us at right angles. When they saw us, all but two disappeared behind a hill. The two coming up said that they were road police and would escort us to the village. Persian soldiers, with their shabby uniforms, miserable horses and rusty guns, do not look much like this company, and we knew we were accosted by mountain robbers. We told them that since the mountains were past and the village near they need not trouble, thanked them and gave them a present in money. Scarcely were we rid of these when six more came tearing down another hill and seeing the first ones passed us by.

Idolatry: There are people at home, Christian people too, who say, "Why send missionaries to Moslem lands? The Moslems believe in and worship God." But the God they know is Fate, the heaven they hope for is a place of license, and, aside from God, they have as many idols as those who are called idol-worshippers. All the prophets and "inams" are worshipped and invoked. Every embellished grave, whether of a descendant of prophet or "inam" or of a common "muhtahid," is worshipped. The dust, walls, and ornaments of gold, silver, stones, or tiles about places of pilgrimage are objects of worship. No true worshipper can say his prayers without a tablet of clay from Kerbela, which he places before him as he kneels and kisses and presses to his forehead at intervals during his prayer. Stones of a peculiar shape or color have offerings carried to them and oil poured upon them and prayers made to them, such as a large stone lion near Hamadan and a peculiarly shaped white stone near Dizabad. Trees standing alone, very old trees, hollow trees, or peculiarly shaped trees are laden with strips torn from the garments of those who make vows and prayers to the spirit of the tree, or by the garments of children who are sick or for whom the mothers want special blessings. Here and there a stone showing only a circular smooth surface above the ground is supposed to be the footprint of Ali's horse, and is rubbed smooth by the palms of the hands and kisses of passers-by.

Methods: The three methods of work that Christ ordained all come in in the village itineration. During the cool weather the whole day is spent attending to the sick, preaching to the crowds or teaching the one or two who are interested enough to stay and listen. Our method of reaching a village is first of all to send the native helper, as soon as we arrive, with an armful of portions of Scripture and tracts through the whole village to announce that all who will may come and hear God's Word and get medicine. The physical needs of the first who come are attended to at once, to inspire confidence and give the others a chance to gather. When the company has increased, from half an hour to an hour is spent in reading and commenting upon selected portions of Scripture, if the company is orderly. If not, the sick ones are seen as quickly as possible and all sent away but those who care to listen. Mr. Stead and his helper not only give medicine and medical advice to all who need it, but fill the prescriptions for the women also, except when the crowd is so large that they cannot attend to all. No record has been kept of the number receiving medical advice or medicine, but for women alone about 3,000 prescriptions were written.

In connection with the report of Women's Work, Miss Montgomery records a pleasant incident of the call of the gentlemen of the Station upon the new Governor.

When the gentlemen of the Station called on him after his arrival in Hamadan he told them how, when he and his wife, fleeing to Europe in a cholera year, were in distress, when their steamer entered a Russian port, because they could not make themselves understood, they exclaimed, "Would that we could find some one that understood Persian!" "Then," said he, "one of the holy women of Hamadan came and said she knew Persian, and in her kind motherly way gave us the help we needed." It was not to one of us Hamadanees the Master granted this privilege, but to our Miss Holliday, of Tabriz, and we reap from her sowing, for when our arch-enemy wrote a complaint against the Hamadan missionaries proselyting, this Governor would not vouchsafe a written answer, but sent him word that "these people have long by their blameless conduct proved their right to be here, and it will be to your own advantage to let them alone."

Of a small itineration in the villages near Hamadan, Miss Montgomery writes:

I, a beggar, was a chooser at the next stopping place. When I arrived at the "castle" occupied by five Khans, brothers, the family whose guest I had promised to be was absent, but the elder brother who was at the door invited me to be his wife's guest. I told him that if he would let me have the upper room away off by itself, I would gladly come in and stay. Of course I explained to him that the weather being so hot made it necessary for me to be up two hours after midnight, and I would not like to disturb his household. Then I went and had a good visit with his wife, whom I found to be a cousin of our nice Governor who was so much influenced by Mirza Saeed Khan in favor of Christianity. He was the son of Nasr-i-Deen Shah, and their mothers were sisters. After a little her liege lord came in and I had a good opportunity to tell them something of the power of Christ as Healer, Saviour, and Redeemer. The wife is so distressed because her husband has begun to use opium.

Saturday morning I reached Lilihan while the pastor's family were engaged in their morning worship. How good it was to see the result of missionary example and effort in that well-ordered home—father, mother, and seven beautiful well-trained children living together as heirs of the grace of life. Only cleanliness, order, love and living helpfulness to be seen; each child vying with the other in the desire to help the busy mother, and even two-year-old Bairyroonee heartbroken if the table were set or cleared without his having a share in the work.

Friday we were invited to be guests in the home of the Chief Khan, perhaps three miles distant, and it was a queer experience. He is much crippled, but the day after my arrival his men carried him from his horse into the pastor's yard to call on me. I owed his family a call since my last visit, and when I sent the servant to ask when I could come I charged him to see that the message reached the ladies. He returned bringing many messages from them and an invitation to come early and spend the day. What was our dismay, when we arrived, to find that the Khan sent the invitation and then had forgotten to tell his wife No. 2 anything about it. Had I not been so sorry for her confusion it would have been very amusing to see how quickly he got himself carried in, and how diligently he sought to placate his irate lady, who was in a frame of mind not to have a proper dinner to set before us.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Boys' School.—Mr. Euwer reports:

Each month saw the roll increased until the month of June. In May the pupils numbered sixty-eight; in June and July the number was sixty-four and sixty-two respectively. Of those enrolled in June eighteen were Armenians, eleven were Jews by birth and of uncertain religion, thirty-two were Moslems, three were Christians other than Armenians. In January the Armenians were twenty, other Christians three, Jews nine and Moslems twenty-seven. Among the Moslem boys eight had the title "Khan" and four were Sayyids, descendants of the prophet.

Faith Hubbard School.—Seventy-eight girls were enrolled, of whom three were Jews, twenty-one Moslems and fifty-four Armenians. The number of boarders was fifty-three, the school being full to the limit. All of the eight teachers are earnest Christian women.

Captain and Mrs. Gough, of the British Consulate Kermanshah, while guests of the Station in October, showed real interest in the work of the school and expressed an intention to offer some prizes. This promise was redeemed during their Spring visit by Mrs. Gough's gift of three books, "Bible Stories," for the three presenting the three best pieces of needlework, and the Captain's gift of ten tomans for Persian classwork.

One of the features in which Captain Gough expressed an especial interest, and which he emphasized in his gift, was Persian and Persian customs for Persians, and commended the fact that the girls of the Faith Hubbard School are living according to their own customs. He believes they can the more easily and the better return to their homes; that they will be better able to improve those homes and not suffer discontent.

Jewish Girls' School.—Mrs. Hawkes writes:

As we anticipated, with change of teachers the school began to grow and has had some thirty-four or thirty-five names on the roll this year. They are all little tots and there have been three or four very small boys trying to get their feet on the first rung of the ladder of learning.

A blind woman who is led about by two tiny granddaughters, pupils of the school, comes regularly to the Tuesday meeting and to Sunday-school and service, and seems to be an earnest inquirer.

MEDICAL WORK.—Land has been secured for the Lillie Reed Holt Memorial Hospital and the building is nearly completed. Dr. Funk reports:

The work in Hamadan has been that of hospital, dispensary, and visiting in in-patients' houses. The last has probably required more of our time than either of the others, which I think probably corresponds to the experience of other physicians who have been in Hamadan. Through this means the reputation and influence of the physicians of the Station have been considerably extended. One patient, a prominent Mollah, on whom we operated for mastoid disease, and who recovered after a tedious period of treatment, never ceases to praise us and our work to all his friends and acquaintances. However, we cannot take unto ourselves all the credit for the wide reputation of the medical work in Hamadan, for only yesterday I was called to see a patient who said the fame of "Holmes" had reached the farthest limits of that region. He himself was from a place seven days' journey from here. ("Holmes" refers to my predecessor, Dr. Holmes, and the name has come to be a synonym for "American Doctor" to many of the people in and about Hamadan.)

During the Winter and Spring our ten hospital beds have been in pretty constant use, and on more than one occasion patients have been turned away to come another time, owing to lack of accommodations. The new hospital will certainly be most welcome, and there can be no doubt as to the need for it.

The number of in-patients for the year has been 53, and the number of attendants at dispensary 20,003, of whom 12,521 came for treatment. The number of operations was 90 (of which 58 were performed outside the hospital), classified as follows: Lithotomy, 2; amputation or resection, 7; bone necrosis, 17; compound fractures, 2; dislocations, 2; hermistony, 2; adenitis, 7; cataract, 19; miscellaneous, 5; minor, 27. The two medical classes have continued as they were last year—two seniors and four juniors.

Dr. Field has already taken up medical work energetically and acquired a great reputation for surgical work with the women. She writes:

During the few months I have been here, I have been called to the poorest homes one can imagine and to the houses of Sayyids, Mollahs, Mujtahid and Governor. My work has been largely consultant to the native physicians trained by our medical missionaries, and for their women patients I have done much work which they themselves were not permitted to do.

A poor woman had suffered for months. Persian physicians had exhausted their experimental knowledge and their charms. Her condition became hopeless, so that the friends turned her face toward Mecca and were waiting for her death. During this interval someone suggested, as one more hope, sending for the Hakeem Khanum (lady doctor). Here, as it is in many Oriental countries, a woman can do for a woman what a man physician is not permitted to do.

Medical science had the power to heal this woman, and a few weeks later, full of gratitude for restored health, she brought in her offering of bread and birds. When they were asked, "Why did you wait so long before sending?" their reply was, "We have been taught to be afraid of your medicines; but after this we shall always come to you."

In a village one day there came to me a young girl of most sweet pathetic face, but with a deformed body. Crawling on both hands and one knee, for disease had destroyed the use of the other leg, she hopefully looked up and asked, "Can I be cured?" Her case was an extreme one, but her condition could be benefited by care and treatment. Her guardian, a brother, when the suggestion was made to him that she be taken to Hamadan, said, "She is only a girl; let her die," Oh, the pathos of it!

As pitiful as were these cases, equally ludicrous was that of a man who, full of faith, sought treatment for the thin side of his moustache, and his broadcloth indicated a man of standing.

Ten operations have been performed under chloroform in the homes and in the hospital, classified as follows: Abdominal section, 1; curettage, 3; bone necrosis, 3; adenitis, 1; minor, 2. Three of these were for men, during an absence of Dr. Funk in February.

WESTERN PERSIA MISSION.

URUMIA: 480 miles north of west from Teheran, the capital. Station begun under the American Board, 1835; transferred to this Board in 1871. Missionaries—Rev. F. G. Coan, D.D., and Mrs. Coan, Rev. W. A. Shedd and Mrs. Shedd, Rev. Robert M. Labaree and Mrs. Labaree, Mrs. J. P. Cochran, Rev. C. E. Sterrett, Rev. E. W. McDowell and Mrs. McDowell, Miss M. K. Van Duzee, Miss E. T. Miller, M.D., Miss Mary E. Lewis, Miss E. D. Lamme.

TABRIZ: nearly 360 miles north of west from Teheran. Station begun 1873. Missionaries—Rev. J. N. Wright, D.D., and Mrs. Wright, Rev. S. G. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, William S. Vanneman, M.D., and Mrs. Vanneman, Rev. Charles R. Pittman and Mrs. Pittman, Rev. F. N. Jessup, Miss G. Y. Holliday, Miss Mary Jewett, Miss M. E. Bradford, M.D., Miss Lillie B. Beaber, Mrs. L. C. Van Hook.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Dr. M. E. Bradford, Mrs. J. P. Cochran.

After careful search a man was found to succeed Dr. Cochran, who seemed to possess admirable qualifications and whose work on the field has amply justified his choice; he was a practicing physician in Denver, Dr. Harry P. Packard. He and Mrs. Packard were the only new missionaries from America to join the Urumia Station. Miss Lamme, however, who had been teaching the children of the missionaries in Tabriz, and whose acquisition of the Turkish language and her deep interest in the work marked her as especially well fitted, was appointed a full missionary and assigned to Urumia, to take up the work among Mohammedan women and girls with Miss Van Duzee. Mr. Labaree and Miss Fleming were married July 27, 1906. The Rev. L. P. Vauthier, a French-American, was added to the force at Tabriz, to teach French and other branches in the boys' school. There was also a wedding in Tabriz Station, Mr. Pittman and Miss Drake having been married September 5, 1906.

As over against the reinforcements of the Mission, however, there must be set the loss sustained in the death at sea on March 9, 1904, of Rev. Benjamin Labaree, D.D. Dr. Labaree had been quite sick, but it was hoped could live to reach America; he died at sea, however, of cancer, two days out from Hamburg. The body was brought to New York, and interred in the old family burying ground at Enfield, Mass.

Dr. Labaree was born in Columbia, Tenn., March 21, 1834. He received his education at Middlebury College, in Vermont, of which his father was president, and from there he was graduated in 1854. He was graduated from the Andover Theological Seminary in 1859. Dr. Labaree went out to Persia as a missionary in 1860, when the Urumia Mission was still connected with the American Board, so that he was at the time of his death one of the oldest missionaries of the Presbyterian Church. Dr. Labaree was a man of great refinement and depth of character, of most simple and devoted faith, of unusual scholarly ability, and of the most generous and kindly sympathy. He was detained in the United States for a few years by the health of his family and the work of revision of the Syriac Bible, and for several years acted as Assistant Secretary of the Board. After the death of his wife and one of his daughters, Dr. Labaree returned to Persia in 1898.

His patriarchal appearance, his deep piety, and his sound and loving judgment have given him, especially since his last return to Persia, a unique place in the councils of the Mission and the affection and regard of the Nestorian people. The tragic death of Dr. Labaree's oldest son two years ago, and the fortitude and Christlikeness of Dr. Labaree's attitude in his great loss and suffering, intensified the regard alike of the Mohammedans and the Christians. His death removes the oldest missionary in the Persian Missions. Following so shortly after the death of Dr. Cochran, it falls as a heavy loss upon the work.

URUMIA STATION.

Reference has been made to the disorder prevailing during the year in the region around Urumia. Murders, robberies and assaults on villages have been of common occurrence, and while the Mission has not suffered directly nor had any further difficulties with the Kurds, who murdered Mr. Labaree, there has been no settlement of affairs between the Kurds and the Mission. There is reason for gratitude that in a year of turmoil and change in Persia, in the midst of great insecurity of life and property in the district of Urumia, and with serious border disputes with Turkey in the immediate vicinity of the Station, God has kept all the missionaries in security.

EVANGELISTIC.—The year has been one of great spiritual awakening and fruitage in the churches, begun by the godly influence of the Rev. F. Franson, of Sweden, who, visiting the Mission fields, passed through Urumia. The report states:

That interest continued to deepen and spread during the whole of the Winter season; and when in the Spring a second gathering of the workers was held, to recount the goodness of God and to plan for the continuance of the work in the future, a large proportion of our preachers and not a few elders assembled, full of joy over what the Lord had wrought in their field and of hopefulness for the coming days.

It was found, on comparing experiences at this gathering, that very few places had not shared in the blessing, and that in many the work had been very deep and genuine. This had been particularly the case in some of the larger churches, such as Gulpashan, where some sixty were added to the church at the Spring communion service, and Degala with its forty additions, Geogtapa and Charigooshe with thirty or more, and Charbash with twenty-five. But numbers are a poor criterion of the depth and sincerity of the work. Those who had the privilege to engage in it cannot soon forget the scenes which they witnessed—the large congregations, the solemn attention, the heartfelt confessions and prayers, the evidences of lives wholly changed, which without undue excitement, but with the most manifest sincerity, characterized the working of God's Spirit and proved it to be indeed His doing and not man's. Nor were these manifestations seen solely in the larger and more enlightened churches and villages; but many of the less favored places were blessed in most wonderful measure. It is safe to say that never has there been so deep an impression upon the large and darkened villages of Takya and Ardeshai as during two weeks of special services held there early last Spring.

One of the most encouraging features of the movement was the weakening of the grip of the Russian Orthodox Church upon the people. For several years the most disheartening condition we had to meet was the lack of opportunity for aggressive work. The lines between our congregations and the rest of the people were most sharply drawn; the mass of the nation, through fear of the Russians, whose corrupt and mediæval form of faith they had been beguiled into accepting, refused even to attend our services. There was a radical change in this respect, however, the past Winter, due no doubt in some measure to the loss of Russian prestige since the war with Japan, and to the granting of religious liberty in that great country itself. The addition of some 500 new members to our churches is only one of several beneficent results of this Winter's campaign. We believe that our pastors and people are facing the future with renewed courage and hopefulness, and we see no reason why we should not receive even larger blessings this coming Fall and Winter.

The American fever carrying off many of the educated young men to the United States, the famine conditions raising prices, interfering with self-support and making living difficult for the preachers and teachers, and the continued embarrassment due to the numerous independent and divisive Missions which have come into the field, have interfered greatly with the development of the Church, which in spite of all these difficulties has, however, made real advance.

WORK IN THE CAUCASUS.—On his return from America, whither he had taken his father, Mr. Labaree stopped to look into the conditions of the Caucasus, especially at Tiflis. A great many Nestorians go to Tiflis for work and many of them succumb to the temptations of the city. Some have prevailed over these, however, and not only maintained their Christian character, but achieved great business success. A great opportunity for a self-supporting church exists here. The changed conditions in Russia, moreover, seem to make it possible to keep the city with an aggressive evangelistic force. Mr. Labaree writes:

The edict of the Czar granting religious liberty has caused a vast change in the attitude of the authorities in regard to evangelistic work among the various sects of that great country, and even among the members of the Orthodox Church. While local officials can and do affect the situation, either helping or hindering free religious discussion, yet unquestionably Russia has taken a step forward from which she cannot recede; and it is safe to say that with the advance of time there will be greater rather than less freedom of faith and worship. It is doubtful whether there has often been a more wonderful opening for the spread of the pure Gospel than is offering itself in Russia to-day. Unquestionably one of the chief factors or instruments in evangelizing the Caucasus should be our own Persia Mission, for the following reasons: First of all, that region has a closer relation to us than to any other missionary field. With the railroad now in operation to the Persian boundary, the whole district is easily accessible to any of our workers, and the superintendence of the work becomes an easy task. Our missionaries to and from America invariably pass through Tiflis. The race and language ties are also very close. The Turkish and the Armenian dialects spoken in the Caucasus are almost identical with those used in Northern Persia; while there is a great difference between them and the dialects of Turkey.

In the second place, there is the consideration of economy and efficiency. The employment of native helpers trained in America, such as we now have in our field, would involve far less expense than the sending out of inexperienced American missionaries, and would prove far more effectual, we believe. Our native helpers, already equipped with some of the necessary languages, and familiar with the problems and peculiarities of the region, could not only accomplish more than a missionary direct from the United States, but would excite less prejudice.

And, lastly, the work that has been accomplished and is being done in Tiflis for the Syrians gives an opportunity for work among the other nationalities and faiths not to be excelled anywhere else. With the right man in charge of our church at Tiflis, a man with the true missionary spirit and a wide-awake mind could do a great deal of pioneer work among even the adherents of the Russian Church.

In view of the new conditions, one of the best Nestorian preachers was sent to Tiflis.

The Press.—Mr. Shedd took supervision of the Press after Dr. Labaree's departure. He writes:

It is scarcely necessary to say that this year has been a memorable one, as the last of a long series in which Dr. Labaree was at the head of the Press and unreservedly devoted to it rare literary taste and most conscientious attention to every detail of work. His services in this department will always link his name with that of Dr. Perkins as the creators of modern literary Syriac. I am afraid that the loss in this department is one that will not be supplied.

782,600 pages were printed and 1,151 volumes, 5,998 pamphlets and 1,200 tracts were issued from the bindery.

EDUCATIONAL.—Urumia College.—Dr. Coan had charge of the college, which, however, was not open all of the year.

Fiske Seminary.—Miss Lewis reports:

There were in regular attendance during the year twenty-one day students and seventy-six boarders; of these, twenty-six were mountain girls. On June 27, twelve girls were graduated, the exercises, held in a tent in the yard, being attended by several people. Of these twelve, two were mountain girls, one of whom was valedictorian and has been engaged to teach in the Seminary.

The teachers' institute was held in October for the teachers of the village schools, under the supervision of Rabi Yohannan; thirty-five were in attendance. In February a two-days' institute was held with sixty in attendance, and for six weeks in the latter part of the term classes were conducted for village teachers whose schools had closed.

Miss Lewis had charge also of the Christian Endeavor work on the Plain. She writes:

On April 26 and 27, the fourth annual convention was held in Fiske Seminary, the delegates being entertained by the Endeavorers, Murt Muryune. There were sixty-five societies reported in thirty-four villages. Sixteen villages were represented in the convention. There is a total membership of 2,000, including several societies of Kurdistan. A large proportion of this membership is made up of Juniors and associate members. Every Spring the societies are badly broken up by the going of the young men to America. This year probably two-thirds or three-fourths of the members of the Murt Muryune Young Men's C. E. emigrated.

Moslem School for Boys.—The school has grown steadily in numbers and influence; there were fifty pupils at the close of the year, forty-four of them Moslems, three Jews, and three Christians. Mr. Shedd writes:

The session lasted nine lunar months and closed on July 20, with public exercises in the yard of the school. Many of the friends and parents of the pupils were invited, and with them came a large number of retainers and hangers-on. The governor sent his son and his nephew, the latter having spent a number of years in study abroad. We have made an attempt this year to have an adjunct in the way of a Russian class taught by an Armenian clerk in the Russian Bank here. This is worth trying, for it puts us in touch with some of the brightest of the younger merchants. Indeed our school draws largely from the families of merchants, a class that it will pay us to gain influence with. Whatever of stability and promise there is in the new movement for freedom in Persia is to be found largely among the young merchants who are enlisted in it. In the management of the school we have opened each day's session with prayer, and I think that the boys are getting a new idea of what prayer may be and should be.

Moslem Girls' School.—Over 100 names were on the roll of the school, which closed with sixty-nine pupils in regular attendance. Miss Van Duzee writes:

There were three or four classes in English, and as many in Persian, and all were reading in Turkish. Several new classes finished the Primer and began to read the Testament. One class of two girls finished the Testament, coming a few days after school closed to do so, and each of them received a Bible. They were so excited with the joy of finishing when they reached the closing verses of Revelation that they could scarcely read. Both of them read fluently and I am sure can never forget. One is the daughter of a khan and one of a mollah. The former is soon to be married. A class of two girls finished "Pilgrim's Progress" in Persian, and as their teacher could take them no further, we obtained permission of their parents allowing them to read with one of our Nestorian preachers. It was an innovation on the customs of Islam, but the desire for an education conquered, and for four months we brought a man to teach them Persian half an hour a day. It cost us no little trouble, for a teacher must be present with them in their lessons, and the other girls must not meet him; but the experiment fully repaid all the trouble, and now both the girls read Persian very well. July 12 we had our closing exercises, to which the mothers of the girls were invited. The large schoolroom in Fiske Seminary was nearly filled with Moslem women, many of whom were ladies of rank. The girls did as well as could be expected, since it was their first experience on the platform before such an audience, or indeed before any audience. The recitations were largely from the Bible, and were in Turkish, Persian and English. Hymns were interspersed, and after all was finished the sewing was exhibited. Such a gathering of Moslem ladies and for such a purpose was an entirely new thing here, and we were a little anxious as to the result; but all seemed pleased, and we have heard nothing unpleasant from it. One of the mothers said: "We do not know anything, but just see what our daughters are learning!"

After the closing exercises of the school, the mothers said: "Next year you shall have all our girls."

We are much perplexed to find a place for the school.

WOMAN'S WORK.—Miss Van Duzee had charge of the work among Jewish and Mohammedan women, and Mrs. Robert Labaree had the work among the Nestorian women. Mrs. Labaree spent much time until her marriage in village visits, and after her marriage in evangelistic work with Mr. Labaree. She writes:

I enjoyed the meeting with the sixty or seventy women in the large orderly Gulpashan Church, and one Sabbath afternoon there were 100 Mart Mariam to speak with. It was always a pleasure to be with the choice band of women in Degala. But best of all were the gatherings in the small out-of-the-way villages, where because of little hearing there was a genuine hunger and thirst. I cannot forget a cavernous hovel full of wild, hopeless-looking mountain men and women down on the Baranduz, as for a few minutes they forgot the misery of their outward lot and thought on the joy they had in Christ Jesus. The most satisfactory times, however, were the house meetings, where the people of a section or street of a village gathered together or perhaps only the family; but we were never so much one as when grandparents, children, grandchildren were clustered around the warm fire-hole, and talked about and prayed for the Living Bread, as the little ones cried for the only bread they knew.

† MISCELLANEOUS.—After the death of Dr. Cochran, Mr. Sterrett came down from the mountains to work in the Urumia Station, and to take the Mission treasurership. The following statistics will show the extent of comparative advance or decline in the work:

Church Work.—There is no material change in the number of organized churches or of places of regular preaching, and only a small increase in the attendance on church services and Sunday-schools. But there was a large increase in the accessions to churches and a good increase in membership, and also a gratifying increase in the number of families counted as adherents of our church. The figures are as follows:

| | Preaching Places and Attendance. | | Sunday-schools and Attendance. | | Membership and Additions. | | Families. |
|------------|-------------------------------------|-------|-----------------------------------|-------|------------------------------|-----|-----------|
| 1901 . . . | 72 | 3,360 | 52 | 2,812 | 2,277 | 139 | 905 |
| 1905 . . . | 73 | 3,733 | 54 | 2,917 | 2,329 | 129 | 879 |
| 1906 . . . | 66 | 3,770 | 48 | 3,180 | 2,658 | 482 | 961 |

The number of the preachers is decreasing, the numbers being for the years given above, 46-43-35. This accounts for the decrease in the number of preaching places. It will be noted that the average attendance per place is increasing. It is worth noting that the additions are generally distributed among the parishes, almost every one sharing in the growth. The present Winter the reports indicate that the work is going on generally over the field with just as good prospects as last Winter.

Educational Work.—The village schools show a decrease in numbers, due altogether to the necessity for retrenchment. The figures are:

| | Teachers. | | Schools. | Villages. | Pupils. | | Total. |
|------------|-----------|---------|----------|-----------|---------|---------|--------|
| | Male. | Female. | | | Male. | Female. | |
| 1901 . . . | 18 | 20 | 44 | | 674 | 300 | 974 |
| 1905 . . . | 26 | 33 | 63 | 48 | 1,051 | 615 | 1,666 |
| 1906 . . . | 21 | 24 | 48 | 41 | 878 | 515 | 1,393 |

It will be noted that the average size of the schools is increasing—22-26-29 being the figures for the years given.

One high school in one of the villages has been maintained and is credited in 1905 with 25, and in 1906 with 30 pupils.

The college in 1901 reported 83, in 1905 66, and in 1906 67 pupils, showing little change. In this number there were two medical students, but none in theological training.

Fiske Seminary reported in 1901 74, in 1905 90 and in 1906 97 pupils.

The two schools for Moslem pupils are in good condition. In 1901 there was only one, for girls, with only a few pupils. The figures are now as follows: 1905, boys 40, girls 30; 1906, boys 50, girls 55.

The total number under instruction has been:

| | Boys. | Girls. | Total. |
|----------------|-------|--------|--------|
| 1901 | 777 | 467 | 1,144 |
| 1905 | 1,182 | 735 | 1,917 |
| 1906 | 1,025 | 667 | 1,692 |

Medical Work.—There were 197 in-patients and 2,126 out-patients.

Press.—The issues were 782,600 pages printed, 1,151 bound books and 2,398 pamphlets.

Work in Turkey.—The statistics for 1906 are not at hand. Some of those for 1905 were: Preachers, 28; preaching places, 32; members, 399; schools, 50; pupils, boys, 699; girls, 142; total, 841.

Self-support and Contributions.—The following figures are given in krans (10-11 krans equal $1):

| | Church and Congregational. | Education. | Poor. | Buildings and Repairs. | Home Missions. | Totals. |
|----------------|-------------------------------|------------|-------|---------------------------|-------------------|---------|
| 1901 | 11,347 | 11,231 | | 1,130 | 3,079 | 30,681 |
| 1905 | 16,042 | 18,343 | 1,952 | 1,300 | 3,401 | 41,038 |
| 1906 | 15,514 | 23,009 | 1,532 | 9,949 | 3,965 | 54,959 |

The large increase is in the item of buildings. In this are included the expenses of building a tower on one of the churches without any help from us, the purchase of a graveyard for the city church, and the gifts to the Labaree Memorial Church.

The gifts to education include fees paid and the whole may be divided as follows:

|--------------------------|--------|
| Fiske Seminary..... | 6,025 |
| College | 6,800 |
| Moslem Boys' School..... | 2,500 |
| Village Schools | 7,684 |
| | 23,009 |

The department in which the gifts of the people bear the largest proportion to the amount expended by the Board is the village schools, in which the people pay about 40 per cent. of the whole. The next department is that of the church work. In this the amount expended by the Mission, including general expenses for removals, etc., as well as all salaries, is about 4,000 tomans, while the amount spent by the people, including the two items for church and home missions above, is about 1,950 tomans, or not far from one-third of the whole expense.

It is a very creditable fact that not far from one-third of the amount spent on the work among the Nestorians in Persia is raised on the field.

The total membership of the churches in connection with this Station in Persia and Turkey is now 3,057; the total attendance on preaching 5,145, and the total in schools 2,533, of whom 809 are girls. If the figures for the work in Turkey for 1906 were at hand these figures would probably be enlarged somewhat.

MOUNTAIN WORK.—Mr. McDowell has continued his extraordinary work in the mountains of Turkish Kurdistan, among the mountain Nestorians and among the Kurds. Of his last evangelistic trip in Baz and Tkhoma, he writes:

I spent over two weeks in this district visiting four villages. The first village was Khancee, in the pass between Baz and Tkhoma, and where I spent only one night. The second village was Gundikta, where many years ago Dr. Wishard and I were robbed. It has nearly 200 houses and we have a good work there. There is, however, a strong Papist party consisting of the worst element in the village, and these men make it very difficult to visit this district, as the only road lies through the town. They had written to me in Baz, i.e., the Papists, assuring me that if I came they would make no trouble. They kept their word. My stay of five days there had not one unpleasant feature. With but one exception this village has the worst reputation of all the villages in the mountains. At the time we were robbed we had but one friend in the village, and he only a school-boy. Now the chief men of the village and many others are friends and the light is spreading. Our meetings were well attended and some gave evidence of being moved by the Gospel message, and I trust have turned their faces godward and heavenward. There is undoubtedly a new and powerful influence at work which is making for righteousness and peace.

My work in the other two villages of Muzraya and Tkhoma Gawai was made very difficult and in a measure was neutralized by the spirits of faction and covetousness.

A few weeks before my coming there had been a fight in Muzraya in which several people had been wounded, the aggressors being some men of our pastor's clan. As a result there were two factions and great bitterness of feeling. The opposition party sent word to me in Gundikta that I would be allowed to enter the village only on condition that I pass by our Mission house and pastor and be their guest. This would be to discredit the pastor, who I felt was innocent of the very serious charges made against him, and I could not do it. After much talk it was accepted that I spend the first night at the Mission house, and then make my headquarters at the house of the raid (mayor), from which I would be free to visit and hold meetings in all parts of the village.

The meetings owed their large numbers largely to the spirit of rivalry, but, notwithstanding this contrary spirit, some of the meetings showed a marked spiritual interest. Very plain and forcible language was used in characterizing their sins and crimes, and there were indications that the village has a conscience and that it is being slowly educated.

Dr. Theodore Mar Yosep, while on his way from Urumia to Bohtan, spent two or three days with me in Tkhoma. I was greatly pleased with him as a man, he was so unassuming and apparently so sensible. Unfortunately he had brought with him only a few medicines and they had finished. The wild people of the village clamored to be dosed, and because they were not some of them threatened to rob the doctor. It was thought advisable for him to leave the country by the most direct route possible, avoiding the other large villages below where the same spirit would prevail and there would be no restraining influence. He did this, but some twenty men of a large village a few hours below followed him to his first stopping place, and in the middle of the night robbed him of everything he had—his store of American clothing; his medical books, so invaluable to him; his bed, and even some of the clothes he was wearing. He had to borrow clothing of the villagers to go on his way. He wrote me at once, and his letter showed a splendid spirit. There was not a word of complaint or resentment nor request for reimbursement. We did all in our power in Tkhoma to recover his goods. He had with him a letter of Mar Shimon, who had shown much interest in him, and this letter the robbers very devoutly kissed when it was shown to them by the physician; but they robbed him all the same. So when we sent to them one of the highest men in the nation, a member of Mar Shimon's house, who happened to be there on official business, they refused to give up even the things that were without the slightest value to them.

Just a few days before this a company of sixty soldiers together with some Julamerk tax collectors had to pass through Tkhoma and Tiary to reach Julamerk. In this same village they were entertained most hospitably by the tribal chief, who himself accompanied them as a safety escort into Tiary (upper). On the way he left them, as he said, to precede them to the chief of upper Tiary to dispose him to receive them. After he left them some villagers came upon them with clubs and took eight guns from them, and were proceeding to take the commanding officer's sword when the soldiers fired on them, killing two of them and wounding several. The soldiers fled to the chief of upper Tiary, who took their mules from them as a quid pro quo for the blood shed and sent them home. It was common talk that some of the guns were afterward seen in the house of the chief who had entertained so handsomely the soldiers and acted as their escort. This robbery probably had something to do with the robbery of Dr. Theodore, as a successful venture of this kind incites others to similar deeds. It illustrates, also, the condition of these two Asheerets of Tkhoma and Tiary. It is as near anarchy as is, I presume, to be found in the world. The only bonds of order are fear and self-interest, to which is being added that of the fear of God and the love of man. I confess this robbery of the young physician has discouraged me more than if it had been myself that had been robbed. I had hoped a physician from among themselves would be able to travel among them without being molested. I published the word among them that we would not send any more physicians to them until we had some sort of guarantee that they would not be robbed.

Several times it looked as though I would not be able to get out of the district without undergoing the same treatment—not that there was any special ill will toward me, but simply as the expression of the child temper of "getting even." I had displeased some of them. They were angry. There was no restraining law. Why should they not get even by robbing me?

Last year the boys of our Baz High School were permitted by the principal to forego the observance of the fast that comes before Christmas. Among these boys was the son of the brother of a Tkhoma chief who came to me and demanded damages. I evaded the issue. He allied with himself three other chiefs and demanded five liras. I refused. He threatened robbery of any helper of ours in Baz who should come through Tkhoma. The threat was no empty one and, while it was galling to one's spirit, a present settlement was the right policy as saving a more serious trouble in the future. I therefore summoned the chiefs, told them what I thought of them, gave them one lira and took a paper from them that their claim was satisfied. I had visited their village of Tkhoma Gawai and wished to spend some days there, but this trouble with their chiefs made it inadvisable to return there, the more so that it was the Christmas fast and the men of the village were for the greater part drunk every day. I had intended going on to Tiary and through upper Tiary to Julamerk, but two months before this an attempt was made in a village I would have to pass through to rob the Russian Consul, on the supposition that he was an American missionary. It did not seem to me to be worth while to run the risk of such trouble; the risk being in fact a practical certainty by reason of the three incidents mentioned. I must warn you not to give undue weight to these things. They are not so serious as they may seem to you to be, either as a measure of the people's character or of the inaccessibility of these districts to the Gospel. They are not all robbers by any means. The lack of government gives the bad element free play, and the good element are as yet too selfish to interfere at the cost of trouble to themselves. But we are gradually reaching and winning this better element, and it is only a matter of time, and not a long time I think, until we shall have so educated public sentiment, or rather evangelized it, as to make our traveling as safe in Tkhoma and Tiary as in Baz. It only requires that we keep at it avoiding as far as possible serious trouble which gives a setback to our work. Each time we can visit these fields and leave without serious trouble increases the light and the influence for good, strengthens our hold upon the people and opens the way more fully for another visit. With this view of it, aside from the direct spiritual results, I feel my visit to Tkhoma was productive of much good. The really discouraging thing about it is that the opposition I met with was due to the mistakes and shortcomings of our own helpers.

In closing my report I am sorry to have to tell you of a catastrophe which, however, was marked by the large mercy of God.

In leaving Tkhoma the brethren felt it was necessary, on account of the threats to rob me, to escort me out of the district. I suggested four or five men as all sufficient, but they insisted on a much larger number, and so it was that we were twenty-five men when we reached the top of the high mountain overlooking Tal. In descending this mountain there was an avalanche and nineteen of us were carried some two miles in about two minutes. Four men were buried under the snow. Three of them were dug out at once, unhurt; the other was not found.

The others suffered no serious injuries. My own injuries were confined to a sprained knee and two broken ribs. It was most remarkable that nineteen men could have gone through such an experience and only one life lost and without any serious injury to our limbs. The villagers regarded it as nothing short of a miracle. They have not even a tradition of so great a deliverance. The avalanche was an unusually large one and the proportion of lost and saved should have been reversed. I have written an account of it in my letter to the churches, which I send to McConaughy by this post, and need not go into detail here. I feel that God has brought me back from the gates of death, and He has taught me, I hope, that it is not a terrible thing to die. May He help me to live with greater faithfulness, that my work may be truly finished when the summons does indeed come.

TABRIZ STATION.

The death of the Armenian pastor, who had entered upon his work with great effectiveness, was a heavy loss to the Station. Mr. Jessup reports for the church:

Besides the pastor, the church has sustained a real loss in the departure of two faithful elders, Baron Vahan Tamsarian and Baron Vahan Mikailian. The former came here originally from Kharpoot twenty-three years ago, and the greater part of the time since had been a teacher in the boys' school—a man of blameless character and unselfish spirit who was always ready to do his part in the church work and was for many years its treasurer. The other also was a teacher in the Memorial School, and had an equal interest in the welfare of the church. Five were received on probation and three into full church membership. These three are from the girls' school, and one of them of Protestant family.

Of late the attendance at church has been improving and the Sunday morning services average over 100 present. An encouraging sign is that the Moslems seem to be returning. Two and a half years ago there were a good many who came to church, but for the past two Winters they have almost altogether drawn away—possibly on account of the race troubles in Transcaucasia. Now that there seems to be a strring of new ideas in Persia, it may be men will no longer fear so much to investigate Christianity. Despite the hard year, with prices higher than ever before, the church responded well to the appeal to support the pastor. Some 337 tomans ($293) was raised during the fiscal year. The greater part of this money was used towards the support of the pastor and the church expenses, but a small sum was given to the lepers and thirty tomans ($26) sent to Korea to Mr. Baird.

EVANGELISTIC.—Itinerating Work.—This Station has continued its wide-reaching and tireless itinerating work in the various sections of this great field. Mr. Jessup and Mirza Sayadian made a tour to the Marend Plain, from which Mr. Jessup returned with the following impressions:

1. The Value of Touring.—On the other tours I have taken I have been rather discouraged, feeling that the results hardly justified the outlay of money and that there would be more accomplished by letting the helpers go alone, for they can tour more inexpensively and can get nearer the people. But on this journey we were both able to keep in touch with the people practically all the time. I think it does the missionary himself great good to leave the ordinary and routine work of the city and be given up entirely to personal work. There is nothing to distract one from that on a tour; and this "fishing for men" is fascinating and a great inspiration to one spiritually. Then it is worth while to be thrown into such close contact with a helper for several weeks together. It gives one some insight into his standpoint and a greater sympathy with him, and I hope is not without its value to the helper. Two Christians alone in the midst of Mohammedans are bound to be drawn together. And then, as Mr. Pittman says, it is hard to get our helpers to tour if we don't set them an example. But when we go with them and share the same experiences and eat the same food, it does both sides good.

2. Another impression is the Great Opportunity for Work. In a Moslem land, actually to be able to go daily to the bazaars and preach Christ openly, unhindered, is a marvelous thing to one accustomed to the attitude we used to take in the Turkish Empire, that all work for Moslems has to be indirect. It is remarkable how open the door is, if one only appears to take it for granted that it is open. I admit I was timid at first—and no doubt all the time was not as bold as I ought to have been—and of course one does find plenty of rebuffs and sometimes worse things; but still the opportunity is there and it is wonderful. This doesn't mean the people are all ready to accept Christianity—far from it. It is no easier to win them to Christ than it would be for Buddhist or Mohammedan missionaries to convert American towns. From childhood they have been taught to believe Islam is the only truth, and proofs which seem to be entirely convincing to us slide off them like water from a duck. Nothing but God's Spirit can change them. But it is a great thing to have a chance to tell them plainly. In Marend we had good opportunities always, and the last day found new and attentive groups in new shops when we went to the bazaar to say good-by to some of our friends. It paid to stay on in one place long enough to have our purpose known and to make friends.

3. I came to feel my Need of Arabic. In quoting the Koran's appeal to the Bible for testimony and getting the mollahs to read it, I saw my need of knowing the passages myself thoroughly in the original Arabic, so as not to be deceived by their reading wrong passages or omitting necessary things. And a knowledge of Arabic and the Koran commands their respect and makes them more willing to listen to what we say about the Bible.

Mrs. Van Hook made two tours, one to the south and one to the southwest. She writes:

Leaving Tabriz November 16, I was absent sixty-four days touring in Maragha, Miandaub and vicinity. On the way down I had an opportunity for meeting a large number of women at Gailgon, who appeared unusually impressed by the truth. One desiring to become my "sister," we went through the ceremony of locking fingers. I then told her I knew God as my Father, and if she were to be my sister, she, too, must become a child of God. On my return, as I was traveling past I stopped at a caravansery. This woman hearing I was in the place, although not at all well, at once came over to see me. Having seen and talked with so many on the trip, I had almost forgotten my conversation with her, but, in response to some remark of hers, spoke of "Our Father in Heaven." "Yes," she said, with an expression of countenance that made me feel she had gotten hold of a new thought, and a precious one, "I remember when you was here before you said that God was our Father." It was a great joy to believe that one Moslem woman had grasped this conception of God. On this tour I visited eight towns and villages.

I enjoyed nothing here so much as meeting the one converted Moslem woman, Khan Baji, whose beautiful Christian life under circumstances of peculiar trial make her a conspicuous example of what the grace of God can do for a soul. In Maragha, I visited extensively among the Armenians, held meetings and Sunday-school with good attendance, and had a few little girls come to me in the forenoons for reading lessons, but the most interesting work was among high-class Moslem women. One lady, hearing of my being in the city, sent a servant woman "to spy out the land." Receiving a favorable report, she invited me to an elaborate breakfast, requesting I bring my book along. The next request was for a Bible, followed by another invitation for me to come and explain it, and the last time I visited her, in parting she warmly grasped my hand, thanking me for opening her eyes to a book that gave her so much comfort. I feel it is a great point gained to secure the interest of an intelligent woman. I found a young Armenian woman in Maragha who promised me to read the Bible if I would bring her one. I went to call one evening, taking her a copy. She dipped into Matthew, and did not stop until she had read through to the end of the book. She then wanted to know where she would find the story of Marv. I showed her in Luke, and she began that; but as it was late, and I had to be up at four in the morning to start off on a trip to some villages, I did not wait for her to finish this book too, but bade her "Good night," really envying her this first fresh reading of the Gospel story.

March 29 to June 5, sixty-nine days, was spent upon a tour to Khoi, where I received a warm and affectionate welcome from friends made the year before. I never had so many women as upon this tour say to me, "Tell me how to find God; tell me just how." One woman, entering an assembly of Moslems near the close of the meeting, after listening a few minutes, exclaimed, "I am burdened and heavy. Tell me what to do." I repeated the gracious invitation to such, "Come unto me," etc. She rejoined, "Tell me how to come to Jesus. I am ready to do so. Tell me just how." I gave a number of stereopticon exhibitions which attracted people by the hundreds. I was surprised to find how much more they cared for the Bible pictures than for the few other pictures I had with me, which I had brought for diversion and to give an idea of the world outside of Persia. At one village we had the screen fastened on the wall of the court and showed the pictures out of doors. When they were finished not a person moved a muscle to go, although they were sitting on the ground, many of them with nothing under them. I said, "Are you not satisfied?" "No!" Khan, one of the masters of the village, replied with emphasis, and so they were all run through again. It was the treat of their lives, while the pictures, appealing to the eye, helped to strengthen the impression of the story told. On this tour I visited eighteen villages.

Before and after her trip to the Cairo Conference, Miss Holliday was out in the country.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Memorial Boys' School.—Mr. Wilson reports:

The new school year opened in the midst of political agitations for liberty and constitutional rights. In the midst of them Persia seemed to awake and a new hopefulness take possession of it. The desire for education is becoming more widespread, and while planning more schools of their own they have no disposition to interfere with the schools of foreigners. We occupied our new recitation rooms, assigning them to the Persian department. Mr. Vauthier, the new instructor in French, entered on his duties. One of the most interesting lessons is one in the Gospels with the advanced French class.

The curriculum was changed to an English basis for advanced classes, all of which are being taught successfully in that tongue. Public opinion seems tolerant and even friendly, but a mollah advertising his new school says, "Do not send to the Protestant School. There you will read the Law; you will commit to memory the Gospel; you will be taken to chapel and your ears filled with the sound of the organ, and you will forget to come to the Mosque."

The total attendance for the past year was 188, of whom 118 were Armenians, ten Nestorians and sixty Persians. Many of the latter were not in school for the whole year. Among them the best families of the city were represented, including a number of the local hereditary rulers, whose friendship we are desirous to cultivate. In the next few years many changes may come to Persia. There is much restlessness, a spirit of inquiry, a desire for improvement, a yearning for liberty, education and enlightenment. We are ready to take advantage of any movement among the people for progress, and to aid them especially toward a civilization founded on the Gospel of Christ.

Girls' School.—Miss Beaber writes:

The number of boarders was twelve, one of whom was brought to us that we should "make her good." Her mother said that nothing could be done with the child at home and the heavy responsibility was laid upon us. We found her responsive and lovable. After being but seven months in the school she is so changed that the parents say she is now able to attend their national school, which they feel they must patronize, and from which the child was expelled; and, moreover, they are able to control her at home. We have grown very fond of her and were sorry to lose her, although she gave us many an anxious hour. The parents are well-to-do and paid the entire cost of her board.

One cold Winter day a blind man and his wife, a frail little woman with a baby in her arms, came into my office, asking that their two daughters, ten and twelve years old, be admitted into our boarding department. The story was a sad one, though not an unusual one.

The father had been in business with his four brothers in soap and silk factories in Turkey and had gathered quite a little money, so that they were considered very well-to-do. As so often happens in this country this condition proved to result in their undoing.

During one of the Turkish raids their houses and factories were despoiled, everything of value carried off, the four brothers with their families killed, and this helpless blind man with his family allowed to escape. He took refuge with his family with one of the consulates until the trouble had subsided and then begged his way to Tabriz. We told them to bring the girls for us to see, and as they had given as references a reliable Armenian, we in the meantime inquired into the story and found it true. The Armenian had known them in their prosperous days in Turkey. The next morning the whole family came—the two older girls, a boy of eight, a dear little girl of four, and the baby, all in ragged calico clothes and no underwear. The children seemed very bright, so we admitted the three girls and also kept the mother with the boy and the baby through the Summer, giving her work, although her nervous system had been so shattered by the life in Turkey and the hardships of the journey that good food and comfortable quarters did not build her up as much as we should have liked. To make underclothing and dresses for the three girls was the work of but a day, and after good baths and in new warm clothes, with plenty of food, the children seemed transformed. The two older girls are bright, studious and industrious; they have both come to love the Lord Jesus, and the oldest daughter has united with the Church. The second one, Armenooha, also wanted to be united with the Church, but we thought best to have her wait until she is a little older. Last year both girls stood at the head of their class, and were two out of the three girls of our school who learned the Westminster Shorter Catechism, repeating the answers without a single hesitation or mistake, and receiving beautiful Armenian Bibles as rewards.

Miss Holliday had a special class of eight Armenian pupils of the boys' school who were studying Comegys' "Primer of Ethics." She writes:

I had also two young Sayyids, one a teacher in the Memorial School, who have read Guyot's "Creation," a reconciliation of the Mosaic cosmogony with modern science. The teacher has been banished from his home for two years and his inheritance from his mother's estate denied him on account of his connection with us. He has seen none of his family all this time, till quite recently a meeting with his younger sisters was arranged at the house of a friend. He now has three lessons a week in Guyot's "Earth and Man," and comes on Sundays for a Bible lesson in Matthew. He is connected with the reform or Young Persia party in this place, and is assistant editor on one of their papers, which is using its influence to promote female education and to bring this country into line with modern progress. He has given valuable information with regard to the movement which is on foot here and among the Russian Moslems to help the people, and with which he warmly sympathizes. He needs and appreciates sympathy and friendship. All the English lessons given by me have been from the Bible, or auxiliary to religious instruction, and the young men have understood very well that the aim is to win them for Christ. Only one has shown any reluctance to take the lesson; he is the young man who was a pupil of the college in Urumia. He made a determined effort to secure lessons which should be wholly secular; failing that he would not come at all. These lessons being free and received as a favor, I am at liberty to teach what seems best.

The Wednesday afternoon prayer meeting for Moslem women has kept up very well, and many of the attendants are the same from week to week. The highest number present has been over twenty-five; the lowest five or six; but the average is fifteen or sixteen. While I have been away on tours, Mrs. Wilson has kindly taken charge of it in her own home.

MEDICAL WORK.—The distinctively women's medical work is closed because of Dr. Bradford's detention in America, because of her mother's health.

Of the men's medical work Dr. Vanneman writes:

Emphasis has been laid on the dispensary work and the medical visits to the homes. Circumstances force us to this plan of work.

We are near the centre of a city of 200,000 population. There are only two or three European trained physicians here. The people have learned the superiority of foreign doctors, therefore we are called to the homes more times than we can answer, and our dispensary has to be open every week-day morning and part of the afternoon. Our method of seeing the patients one by one in a private room gives more opportunity for personal conversation with them about spiritual things. This privacy also gives us an attendance of all nationalities and classes of people. We have Europeans, Moslems, Armenians and Nestorians—governors, mayors, Moslem priests, noblemen, dervishes and lepers—the richest and the poorest. Diseases of every kind come to the dispensary; among the others whooping cough, measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria and small-pox. The medical missionary has to cover the whole field of medicine. In the present expanding state of medical science this is an almost impossible task. The receipts at the dispensary about pay for the medicines used. The medical visits pay for my assistant, my Persian scribe, dispensary servant, fuel and the other running expenses of the department, so there is no expense to the Board.

The yearly receipts at the dispensary are about $1,000, and the receipts from the visits are about $1,000. The very poor are treated free; those in a little better financial condition at a very low fee; the rich at the same rate as charged by other European physicians. Besides the purely medical side of our work, we aim in personal conversation and in the distribution of the Scriptures and tracts to influence the patients spiritually.

Summary for the year 1906:

|-----------------------------------------|---------|
| Number of patients | 10,736 |
| Medical visits to the homes | 1,318 |
| Receipts from medical work, about | $2,000 |

GENERAL.—Mrs. Wilson continued the Mission meeting, and she and Miss Holliday a weekly meeting for Moslem women. The Station also continued its benevolent work for the leper village. Of hospital visitation, Mrs. Wilson writes:

Among the twenty Moslem homes which I have visited, I have found different opportunities. Some are near to or in the kingdom, and to these I can talk freely, while our hearts burn within us as Christ is revealed to us in the Scriptures. Some are received, and before others especially fear to show their real interest. Others are frankly indifferent, but like to see us socially and we cultivate friendships, hoping sometime their souls, like Undine's, will awake. Some make a convenience of us to get dresses cut in European style, but even for this we are willing to be used. Among Armenians we find some eager to get a firm foundation for their faith in the midst of the infidelity about them. Some of the higher class, who are devoted to their race and prominent in the national "Woman's Society," confess they know nothing of the Bible. We urge them to study it and have it taught in their village schools, for which they employ our graduates as teachers. At the homes of our boys we are always cordially received, and at the festival seasons small boys are out in the street to waylay us and compel us to come in.

BIBLE DEPOT AND BOOK ROOM.-

Since last October there have been sold 36 Bibles, 193 Testaments, and 85 portions, making a total of 314 Scriptures.

In September Baron Garabed took a Persian and French Bible and obtained an audience with the Crown Prince in order to present them to him. He was granted about half an hour in which to explain about the Bibles and the passages Miss Holliday had marked referring to the kindness of Persian kings to God's people in the past. A Persian Testament has also been given to Mehmet Agha, one of the Prince's eunuchs, and others to shah-zadas (men of royal blood) and mollahs both in Tabriz and on tours, to say nothing of the many Scriptures sold or given away to men in commoner walks of life.

If our island possessions in the Pacific are not yielding gold and silver, they are yielding far better fruits in the many souls won for Christ. All followers of the Master will rejoice as they read the following pages which report another year's progress. About 2,000 adults have been brought to Christ, besides many children who have come under the influence of Christian teaching.

MANILA STATION.

On the return of Dr. Rodgers the division of work was again shifted, Dr. Rodgers taking the responsibility for the evangelistic work, Mr. Wright the educational work and Mr. Lamb the literature, Sunday-schools and the business of the Station. Mrs. Rodgers has taken her accustomed place in the Tondo Sunday-school. During the year, Miss Clyde Bartholomew came to take charge of the women's department in the Ellinwood Training School. Outside of her regular work of language study and the School, she has helped in the teaching in the Tondo and Ermita Sunday-schools.

The Station was greatly benefited by a visit from the Rev. Dr. Howard Agnew Johnson. All the evangelical denominations represented in Manila joined in the meetings. These services consisted of conferences with the Filipino workers, special conferences for American Christian workers and missionaries, and sermons and helpful talks for everybody who wished to attend.

EVANGELISTIC.—A discouraging experience at the beginning of this year was the destruction wrought by the storm of September 26, 1905. Every chapel in the Manila field was blown down, the crops of the people were destroyed and many of their homes were blown down.

This cast a gloom over the people and had its effect on the work, both in the spiritual development of the members and in the gathering of new members. But we sent regularly, by personal visitation and evangelists, messages of light and encouragement found in the Gospel. There were, too, some trying situations in the churches that required patience, but in the providence of God nearly all these were settled in a satisfactory manner. Some of our weaker members have been drawn aside by a sect, really an independent church, called "Living Christians," while some Spiritualists have succeeded in leading away several elders and evangelists.

On the other hand, there are many encouraging things to be recalled. First, with one exception, all the chapels which were blown down have been rebuilt and are better and more commodious than the ones which existed before. This work was all done by the people themselves, no financial help having been given by the Mission. Second, there has been, too, a marked growth of the desire of the people to carry the Gospel to their neighbors. As an example, in a trip made to Amadeo by one of the missionaries, fifty-five members were received; all of whom were won through the personal work of the members of the churches. Third, throughout the Station 399 adults confessed their faith in Christ during the year. Fourth, new and difficult places, like Batangas, have been opened to the Gospel.

While a great many endeavors had been made here, until this year no foothold could be gained. In the last few months, however, an encouraging break has come. A number have been baptized and all appearances indicate that a congregation will soon be established. The province has been definitely occupied by stationing there the Rev. Monico Estrella.

In the town of Naic, two hours' ride across the bay from Manila, a congregation of thirty-three members has been established in the face of the severest opposition. Not only this, but they have carried the message to the town of Mabakaw, some two hours distant, where a congregation of twenty-five await the coming of an ordained minister to baptize them. In the hill country in Rizal Province, near the town of Antipolo, a town almost sacred to the Roman Catholics on account of the presence there of the sacred shrine which contains the image of the Virgin of the Good Voyage, the message of the Gospel has been carried by the local evangelist from Pasig. This has been a very difficult part of the field, but circumstances indicate that we may expect an opening here.

Fifth, the financial condition of the Sunday-schools in the churches of Tondo and Ermita has greatly improved.

In former years they have been furnished with literature and supplies, and their Christmas entertainments have been furnished by gifts from Americans. The past year they have paid out of their own funds for all their supplies, and also for the expenses, including gifts, decorations, etc., of their holiday exercises. The Ermita Sunday-school was organized during the past year and both schools are now in an encouraging condition. Nearly all of the churches of Manila Station have the nucleus of a Sunday-school which has not yet been developed. It is hoped that when these can be given proper instruction they will grow into strong, influential schools; but it is the idea to develop the Tondo and Ermita schools to be models for those round about.

The missionaries tried during the year to answer a very urgent call to go to the island of Mindoro, but lack of money, men and time has prevented. Mindoro is one of the larger islands of the archipelago, where no work whatever is being carried on.

The work at the San Lazaro Leper Hospital has been continued through the year, as formerly, under the charge of Mr. Wright.

The church at San Lazaro is a union church and a committee of the Evangelical Union is responsible for it. The Methodists hold a preaching service there every second Saturday, alternating, as formerly, with the Presbyterians. We now maintain each week a Sunday-school and C. E. Society and a preaching service under the care of a regular evangelist. Although the island of Cullon has been opened as a leper colony it will in all probability be many years before the lepers are removed from Luzon.

AMERICAN WORK.—The year has been a very encouraging year for the First Presbyterian Church (American) of Manila. Beside all the regular services, a number of receptions have been held. The spiritual and social life of the church has been greatly deepened during the year. The corner-stone of the Emerson Memorial Chapel was laid on June 23, and at the close of the year the chapel is almost completed and all the furnishings have been provided, including chairs, organ, pulpit and new hymnals. The church was able to raise sufficient funds to pay the running expenses and close the year free of debt. About P. 5,000 were received and expended.

Special offerings were taken for Foreign Missions, Home Missions, Church Erection, Ministerial Relief, and the San Francisco earthquake sufferers. The societies of the church have all been active and have been carrying on an increased work. The C. E. maintain a good prayer meeting. The Ladies' Aid and the Pastor's Aid have added much to the social life of our members and the general public. The Sunday-school shows a splendid record of contributions and attendance.

The statistics are as follows: 18 baptisms; 11 received on confession of faith; 18 by letter and 54 by affiliation; 30 were dismissed to other churches or by return to the United States. The pastor is the Rev. S. B. Rossiter, D.D., and the Rev. L. B. Hillis, assistant pastor.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Ellinwood Training School buildings were completed and ready for occupancy November 1, 1905. Nineteen students enrolled themselves. Instruction in the Bible, church government, methods of itineration and evangelistic work, and in church history. Mr Wright, Mr. Lamb, Mr. Doltz, Monico Estrella and Sr. Guillermo Zarco, though Mr. Doltz was present only a month.

For six weeks, during the public school vacation, a vacation assembly of teachers from the public schools of the islands was held at the Normal School and the Ellinwood dormitories were thrown open to the teachers in attendance. Some forty-seven young men came thus into the school, life and the experience with them was both interesting and pleasant. When the regular session of the Normal School opened in June the dormitory of the men's building was opened to twenty young men of the Normal and Trade Schools, and these have shared its accommodations with the regular students in the Bible courses. They are simply boarders, but are nevertheless members of what is termed the Ellinwood Family, and chapel prayers are conducted each morning with them. Nearly all of these young men are Roman Catholics, but they have listened attentively and respectfully. Some have recently come of their own accord to ask that the president of the school explain to them the difference between the Catholic and Protestant beliefs.

The Bible courses were again opened in July and the major part of the teaching since then has been in Tagalog. Owing to the fact that most of those in attendance on the classes are mature men having families for whom they need to provide, it is impossible for them to be in attendance constantly. The work is therefore arranged so that there are two weeks of school, alternating with two weeks of vacation.

On alternate Saturday evenings, the president has given a series of what have been called "Literary Evenings," especially for Americans, first, to help supply the often expressed need for wholesome entertainment and literary study; second, to create a neighborhood feeling of friendliness that should make Ellinwood School stand for helpfulness in the immediate community, and, third, to create a kindly interest on the part of Americans in the work of the school.

The seminary building has been thrown open for general use whenever desired, and the Manila papers have taken a kindly notice of the school and its work from the very first. In addition to the students from the Tagalog country, we have had at different times evangelists from both the Iloilo and Tacloban Stations.

Besides the day classes, evening classes have been held in Tondo and Ermita.

The Ellinwood School for Girls.—The first work was a class held at the Christmas season. A dozen girls who were doing Christian work and who could speak English came for a two weeks' conference and Bible study. Mr. Lamb and Mr. Wright assisted Miss Bartholomew in the instruction.

The regular sessions of the school were opened August 1 and were carried on with an average attendance of eight until November 10, when they were closed for lack of funds. This first term was an experiment. An effort was made to get the most promising girls from the congregations, to see what they could do, what they most needed and what they could pay for board. Most of those who came were daughters of evangelists or other workers in churches. All the work of cooking and housekeeping was done by the girls. Special courses in Bible study were given to some older women who attended for a few days or weeks.

The most serious question is in connection with board for the girls. Almost all the Protestant families in this part of the islands are too poor to send their girls away to school.

They can barely support them at home. The girls who do not have to take care of the house and the children have to aid in the earning of the living. Most of them are too poor to attend the public schools, after they are old enough to go to work. Consequently there are very few Protestant girls in the higher grades of the public schools and scarcely any so far who attend the Normal School. There are many girls eager to come to us, but unable to pay their board. Of the thirteen girls who were registered during the term, one was able to pay the full charge for board—$7.50; several could pay half. Those who give promise of developing into efficient workers and whom it is most important to keep on in the school could not pay at all. Everything seems to indicate that the kind of school needed here is a Bible school. It will be necessary to provide scholarships for the majority of the students, at least in the beginning. The girls proved themselves earnest students, eager to study the Bible and ready to do anything required. They make good progress, and excellent reports have come of their work since their return home. Several of them have started classes among the women and children of their towns and are teaching what they learned in the school.

In November, Miss Bartholomew visited several of the outlying towns and held classes for the women for two or three days at a time. In two of these towns study has been begun by classes under the direction of girls who had been in the school. There is a great field for work of this kind—classes in the towns led by girls from the school and visited periodically by the teacher. There seem to be many women in each town, eager to study and ready to do Christian work, who cannot attend school because of household duties, and who might be gathered into classes.

In December a conference for women was held, with eighteen in attendance, representatives of congregations in Manila and Laguna Stations.

LITERATURE.—The following literature was published in the Tagalog language during the past year: Helps on the Sunday-school Lessons, a small catechism and the "Ang Bagong Araw," a monthly Tagalog periodical. Total pages published and distributed, 71,000. The books handled for the year amounted to P. 493, of which P. 73.68 were given away. The others were sold. The "Ang Bagong Araw" is growing in favor and the Filipino support is increasing.

ILOILO STATION.

God has given Iloilo a very rich year. The Holy Spirit has wrought mightily in the hearts of men throughout the district.

AMERICAN WORK.—The work for foreigners, which is an adjunct of Iloilo Station, as it is also of Cebu Station, presents some peculiar problems. There is always present in Iloilo an English-speaking community of from 250 to 300 people, exclusive of about a hundred soldiers. Among these much good Christian work could be done if there were a man with time and ability to do it. The population is very transient, changing completely about every two years. This makes the work difficult, and anything like effective influence necessitates constant calling, as well as a man who has the gift of meeting new people and making an impression on them at once. There are usually a majority of church members, and always a number of earnest Christians; but for organized effort a leader must be constantly at work. From the beginning of the Station, a regular preaching service on Sunday morning has been maintained, which has met always with a fairly good response. Five persons have affiliated themselves with the congregation during the year.

DORMITORY AND EDUCATIONAL.—When the Provincial High School opened at the beginning of the year, a dormitory was begun for its students.

Good board and bed were offered at nine pesos a month, such board as could be obtained elsewhere only for twelve or fifteen pesos. When the High School closed in March, seven boys were being boarded. In June work was in progress on the new provincial school buildings which are located between Iloilo and Jaro, and it became highly desirable to find a location nearer to this site. A desirable house was to be had, but it was situated in La Paz, which is Baptist territory. Communication was opened with the Baptist brethren, who voted that we should come into their territory to do this work, as they were not prepared to take it up at this time. Accordingly the house was rented, and when the new buildings were occupied in September, the number of students, which since June had been sixteen, increased to twenty-one, and a number of applicants had to be turned away for lack of room. If there were room, forty or fifty boys could be easily secured. All but two of the boys are in the High School and speak and understand English readily. They are a fine class of boys, mostly from better-class families and ranging in age from thirteen to twenty. A number are Christians at heart and one or two will probably be baptized before long. Three evenings a week they spend an hour in Bible study with the missionary in charge, and on Sunday they are required to attend Sunday-school and preaching service at the chapel. Board has now been raised to ten pesos a month, at which rate the dormitory meets all expenses except the rent of the house, thirty pesos, which is taken from the contributions of the English congregation, by which 200 pesos were also contributed to equip the dormitory. A missionary visits the house every day and conducts the evening Bible classes. A house committee is chosen by the boys who are responsible for the conduct of the boys and with whom the missionary consults in the management of the dormitory.

Training Classes.—During the year two training classes were held, each one month in duration. In April twenty-four teachers and local evangelists were present, in October thirty-three. The progress of some of the men has been very gratifying. One is now devoting practically all his time to teaching and preaching, costing the Mission only three pesos a month. The pastor of the Iloilo congregation, Rev. Paulino Solarte, assisted in the instruction, and the course consisted of studies in the Gospels and Epistles, together with a study of the Sunday-school lessons for the months following the classes.

MEDICAL.—The Sabine Haines Memorial Hospital was formally opened on March 15, 1906, by the Governor of the province.

It is a very complete institution, with accommodations for private as well as for charity patients and a capacity of thirty beds. The operating room is thoroughly modern. There are quarters for the American nurses as well as rooms for the corps of Filipino nurses who are being trained. The total cost of the building and equipment was about 20,000 pesos, of which 6,000 pesos were contributed by Mr. and Mrs. Haines, of New York; 5,000 pesos by Representative William McKinley, of Champaign, Ill., and 4,000 pesos were raised in Iloilo.

When Dr. and Mrs. Hall left for America, the Board sent

Dr. E. C. Machle, of Lien-chou, to take charge of this medical work. He arrived February 29, and remained until nearly the close of the year. We were also very fortunate in securing the services of Miss A. P. Kline as nurse from March until June, when Mrs. Brinton arrived to join the Mission force as nurse in charge of the hospital.

With Mrs. Brinton and Miss Kline and the eight Filipino nurses, the hospital is now prepared to take care of any cases which may come in to the full capacity of the wards. During Dr. Machle's absence in September and part of October, Dr. Creel, of the Quarantine service, took care of the work, to whom the thanks of the Mission are due for the intelligent and unselfish interest which he manifested.

At present the hospital is in temporary charge of Dr. Thomas, of the Baptist Mission, Dr. Hall being still absent on furlough.

Col. Le Gaarde, chief surgeon of the Department of Visayas, has been a helpful friend of the hospital from the beginning.

The patronage from those who have been able to pay has made it possible to command the services of a second nurse, as well as to make the improvements which have been necessary.

During the nine months in which the hospital has been running, there have been 157 in-patients. Of these 15 have been foreigners, 40 Chinese and 102 Filipinos. Five of the foreigners, 10 of the Chinese and 4 of the Filipinos have been semi-private patients, i.e., paying P. 2.50 a day; 10 foreigners, 6 Filipinos and 14 Chinese have paid P. 5 a day; 1 of the foreigners, 20 of the Chinese and 90 Filipinos have been charity patients. Medicine has been dispensed to 1,092 charity patients from the dispensary; 1,353 called and were treated in the office, most of them paying P. 2 for consultation and medicine, and 223 house visits have been made.

EVANGELISTIC.—The year has been one of gratifying growth in the evangelistic work of the Station and of gratifying zeal and effectiveness on the part of the workers. The evangelistic force consisted of one missionary, four paid itinerating evangelists, three colporteurs, two paid Bible women, ten local evangelists and forty-two teachers and lay workers. The congregations established have shown a healthy growth and much new work has been opened. Four new chapels have been dedicated during the year, making a total of thirteen in which regular weekly services are held. Several others are now in process of construction.

The Iloilo congregation has now been working a year and a half under its own settled pastor, Rev. Paulino Solarte. It has been a year of steady development. The services are well attended, the Sunday-school is growing and there is a healthy activity manifested in the street meetings and neighborhood services conducted by the members. The pastor's salary of $25 a month has been provided by the congregation. Thirty adults and twenty-six children have been baptized during the year. The Sunday-school has outgrown the chapel. Classes have been started in English for both young men and young women, the latter being taught by Mrs. Roberts, of the English congregation, and both are well attended. Street meetings are conducted on three evenings a week and on Sundays at three out-stations, at all of which the preaching is done by lay members.

During the year meetings were begun on Sunday afternoons at the Provincial jail. In October, while the lepers of the province were gathered here, preparatory to being taken to the leper settlement at Cullon, meetings were held for them, and about 200 copies of the Gospels were distributed among them.

Among the old congregations in the country, the most gratifying progress has been made in Leon.

Here last year a number of members from adjacent villages were gathered into the town by the concentration policy of the constabulary. The congregation was placed under the care of Pedro Recto, a native evangelist. This strong congregation with a Sunday-school of over 200, and with many faithful men and women in its ranks, has given the Gospel a new prestige in the community. A foothold has been gained in many new barrios and sixty-three adults have been baptized during the year. A prominent factor in the success of the work has been the Bible woman, Nabora Cansancio, who labors indefatigably, often walking miles to sow the seed in some village friendly to the Gospel, and at the same time contributing largely to maintain the work in the central congregation.

The work in Antique Province has developed splendidly under the efficient leadership of Rev. Adrian D. Reyes, one of the two evangelists ordained at the last annual meeting. He and his wife have traveled during the year, almost entirely on foot, between 800 and 1,000 miles and have opened work in three widely separated parts of the province. In October, a chapel was dedicated at Culasi, in the northern part of the province, where 133 adults and forty-seven children have been baptized during the year. In the mountains southeast of Culasi, chapels are now building in two different villages, which will be centres of work for six or eight villages in that vicinity where there are already 131 baptized believers. In San Jose, a chapel was dedicated in July, and while the work is not large in point of numbers, the intelligent activity and sincerity of Sr. Reyes command the respect of all classes of the community, while the little congregation of twelve makes up in quality what it lacks in quantity. One of the families in this congregation belongs to the large market town of Sioalom, eight miles away.

About fifteen miles back of San Jose, in the mountains adjoining the town of San Remigio, a village has just been formed which is called Osorio. Since the revolution the people have been living in the fields, some of them the companions, others the prey of the mountain robber bands. At the evangelist's persuasion, they chose a site and began their village by building a chapel. This is now surrounded by about thirty or more houses, and a congregation of several hundred meets with thirty-two baptized believers every Sunday, under the lead of a local preacher, partly supported by the people, partly by the Mission. From this village the Gospel news and influence is rapidly spreading to other villages in the mountains, where the Lord will surely give us a rich harvest.

Crossing the mountains over into Iloilo Province again we come to the town of Tubungan, until now entirely closed to the Gospel. In one of the villages here, which was abandoned three years ago owing to the depredations of the robber bands who were particularly active immediately after the revolution, a chapel will soon be begun. While living temporarily in other villages, some of the people of this village heard the Gospel, were baptized—fifteen of them—and now under the protection of the missionary, and under the lead of a teacher from one of the older congregations, they are going back to the old village to rebuild their homes.

A half day's "hike" across the hills, far back behind the town of Leon, in a little village called Tuba, Dr. Hall baptized a number of believers two years ago. At the time the village and the surrounding country were suspected by the constabulary authorities of harboring the ladrones. This year a roomy and substantial chapel has been erected there and sixty-two have been added to the roll of baptized members. In Oton, the market town eight miles down the coast from Iloilo, nine have been baptized during the year, bringing this congregation up to sixty; while at Banga, a village in the mountains back of Miagao, there have been ten adult baptisms. In Molo, where preaching has gone on uninterruptedly for a year and a half, three were baptized during the year, and in several places across the channel, on the island of Gulmaras, one of them a new preaching place near the town of Nagab, the other a chapel built two years ago in the village of Balcon, six have been added at the former, while a number are waiting for baptism at the latter place.

In all 559 adults and 224 children have been baptized during the year.

DUMAGUETE STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—The meetings were continued in the rented nipa chapel near the market until the dedication of the new chapel, July 8. A series of meetings held the week following the dedication, with Mr. Jansen and Sr. Ricardo Alonzo, of Cebu, assisting, resulted in twenty-eight baptisms. After moving into the new chapel the attendance has been better and on special occasions the building has been crowded. The attendance probably averages 125. Sixty have been received into membership during the past year. Forty of these were students. The women's meetings in a private house were recommenced recently.

In Amolan, where Restituto and Henrique Malanay are working, the meetings are held in the market in the open air. The attendance is about 200, including many of the leading people. Six have been baptized. In Guinulugan, the attendance has increased so that they find it necessary to enlarge their chapel. The membership increases steadily. Fifty or sixty are baptized at almost every visit of the missionary. Simeon Emilla, a former Silliman student, is the evangelist there. There are six members of the congregation also who preach. They have a flourishing C. E. Society. Meetings have been kept up regularly at Sibulan and Bacong, but the attendance has not been good. The whole number of baptisms in this province since the last Mission meeting has been 259.

EDUCATIONAL.—Silliman Institute.—The school has had a very prosperous year. The teaching force has changed slightly during the year, Mr. Scates having resigned and Mr. C. R. Smith was secured in his place. He is proving very faithful and tactful.

The work grades all the way from beginning up to the Freshman class, which is the highest at present. Each year now will raise this until there are four regular college classes. The number of students at the close of last year was 176. This year 252 have been enrolled. This is the limit with the present capacity. We are able to crowd in about 100 internos and the remainder must be externos. About half of the students are to do more or less manual labor, the externos being required to work half a day on Saturdays.

A Sunday-school has been maintained for the students and also a Sunday evening service. They have held a Friday evening prayer meeting themselves that is attended by about forty. Attendance is compulsory at the Sunday-school and at the Sunday morning preaching service. The other services are voluntary. Twenty-nine students were baptized during the year.

Industrial Department.—An attempt has been made to do some very practical work. The machinery and general equipment given by Dr. Silliman arrived in February. This was set up in a temporary shop of nipa and bamboo, near the site of the new workshop, for which Dr. Silliman has given $4,750 gold.

Practically all the lumber used in the new shop up to the present time was sawed by the students on the school sawmill. Difficulty has been experienced in getting logs, and the work in the shop has been delayed on that account. The building is now, however, completed.

No regular classes in carpentry have been conducted. The chief effort has been put in on the shop and in the manufacture of articles required around the school. A chapel in town and an addition to the hospital have been finished during the year and on these, particularly the latter, the students did considerable work. The installation of the machinery, the making of the needed wooden pulleys, etc., and the erection of a windmill were accomplished entirely by student labor. Some cabinet work has been done for persons outside the school and also some sawing. The department will be in a position to do much of this when the new workshop is finished. A small book, "Outlines of Wood-working," has been printed by the students and has been used as the basis of practical talks to the students on that subject.

If any one doubted whether the boys were really making any progress, his doubts would have vanished when the last term boys were compared with the new students at the beginning of the present school year. The comparison was very encouraging. There has been a much greater willingness to do anything asked of them than there was last year, and no student left the school because of the work required of him. In view of the fact expressed editorially in Manila recently, that the schools of the Islands would soon begin to graduate nearly 100,000 students yearly, the larger part of whom would not be fitted by their education to do the work that is to be done in these Islands, we feel that the training in the Industrial department is not the least which the students of Silliman will receive in fitting them to live helpful lives.

One of our students was recently appointed an inspector of the Bureau of Engineering, and we have been informed by his superior that he does his work well. This young man came to Silliman a little over two years ago and has learned practically all he knows during that time. He was baptized a few months after entering the school.

The instruction in mechanical drawing has been helpful. The students manufactured the greater part of their instruments and are following an outline printed at the Institute Press.

It has not been possible for the students to do any work on the college farm, situated two miles away, there having been more than enough to keep them all busy on the college grounds; but something has been done by having it worked on shares, and the school has received from it a considerable amount of rice, vegetables, bananas and coconuts.

The Press, which has been under the immediate supervision of Dr. Hibbard, has done much work during the year. Six students have been employed and have printed during the year 218,000 pages. This included "Silliman Truth," tracts, hymn-books, school catalogues, school text-books and commercial and Government printing. There has been received during the year some additional printing equipment, the most important being a paper cutter and a stitcher.

In addition to the above, the students have done all the work in the dining-room and in caring for the college buildings and grounds.

The average number of boys receiving training in the shop has been thirty-five internos, who worked three hours on each of five afternoons per week and five hours Saturday mornings, and forty-three externos who worked only Saturday mornings.

The department has been very much handicapped for want of funds for running expenses. What we shall do next year is a mystery. Meantime we shall do all we can to teach the students a right attitude toward labor, to train their hands as well as their heads for some useful work, to make for the school, at a minimum cost, as many as possible of the things required by it, and finally to do some outside work so as to help support ourselves.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Langheim has treated 5,098 patients at the dispensary and made 426 calls. In the hospital, there has been more surgical work than in former years. Mrs. Langheim has assisted in all operations, and treated dispensary patients when it was necessary for Dr. Langheim to be away.

More than 45,000 vaccinations have been performed during the year by Government vaccinators under Dr. Langheim's charge. This work required much time in supervision and the distribution of supplies and compilation of statistics. In June he made a trip around the island of Siquijor, collecting the lepers who were to be sent to the leper colony at Cullion.

In December, several days were spent at Amblan, a town north of Dumaguete, where we have a work established with two evangelists stationed there. A large number of sick were treated, and Gospels, tracts and other literature were distributed freely among the people.

Several thousand tracts and Gospels were distributed to the hospital patients, and more than 15,000 tracts and Gospels distributed to the evangelists and sent out to the towns in the province. Two small tracts were translated and printed in the dialect and several others are ready for printing.

CEBU STATION.

The congregations are grouped into five groups, each presided over by a native worker. The first group has Cebu for its centre.

A goodly number has been added during the year and the congregations of Cebu and Opon have elected elders and deacons. They are in a good, healthy condition, and when we take into consideration the fact that Cebu has constantly been drawn upon for her best members, it is really most gratifying. Many of the members are filled with grace and most of them are much interested in Bible study. For some months Dr. Graham has conducted a Bible study class on Tuesday evenings that has been much appreciated. Opon has done splendidly this year with very little outside help, and there is material for some good future workers. Four of their brightest young men are studying at our college in Dumaguete and give constantly good report of themselves.

The second group consists of Compostella, Babadingan, Sacun, Licos, Balayan, Mabini, Pareil and Kabamnajan. Here many have been added during the year, and a flourishing school for the mountain children has been opened and maintained in Hareil. There are over 100 children and many adults in attendance.

It was started as a work of faith on the part of the missionary, and succeeded so well that the Department of Public Education willingly took over the school and has supplied teachers, books and all necessities. The children are so bright and eager to learn that we hope to give the best-fitted ones opportunity for further advance in courses in the High School of Cebu, when we can get dormitories built for them. We look for future leaders and workers among their own people from our country boys and girls.

The third group consists of Dumanjug, Tangel, Kansiajon and Bulak.

These congregations have elected four elders. Thirty have been added to their number during the year and they are in an excellent spiritual condition. It is always a treat to meet them, and they are unceasing in their efforts for the spread of the Gospel. A beautiful new chapel has been built in Tanqui.

A fourth group is found farther north with Balamban for a centre. Astorias, Santa Lucia and a number of smaller towns belong to this group.

Strong opposition has been met with here, but two of the Bible women, Donas Cesarea and Regina, are winning their way into the hearts of the people by their Christ-like spirit and loving perseverance. Santa Lucia has a quaint little chapel erected almost entirely by the women and one blind man. Over thirty new members have been received here this year.

Group number five consists of Calapa, Tubison, Loon and other towns on the island of Bohol.

Only one hurried visit has been paid to this island, and wind and weather so hindered that only two places could be visited. Twenty-four, however, were baptized. The work has grown apace and a goodly number were waiting for baptism when a proposed second visit, arranged for in December, was reluctantly abandoned on account of ill health. Further calls having arrived from Bohol, a second evangelist has lately been sent over to taken station in the capital, Tacbalaran.

Aside from these groups, the important city of Danao in Cebu has been entered during the year and a company of fine representative people have boldly espoused the cause of Christ. Another new opening has been effected in the mountains between Carcar and Barill and a very interesting work is going on in these mountain fastnesses. Forty-five have been baptized so far and the interest is spreading both north and south. An old lady of over a hundred years was one of the brightest candidates for baptism there. In all 405 adults and 138 children were baptized in the province during the year.

Not the least interesting part of the work is the distribution of Christian literature. Ever since the opening of work in Cebu, there has been a unique opportunity for sending literature out to all the different islands of the Cebuyan group. From 20,000 to 50,000 Scripture portions, both in Spanish and Visayan, tracts, hymn-books, and periodicals in Spanish have been distributed yearly.

The silent messenger has gone to thousands of places where no living preacher has ever gone, and we have been cheered by seeing results beyond our fondest expectations. Many have come for baptism who were led to their decision solely by reading the Bible, and at least four new places have been opened to Gospel work by this means, while at least ten more places are calling for workers. The work on the island of Bohol was opened in this manner also.

A Sunday service for the English-speaking people has been maintained throughout the year, and Dr. Graham has efficiently borne the burden of the preaching. The congregation has installed electric lights in the chapel during the year.

The Roman Church is thoroughly aroused in these parts and is preparing as never before to dispute every inch of advance. The missionaries have seen it coming and have before urged, what they once again would urge with all the earnestness of their being, that the evangelization of these islands will be costlier both in money and in lives in years to come than now, and that the supporters of the Mission ought to realize this in order that the present time may be used to send every available suitable native worker into the field.

MEDICAL.—January 1 a dispensary was opened in a room hired from one of the members. At first the clinic was meagre, the average not being more than 150 or 200 a month. In August the work was moved into a new dispensary building, and soon the number of patients began to increase so fast that since October 1 about 1,500 have been treated. Mrs. Graham and one of the Bible women find good opportunity to bring the claims of Christ before the sick ones in the waiting room, and many are the requests for Gospels and literature.

The work is hampered to a great extent through lack of equipment and hospital facilities. There are many patients who can only be treated under the observation of the doctor.

LAGUNA STATION.

Vital interest in the Protestant Gospel message in Laguna has largely increased during the past year. Systematic Bible study, together with eagerness on the part of men and women to carry the evangel of Christ to their own people, has manifested itself in many places. Of the forty-four evangelists, and those wanting to be evangelists, attending the July evangelists' class for two weeks at Manila in the Ellinwood Training School, twenty-four were from Laguna. A later class at Pagsanjan in October brought together twenty men from twelve towns outside of Pagsanjan. Three of these men walked fifty miles over almost impassable trails, through mud and rain, and fifty miles again returning home. Fourteen Pagsanjan men attended all the nine hours daily Bible study, and more than fifty were present at the evening sessions. The class, called for three days, by urgent request continued during five days with unabated interest.

Nearly all the chapels which were destroyed in the typhoon of September, 1905, have been rebuilt, the one at Luciana, with large heavy stone pillars, at a cost of $150. The Pagsanjan congregation has secured a desirable piece of land in the centre of the town and built a suitable chapel (54 x 32 feet, with strong materials for framework and with iron roofing and front, the total expense being P. 700). Seven other new chapels have been erected.

In one city, where work is starting, a man gave a corner lot. Plenty of heavy, squared timbers from an old building were lying about on adjacent premises, the property of the same man, together with a large quantity of tiles for roofing. These were offered for a chapel, if men could be found to do the work of putting it up. Fifteen miles away, at Pagsanjan and Santa Cruz, twenty men, mostly carpenters, members of the churches there, were found willing to give two days' time free. With these the launch "Mabuting Balita" sailed one morning at five o'clock, carrying 600 pounds of lime for roofing, three barrels of pure water (the capacity of the tanks), a bag of rice and other food, three women to do the cooking, carpenters' tools and rope and tackle—a load of three tons—and landed across the lake at the place of chapel building, sixteen miles distant, in one hour and fifty minutes. In two days the heavy work of the chapel was finished and a meeting held attended by 700 people. The next morning our band of "willing workers" returned home, landing at seven o'clock, after an absence of fifty hours. The total cost of transportation was less than one dollar gold. To have taken men and luggage overland by trail would have taken eight hours each way and could not have been done for $50.

This is a single example of the value of the use of the Gospel launch to Laguna Station. What has been done doubtless will be done again in many cases. The launch also helps in the transportation of evangelists. The Pagsanjan church has many men willing to devote Sundays to the preaching of the Gospel. Six towns lie within a direct run of sixteen miles by the launch. Thus six men prepared through one or two evenings the week previous, and with a companion each, are landed Sunday morning, the very time when people gather into the towns from the fields, cocoanut groves, hemp districts and forests, as well as from fishing on the lake, and hold services in chapels or on the streets, and are able to return home for dinner and worship in their home congregation in the evening, feeling that they have tried at least to accomplish something for the advancement of their Master's Kingdom.

This Sunday preaching of the Gospel in these six towns costs less than one dollar gold for transportation and the work is gladly given.

By trail the transportation problem could not be solved for $25. It would take all day, with good weather, to reach the four towns farthest away and to return home. The Gospel launch proved most helpful recently on a trip with the Rev. J. L. McLaughlin, of the American Bible Society, when during six days we traveled more than seventy miles with the boat, and with the stereopticon and moving pictures on the Life of Christ preached the Gospel to 12,000 people, a conservative estimate of 2,000 each night in six different towns. This was a large sowing of the seed, and we believe the harvest will surely come in its season.

Work has been begun and regular services are now being held in eleven new centres. Two hundred and forty-four adults and 58 children have been baptized during the year.

TACLOBAN STATION.

From its beginning the work on the island of Leyte has been difficult, and the difficulties have been increased the past year by the uprising of the people against the Government. The trouble is not spreading, but it does much to occupy the minds of the people and gives them less interest in spiritual things. Leyte has never opened her heart to Protestantism and is not yet willing to accept it without a struggle.

The new chapel was dedicated November 18, 1905; but few strangers attend. Street meetings have not been held with any degree of regularity during this last year, because they do not seem to be well received by the people. On several occasions the stereopticon was used with good effect and often in the chapel it was used, at which time some strangers were present.

During the year we have opened up work with renewed energy in a barrio of Carigara, called Balud, which is inhabited principally by Tagalog fishermen and their families. Several visits were made to this place and each time the missionary was received very cordially. In October, Mr. Rath, in company with Mr. Jansen, visited Balud, and, after holding an encouraging service, five were baptized and received into the church. This made a deep impression upon the people. In December, Balud was visited again and this time, after several meetings had been held, the members and others interested elected a committee of six to arrange for the building of a chapel. So it does appear that the Spirit of God is working among these poor fishermen even as He worked in days of yore, when Christ found His first followers among the fishermen of Galilee.

Hinunangan seems like a promising field, and so Francisco Ivalerosa has been stationed there in order that the work may be carried on without interruptions. The street meetings held here are always well attended and a good deal of interest is manifested, but the people are so addicted to the opium habit that it is difficult to get converts. Two new evangelists have been put to work, after a short preparation, as it was considered expedient to get other centres opened up in the province. During the absence of the chaplain, services were held Saturday evenings in the post chapel. These meetings have proved helpful to many.

The work of the past year has not been followed with large results, but we believe that there is a decided advance, for new work is beginning to open up from which we are expecting much. Since January, twelve new members have been received, eleven on confession and one on certificate from the Cavite Church. Two babies have also been baptized. These members were distributed as follows: Balud, on confession, five; on certificate, one; Tacloban, on confession, six.

ALBAY STATION.

The past year has been rich in blessing and experience. Last year the Station reported sixty-five members; this year it reports 258, a net gain of 193.

Mr. Brown writes:

There were times when we felt that, from a missionary and monetary standpoint, we were like the disciples, having only two loaves and five fishes, and we questioned in our hearts, "What are these among so many?" And yet God has been gracious to us and has given to many to eat, and they have risen with a satisfaction and peace which they had never known before. Just when the way seemed blocked, with no money for itineration and the rented chapel had to be closed, Mr. Wright very generously loaned us his bicycle, which has enabled us to go many miles and preach dozens of times where it would have been impossible before. Then again we were clear down in "the slough of despond" at having to shut up our building in Albay. There was no money to pay for anything and the way seemed black. The next day a letter arrived from the Board saying that $400 was coming our way, and then one of our members made it possible to lease a piece of ground in a very advantageous location. In fact, we have learned almost to welcome the blue days, for we know that they drive us to prayer and then comes the answer of God, at times an answer to a doubting prayer.

Three chapels have been in the province and two buildings have been donated, so that there are five structures that are used as chapels. The first was built in Legaspi from funds raised partly at home and partly on the field, the members paving for the painting and furnishing of the building.

Our work here is rather at a standstill, though we have taken in nineteen new members during the year. The priest is working very persistently against us and stations men outside the chapel, and when the crowd gets round to listen, these appointed men go to them and tell them the sin they are committing in listening. Many are kept away by these methods. However, it is only a question of time until we win, for they "that be for us are more than they that be against us."

The second chapel was built in Albay with money from America. It is situated in the centre of town, close to the market. A better location could not be obtained. In the city of Albay, the work is not so flourishing as in the outlying towns. But while visible results have been smaller, the field is being prepared for future results.

The third chapel was built entirely by our mountain congregation at Banog, they supplying both material and labor. The fourth building was given by a man in Ponsol, a barrio of Polangui. The building was formerly used as a billiard room.

The first time I preached in this place, the billiard table was present and the men were evidently more interested in resuming their game than in listening to the Gospel, while back of me in a dozen coops the "gallos" moved restlessly, afraid no doubt that the Gospel would take some prestige from them. All this is changed now. The cocks have disappeared and the players are earnest seekers.

In Manga, another barrio of Polangui, another man gave us a chapel which is recognized as his personal property, and we have celebrated the Lord's Supper here and taken in about twenty-five people. Since last year we have opened six regular preaching points.

The Filipino Christians have shown a fine zeal in making Christ known to their own people.

In Polangui the leaders of the congregation every Sunday go to different places to preach, sometimes walking ten miles to get an opportunity to preach the truth to the people. Guinobatan, a town of 20,000, was opened by an old woman from whom I never expected much. She was old and bent almost in the shape of the letter S. When she was baptized I was glad, but I thought, "Oh, I wish God would give us some one whom we could depend to do good work!" Yet this old, decrepit woman has shamed me, for owing to her efforts this town was opened and sixteen people could be traced directly to her faithful work. "Verily, God hath chosen the weak."

Mr. Brown has tried to go out on an itinerating trip about once in every two weeks, but he has "lacked, men, money and minutes to do all" that was needed.

The members have been diligent to spread the news in many parts, and they have not been paid a cent for doing so, even walking twelve miles and never thinking of putting in a bill to cover expenses. We baptized three men of Iriga, a pueblo of Ambos Camarines, who came twenty miles to be baptized, having heard the Gospel through the men who constantly go out from Polangu:

Services for Americans have been held with some encouragement. The average attendance has been about fifteen, and outside of the camp life that is a fair proportion of the American community.

Recently we went over to Sorsogon and held services for the Americans, and they asked that we return at least once a month or once every two months.

The editing of the Sunday-school Lessons in Bicol has taken some time, but has been helpful to the work.

TAYABAS STATION.

This was until this year a part of the Laguna Station field, but it has proved very difficult to work it from that Station centre. The distance is only twenty-three miles, but the journey is a hard one over a rough country, and with no roads that a vehicle can use. The trip can be made only on ponies or by walking. Moreover, Tayabas is a separate province, with an independent life.

Lucban, the leading city, is the residence of the missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. Magill. They have been there since their arrival in the Philippines in 1905, and they have already acquired the language and gotten a promising work started. Mr. Magill writes:

The name Lucban is derived from a species of orange that grows profusely in this vicinity. We are eighty miles southwest from Manila. Lucban is approached by a good wagon-road also from Lucena, a port on the west coast, fifteen miles distant. We are at the foot of Mount Cristobal (5,288 feet) and Bonajaw, which is an extinct volcano (7,382 feet), which had its last eruption in 1754. The altitude of Lucban is 1,500 feet. The large mountains cool the air and make it (Lucban) one of the coolest towns in the Philippines, and also increase the rainfall, making it about 100 inches per year. The population of Lucban is 14,000. Lucban has the best schools in the province. The public school has eighteen teachers.

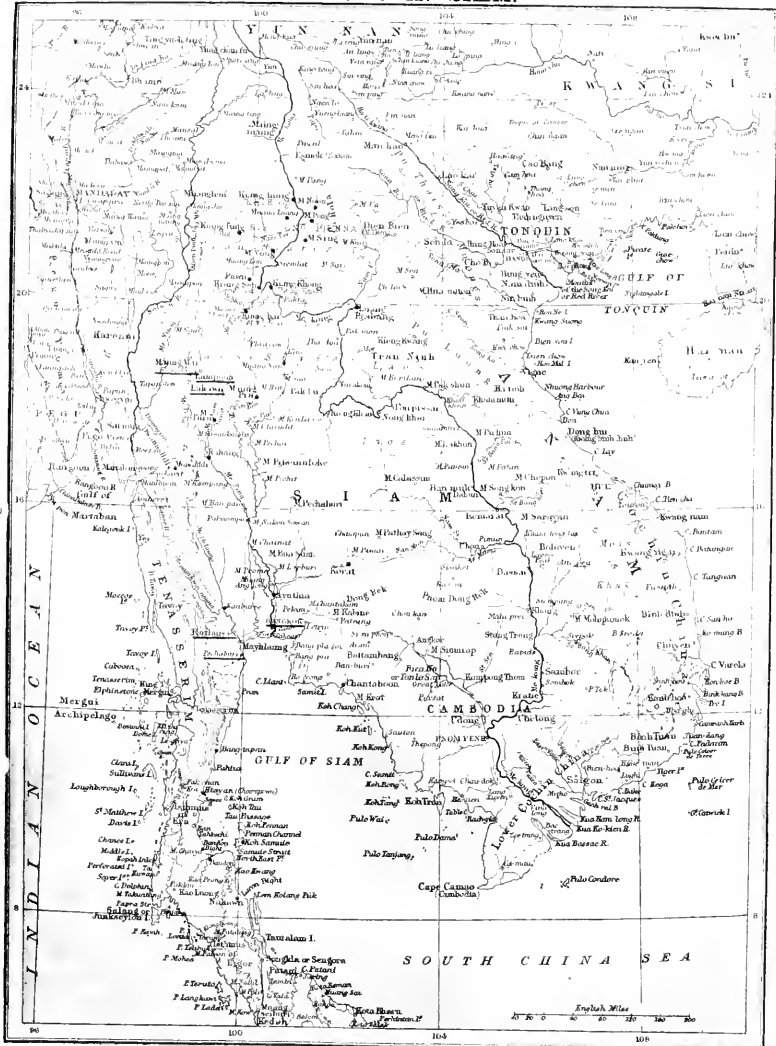

Lucban has many good houses built of stone, wood and cement, and these are furnished with hand-carved furniture made of very fine wood. There are a good number of pianos in various homes, and several girls play beautifully. There are no nipa or bamboo houses in our town, but in most of the neighboring towns we see many. Of course many of the houses of Lucban are small and scantily furnished, as we find in any town in America.]

The chief industry is hat-making of narrow strips of palm and pineapple fibre. The "Lucban hats" are becoming almost as famous as the "Panamas." One dealer here recently sent 100 dozen to a Chicago firm and each will sell there for about $10, which costs $3 here. Another industry here is raising rice and cocoanuts. There are many rice fields near town and there are five rice mills here.

We have telephone connection to Lucena and telegraph from there to Manila. The water system of Lucban is the pride of the town. A large bold stream of crystal water, just off the mountain, is carried in clear cement (open) troughs, or ditches, along every street. Some troughs carry the clean water, while others serve as sewers, many of which pass through the houses and make a splendid sewer system. The "Sanitary Inspector" comes around examining the water every morning. The streets and pavements are made of cement and are smooth and clean. The "trash-wagon" comes around daily to gather up the baskets of trash at each door. Lucban is one of the cleanest towns we have ever seen. The people in Lucban are exceptionally careful about their persons and clothing. The men wear white suits well starched and laundered and American shoes and "Lucban hats."

The report opens:

“All through the year the hand of our God has been upon us for good. We render hearty thanks for His kind care, His constant guidance and the assurance that all His promises are sure.”

One of the important events of the year was the visit of Dr. Howard A. Johnson, of New York. He was used of God to quicken us and give us an impulse forward, which has not yet spent its force. He addressed the missionaries, the students in the schools, the Siamese Christians, and outsiders who felt only a respectful interest in Christianity. In each case it was evident that the power of the Holy Spirit was with him.

RAILWAYS.—The opening of a new railway has an important bearing on itinerating. We are therefore glad to report that the line is in operation to Paknampo, and is being pushed on toward Pitsanuloke and Utradit on its way to Laos. The King opened this line with a speech, from which we quote as follows:

By bringing the different parts of a country into close communication, the railway renders possible that close and beneficent supervision which is necessary to effective administration. By furnishing to the inhabitants of the districts traversed a rapid and easy method of transportation, it adds materially to the value of the land and its products, and consequently increases their prosperity. By bringing the inhabitants of a country into closer touch with each other and enabling them to do and see in a few days what formerly occupied months, the railway, wherever it goes, carries with it enlightenment, and encourages the growth of that national feeling which is so important an element in the welfare of a country.

From these words of His Majesty, we may infer that the railway spirit is at work in Siam. It is believed that work will soon begin on the extension of the Petchaburi Railway down the west coast of the Gulf of Siam to Nakawn Sri Tamarat. This will furnish rapid transit to the itinerant missionaries, who now make their way through these numerous provinces by sailboat, rowboat, canoe, bullock-cart, elephant and on foot.

BANGKOK STATION.

ITINERATING.—This has been pushed vigorously. Mr. Snyder, before taking his furlough in July, made several short tours to Korat, Ayuthia, and Paknampo. Dr. Bulkley arrived in November, and soon began itinerant medical missionary work by taking a long tour in the mission schooner "Kalamazoo." He has been on the move ever since, being associated with Dr. and Mrs. Eugene P. Dunlap in their constant itinerating.

The long tours of the year have been, first, the tour in the mission schooner "Kalamazoo" down the east coast of the Gulf of Siam, consuming more than two months; and second, the tour in the Choompaw, Puket and Nakawn regions for more than six months. In the east coast tour, all the provinces from Bangkok to Chantaboon were reached by the medical and evangelistic work, woman's work for woman and extended colporteur work by faithful Siamese evangelists. When the "Kalamazoo" could be anchored near shore, the missionaries lodged aboard and labored all day in the settlements. But in large towns up the rivers, such as Bangplasoi, Rayong and Chantaboon, a house was rented in the market place, which served as chapel, dispensary and residence. Dr. Dunlap's record of a few days' work will serve as a sample of the whole tour.

This has been a day full of work. Dr. Bulkley has had all the patients he could handle. Preaching in the morning at our lodging-place; good attendance, much inquiry after service. Mrs. Dunlap had a good audience of women, children, and some men all forenoon. Some aged women listened very closely, and bought some books and a set of picture stories of the life of Jesus. In the afternoon a number of visitors and inquirers were taught. To-night another company of callers was preached to. Later in the night we visited a man sixty-two years of age, and had a long talk with him, dwelling on forgiveness of sins and eternal life. A delightful day's work; colporteurs out all day in many homes.

This has been another busy day. There were a good number of patients and some interesting cases for the medical missionary; a large attendance at morning service and some inquirers instructed. Mrs. Dunlap had an interesting time with aged women. Some Buddhists called to purchase picture cards. We are deeply interested in a company of people in this place, who claim to be directed in all their ways by the Holy Spirit. Bible readings were marked out for them, and they were exhorted to search the Scriptures and promised to do so. Thus we labored for seven days in this large centre and then sailed down the Gulf, visiting settlement after settlement.

In the early morning we left the "Kalamazoo"; visited the well-kept hospital built by the Queen of Siam, a Japanese physician and surgeon in charge; preached and gave good books to the patients; visited Major-General Surisak, one of Siam's ablest nobles; were shown his steam sawmill; saw fourteen elephants at work handling the lumber and 200 kinds of wood in the concession. The General placed a special train on the narrow-gauge railway at our disposal that we might vaccinate people. He is a strong friend of the missionary and his work. At night we showed the stereopticon pictures, illustrating the life of Jesus, to a large audience. Thus for five days we labored in this region; then sailed for a large settlement down the coast. Good breeze on the quarter, sea high. Made twenty-five miles in four and a half hours. After working in several fishing villages along the coast, several days were devoted to work in the Rayong province.

The record of one day's work in the latter place is as follows: The Governor received the missionary party very kindly, and provided a house in the market for a dispensary. Medical work attracted many people; some vaccinations; good number of patients treated; teeth extracted; surgical operations; all witnessed by the crowd. The colporteur visited many homes and sold ninety-five books. Mrs. Dunlap held services for women at the rest-house. We preached to some priests in the temple. The ex-Governor of the province, an old friend, invited the entire missionary party to his home for dinner. He had arranged for a stereopticon service in front of his house. We had an audience of about 500 people, several officials, and some soldiers. All listened for an hour or more to the Bible stories about the pictures. After service we walked two miles to our camp. On return voyage, a large number of settlements were revisited, and several days spent in work on one of the most important islands.

The Puket Tour.—In the space given to this report, one cannot do justice to the six months' tour in the Choompawn, Puket and Nakawn regions. The missionaries speak of it as one of the most interesting tours they have ever taken. They labored in eight provinces, beginning in Choompawn. There an aged Siamese official was baptized. Ten years ago, a missionary ministered to him when it was thought he was in his last sickness. God blessed the treatment to his recovery. He gave his heart to Christ, put away all other gods out of his home, and became a prayerful, zealous Christian. Ten years he waited the coming of a missionary, that he might be baptized. He now witnesses for the Gospel in that settlement.

One night, after the Bible pictures had been shown to a large audience, a young man called on the missionaries. He said, "Last year I saw these pictures and heard the stories of the death of Jesus for sinful men. I was converted, have believed in Jesus ever since, and now wish to be baptized and enter the company of disciples."

The Governor of this province is a graduate of the Christian Boys' High School at Bangkok. Of course, he was glad to do all that he could for the missionaries. A company of Karen Christians from Burmah, who had come to buy elephants in Choompawm, brought their pastor, hymn books, and Bibles for the long journey. They joined in the services, and were standing fast by their colors. Dr. Dunlap continues his fascinating narrative:

At this point we crossed the peninsula on elephants. The nine passenger and baggage elephants, with three baby elephants following, made an imposing procession. Climbing mountains and passing through dense jungles were interesting though wearisome. On the way we met a band of triumphant Siamese hunters returning from an elephant hunt in Lower Burmah. They had captured ten wild elephants, and were bringing them home for training. On the afternoon of the second day we reached the headwaters of the beautiful Pakchan river that divides between Lower Burmah and Siam. There we secured canoes, and made our way down the river. We labored several days in settlements en route, and were treated very kindly by the people. There is much enterprise in tin mining along both banks of this river. Many Siamese live in villages on the Burmah side. The canoe journey ended at the capital of the Renong province. The missionary party lodged in the house of a hospitable family. The common room of the house served as a dispensary, chapel, and sitting-room. There one month was spent in daily service for the Master. The Bible pictures were shown many nights to large audiences. The work in His name made some impression; for when it was known that the missionaries were about to leave, some of the leading men of the place presented a petition in which they expressed high appreciation of the work, and begged the missionaries to remain over for at least two or three runs of the steamer. But regions beyond had to be reached; so we boarded a steamer from Burmah.

We stopped for a day's work in Takua Pa Province, thence to the large island Puket, called in geographies Junk Ceylon. There seven days were spent in delightful service, in hospital and bazaar chapel. The Christians of this island showed us no little hospitality. The Governor of the island arranged for a stereopticon service at the club, just opposite the Government buildings. He invited all officials and people to attend and he presided. The stereopticon pictures were greatly enjoyed. It was a grand opportunity to present the Gospel to the official class. At this island we took passage in a small sailboat, and after two days' delightful sailing amid charming islands reached Pangah, in which province thirty-five days were spent in delightful service. An official gave a house in the market place for dispensary. The Governor of the province put the party up in a comfortable rest-house. Colporteur work, woman's work for woman, medical mission work, and preaching in the homes of Christians were carried on daily. By invitation of Buddhist priests, the stereopticon pictures were shown in the largest temples. At one of these services a bishop in his yellow robes presided, and engaged the missionary in a discussion of the claims of Christianity and Buddhism. He said, "Christianity is a prayer religion. Christians must pray for salvation. Buddhism is not a prayer religion. The Buddhist does not have to pray; he saves himself." The spirit of inquiry throughout was most encouraging. Eight persons were baptized. Among them was a nobleman seventy-seven years of age, his two sons, and one grandson. Twenty-five persons were placed on probation. Thus was formed the nucleus for a Christian church in Pangah.

Thence we went by a small steamer to the largest province of the Puket region, population about 90,000. One month was not long enough for work in this province. The Governor of the province urged the missionaries to come and settle in this province, saying, "Wherever the Christian missionary settles, he brings good to the people. Progress, beneficial institutions, cleanliness, and uplifting of the people result from his labors." The superintendent of police offered his home as a residence for the missionaries, thus trying to persuade them to come and settle there. The Christians of this province were comforted and instructed. Two children of the Church made a public profession of their faith in Jesus. The large market town of Tap Teang, thronged by traders from all parts of this and other provinces, proved a grand place for work for the Master.

Nine days in canoes up the swift running river brought the missionaries to the interior of the peninsula and to work in some large settlements. Then they made their way on elephants and on foot through dense forests, wild jungles, and swamps; by canoe up another river to the Christian settlements of Pakchan. There they were kindly received into a Christian home, in which they lodged and labored for nine days. Four women joined the company of disciples and were baptized in that home. Inquirers were instructed.

Fifteen days were then spent in canoes going down the Luang river. Stops were made in two Christian settlements. In one of these communities, a troublesome case of discipline of two years' standing that had almost rent the little church there was settled, we believe, for the good and harmony of all concerned. Two men were baptized and three placed on probation. At the other settlement, the missionaries had the joy of dedicating a chapel to the worship of the true God. This building was first erected as an idol house, but the builder, having been converted, destroyed all his idols and gave himself up to worship the one true God. He offered this building, after he had remodeled it, for the service of the Master.

Canoes then brought the party down to the largest and most enterprising town on the west coast of the Gulf of Siam. There, in a borrowed house, several days were spent in service. This city, Bandon, is the capital of the Chiya Province. This province has been enlarged by embracing Kancharadit, the Island of Samooie, and three large districts of the Nakawn Province. It now rivals Nakawn Province in population, and has become the seat of government for the Choom-pawn district. We should establish a Mission Station there.

Leaving this port by steamer, the missionaries soon received a warm welcome from the Christians and many of the officials and people in Nakawn. Two weeks were spent in rest and service. On the Sabbath the Lord's Supper was celebrated, when two adults and four little ones were baptized. It was a delight to all that the large hospital, to which the King of Siam and nobles gave so liberally, and to which foreigners in Bangkok and friends in the United States gladly contributed, is near completion. This will be the best equipped hospital in Siam.

During the tour, seventeen adults and nine children were baptized, and about thirty placed on probation.

This report must express gratitude to the East Asiatic Company, Bangkok, for free steamer passage for the whole missionary party during that part of the tour extending along the west coast.

Shortly after his arrival in Bangkok, the High Commissioner of the Puket region approached Dr. Dunlap, in the presence of a prominent business man of Bangkok. Placing his hand on the missionary's shoulder, he said to the business man, "This man saved my life last year, and I want you to witness my offering of gratitude." Then, addressing the missionary, he said, "Dr. Dunlap, where do you wish to settle in the Puket region?" The missionary replied, "Tap Teang would be a good place for a Mission Station." He replied, "Yes, very good. Then I will give you 5,000 ticals to build a hospital there. And if you will place another Station in Puket, I will give you 10,000 ticals to build a hospital there. Will you do it? If so, accept my offer in writing."

Siam's door is wide open to the American missionary.

Boon Itt Memorial.—Delay in securing title and the necessity that Dr. Walker, the superintendent, should remain at Pitsanuloke until his successor, Dr. Shellman, should arrive prevented the beginning of building operations until recently; but the title has now passed, Dr. Walker is now in Bangkok, and work has actively begun. It will be remembered that the money for the land—a fine site—was raised in Siam, and that the handsome sum for the building was secured in America by a Committee of Mr. Boon Itt's Williams College classmates, under the leadership of the Rev. Dr. J. F. Fitschen, Jr., of Ithaca, and the Rev. Dr. John Timothy Stone, of Baltimore. It is confidently expected that the building will become a great centre of Christian influence among the young men of Bangkok.

The First Church at Sunray.—Rev. Uan, pastor, has received eleven new members on confession. The principal growth has been made in connection with the work at the new chapel, which is attended by the students of the High School and by people from outlying districts where there is no organized church. In this chapel a Sunday-school was organized by Mrs. Franklin, Mrs. Eakin, and Miss Lucy Dunlap, three months ago. It now has a roll of 125 children.

The Second Church is located at the Harriet House School and is under the care of the Rev. J. B. Dunlap. Dr.

George McFarland, the Superintendent of the Government Hospital, is a ruling elder in this church, and for several weeks preached excellent sermons in Siamese founded on Dr. H. A. Johnson's "Handbook for Personal Workers." In connection with these sermons a system of examinations has been begun. The missionaries write in high appreciation of Dr. McFarland's constant helpfulness.

The Third Church has prospered greatly. It is under the care of Dr. Eakin since Mr. Snyder left on his furlough. Most of the members are Chinese, and they show a strong evangelizing spirit. During the year the Session has received thirteen on confession and seven by letter.

Street Chapel.—Since Mr. Snyder's furlough, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Dunlap have taken charge of the work at this chapel. Here they enjoy one of the best hours of the week. Other friends join in the service as circumstances permit. There are good audiences every week.

Conference Prayer Circle.—This weekly meeting was started to prepare for the Conference of Christian Workers. It is attended by Christians of different nationalities and meets from house to house. It has been marked by much earnestness in prayer, expectant faith, and a strong desire for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit. A Call to Prayer was sent to all Christians in Siam and Laos, which has met with a general response, and many friends in the homeland are beseeching the throne of grace for a blessing.

The Harriet House School.—This school has continued its valuable work for the girls of Siam. Bangkok is a great city, with thousands of little children. These are as much loved by their parents as any children, but the parents themselves are so sadly ignorant of child nature and training that child mortality is estimated to be over seventy-five per cent. If this is true of the care of the body, it is much more true of the mental and spiritual training.

It is when we think of these things that the value of such a school as ours is realized. The ideal of a Mission school must be character building. The school must be a home, the teachers must be mothers, and the pupils must be daughters. The Siamese women especially need ideals of home life. Our roll this year numbers 130. The average attendance is 106. Numbers tell but little. Who are these children? Two are nieces of the King of Siam; ten are daughters of noblemen of the first rank; six are daughters of noblemen of the second rank; fourteen are daughters of noblemen of the third rank; six are daughters of noblemen of the fourth rank; nine are daughters of provincial governors; thirty are daughters of wealthy merchants; twenty-five are daughters of peasants; fifteen are Eurasians.

All cheerfully pay from $1.75 to $10 gold a month in school fees, and all the running expenses of the school and the salaries of the Siamese teachers are thus provided without assistance from the Board.

The course of study covers seven years. Our greatest desire is that these children shall learn and fully appreciate God's claim upon them.

Miss Cole and Miss Cooper with two Siamese teachers constitute the senior workers, and Miss McCord with seven Siamese girls constitute the junior workers.

The Sunday-school is well attended and the teachers meet at 8.30 A.M. for Bible study. The King's Daughters, under the leadership of Miss Lucy Dunlap, meet every month. Miss Cole writes:
